There is no evidence to support the belief that some meats are less desirable than others because they are less completely digested. Tests show that the length of time meat remains in the stomach varies with such factors as the quantity of fat present, the method of cooking, and the amount of chewing it receives. But there is no marked difference in the thoroughness with which the different kinds of meats are digested.

Erroneous Ideas About Cheese

Other fallacies that continually crop up in my mail are the ideas that cheese is constipating, and that this good food is not completely digestible. Neither belief is in accordance with the facts.

Numerous tests have shown that when cheese is given a proper place in the diet, it is usually well digested. Moreover, it has been demonstrated that there is practically no difference between cheese and meat with respect to ease of digestion.

As for the completeness with which this food is utilized by the body, studies made by investigators for the United States department of agriculture, demonstrated that on the average, about 95 per cent of the protein and over 95 per cent of the fat of cheese were digested and absorbed!

Some few persons may have an allergy to cheese just as they are sensitive to a variety of other protein foods. But that is an abnormal reaction and has no bearing on the use of cheese by persons in normal health.

Cheese Is Not Constipating

The mistaken idea that cheese is constipating doubtless arose from poor menu planning. Cheese is a highly concentrated food. It enjoys the distinction of being the most concentrated source of protein known. Because of this fact, menus containing cheese should be balanced by the inclusion of foods containing bulk or cellulose, such as fruits, vegetables or whole grain breads. When these foods are omitted, it is not the presence of cheese, but the absence of bulk that is responsible for the meal being insufficiently laxative.

Homemakers who have the interests of their families at heart will banish the notion that cheese is either constipating or difficult to digest when properly used. They will give this splendid food a regular place in their menus and thereby provide valuable nourishment at a most economical cost. It is doubtful if any other food provides such a variety of important nutrients concentrated in such a small space. Besides its fine quality protein, cheese is notable for its energy values, for supplying the minerals, calcium and phosphorus, needed for teeth and bones, and as a source of vitamin A.

Don't Make Mistakes About Milk

Not even milk has escaped a variety of groundless superstitions. It is said to be "fattening" when the truth of the matter is that no food is fattening unless consumed in excess of bodily needs. The food faddists say that fruits and milk must never be taken at the same meal, for the fruit acids will cause the milk to curdle. Here is an outstanding example of the misleading effect of half-truths. For it is a physiological fact that milk is always curdled in the stomach by the action of the hydrochloric acid!

Some people are afraid to eat acid-tasting fruits because they have the erroneous idea that they produce "acidity" in the body. In spite of their acid taste, however, most fruits have an alkaline reaction following digestion.

My earnest advice to homemakers is to disregard all such fads and fancies. Don't be guided by hearsay advice. Eat a wide variety of foods in moderation. Learn what constitutes a well-balanced diet. And make that your health ideal.

SAFETY TALKS

The Careless Male

It appears that the male of the species is more careless than the female.

Of every 100,000 males in the United States, 119.6 were killed in accidents during 1937, reports the National Safety council.

Only 51.3 of every 100,000 women suffered accident deaths.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

BRAID used to give the effect of a bolero is a chief charm of this pretty dress, for street and daytime. It accents the soft fullness of the bodice, above a tiny waist and slim-hipped, circular skirt. Make it of flat crepe, checked or printed silk for now. Later on, have it in gingham, linen or batiste.

Pretty Basque Frock.

This adorable basque frock is smart for both school and parties. It puffs out so charmingly at the shoulders, flares at the skirt hem, and hugs in to a small, pointed waist. Sash bows, tied in the back, draw it in snugly, and look gay and pretty besides. For school, choose gingham, calico or percale. For parties, taffeta or silk crepe.

The Patterns.

No. 1672 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39-inch material, plus 5 yards of braid.

No. 1722 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2⅝ yards of 39-inch material, plus 1¾ yards of trimming.

TIPS to Gardeners

Proper Watering

EACH year, more and more gardeners are learning that gardens should not be watered by sprinkling.

Sprinkling usually moistens the surface soil only and thus the roots naturally come up there for water. When the root system is concentrated near the surface there is more danger of injury by hoeing; and if sprinkling is not done constantly, plants will be quickly affected by drouth.

Considered from the time angle, moreover, sprinkling is impractical. Many hours can be wasted holding the hose and directing the spray. Time of watering is not of great importance, but it is usually considered more economical to water thoroughly early in the forenoon or late in the afternoon since the soil can then be thoroughly soaked with less loss from evaporation.

The most efficient method of watering, according to Walter H. Nixon, Ferry Seed Breeding Station vegetable expert, is to lay the hose on the ground. Do not have too heavy a flow of water, or there will be a washing of soil and exposure of roots. Let the water run slowly in one place for 20 minutes to half an hour. KEEP THE SUBSOIL MOIST.

Dollars and Sense

The speaker was endeavoring to impress a lesson upon the hearts and minds of the youngsters in his audience, when he said, "Now, boys, there were two men who were very rich. One of them had made his fortune by honesty and industry, and the other by fraud and roguery. Which of these two men would you prefer to be?"

There was a moment's hesitation, then a snappy youngster at the back of the room yelled out, "Which man made the most?"

HOW TO SEW

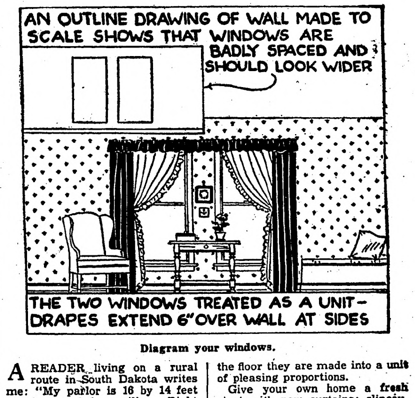
by Ruth Wyeth Spears



AN OUTLINE DRAWING OF WALL MADE TO SCALE SHOWS THAT WINDOWS ARE BADLY SPACED AND SHOULD LOOK WIDER
THE TWO WINDOWS TREATED AS A UNIT—DRAPES EXTEND 6" OVER WALL AT SIDES

A READER living on a rural route in South Dakota writes me: "My parlor is 16 by 14 feet and has an 8 foot ceiling. Right in the center of the 16 foot wall are two windows, each 6 feet high and 3 feet wide. They are only 1 foot apart and 1 foot from the ceiling. How should I curtain these windows? Should the drapes cover the 1 foot space between them? How long should they be? Would you extend the drapes nearer the ceiling? I have been advised to do this.—S. A."

These questions are nice and definite and all dimensions are given. A scale drawing was made a little larger than the one shown here; ¼ inch to a foot. This showed immediately that the windows needed to look wider rather than higher. By framing them with a valance and side drapes to the floor they are made into a unit of pleasing proportions.

Give your own home a fresh start with new curtains; slipcovers; and other smart new touches, which you will find in Book 1, SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Book 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery, illustrates 90 embroidery stitches and many ways to use them. They are 25 cents each; with each order for both books, Crazypatch Leaflet showing 36 authentic embroidery stitches is included FREE. Address, Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Prepared for Big Stuff After First Encounter

An Englishman visiting a friend in Nevada, where the air is rare and distances deceptive, started on a stroll with his host to a mountain which seemed but a few miles distant. After walking for several hours, he was amazed to find the mountain was apparently no nearer and to have his friend explain that it was still 30 miles away.

Returning home by a different route, they came upon an irrigation ditch. The Englishman sat down and began removing his shoes.

"What on earth are you going to do?" asked his host.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

F. K. Fredrickson of Viking, formerly of Holt, underwent a major operation at St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls last Thursday. He is at this writing progressing nicely.

Mrs. Anna Gavere and Mrs C. Hagglund visited Mrs. Nels Engebretson Friday.

The Weather

Tuesday and Wednesday we had a much needed rain which will make the pastures come nicely. The farmers were busy last week in the fields and many have a number of acres seeded.

Mrs. O. Moline and Millie Norquist of Crookston visited in Holt Monday.

Mrs. Frank Carlson visited Mrs. Gust Peterson Monday.

Tellef Olson, was taken to St. Lukes hospital at T. R. Falls last week to be treatsd for a bad case of pneumonia.

Relatives and friends gave Mrs. Gust Peterson a birthday party Sunday. A delicious lunch was served and she received a Cash purse.

Main line of the Great Northern Railway between St. Paul and Minneapolis over which moves a large part of the traffic from and to points along the railway's 8,000 miles of "road."

Trains Without Tracks

A train without a track would be as useless as the truck that competes with it without the modern highway.

Of everything that goes to make up a railway, tracks and roadbeds are the most costly. Similarly, the investment in highways and streets is greater than the investment in the vehicles that use them.

The railroads provide and maintain their own "roadways". Less than one-tenth of the nation's railroad mileage was built with the aid of land grants, and the full value of these has since been repaid many times over through low "land grant rates" on government business. The "roadway" expense of the railways takes nearly one-fourth of every dollar they take in.

Besides providing and maintaining their own "roadways", the railways pay taxes on them. And the taxes which the railroads pay (altogether, about 10 cents of every dollar they take in) go to help support the various functions of government, such as schools, relief, courts, highways, and the like. None of their taxes goes toward the cost of providing and maintaining their "roadways".

In striking contrast, their competitors on the highways—who also share in the general benefits of government—take the position that they should pay no comparable part of the cost.

- They insist that the taxes they pay (including license fees and gasoline taxes, about 8 cents of every dollar they take in) be used exclusively for their benefit—that their "taxes" be applied only toward the cost of providing and maintaining the inter-city highways that are essential to the conduct of their business.
- And considering the extraordinary cost of providing and maintaining the kind of highways necessitated by these larger vehicles, which carry the heaviest loads and travel the largest mileages annually—competent highway authorities, including the highway departments of several states, hold that these trucks are paying as little as one-fourth of their fair share of the highway bill.

Exemption from a fair share of taxes for schools, relief, and similar functions of government, plus substantial subsidies in the matter of roadway costs, are GIFTS from the taxpaying public which the railroads do not get and do not seek. But they do ask for a chance to compete under fair and equal conditions.

Daniel and Noah Webster

The relationship between Daniel Webster and Noah Webster, if any, has never been established. Records show that Daniel Webster, the statesman and orator, was born at Salisbury, N. H., January 18, 1782, and was descended from Thomas Webster who first appeared in Watertown, Mass., in 1638; and that Noah Webster, of dictionary fame, was born in Hartford, Conn., October 16, 1758, and was descended from John Webster, one of the first settlers at Hartford, in 1636. But there is no known relationship between the two.

Invented Post Card

The post card is an unofficial card of a regulation size transmissible under the postal regulations through the mails upon prepayment of postage. It originated in Austria in 1869, the inventor being Dr. Emanuel Herman. It was introduced into England in 1870 and into the United States in 1873. A picture post card was first used by a book-seller named Schwarts of Oldenburg, Germany, in 1870, but the first post card of a picture appeared in 1875.

F. K. Fredrickson Passes On

The people of this community were shocked on Wednesday morning to hear of the sudden death of F. K. Fredrickson of Viking. Mr. Fredrickson had undergone a major operation at the St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls and was almost ready to go home when he got a heart attack. This attack forced blood to clot on his lungs and he passed away late Tuesday night.

Mr. Fredrickson is well known here having lived here five years before moving to Viking three years ago. He was 53 years.

Funeral services will be held from the church at Viking on Saturday afternoon at 1:45.

The News joins the people of this community is extending their sympathy to the bereaved family in their hour of sorrow.

School Election To Be Held

In accordance with the revisions of the school election law as pointed out in Chapter 62, Laws of 1939 the school election of the Holt Consolidated School District 35 will be held at the school house on Tuesday May 16th.

The purpose of this election will be to elect two directors to the Board of Education as well as to vote on any other matters that may be presented to the voters of the district to decide. At the election May 16th the voters will be given the opportunity to determine the following question: "Shall the annual election be substituted for the annual meeting?" The intent of this question is to do away with the formality of the annual meeting now that the time for elections has been set at such a time so as not to make it possible to give the yearly reports at that time. The proposed plan is to have the treasurer read an attentive financial report at the time of the election and then at a later time have a complete report published.

Polls will be open from eight to nine. Nominations for directors will be received at the beginning of that period. The directors whose terms expire this year are Oliver Nohre and Sam Lorentson.

It is hoped that the voters of the school district will avail themselves of this opportunity to carry out their rightful function in the school matters. It is further hoped that all will keep the welfare of the school in mind when going to the polls.

One of the largest group of ladies that have ever gathered at the Nazareth Lutheran Church parlors, came together Monday afternoon to give Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson a parcel shower. The ladies of Holt, the entire local Ladies Aid, the Silver Creek Ladies Aid, and some ladies from Viking, Thief River Falls and Middle River were present. Mrs. Hanson received many lovely gifts and a cash purse.

Mr. and Mrs. Bloom of Middle River visited at the Fred Larson home Saturday evening.

John Sorum and Kenton called at the J. P. Augustine home Thursday.

Holt People On Programs

The Thief River Falls Circuit Luther League Convention will be held at Halma beginning this evening and continuing through tomorrow and Sunday.

Rev. H. J. Stolee, teacher at the Lutheran Bible Institute, Minneapolis, will be the Convention Speaker. He will address the convention on Satutday evening, Sunday morning and Sunday afternoon. The other numbers on the sessions are given by the Leaguers of the Circuit. Miss Lois Hanson of Holt is among those taking part. Stilof Anderson is the treasurer of the organization and Rev. Hanson chairman of the Program Committee.

The congregation is invited to worship at Halma on Sunday morning and therefore no services is announced at that time.

Another Convention of the Circuit will be held on Wednesday May 10, at Baudette when the W. M. F. convenes. It is expected that a large delegation will be present from Holt. Mrs. Sam Lorentson is the Circuit Treasurer of this organization. The speakers will be: Mrs. Erik Sovik from China and Miss. Ottelia Hugelen, Superintendent of the Lutheran Girls Home in Minneapolis.

H. O. Hanson Home Again

G.O.P. Frowns on Early Booms While Wooing Insurgent Dems

—By Joseph W. La Bine—

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Politics

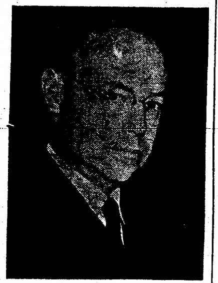
To stand a chance of winning 1940's presidential election, Republicanism's two biggest jobs for 1939 are (1) stopping any premature boom which might shatter party unity, and (2) win support from Democratic leaders who have abandoned the New Deal. These objectives clash because few Democrats will desert their traditional political faction for nothing more stable than the hope that a suitable candidate can be found. But the G. O. P. is tackling both jobs with fingers crossed:

Candidates. Most favored presidential nominee is youthful New York District Attorney Thomas Dewey, whose sensational racket-busting record is offset in veteran political minds by the realization that he has no administrative experience. Second choice is Michigan's able Sen. Arthur Vandenberg. Trailing far behind are Ohio's ambitious Sen. Robert Taft, his home state's Gov. John W. Bricker, and ex-President Herbert Hoover. Since most danger of a premature boom centers in Washington, minority leaders in both houses (Oregon's Sen. Charles McNary, Massachusetts' Rep. Joseph Martin) are reportedly urging their colleagues to avoid commitments. On the G. O. P. calendar are party dinners, each of which will hear a potential candidate. One such affair, originally scheduled to hear both Candidates Taft and Bricker, was split two ways when Governor Bricker's name took greater importance.



SENATOR TAFT

Coalition. Possibility of Democratic support for a Republican candidate started during last autumn's "purge" and grew when President Roosevelt plumped for liberalism over partisanship. This season's rebel congress gave it more impetus, and in late April Mr. Roosevelt told junior Jackson day celebrants via letter that the Democratic party must uphold New Deal principles to win next year.

Seizing the cudgel, Ohio's Taft labeled the letter an "insulting ultimatum." Said he at a "Republicans-on-the-March" banquet: "To the President, anyone who disagrees with him is moved only by prejudice and . . . is disloyal to his lord and master. The Republican party . . . welcomes them (anti-administration Democrats) to our party councils. There is no fundamental difference between us which cannot be reconciled."

Meanwhile New Dealers on Capitol Hill thought the President's letter was highly significant. Louisiana's Sen. Allen J. Ellender thought Mr. Roosevelt was asserting aggressive leadership to block a "reactionary candidate" in 1940. Pennsylvania's Sen. Joseph Guffey thought what he had believed all along—that Mr. Roosevelt should seek a third term.

Europe

From his Paris office, the Chicago Daily News' Edgar Ansel Mowrer apparently sent first word of Der Fuehrer's crafty scheme to devaluate President Roosevelt's peace appeal. The scheme: Germany asked individual nations whose peace Mr. Roosevelt said is threatened, whether they felt menaced by Germany. Said Mr. Mowrer: "It is the old story of the wolf asking the lamb whether it really believes that wolves sometimes eat lambs."

Though Mr. Mowrer's revelations and subsequent diplomatic maneuvers took the edge of Herr Hitler's plan, democracies had little reason for glee. In the week preceding Der Fuehrer's Reichstag answer to Mr. Roosevelt, both dictators and democracies made frantic efforts to line up Europe's few remaining neutrals, all of them located in the Balkans. At negotiations' end, the Rome-Berlin axis had won a signal victory by the simple procedure of jerking a keystone—Jugoslavia—from under the tottering Balkan entente. Hemmed in north and south by Hungary and Italy respectively, the Belgrade government joined Germany, Italy, Spain, Hungary, Japan and Manchukuo in the anti-Communist alliance, framed a mutual defense pact with Hungary and began leading a new pro-Fascist Balkan entente in which Bulgaria will be a member.

Strategically located Rumania now becomes the focal point, wooed desperately by democracies as the last hope of stopping a solid dictator front in southeast Europe, yet inclined to conform with Nazi demands on pain of invasion from land-hungry Jugoslavia, Hungary and Bulgaria.

Deeper in the Balkans, British-French alliances with Greece and Turkey may meet similar fate. Though expressing gratitude to the democracies for guaranteeing her integrity, Greece has announced she seeks to remain on a friendly basis with the Axis powers who now threaten her entire northern front via Albania, Jugoslavia and Bulgaria. Meanwhile Turkey has given Germany a contract to build her $12,000,000 new naval base and granted Lufthansa, German airline, an operating concession.

With the Balkans apparently lost to Naziism, Britain's last chance for anything like a parity of European power lies in the last-resort military treaty with Russia. The unexpected return to Berlin of Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson has given rise to belief that Britain may seek peace with the Reich rather than accept a Russian pact. Furthermore, France's move to return her German ambassador, coupled with rumors of U. S. trade concessions to a peaceful Hitler, produces a world-wide atmosphere suspiciously like the long-since discredited instrument of "appeasement."

Relief

Workers Alliance is a WPA union which thrives mainly on contributions from a reputed 400,000 (out of 2,756,000) U. S. reliefers. From its Washington headquarters go frequent mimeographed statements for newspaper men and persistent lobbyists to plague Capitol Hill. Of the latter, most famous is Theodore Ozman who had his face slapped by Georgia's fiery Rep. E. E. Cox during debate on the $150,000,000 deficiency relief bill. Workers Alliance's most famous officer is President David Lasser, who last year drew from Aubrey Williams, then deputy WPA administrator, a terrible pre-election statement for WPA consumption: "We've got to keep our friends in power . . . The men you are going to (elect) should be those who stand for projects such as WPA sponsored."

Though Harry Hopkins squelched further Williams outbursts, David Lasser's reliefers no doubt took the Williams advice. Whether their vote was big enough remains to be seen, for now pending in congress are measures to toss relief back into the states' lap, to junk all present agencies for a new federal unit, and take politics out of relief. Workers Alliance is primarily interested in the latter.

Chief puzzle facing West Virginia's Rep. Clifton Woodrum and his relief subcommittee is whether reliefers should or can be denied the right to organize for a patently political purpose. Already on record are several disturbing facts. Samples:

(1) Though David Lasser denied he is a Communist, most official Washingtonians rate him distinctly pinkish. Workers Alliance Secretary-Treasurer Herman Benjamin boasted to committeemen that he has been a Communist for 20 years, also that he reported personally to Moscow last year on the Alliance's activities.

(2) Alliancers have threatened and may some day exert pressure on congress. When President Roosevelt asked an $875,000,000 deficiency relief appropriation, the Alliance asked $1,000,000,000. Congress coughed up $725,000,000. When the White House asked restoration of the $150,000,000 cut, Mr. Lasser turned on heat and threatened to ballot all reliefers on a protest march to Washington.

Probable outcome will not be an attempt to dissolve the Alliance, but a hastening of back-to-the-states legislation in the hope that individualized relief setups will give the union less chance for a unified national front.

British Women Aid in Defense Program

Territorials, the auxiliary air force and members of the Air Raid Precaution services took part in London's first national defense display in Hyde park recently. Two members of the Women's Ambulance corps are shown as they canvassed for recruits during the defense display. England has taken great strides in air raid precautions, even to the installation of family-size bomb-proof shelters.

AMERICAN MOTHER

Mrs. Elias Compton of Wooster, Ohio, has been chosen the "American Mother for 1939" by the Golden Rule foundation. Mrs. Compton is the widow of Dr. Elias Compton, and mother of Karl Taylor Compton, Boston; Wilson M. Compton, Washington, D. C.; Arthur Holly Compton, University of Chicago, and Mary Compton, wife of Dr. Herbert Rice of India.

Ancient Secrets Used in Modern Beauty Culture

Beauty secrets of 2,000 years ago have been brought up to date by a New York beauty authority. Left: Modern electrically heated vacuum cups have replaced the hot glass or metal cups of Helen of Troy's day. They are used to relieve congestion. Inset: On a wooden exercise rack, copied from the ones harem beauties have used for centuries, modern girls exercise to obtain lithe suppleness and strengthened nerves. Right: The young beauty aspirant tries breathing exercises based on ancient Yoga practices.

CAMERA SUBJECT

The beauty contest season in southern California got off to a flying start recently when Jane McClure won first place in the Long Beach candid camera beauty competition. Camera addicts had a field day, according to reports.

It's Romance on the Run for Collegian

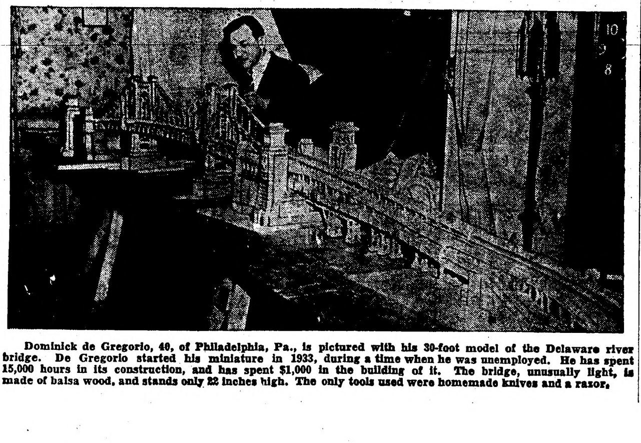
Goldfish bowls were put aside for the nonce when a San Francisco State college student started his "kissathon caper." Capturing feminine victims on the run, Marshall Blum, right, made good on his wager to kiss 30 coeds in 20 minutes, and much to the astonishment of Jim Fitzgerald, clocker, did it in five minutes. Betty Welch, victim, seems slow to appreciate the opportunities of this history-making event.

15,000 Hours Spent Building Largest Model Bridge



Dominick de Gregorio, 40, of Philadelphia, Pa., is pictured with his 30-foot model of the Delaware river bridge. De Gregorio started his miniature in 1933, during a time when he was unemployed. He has spent 15,000 hours in its construction, and has spent $1,000 in the building of it. The bridge, unusually light, is made of balsa wood, and stands only 22 inches high. The only tools used were homemade knives and a razor.

New Play Dress and a Bolero Ensemble

JUST see how much playtime fashion this one design (1557) gives you. The backless, slim-waisted play suit is perfect for summer sports. Wear the skirt with it, and you have a smart daytime dress. Add the bolero, too, and you have a charming little suit. Make this of linen, broadcloth, sharkskin or percale, and trim it with gay ricrac braid.

Bolero Ensemble With Bows.

The bolero dress with princess skirt (1731) is one thing you simply must have. It's so useful for street and afternoon wear both, and extremely becoming, with its slim-waisted silhouette, wide revers and bow trims. Flat crepe, silk print, georgette and street cottons are good choices for this.

The Patterns.

No. 1557 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 5⅝ yards of 35-inch material; 10 yards of ricrac braid to trim.

No. 1731 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 5⅜ yards of 39-inch material; 2⅓ yards of ribbon for bows.

Star Dust

★ Must Find Tiny Stars
★ Joan Severs Connections
★ Storm-Broken Players

By Virginia Vale

THE movie moguls keep trying to discourage proud mothers who yearn to get their offspring in pictures — and then, every so often, up bobs the report that another child is being groomed for fame and glory as a screen star.

The newest member of the group of child stars is Jacqueline Nash. She's a tiny blonde Canadian, nine years old, and according to the story sent out by her press representative, she was recently discovered by Samuel Goldwyn in a Los Angeles tourist camp. (How on earth Mr. Goldwyn got within ten miles of a tourist camp is a problem that baffles the imagination.)

Jacqueline and her mother, Mrs. Minette Nash, had had their troubles getting to that camp. Winter visitors from their home in Toronto, they had had various kinds of bad luck; they lost their car and their money, and finally Mrs. Nash came down with flu.

When things couldn't get any worse they got better. Mr. Goldwyn discovered Jacqueline and signed her up for the picture that Jascha Heifetz will make for him.

Mrs. Nash has been training Jacqueline since the child was 18 months old; the youngster's voice is said to be remarkable in range and quality. But have you noticed that child stars rarely get contracts just by walking into a producer's office and showing what they can do? Ever since the days when Mary Miles Minter was discovered hanging around in the corridor while her mother and sister waited inside to get sister a job, not a child star has bobbed up without an accompanying tale of how somebody discovered him or her.

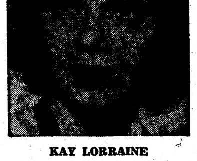
Kay Lorraine, of the "Hit Parade" broadcasts, is one of the few girls who ever refused a commercial audition. Three months ago she was singing on Station KMOX in St. Louis. A New York agent wired to tell her that the Hit Parade officials had auditioned 207 girl singers, weren't satisfied with any of them, and wanted to hear her.



KAY LORRAINE

She wanted the engagement, but felt that anybody who hadn't liked any one of 207 singers would just be too hard to please. It wasn't worth while to make the trip to New York on the chance that she would win out. So she refused to go.

But the program's sponsor wanted to hear her badly enough to promise her one appearance on the "Hit Parade" if she'd travel East, and pay her for the engagement. She couldn't refuse when opportunity knocked that second time. She's been thankful ever since that she didn't.

Joan Bennett chartered a yacht for a week-end of complete rest when she finished work in "The Man in the Iron Mask," but no sooner had she boarded it than she discovered that somebody had worked overtime installing a brand new ship-to-shore telephone. She wouldn't sail until it had been disconnected. She was fairly sure of not being summoned back for retakes, but Hollywood is full of people who can't resist calling somebody up the instant they see a telephone.

No rainstorm can daunt the actors and actresses who took part in "Wuthering Heights"—17,000 gallons of water per day were poured on their luckless heads for days and days, for those rain scenes.

The snow scenes weren't quite so bad; the snow was unbleached and untoasted corn flakes, four and one-half tons of them. But being slapped in the face by corn flakes, even unbleached and untoasted ones, when a wind machine is propelling them at a good, stiff rate, is none too pleasant.

ODDS AND ENDS—Warner Brothers want Joan Edwards, who sings on the air with Paul Whiteman's band, for a picture. But she has a contract for a year, and can't go to Hollywood unless the whole band goes along . . . When the quintuplets have rested up from their chat with the king and queen of England, RKO Pathe will move cameras right into the nursery to make a two-reel film of them, celebrating their fifth birthday.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Considers the Question: How Often Shall We Eat? Suggests That Some People May Benefit by More Than Three Meals

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

ONE of the questions I am frequently asked is whether or not it's advisable to eat between meals. Any answer must take into consideration a number of factors. It is true that many people experience a desire for food in mid-morning, mid-afternoon or before going to bed. Some begin to nibble as soon as they feel hungry, and often they continue to eat in excess of their needs. Others, trained to more self-restraint, refrain from eating, because they have been brought up with the idea that no food should be eaten except at regular meals.

Unfortunately, it frequently occurs that neither procedure is based upon actual food requirements.

Consider the Day's Food Needs

In arriving at any decision concerning between-meal eating, the day's ration should be regarded as a whole. If the foods served at breakfast, dinner and lunch or supper are carefully chosen, with a view to meeting bodily requirements, there should be no need for many adults to eat between meals.

On the other hand, it should be borne in mind that dividing the day's food into what we Americans so often call "three square meals," is primarily a convenient custom. One reason that it has grown up over a period of years is because it allows the maximum free time to pursue our various occupations. In a number of countries, a fourth meal is an accepted part of the day's routine. No Englishman, for example, would consider going without his afternoon tea; and workers pause in offices, stores and factories, as well as at home, for a brief rest and welcome refreshment.

How Many Meals?

In recent years, several scientists have advanced the idea that some of us may benefit by eating more than three meals. At a leading university a few years ago, two distinguished investigators concluded that smaller and more frequent meals would promote general health and well-being for many types of individuals. They suggested lighter meals, but proposed as many as four, five, or even six feedings a day.

Another well-known authority has performed various experiments which effectively demonstrate that a light additional meal in mid-afternoon, consisting principally of a milk beverage, increased the efficiency of workers and helped to reduce fatigue.

Relieving Late Afternoon Fatigue

Many people experience a tired feeling about four o'clock in the afternoon. During the working day, they gradually utilize available food energy, so that by late afternoon, the supply may be greatly reduced—along with both mental and physical energy.

Here is a case where eating between meals is regarded as a decided advantage, provided the food is carefully chosen. A glass of milk and a few crackers, or some other carbohydrate food, will help to renew energy, relieve the feeling of fatigue and bridge the gap to dinner. It must be remembered, however, that the extra meal should be composed of light, easily digested foods so as not to destroy appetite for the following meal.

Young Children and Elderly People

Children of certain ages, as well as adults, may benefit by a schedule that includes an extra meal. Very young children—in the toddler stage—are frequently given a mid-morning feeding of orange juice, or a mid-afternoon cup of milk with one or two crackers. And some school children also make better weight gains if they pause in the middle of the morning, or take an after-school snack, of fruit juice, or milk, and crackers.

Aged persons often require more than three meals. That is because large, heavy meals might overtax their digestions, and three light meals do not usually provide adequate nourishment. For this reason, nutritionists advise that they have a light, mid-afternoon pickup of a hot beverage and crackers; and perhaps a cup of hot bouillon before going to bed.

Don't Overeat

Thus, it is evident that there are numerous instances when there is justification for departing from the accepted routine. But it must be remembered that as the number of meals is increased, the amount of food taken at each one should be decreased. Otherwise, an undue strain may be placed upon the digestive organs.

Then, too, no matter how the day's food is divided, it must provide all the substances required for sound nutrition. Otherwise, the body will be improperly nourished, no matter how many meals are consumed.

The diet should be built first of all around the protective foods—milk, eggs, fruits and vegetables, which are such an important source of necessary minerals and vitamins. It must also supply protein for growth and repair, carbohydrates and fats for adequate energy, and sufficient bulk or cellulose to promote normal elimination.

Keep the Diet Balanced

Whether you serve three hearty meals and forego eating between times, or follow the plan of providing a mid-morning or mid-afternoon pickup, you should meet the requirements for a balanced diet. This, you will remember from previous discussions, includes a pint of milk for each adult, a quart for every child; an egg for each member of the family, or at least three or four weekly; one serving of a whole grain cereal; one serving of meat, fish or chicken plus a second source of protein, such as meat, nuts or dried beans or peas; two vegetables besides potatoes, one of which should be of the leafy green variety; two fruits or one fruit and one fruit juice.

HOW to SEW

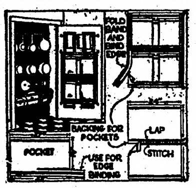
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS



TWO pockets on the inside of this pantry door are used for dish towels—the upper for clean towels; the lower for soiled ones. The pockets themselves are made from four dish towels with bright red borders and are hooked onto the door with brass rings. All the dimensions for cutting, and directions for making are given here in the sketch. If toweling by the yard is used, 3¼ yards will be required.

These directions are not in either Book 1 or Book 2, so be sure to cut them out for reference. Each of the books contains complete directions for making dozens of other useful things for yourself, your home and to use for gifts and bazaars. Many readers are also making scrap books of these articles and when they are combined with the two books, they have a treasure house of ideas that have been tested by thousands of homemakers.

Book 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroideries, contains 48 pages of step-by-step directions which have helped thousands of women. If your home is your hobby you will also want Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Order by number, enclosing 25 cents for each. With orders for two books we include FREE, a leaflet of 36 authentic patchwork stitches. Address, Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

SAFETY TALKS

Driving Ability

THE National Safety council reports that automobile drivers reach the peak of their skill and ability after 20 years of age.

Recent studies, said the council, indicate that drivers under 20 years of age have the highest accident rate. This rate decreases quite steadily to the age of about 50, and then increases sharply.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Flakes Griddle Cakes

1¼ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1¾ cups milk
1 cup Grape-Nuts Flakes
1 tablespoon melted butter or other shortening

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Combine eggs and milk; add gradually to flour, beating only until smooth. Add Flakes and shortening. Bake on hot greased griddle. Serve with maple-flavored syrup. Makes 2 dozen griddle cakes.—Adv.

TIPS to Gardeners

Changing Methods

CERTAIN garden practices widely followed a generation ago have now been proved unwise.

Gardeners formerly allowed vegetables to grow as large as possible. According to Harold N. Coulter, vegetable expert of the Ferry Seed Breeding Station, this practice gave a higher yield in pounds, but very often lowered the quality of the vegetables.

Some vegetables, of course, like tomato, must be mature to be palatable; but carrots, cucumbers, beets, summer squash, turnips, radishes and others are more tender and tasty when not much more than half grown.

To keep a regular supply of vegetables of proper eating size, gardeners are finding also that it is advisable to plant oftener than once or twice a year. Gardens prove more enjoyable and more profitable when successive plantings of favorite crops are made every two or three weeks, providing garden-fresh vegetables for the table over a long season.

Few gardeners nowadays save flower seeds. Fine flowers growing in the home garden often are cross-pollinated by others of the same species, making flowers grown from their seed inferior and untrue.

Ask Me Another

● A General Quiz

1. What is meant by the Roaring 40's?
2. Who had the "face that launched a thousand ships"?
3. How fast could Walter Johnson throw a ball?
4. Is there such a thing as a double-jointed person?
5. Has anyone ever seen the other side of the moon?

The Answers

1. The streets of New York between Fortieth and Fiftieth, especially the Times Square district.
2. Helen of Troy had the "face that launched a thousand ships."
3. A test made at the Remington Arms Co., showed that Walter Johnson threw a ball at the rate of 122 feet per second.
4. No. Loose or stretched ligaments give the appearance.
5. Inhabitants of the earth cannot see the other side of the moon, because the moon rotates on its axis at the same rate that it revolves around the earth. Therefore, it always keeps the same face towards the earth.

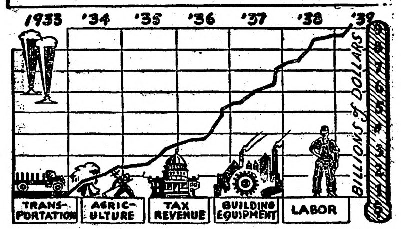
Minnesota Passes Fifth Year Of Relegalization of Brewing



A MILLION Americans who have participated directly and millions of others who have shared indirectly in the economic benefits of beer and brewing, hailed the sixth anniversary of relegalization on April 7.

Congress legalized beer in 1933 in response to the President's urgent message to "provide through such manufacture and sale, by substantial taxes, a proper and much-needed revenue for the government."

The return of legal beer and ale in the nation has created business, industrial and agricultural returns estimated at nine billion dollars through providing a million new jobs in the brewing and allied industries, contributing nearly two billions in taxes and releasing vast sums for circulation through vital trade channels.

Minnesota's direct share of this business stimulant includes $295,000,000 in retail trade volume, based on consumption of 8,725,000 barrels of beer since the state authorized its sale. Allied benefits, resulting from business created through requirements of the brewing industry and its outlets, are believed to have been even larger.

Uncle Sam was among the major beneficiaries, collecting $43,000,000 on the beer consumed by Minnesotans since the outset. Federal beer tax collections throughout the nation exceeded $1,400,000,000. An additional half-billion went to state and local treasuries. Much of the state collection is ear-marked for educational and welfare purposes, while some of the Federal levies have returned to the states in the form of various government expenditures.

The nine billion dollars was accounted for through the consumption of approximately 275,000,000 barrels of beer. Half of this sum went to local business, with labor, taxes and real estate among the major participants in the distribution of economic benefits, according to the United Brewers Industrial Foundation.

Of the remaining four and a half billion, nearly two billions went to taxes, a half-billion for farm products, about 400 millions for brewery labor and the remainder—after deductions for normal investment returns—for construction, machinery and equipment, transportation, advertising, cooperage, bottles, cans, fuel and services. The boon to agriculture included the brewers' use of 15 billion pounds of farm products in that period and the favorable influence on the markets in those products.

Tests Prove the Power of Food

Demonstrate a Vitamin-Rich Diet Is Vital to Health

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

MANKIND owes many things to the animals which have been used as test subjects in laboratories all over the world. As doctors and scientists have waged their war against disease, as they have made great strides forward in the study of foods and nutrition, they have carried on many of their experiments with rats.

The rats pictured here dramatically illustrate the power of food to influence growth. Although these two rats are exactly the same age, the weight of one is twice that of his brother. Where one animal is puny and underdeveloped, the second is fat and sleek and full of vitality.

What has produced such a difference in weight and general physical well-being? Merely a slight difference in diet. The two rats have lived under identically the same conditions, but the smaller animal on the left has received food lacking in sufficient vitamins, while the other rat has been fed the same diet, reinforced with vitamins.

If a well-balanced food ration is vital to the health of animals, how much more vital it must be for human beings. Surely the lesson is plain to see. If a mother wants her children to thrive she must feed them adequately. The child who is receiving a diet lacking in vitamins has no chance to grow and develop properly. Nor will the adult on a deficient diet attain or maintain optimum health.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To plan a diet wisely, to recognize the foods rich in important food elements, we must learn to utilize the discoveries of science. We must keep abreast of the newer knowledge of nutrition as it is presented by wise, unbiased interpreters such as C. Houston Goudiss, nationally known food authority, who each week offers his "What to Eat and Why" column in this newspaper. In this column Mr. Goudiss translates the latest developments into simple, non-technical language. By following his articles regularly, it is easy to keep in step with the most up-to-date findings of nutritional science.

Ness Takes Over Holt Cafe

Theo. Ness, owner of the Holt Cafe came here last week to assume the management of the local place of business. He bought out Sidney Engstrom, who has operated the restaurant since October, when he bought out the business from Oscar Moline. Mr. Engstrom has gone back to his farming interests east of town.

Mr. Ness invites all his old friends and customers to come in and make the Holt Cafe their headquarters while in town.

Dr. Brynestad Spoke Here

Dr. L. E. Brynestad, pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran Church at Warren gave a very timely and thought provoking address at the Men's club last Monday evening in the Church Parlors of the Nazareth Lutheran church. At a business meeting it was decided to buy envelope racks for the church pews. The next meeting will be known as "Ladies Night" when the ladies are invited as guests of the club. The election of officers took place and the result was as follows: President: A. P. Thompson; Vice president, C. A. Larson; Secretary, Harold Nohre; Treasurer, Stilof Anderson.

Grubstaking still goes in Alaska. Called by opponents a blow at the time-honored custom of early days, the territorial senate voted down a bill to outlaw suits for collection on implied contracts, or open accounts, after three years. Now it's six years. Nowhere else in the world, Senator Joe Hofman argued, can a total stranger walk into a store and get goods on credit so he can go out and make a living. Six others of the eight senators agreed with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Paskewitz of So. St. Paul spent the week end visiting at the home of their grand parents Mr. and Mrs. W. Paskewitz and other relatives.

Fishing Season Opens Monday

Monday, May 15, thousands of fishermen throughout Minnesota will take to the lakes and streams for the opening of the pike season. That date marks the opening of the season for taking walleyed pike, sand pike, or saugers, pickerel, great northern pike and muskellung.

The daily limits on these fish according to the laws are 8 walleyed pike or sand pike, pickeral and great northern pike, with the possession limit of walleyes set at 16, and for pickerel or great northern it is 20. Only two muskies may be taken in one day, and only two may be held in possesion. On yellow perch there is no limit.

Bullheads, catfish, garfish, whitefish (of not less than 16 inches), carp, dogfish, redhorse, sheephead, suckers, eelpout, and buffalo (not less than 15 inches) may be taken all year by angling except during March and April. These fish, classed as rough fish, may be speared also, either in daytime or with artificial lights in streams only until June 15. No artificial light spearing is permitted in Cook, Kittson, Lake or St. Louis counties. Complete spearing and fishing regulations are given in the synopsis of laws that is distributed with each fishing license

Pickerel or great northern pike may be speared in daytime only in streams and lakes during the open season, May 15 to March 1. Artificial lights are prohibited in spearing these species.

All residents of the state of 18 years of age or older must have a 50 cent resident fishing license. Non-residents of 16 years of age or older must have a $3.00 license, except that provision is made for a combination husband and wife license at $4.50.

The Weather

The weather the past week had been of a very changing variety. Friday was of the warmest May days that we have had in many years. Tuesday we had a bad dust storm blowing in from the western prairies. ## F. K. Fredrickson Passes On

Funeral services were conducted at the Viking Lutheran church on Saturday afternoon for Fred K. Fredrickson, who passed away at St. Lukes hospital on May 2, at the age of 53 years, 2 months and 26 days.

Fred K. Fredrickson was born in Faribault, Minn. Feb. 6, 1886 of parents Hannah and Ole Fredrickson. Baptised by Rev. Bochman and confirmed by Rev. C. M. Larson. He grew to manhood on a farm near Faribault. April 1911 he went to Ismay, Montana and took up a homestead. On Oct. 2, 1912 he was married to Clara Knudson of Cottonwood, Minn. to whom five children were born, Orrin, Claren, Leroy, and Lillian at home and Mrs. Clifford Johnson of Karlstad.

In April 1931 he, with his family moved to Holt where they resided for five years. From here they moved to Viking where he resided until his death.

He leaves to mourn his loss his family; two brothers John and Willie Fredrickson, of Faribault; two sisters, Marie Fredrickson and Mrs. Hilmer Braaten of Faribault.

Honorary pall bearers were: Alfred Anderson, Guy Anderson Hans Fosholm, H. O. Hanson, all of Holt. John Halvorson, Louis Halvorson and Ole Urdahl of Viking and C. L. Heinze of Thief River Falls.

Active pall bearers were: O. H. Nohre, Sam Lorentson and Gilbert Sanoden of Holt; Henry Anderson, Hans C. Hanson and Emil Shern of Viking.

Relatives and friends who were from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Julius Knutson and sons of Cottonwood, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. Christian Erickson of Kindred, N. D., Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Knutson from Cottonwood; Mrs. Hilmer Braaten and Marie Fredrickson of Faribault, Minn.; John Fredrickson of Bottineau, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Erickson and son Wallace, Mrs. Clem Cote and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Heinze and son Frank of Thief River Falls. Mr. Alf Sather of Halstad, Minn and Miss Edith Anderson of St. Peter, Minn.

Many Holt people were present and also a group from Warren.

Rev. H. O. Peterson of Viking conducted the funeral services assisted by Rev. T. C. L. Hanson of Holt and Rev. L. M. Redal of Oslo. There was a wealth of floral offerings and there were memoriam gifts totaling $40.00.

Carlson Funeral Service had charge of arrangements.

Mr. Fredrickson was outstanding in his work in church affairs wherever he lived and will be greatly missed in that capacity. While he lived in Holt he was President of the Church Council of the Nazareth Lutheran Church and took an active part in all the organizations of the church. He was at the time of his death a member of the Council of the Viking Church. He was also interested in civic affairs and served as Justice of the Peace while here at Holt. He was at the time of his death a member of the Marshall County Fair Association Board. He will live in memory as a good neighbor and a progressive citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mattson of Crookston, Mrs. Melvin Joppru, Mrs. Olaf Hagen, Leroy Rustad, Mrs. Willie Hagen and girls and Myrtle Ness and son visited at the John Olson home Sunday.

U. S. Speeds Defense Measures: Army Seeks Younger Personnel, New Highway Network Planned

Copyright, 1939.

DEFENSE

Chin Up and Out

Best indication of U. S. reaction to Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech has been Washington's rush to strengthen both military and economic defense, theoretically against any aggressor but obviously against the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo entente. Sample moves:

Economic. Nevada's Sen. Key Pittman boldly offered a bill permitting the President to block American shipments to Japan or any other violator of the nine-power treaty. Plainly designed to rush a decision on U. S. neutrality policy, the bill brought a quick answer that Japan would be "forced" to strengthen its bonds with Germany and Italy if congress passed the bill.

Army. Secretary of War Harry Woodring offered a bill to hasten retirement of over-age and unfit officers, because "we are the only power which has not recognized the need for younger men in command." Next fall, it was announced, aging Gen. Malin Craig will be succeeded as chief of staff by 58-year-old Brig. Gen. George Catlett Marshall. Meanwhile a door closed behind the vast arms expansion program as orders were issued to keep secret the number of war planes ordered and delivered, and to discharge all aliens working in private plants which fill munitions orders.

WAR'S WOODRING
Youth to the fore.

Navy. Engineering, ordnance and construction - repair departments may be merged in one of several navy department streamlining moves. Other naval developments: (1) Maritime Commission Chairman Emory S. Land asked more power to requisition or purchase ships for national defense; (2) about $9,000,000 was asked to recondition five overage battleships; (3) agitation began for a $5,000,000 naval air research station at March field, Calif.

Transportation. President Roosevelt recommended 26,700 miles of new national highways to care for growing peacetime traffic and meet defense requirements. The plan's essence: Five east-west and seven north-south arterials would be built, free from the tolls proposed under an earlier super-highway plan.

EUROPE

Boomerang

Viewed in retrospect, the biggest results of Adolf Hitler's infamous Reichstag speech took place before that speech was ever made. In that frantic week of anticipation when war seemed more imminent than any time in 20 years, jittery nations found courage to choose sides, commit themselves and forget traditional animosities. Sample: Democratic Britain and Communistic Russia discovered both their geese might be cooked unless they got together.

If Der Fuehrer's conciliatory refusal of President Roosevelt's peace plea broke the European tension, its stern reassertion of German determination did not allow lesser nations to forget that tension. Russia, Britain and France hastened their triple entente as the foundation for a continent-wide network of lesser pacts. The Soviet wooed Poland, Rumania and Turkey. Britain also wooed Turkey, hoping to cement Bulgaria, Rumania and Greece in a Balkan entente. In the Baltics, Poland reasserted its determination to stave off German demands on Danzig and pressed mutual defense negotiations with Finland, Esthonia, Latvia and Lithuania. Members of the new triple entente would agree to protect Europe's four neutral states, Belgium, Switzerland, Holland and Denmark.

The biggest certainty in European diplomacy appears to be French-British military aid against Germany if the Reich presses its demands against Poland. The second biggest certainty is that Russia will also aid Poland, the latter nation being another that was jarred by Hitler's speech into such fright that animosity toward the Soviet is forgotten. Thus the Reichstag speech has served as a boomerang, hastening the "encirclement" which Herr Hitler fears and hates. History may therefore mark April 28 as the day Germany carried a good thing too far, and the day anti-Nazi Europe began barking back.

RELIEF

Election Coming Up

For three months an economy-minded congress has sought means of returning relief to the states, thereby destroying WPA, slashing federal appropriations and making the U. S. only a money allocator and general overseer. Until late April President Roosevelt had commented on the new program no more than to endorse a ban on politics-in-relief. Then, however, he asked congress for a $1,723,000,000 appropriation to meet relief needs during the 1939-40 fiscal year, of which $1,477,000,000 would go for WPA. Tacitly, therefore, he spanked reform measures proposed by South Carolina's Sen. James J. Byrnes and Virginia's Rep. Clifton Woodrum, making it plain that he wants WPA kept intact and moreover is opposed to Republican plans for decentralizing relief.

RELIEF SINCE 1935
Chart shows appropriations since 1935 compared with the new request (at top). Pending appropriation represents only original budget request, while figures for previous three years represent original request plus monies voted later to meet emergencies.

High points in the message: (1) continued high volume unemployment is due largely to a 500,000 annual influx of new workers; (2) relief needs will remain high until the U. S., like the rest of the world, has undergone "a process of readjustment, particularly in connection with production and distribution of goods;" (3) retainance of present formula on federal-state division of WPA costs (20-25 per cent by the states) is essential; (4) the new government reorganization plan will result in WPA economizing, whereas return of relief to the states would result in "inefficiency and confusion through lack of co-ordination and uniformity."

Though $1,477,000,000 for 1939-40 WPA relief is far from a high-water mark (see chart), congressional historials recall that for the past three years deficiency appropriations have been needed to fill WPA's empty coffers before year's end. Carefully making no accusations, they nevertheless reflect that next year is election year, when smart politicians will know better than to slash relief rolls for economy's sake.

PEOPLE

In the Army Now

In 1915 handsome, 18-year-old Anthony Eden joined the British army, became its youngest captain and won the military cross for gallantry. Today, at 41, he is regarded as Britain's coming man of politics, a likely successor to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. Deserting parliament for the moment, he has joined the London Rangers regiment for a "freshener" course, thus stimulating British military interest. Assigned to the rank of major, which he won in the war, Mr. Eden refused command of a battalion.

HEADLINERS

MARQUESS OF LOTHIAN

Born 57 years ago as plain Philip Henry Kerr, Lord Lothian takes Britain's No. 1 diplomatic job next summer when he becomes ambassador to the U. S. A charter member of Lady Astor's allegedly pro-Nazi "Cliveden set," he began advocating appeasement in 1934 by urging "elementary justice" for Hitler via negotiation. As wartime secretary to ex-Premier David Lloyd George, the marquess became a British "Colonel House" and has remained in close advisory positions under subsequent McDonald and Chamberlain regimes. He advocated "treaty politics" as against "power politics." Americans will find him an advocate of Britain's resuming token war debt payments. Bachelor, twice an earl, once a viscount and four times a baron, he gained his titles in 1930 by inheritance from a distant cousin.

Finders Keepers? Not for These Boys

These 12 East Side boys were honored guests at the Ringling Brothers circus in New York recently—and for a good reason. Through a mistake they were given 900 tickets supposed to go to a charity organization, and planned to profit thereby. When they found out the tickets were to go to orphans they promptly returned all 900 tickets. As a result they were admitted free of charge to the big top.

FAWN DANCER

Faith Bacon, fan dancer, picked up a fawn, a crowd of spectators and a policeman as she strolled through New York's Park avenue recently. She was taken into police custody—but the publicity gag worked.

Chicago's School of Baking Teaches by Experience

Little known to most people but highly important to the industry is Chicago's School of Baking, sponsored by the American Institute of Baking. Started in 1922, more than 1,200 persons have graduated from courses in the commercial production of baked products. The institute operates four separate baking units. Left: A group of students making laboratory experiments on the chemical properties of baking ingredients. Right: Evidently the experiments were a success, judging from the activities of Milton Lee, Moorhead, Minn., youth enrolled in the school.

PUBLISHER THREATENED

THE MAN WHO KILLED HITLER

George Palmer Putnam, publisher, and husband of the late Amelia Earhart, inspects a bullet-pierced copy of the book entitled "The Man Who Killed Hitler" and a death threat note which he received following publication of the book. The evidence was turned over to the police.

British Rulers See Repulse of 'Enemy'

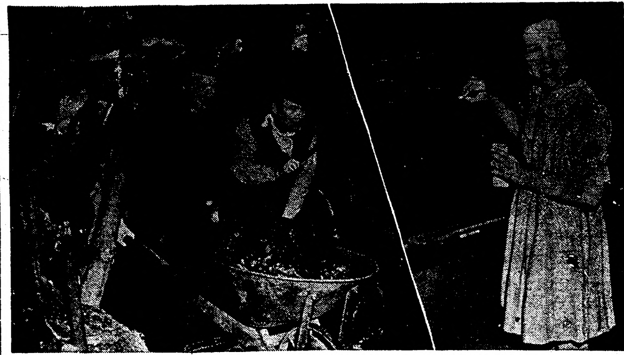
School Ends for 6,000 Children in Coal Region



Because 93 teachers in Schuylkill county in Pennsylvania's anthracite region were owed $208,000 in salaries, they decided to walk out. More than 6,000 children from 20 schools were left without teachers. Left: Jerry Fitzpatrick and Dan Roth, Coal township high school teachers, attempted to defray expenses by working their bootleg coal mine. Right: Jean Troutman, 12, explains the situation on the blackboard.

Making a Practical Valance for a Bed

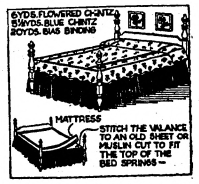
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A SMART new house it was, and all the curtains and slipcovers were made by following my sketches in Book 1, SEWING, for the Home Decorator! But when we came to the second floor it was my turn to get a few pointers.

The treatment of each of the two principal bedrooms was quite different. One was very simple with a lovely old quilt used for a bedspread; the other was in flowery glazed chintz with strong accents of bright greenish blue. Both beds required a valance that would not be removed with the spread at night.



6YDS. FLOWERED CHINTZ
5½YDS. BLUE CHINTZ
20YDS. BIAS BINDING
MATTRESS
STITCH THE VALANCE TO AN OLD SHEET OR MUSLIN CUT TO FIT THE TOP OF THE BED SPRINGS—

Here is the flowered bedspread and the small sketch shows you how the valance problem was solved. As my clever young hostess pointed out, this is really a bright idea because the valance and its foundation make a cover for the springs in case they are not the boxed type.

With the help of Book 1, you can make many of the things you have been wanting for the house. Book 2—Embroidery and Gifts, is full of ideas for ways to use your spare time in making things for yourself or to sell. Books are 25 cents each. If you order both books, the quilt leaflet illustrating 36 authentic embroidery stitches will be included FREE. Address, Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Star Dust

★ Any More Eligibles?
★ Unnecessary Request
★ Good Screamer Works

By Virginia Vale

THERE'S no telling where the current wave of matrimony that is sweeping Hollywood will stop. Practically all of the movie colony's famous romances either have landed their participants at the altar or will do so soon.

Of course, Douglas Fairbanks Jr. rather startled the general public with his selection of a bride; the charming Mrs. Mary Hartford was what would be called, in racing circles, a dark horse.

When Kate Smith celebrated her ninth anniversary as a radio star she sang the four songs that she presented on her initial broadcast: "I Surrender, Dear," "By the River St. Marie," "Dream a Little Dream of Me," and "Please Don't Talk About Me When I'm Gone." When making up her program for her first broadcast she put in that last number because she felt none too sure that she'd be a success on the air.

KATE SMITH

Too bad a fortune teller couldn't have told her that she would lead the popularity polls for years as the possessor of the best voice in her field.

*

The next time that you hear your favorite screen heroine let out a piercing scream, the chances are that it will be Sarah Schwartz who actually does the screaming.

She is Hollywood's prize screamer, capable of curdling any audience's blood when she really puts her mind on it.

The other day Director James Whale was making a scene in "The Man in the Iron Mask" in which Louis Hayward, as King Louis XIV, was about to be attacked by assassins as he rode along in his coach. A good screamer was needed, so Sarah Schwartz was sent for, joined the milling throngs, and screamed her head off when Director Whale gave the signal. She's been doing that sort of thing for years, and works pretty regularly—earns more, in fact, than many a would-be singer who tries to make musical sounds.

*

It looks as if Bette Davis would be receiving another "Oscar" when the Motion Picture Academy Awards are handed out for this year. "Dark Victory" is the picture in which she turned in such a grand performance that even the people who never liked her work before are now dancing in the streets and telling all their friends about it.

Felix Knight, the young tenor who has climbed so far and so fast as a radio star, is so enthusiastic about his vocal teacher that he has established two scholarships, enabling two young singers to work for a year with Mebane Beasely.

"He took me," says Knight, "with almost no voice to speak of and shortly increased my range more than an octave." So now, each year, two more young singers will have the opportunities that Knight had.

*

If you listen to Jack Benny's Sunday night programs you're acquainted with "Rochester," his Negro servant. You can see him in "Gone With the Wind," as "Uncle Peter"; you probably saw him in "Jezebel" and "In Old Kentucky." His name is Eddie Anderson.

*

You've seen Bill Robinson, the great tap dancer, in pictures with Shirley Temple, of course. But did you know that they are good friends, and that he telephones her several times a week, no matter where he may be. He called her from New York recently, just before he went on the air—he talked to her mother, and asked if Shirley might be allowed to stay up late enough to hear his performance. Let's hope that she did; it was a good one.

*

ODDS AND ENDS—Gabriel Heatter, host of "We, the People," presented Kate Smith with a gift in honor of her radio anniversary—a charm bracelet with miniature gold microphones dangling from it . . . Radio fans have been complimenting Martha Raye on the improvement in her vocal arrangements, not knowing that it's her new husband who does them . . . They're making a terrific effort to make the public hail Bobby Breen as "Bob" . . . "Information Please" will reach the screen, as a series of RKO Pathe News reels.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Gives Timely Advice on Planning Meals for Languid Appetites

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

AS THE weather begins to get warmer, many families develop a finicky attitude toward food. They come to the table with little appetite and claim that nothing tastes good. Before you reproach them, however, give some thought to the type of meals you are serving. Do they contain an abundance of crisp, succulent greens which tempt the eye and the palate and furnish important minerals and vitamins? Do they include juicy fruits with their refreshing flavors and appetite-stimulating fruit acids? Have you cut down somewhat on carbohydrates and fats? Or are you still offering enough energy foods at each meal to supply the fuel requirements of cold winter days?

A carefully chosen diet is an excellent remedy for the let-down feeling that both children and adults often experience at this season. For science has discovered what food substances are necessary to promote appetite and digestion, to help maintain buoyant health.

Obtaining the Appetite Vitamin

We know for example that when the appetite is poor, there may be a deficiency of that part of the vitamin B - complex which nutritionists call $B_1$. There is both experimental and clinical evidence that this vitamin is essential for the maintenance of a keen appetite. In addition, it is also required for the normal functioning of the digestive tract, so that it must be provided in sufficient amounts if food is to be utilized to best advantage.

Among the foods which supply this vitamin are whole grain cereals, bran, eggs, milk, peas, beans, carrots, spinach and cabbage. It is also found in many fruits, though usually in lesser amounts. In general, a most satisfactory way to insure a liberal intake of the appetite-promoting vitamin is to include in the diet generous amounts of whole grain cereals, milk, vegetables and fruits. As these foods likewise contribute many other necessary substances, they rate a prominent place in the dietary.

Foods That Build Blood

It is also extremely important that menus for finicky eaters should be rich in iron. For this mineral is necessary for the formation of the hemoglobin or red pigment in the blood—and it is the hemoglobin that carries purifying oxygen to every cell in the body. Iron-rich foods include liver, eggs, whole grain cereals, dried fruits, and green, leafy vegetables. I have repeatedly urged the generous consumption of green, leafy vegetables, and I cannot too strongly emphasize their importance as a source of iron, as well as other essential minerals; and vitamins.

Keep the Diet Laxative

Another piece of advice that warrants repetition is my frequent recommendation that you include in the diet adequate amounts of bulky foods. These are necessary to help promote normal elimination. If your menus contain too many highly concentrated foods, irregular health habits may result. And that in itself may be responsible for a feeling of lassitude and a lack of interest in eating. Here again fruits and vegetables are important. Together with whole grain cereals and breads, they constitute our most important source of bulk or cellulose.

Get Plenty of Milk

Milk is another food that should be used generously, because it contains such a wide assortment of protective substances. It is our foremost source of calcium, which is required for the teeth, bones and for sound healthy nerves. And it contains every known vitamin in varying amounts.

If your family does not care for milk as a beverage, make frequent use of cheese which is essentially milk in concentrated form. And use milk freely in sauces and for making desserts. It can also be incorporated in nourishing cream soups, to be served for luncheon or supper. Follow the soup with a salad made from crisp greens and including a protein food, such as cheese, nuts, or hard-cooked eggs. And top off with a fruit dessert. This type of meal appeals to the appetite and provides substantial amounts of minerals and vitamins.

Salads Twice a Day

A crisp appetizer salad makes a good beginning for the main meal of the day. A combination of watercress, dandelion greens, lettuce or shredded cabbage, with fruit, or a small amount of a savory fish paste will intrigue the most reluctant appetite. And when the salad is served at the beginning of a meal, you can be sure that it will be eaten before the hunger is satisfied.

Another way to get additional vegetables into a meal is to mold them in gelatin and serve as a dinner salad. Or an assortment of fruits can be treated in the same way and used as a combination salad and dessert. If prepared gelatin desserts are used, a wide variety of color and flavor combinations can be achieved with very little effort; and children will eat them with relish.

You'll be surprised to discover how quickly interest can be stimulated by serving familiar foods in a new way!

Questions Answered

Mrs. G. M. F.—The green outer leaves of lettuce or cabbage are richer in vitamin A than the colorless leaves at the inside of the head. For this reason, it's advisable to shred them and use for a salad or sandwiches.

Mrs. M. P. G.—Types of fats which are generally regarded as relatively easy to digest are the finely emulsified forms found in egg yolk, milk and cream. Also those in bacon, cheese, ice cream, butter and salad oils.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Grape-Nuts Flakes Coffee Cake.

1½ cups sifted flour
2½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
1 egg, well beaten
¾ cup milk
1 cup Grape-Nuts Flakes
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup Grape-Nuts Flakes

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, sugar and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening. Combine egg and milk and add to flour mixture, beating only enough to dampen all flour. Add 1 cup Grape-Nuts Flakes and blend carefully. Pour into greased 9-inch layer pan. Mix butter and brown sugar and spread over dough; sprinkle with ½ cup Grape-Nuts Flakes. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 25 minutes.—Adv.

SLEEPING SICKNESS NOW MOST SERIOUS THREAT TO HORSES

If history repeats itself, outbreaks of sleeping sickness among horses and mules will be very widespread this summer. The consequences are apt to be disastrous to horse owners unless they take advance precautionary steps to protect their animals.

A case of sleeping sickness. Note the eyes and mouth, the braced legs, and depressed appearance.

It is estimated that upwards of 70,000 cases occurred in this country last year. The disease is caused by a virus, which is believed to be carried by mosquitoes, flies, and other insects. Within the past few months it has been found that some cases of human sleeping sickness demonstrate the same virus which causes sleeping sickness in horses.

Principal hope for control of equine sleeping sickness lies in a new type of vaccine which was used with exceptionally good results last summer. In territories where horses were vaccinated with this new vaccine by veterinarians, a large percentage obtained immunity to the disease. The vaccine is now being released to veterinarians on a national scale for the 1939 season, and if owners have their horses immunized early enough, it should act as an effective curb on the disease in territories where it is used.

As an added precaution, owners should keep their horses protected against mosquitos, flies, and other insects in every way possible. Horses should be kept out of low pasture, should be kept in the barn at night, should be equipped with nets while working, and they should be sprayed with insect repellant.

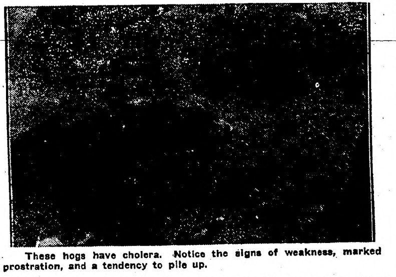
CHOLERA IS ENEMY NO. 1 OF MODERN SWINE PRODUCER

There are two words which the American swine producer dreads more than all others—the words Hog Cholera. For, in spite of all modern practices and scientific methods of control, cholera still ranks as America's Number 1 swine destroyer. It strikes without warning, it travels swiftly from farm to farm, and it is a threat the year 'round.



These hogs have cholera. Notice the signs of weakness, marked prostration, and a tendency to pile up.

The first signs of cholera which a farmer sees may be one or two hogs in a herd showing unwillingness to leave their pens. When driven out, they may have their backs humped, may shiver a bit, or show slight weakness in their back legs. Next day a few more hogs show sluggishness. Eventually the whole herd is down and then it is probably too late to save them.

There is no cure for cholera. The only safeguard lies in vaccination. The best protection is the so-called "double treatment" administered by a veterinarian. This is best given about weaning time, while the pigs are young and well.

The importance of having the immunizing done by a veterinarian is due to the fact that the veterinarian can best tell if the pigs are in proper condition to be vaccinated, and through his knowledge can do an immunizing job which can be relied on.

According to statistics, there will be nearly $30,000,000 worth of hogs lost this year, through cholera. The wise farmer will take no chances with this disease, but will have his pigs immunized at the start of the season.

In Memoriam

A tribute of love to the memory of our father, Gilbert O. Johnson who passed away eight years ago on May 9, 1931,

When loved ones leave us one by one
Not to return again,
And when but mem'ries linger near,
How hard than to begin,
To realize that they are gone.
And through the gates of death passed on,
From home and friends and those so dear.

But when they sleep in Christ God's son,
And we shall meet once more;
It seems the Lord is very near.
To point us to the other shore,
When loved ones we shall see and meet,
And Jesus Christ, His own shall greet.

Missed by his children,
Mrs. Melvin Swanson, Mrs. Elmer Nohre, Clifford, Olaf, Alma and Gilma Johnson.

School Election Well Attended

Twenty-nine local people turned out here on Tuesday evening for the local school election. A new law enacted by the last legislature set the time for annual school elections in independent districts ahead two months from the usual time of middle of July.

O. H. Nohre, a veteran member of the school board here and Sam Lorentson were reelected to serve on the board for another three years.

The voters also voted on the question of substituting the annual school election for the annual school meeting in July and this carried by 26 votes for and none against. There will, however, be a complete annual report published in July.

Geo. Fricker, treasurer of the district, read his report from July 1938 to date and the disdrict is in good financial standing at this time.

Supt. Geo. Karvonen presided at the meeting and Edgar Horien and Hilmer Moberg were tellers.

To Serve Rommegrot Sunday

Members of Circle No. 1 will sponsor a picnic at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Anderson on Sunday, May 21. A picnic dinner will be served with the chief item on the menu listed as "Rommegrot". For those who do not wish to indulge too strongly in this famed Norwegian delicacy, there will be many other favorite foods to be had.

Serving will begin at noon and it is open to the public to come and spend Sunday with relatives neighboas and friends. The price for the food will be very nominal and a large crowd is expected.

If the weather is rainy or cold the dinner will be served in the church parlors. Following is the Menu:

ROMME GRAUT
Meat Loaf Scalloped Potatoes
Sandwiches Pickles
Cake Coffee
Adults 25c Children 15c

Red Lake Resort Discontinued

As a result of the refusal of the Indian department in Washington to alter the lease governing the summer resort property at the Red Lake Narrows, the lease has been canceled and all structures on the property must be removed not later than July 30, it was announced today by George M. Wilson, secretary of the Red Lake Summer Resort association.

The association is advertising for sale the community building at the Narrows. The lease on the property has been held by the association since 1922, and in the intervening years a large number of cottages had been erected at the lake.

It is expected that many of the buildings will be moved to Thief River Falls.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been fine for the seeded crops. On Monday we had a light shower of rain and since then it has been cool and yesterday morning another small shower fell here and it looked like more rain during the day.

Safetygrams BY FRED W. BRAUN © The Safety Man

One of the most important "E's" in the promotion of a good community safety program is "enforcement".

Most of the driving public believes in education and engineering as important steps in the promotion of a good community program and feels that enforcement is necessary, but that we ought to "go easy." Why go easy? If we have laws on our statute books which call for certain speed limits, and if any city council or village board establishes rules and regulations as law, why not enforce them? If we have a street with a speed limit of 25 miles an hour, then let's have the courage to enforce it at 25 and not 30 or 35. If we want to travel 35, then let's step up the speed limit to 35, if it is safe enough to do so.

Enforcement requires backbone on the part of the enforcement officers and even more backbone on the part of the courts.

Most of the farmers here are now busy breaking up meadow land and brush patches for flax. From all indication there will be more flax seeded this year than ever before in this community. One farmer reports that he was putting in a hundred and twenty acres.

First Steamboat At St. Paul

May 21 will mark an important anniversary in the annals of St. Paul, for just a century ago on that date the first steamboat landed at what was to become Minnesota's capital. For nearly a quarter of a century thereafter the new settlement on the upper Mississippi was largely dependent upon steamboats for its contact with the outside world, particularly with the East and the South.

The steamboat that stopped at the site of St. Paul on that May day in 1839 was the "Glaucus." Its captain, G. W. Atchison, had in his cargo six barrels of whiskey for Donald McDonald, a Scotch Canadian who was one of the first settlers on the site of St. Paul. After delivering the whiskey, Atchison went on to Fort Snelling with the remainder of his cargo and any passengers who chanced to be visiting the Minnesota frontier.

The arrival of steamboats at Fort Lnelling had long been a familiar sight during the summer months. The "Virginia" blazed the way to this frontier post as early as 1823, but it was not until 1844 that boats began to land regularly at St. Paul. By 1850 the number of arrivals for the season had reached a figure of over a hundred, and in the peak years of steamboat travel, 1857 and 1858, over a thousand boats were counted at the St. Paul levee each summer.

A large number of books and manuscripts relating to steamboating on the upper Mississippi are to be found in the collections of the Minnesota Historical society in St. Paul.

Gets 5-Pound Speckled Trout

The hope and ambition of every angler who visits the streams in the spring, but seldom realized in a lifetime, was actually attained by a Clearwater County sportsman last week, says the Gonvick Banner. He is Martin Erickson, restaurant owner owner at Clearbrook, former Gonvick resident, who on a fishing expedition with his neighbor, Albert Anderson, dropped a line and hook into the waters of Kabecona river, south of Bemidji, and landed a five-pound speckled trout one of the largest and finest specimens of the kind ever caught in the territorry.—Thief River Times.

From The Holt High Lights

It is well to recognize the individuals who have attained perfect attendance records for the year. Some of those listed have that record for several years. Wayne Larson's is outstanding in that he has not missed a day during his eight years of school attendance. Those who have perfect records for the year are:

Lois Hanson
Darlene Horien
Betty Johnson
Calvin Larson
Geraldine Larson
Wayne Larson
Verna Peterson
Manning Sorum

—Holt High Lights.

During the present school year there has been no periodical announcement of the honor roll in high school. Now that the year is almost over it is well to point out those who have attained outstanding scholastic rating. The following standings are based on the first five six-week periods.

A minus
Eileen Larson
Lois Hanson

B plus
Lorene Fluke
Marion Larson
Ethel Larson

B
Norma Weaver
Romal Burtness
Russel Sanoden
Phyllis Inman

Pioneer School Notes

Joyce Johnson visited us Tuesday afternoon. We were very glad to have her with us.

The pupils and Miss Plymire raked and cleaned the yard on Thursday morning. After the pupils finished, Miss Plymire treated them to Marshmellows and cookies.

Those who received perfect papers in Spelling were: Eloise Saugstad, Isabella Tweten, Harold Ness, Wilma Movick, Marilyn Movick, Conrad Tweten.

Succeeded by Secretary of State

Presidents Jefferson, Madison and Monroe were each succeeded in the presidency by his secretary of state.

Sunnyside School Notes

We had our annual Play Day at our school Friday.

Sunnyside pupils received a total of 74 points, Ringbo 61 points, Pioneer 54 points. Ringbo won the Bat Ball game and Pioneer won the school relay, Helen Erickson, Joann Benitt, Lois Larson, Kenton Anderson, Milton Conklin Conklin and Betty Swan had 100 in Spelling.

We are starting to take our final tests this week.

At our Little Citizen's League it was decided that Raymond Peterson, the president, Joann Benitt, the secretary and Donald Larson the treasurer should hold office till the end of the school term.

We decided that some of the Citizens League money should be used for gifts for our mothers as we did not have time to make anything. Eleanor Ueland and Dolores Larson were appointed to plan the Play Day dinner and to write invitations.

We made Mother's Day cards during the opening Exercise period Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sornm and family, Mrs. Norman Peterson and boys, Mrs. Nettie Peterson, Mrs. Fred Larson and Ludvig were dinner guests at the Alfred Larson home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swan and girls, Lyla Kolden and Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Christianson visited at the H. Inman home Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Erickson and girls visited at the Alvin Erickson home Sundny afternoon

Card of Thanks

We hereby wish to express our sincere thanks to all for their help and sympathy during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father.

Especially do we thank Rev. Peterson, Rev. Hanson and Rev. Redal for their comforting words those who sang, and those who gave memoriam gifts and flowers. Thank you all.

Mrs. F. K. Fredrickson and family.

Past Records To Count

In view of a new regulation in the revised Traffic Act, the importance of having a clean drivers record is now even greater than before. According to the new rule, whenever a driver is arrested for violating any traffic law, state or local, the court in which he is to be tried must first obtain his drivers record from the Commissioner of Highways, in St. Paul, and then proceed with the case. All costs incurred in obtaining this record may be charged to costs in the trial. So, if any driver has not maintained a clean drivers record in the past, it now becomes adviseable that he start at once, or suffer the consequences in all future arrests.

Solving a Difficult Slipcover Problem

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: Your books have shown me how to do so many things that I am turning to you for help. I want to make slipcovers for the living-room furniture because with three young ones the upholstery is soon going to be ruined. The job completely baffles me. I am enclosing a rough sketch of one of the chairs. Can you suggest any way that a removable cover can be made for it? B. A."

Use bindings or facings to finish edges where seat and back covers are cut around arms and supports. Where there are so many openings of different lengths, snap fasteners are generally more satisfactory than zippers. If snap fastener tape is obtainable it saves time to whip it to the long edges. The narrow frill for this chair covers a curved line across the front and carving at the top of the front legs.

You can make slipcovers, all types of curtains and many other things for your home with the help of Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Just follow the pictures, and you learn to make the lovely things you have been wanting for your home. Book 2 is for those who enjoy fancy work on useful articles for the home; and useful novelties, to be made in spare time. How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

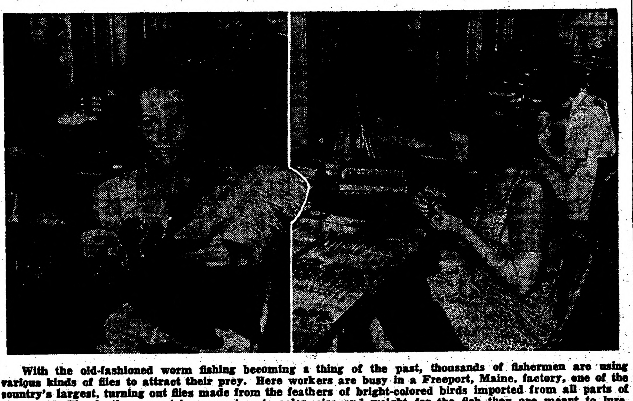
Artificial Flies for the Nation's Critical Anglers



With the old-fashioned worm fishing becoming a thing of the past, thousands of fishermen are using various kinds of flies to attract their prey. Here workers are busy in a Freeport, Maine, factory, one of the country's largest, turning out flies made from the feathers of bright-colored birds imported from all parts of the world. The feathers must be correct as to color, size and weight for the fish they are meant to lure. Feathers shown include peacock, ostrich, kingfisher, African jungle cock, and Mexican macaw feathers.

East Side Kids Model Latest in Informal Attire

And It Really Isn't Done With Mirrors

This is the kind of fishing the not-too-energetic angler dreams about. Homer Harris and his son, Bill, of Atlanta, Ga., don't bother with hooks. And it isn't done with mirrors. Fishermen take their boats to the lair of a school of trout in Jackson lake, and as the fish make their quick, arching leaps out of the water, the side of the boat is tilted and the fish falls to the bottom of the boat. In two hours these men caught 18 pounds of unhooked trout.

French Babies Protected From Gas Attack

In the event of war and threat of gas attacks, French babies under two years of age will be protected by means of a respiratory device which is connected with the gas mask of the mother. Not strong enough to open the air vents in a regulation gas mask, they are protected by this means. The baby's covering is made of fireproof silk. Professor Le Mee, left, invented the device.

JUNGLE STYLIST

Osa Johnson, famous African explorer and producer of wild animal films, is shown demonstrating a high-powered elephant gun which she will carry on her next safari. Mrs. Johnson's clothes are especially designed for use in the jungle.

IN THE BAG

Sir John Simon, England's chancellor of the exchequer, seems to have Britain's budget in the bag. It was no laughing matter, however, to the house of commons when he set before that body a staggering budget swollen by the cost of war preparations.

SCIENCE:
Atomic Power

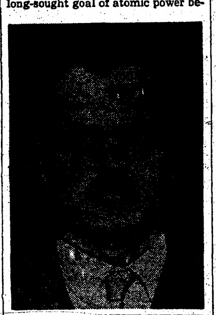
Albert Einstein once said that to find the nucleus of an atom was like going out on your porch some dark evening and firing a gun in the hope of hitting a duck. A few years later science developed atom smashers which turn out neutrons (uncharged particles in the atom's nucleus) with little trouble. By bombarding a new element called uranium with neutrons, scientists disintegrate uranium and get another element, actino-uranium. Bombardment of this with neutrons produces more neutrons and thus creates an endless chain of explosive power.

Thus, said the University of Chicago's Dr. A. H. Compton, is the long-sought goal of atomic power being brought nearer man's practical use. Addressing the southwest section of the American Association for Advancement of Science, Dr. Compton made dramatic news by forecasting that a quantity of atomic power the size of a pinhead may some day propel an ocean liner from the U. S. to Europe. Potentially capable of revolutionizing heat and transportation methods, atomic power—like fire—could be both a blessing and curse. Sample curse: It could fire a gun several thousand miles.



PHYSICIST COMPTON
Science has shot the duck.

Dr. Compton's claims are not dreams. Unrelated, recent experiments in both Europe and the U. S. have started from the same assumption and led to the same conclusion. The assumption: Production of heat and light in the stars is a radioactive process, therefore man should go about unlocking atomic power by artificial radiation. The conclusion and problem: To find out whether theories regarding the source of solar and stellar power can be made practically effective on earth.

NORTH CAROLINA: ### Discovery?

In the late Sixteenth century Sir Walter Raleigh developed a light war vessel called the cromster, described in Henry Culver-Gordon Grant's Book of Old Ships. After a 1903 storm, one A. W. Drinkwater walked down the sands of North Carolina's Roanoke island and found the hulk of a ship barely jutting out of the sand. This spring came another storm, baring more of the vessel to watchful Mr. Drinkwater. One hundred CCC youths bent to their shovels, excavated the hulk and found what Mr. Drinkwater and the Roanoke Island Historical association thought was an important discovery. Recalled was Sir Walter's famous "lost colony" which disappeared there in 1584. Since the newly discovered boat checked perfectly with measurements of a Raleigh cromster, might the long-buried ship have some connection with the lost colonists?

PEOPLE:
Justice Triumphs . . .

When he took over the justice department from well-meaning Homer T. Cummings, Attorney General Frank Murphy was regarded with askance for having failed to stop labor strife while governor of Michigan. After four months in office, however, Frank Murphy had probably shown himself one of the most capable fighters-for-law-and-order ever to hold the justice portfolio. Resigned was New York's Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, under grand jury indictment. Also indicted was Kansas City's long-time Democratic Boss Thomas Pendergast. Pending were income tax evasion cases against Philadelphia Inquirer Publisher Moses Annenberg and Chicago Politician Billy Skidmore. Said Mr. Murphy to Chicago Daily News' Paul Leach: "The important thing . . . is that the American people have faith in their federal prosecution and court machinery . . . There will be no political fixing while I am attorney general.".

Star Dust

★ Law Forces a Fake
★ NO for Life of Child Star
★ U. S. Groceries to Europe

By Virginia Vale

THERE'LL be a bit of faking about Principal Production's "Way Down South," but it's not the fault of the producer, Sol Lesser. The story of the picture is laid in Louisiana; it deals with plantation life in pre-Civil war days. One of the high lights of the picture is a sugar cane festival, the autumn celebration that marks the completion of the harvesting season. Lesser ordered a freight car of Louisiana sugar cane, and thought things were all set, when the California bureau of agriculture stepped in and stopped it at the border. Seems that "foreign" cane can't be brought into the state.

So native cane from near Bakersfield will be used instead. It is neither so heavy nor so tall as the genuine Louisiana article, but the art director will take care of that.

Everything else about the picture is genuine. Bob Breen and the 50-piece Hall Johnson choir have been rehearsing for two weeks, so that the American Negro spiritual music will have the true beauty and charm of the Deep South.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

With Approach of Warm Weather, C. Houston Goudiss Advises Extra Care in Storing Foods in the Home

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

IT IS the proud distinction of America's food industries that notwithstanding the infinite variety of perishable foods which are constantly available, and regardless of the distances they have been transported, even the most delicate foods are delivered to the consumer in a fresh, wholesome condition, with all their fine flavor unimpaired.

The secret of this modern miracle is refrigeration. Vast sums of money have been invested in long trains of refrigerated cars, thousands upon thousands of refrigerated trucks, refrigerated warehouses and refrigeration equipment in stores. All this has been done for a single purpose: to keep food fresh and at its best until it reaches the home.

At this point the responsibility shifts to the homemaker. And if she falls down on her job, then all previous efforts to keep food free from spoilage have been in vain.

Homemaker's Responsibility

As guardian of her family's health, one of the homemaker's most important tasks is to see to it that all food is safeguarded against contamination until it reaches her table. This means that perishable foods must continue to be refrigerated properly in the home. For only in this way can they be protected from the ravages of micro-organisms which are always ready to attack foods when conditions are favorable for their growth.

Two essentials are necessary for satisfactory food preservation in the home. First, perishable foods must be stored at a temperature of from 40 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit—never at a temperature higher than 50 degrees. Second, the right degree of humidity must be maintained. Too much moisture will encourage the growth of bacteria; too little will dehydrate fruits and vegetables and make them unfit for consumption.

Home Care of Foods

Both requirements are met by a good household refrigerator; and the homemaker who appreciates the importance of keeping foods sound and wholesome will regard an efficient refrigerator as an investment in good health. It is especially necessary that the food supply be properly refrigerated during the warmer weather of spring and summer, in order to prevent the consumption of dishes that may have become contaminated without any marked alteration in appearance, taste or odor.

Highly Perishable Foods

Milk is often regarded as the most perishable of all foods, because it is an ideal medium for the growth of bacteria. It is, therefore, essential that this splendid food be kept at low temperatures at all times. It should be put into the refrigerator as soon as possible after it is delivered, and kept there until the moment it is to be used. Milk should never be allowed to stand at room temperature for any length of time. For it has been demonstrated that when it is held at 40 degrees—an ideal temperature—before delivery, then allowed to stand at a room temperature of 75 degrees for an hour and a half, and again refrigerated, a rapid increase in bacteria occurs.

Other types of protein foods also present a favorable medium for bacterial growth when they are held at temperatures higher than 50 degrees. These include meat, fish, meat broths, gelatin, custards and creamed foods. It is advisable to keep these foods, as well as the milk supply, in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Fruits and Vegetables

Fruits and vegetables soon lose their moisture content unless they are protected against warm, dry air; and they are likewise subject to the action of micro-organisms which result in decay. But when stored in a modern refrigerator, these mineral- and vitamin-rich foods can be kept in perfect condition for considerable periods, thus making it possible to take advantage of favorable market offerings.

Guarding Against Mold

As a rule, warmer weather also increases the problem of combating molds. For given moisture and warmth, molds will grow on almost anything. However, the most hospitable hosts are acid fruits, such as oranges, lemons, berries or tomatoes; sweets, such as jams and jellies; bread and meat. While molds are physiologically harmless if eaten, they definitely spoil the taste and appearance of food.

Mold growths can be killed by boiling. They are retarded by the dry circulating air of an efficient refrigerator. It is to allow for air circulation that berries should be stored uncovered—if possible, spread out so that the air can reach more than just the top layer.

Frequent inspection of all food supplies, including those in the bread box, and the prompt elimination of any items showing signs of mold, will help to keep it from spreading.

Constant vigilance on the part of the homemaker in caring for foods on hand will avoid a needless drain on the food budget and will safeguard the health of every member of the family.

PATTERN DEPARTMENT
SEWING CIRCLE

LITTLE girls will look so sweet and feel so cool in No. 1738, which includes a simple little frock, gathered onto a shoulder yoke extended to cover the shoulders—and a fetching bonnet to shade the eyes. As you see from the diagram, this pattern is as easy as possible to make. Choose dotted swiss, lawn or gingham.

Charming Apron-Frock.

A practical daytime dress that has a dainty look about it, as well as a very figure-flattering line, is yours in No. 1740. The fluttering sleeves, set in at a scalloped, slanting shoulder line, are as cool and unhampering as possible. The princess skirt, cut to a high waistline in the front, can be adjusted to just the snugness you want, because it ties with sash bows in the back. Such a pretty dress, and so easy to make,—of gingham, lawn, seersucker or calico.

No. 1738 is designed for sizes 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. Size 2 requires 2⅞ yards of 35-inch material, panties included; 2½ yards of ricrac. For tie strings of ribbon on bonnet, 1 yard is required.

No. 1740 is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 34 requires 5⅛ yards of 35-inch material; 3 yards of braid or bias fold.

WHY HOGS DIE; THE FIVE GREAT CAUSES OF SWINE LOSSES

Few swine raisers realize that the major share of all hog losses in this country is due to but five causes—hog cholera, enteritis, influenza or pneumonia, parasites, hemorrhagic septicemia, and erysipelas.

If the farmer could keep just these five out of his herd, the increase in his annual hog profits would be enormous, and the nation's income would be multiplied by tens of millions of dollars. Here are a few suggestions that should be of value in helping the average farmer to guard his herd against these five destroyers:

CHOLERA
ENTERITIS
ERYSIPELAS
SEPTICEMIA

Hog Cholera—Cannot be cured. The only safeguard is vaccination before an outbreak occurs. The best time to vaccinate is around weaning time, and it is best to have the work done only by a veterinarian. Symptoms of cholera—sluggishness, fever, partial paralysis, tendency of hogs to pile up.

Enteritis—A filth-borne disease, picked up in old, infected hog lots. Best preventive is to farrow and rear pigs on clean pasture, away from old lots. Symptoms—loss of weight, diarrhoea, weakness. At first signs, call a veterinarian.

Hemorrhagic Septicemia, or swine plague—Very difficult to distinguish from hog cholera, and frequently one disease is complicated with the other. Symptoms similar to cholera, including fever, loss of appetite, and weakness. Prompt veterinary treatment is urgent, and hogs should be put into clean quarters, with good ventilation, and given a careful diet.

Influenza, or Swine Flu—Very contagious. Pigs run high temperatures, are weak, show eye inflammation, frequently breathe with difficulty. Keep hogs in warm, dry quarters, out of draughts. Give plenty of water, but reduce rations.

Virulent Erysipelas—Symptoms, like cholera, include fever, lack of appetite, sometimes partial prostration. Immediate diagnosis by a veterinarian is important. Great care should be used in handling hogs, because the disease can be transmitted to man.

"Our taxes might have been higher!"

● Everybody wants lower taxes. But, everybody also wants better schools, old-age pensions, unemployment relief and other governmental services.

How to ge these without boosting the tax rate—that's the problem.

Well, here's one practical way—encourage industry! For example, the Brewers of Minnesota pay over 14 million dollars annually in Excise Taxes on beer, of which about 2 millions are paid to the State. This money, placed in the General Fund, helps support schools, old-age pensions, and unemployment relief. There is also paid, directly or indirectly to the state and municipalities, millions of dollars in license fees from taverns, real estate taxes, state income taxes and many other forms of general and special taxes from the brewing industry as a whole.

Without these taxes paid by the brewing industry your own taxes would have been higher!

If the law surrounding the sale of beer is observed, everybody can help keep taxes down by promoting more business, more employment—and help protect the public's right to enjoy good, mild beer—the Beverage of Moderation.

Enteritis Costs Hog Raisers Millions

—Prepared by American Foundation for Animal Health

While hog cholera is, without doubt, the most dangerous and costly swine plague in America, the intestinal disease called Enteritis ranks a close second in causing tremendous annual losses.

Hog cholera, of course, can be prevented almost 100 per cent by vaccination. But there is no dependable vaccination as yet for Enteritis, and no sure cure.

Resembling typhoid fever in human beings, Enteritis creates greatest havoc in growing pigs by producing a surface gangrene or rot of the lining membrane of the intestines.

First signs of the disease are when the hogs begin to lose weight while on good rations. Their appetite continues good, but the loss of weight continues. Sometimes the condition is accompanied by diarrhea. When such symptoms show up, a veterinarian should be called immediately. Because if proper measures are applied in time, death losses and spread of the disease to other hogs can usually be controlled.

There is no sure cure for Enteritis. Farmers should be warned against peddlers who purport to sell cures for Enteritis or "necro", as health authorities have repeatedly advised that no sure cure exists at present.

Vaccination of herds suffering from Enteritis may result in heavy losses. For this reason, hogs should receive careful inspection by a veterinarian before cholera immunization is administered.

Of course, the time to vaccinate against cholera is while the pigs are healthy, and before they can be weakened by any of the prevalent swine diseases.

Prevention of Enteritis is best accomplished by selection of disease-free breeding stock, careful farm sanitation, use of the McLean County clean ground system for growing pigs, and suitable medication by a veterinarian at first signs of an outbreak.

IN MEMORIAM

We cannot but halt a moment, as we cross the threshold of the beautiful month of May, in silent honor of those who gave their all that we might prosper and live in a world of happiness and peace. "Their" day comes in May. A single day out of a year of length — yet more hearts, and minds, and love, will surrender on Decoration Day than on any other day of the year.

The torn hearts of the mothers who lost their boys on the battlefields of Europe will rest easier as the Almighty casts his reflection over the worldl on Decoration Day. The graves of those "boys" will again feel the tears of the loved ones left behind.

No honor is to great for those who laid down their lives in the wars of our nation since it birth. No flowers are beautiful enough to grace the graves of our "Soldiers".

It is our prayer, and the prayer of countless others in all parts of the world, that Decoration Day, this year will serve to tender the resting places of our great, and ease many heavy hearts.

Commencement Exercises

With the close of the school year fast approaching many of the pupils are beginning to think in terms of the termination of that portion of their education which they can complete here.

The commencement at the Holt Consolidated School will be held on Thursday evening, June 1. An interesting program has been arranged for the graduating exercises.

Those to graduate from eighth grade are: Marion Backlund, Ruby Halvorson, Ruth Halvorson, Angeline Johnson, Lowell Larson, Wayne Larson, Oscar Lindstad, Irene Ness, Mildred Odie and Adeline Wegge.

Those in the high school who will complete their work are: Milton Hanson, Lucille Horien, Phyllis Inman, Avis Johnson, Francis Johnson, Howard Lorentson, Gladys Nelson and Adelyn Pederson.

Rev. R. M. Fjelstad of Thief River Falls will deliver the commencement address.

Parks Ready For Summer

Minnesota state parks are prepared for the annual influx of visitors with added improvements in a number of the recreational areas and parks of the state, and in others where no new facilities have been added, the spring cleanup has placed them in shipshape condition.

Picnics are, of coarse, the rule during this season, and hundreds of school classes are having their outings in one of the parks nearest them. Camping facilities are offered in a majority of the parks.

The Minnesota park system is recognized as one of the leading in the nation, with its wide variety of scenic beauty represented Some of the state's last virgin timber areas are to be found at Itasca and Scenic, as are unique geological formations in the potholes washed in solid granite at Interstate. Typical valleys, threaded with silvery streams, lakes, springs, waterfalls, hardwood and evergreen forest areas, as well as bluffs of the southeast, are included in one or another of the parks. One might spend an entire summer visiting state parks and every day find something new to study in the typical portions of Minnesota set aside in those areas.

Memorial Day Program

A committee of band members are busy making preparations for a Memorial Day program. A program is planned to be held on the school grounds followed by a parade to the cemetery with ceremonies there. Rev. E. L. Tungseth of Thief River Falls is to be the main speaker. The American Legion and the Veterans ef Foreign Wars of Thief River Falls are sending units up to take part in the program here.

Music and vocal numbers will be furnished by the local band and the high school glee club. All local veterans are urged to turn out to take part in the parade. The program is to begin promptly at 1:30. In case of rain the program will be conducted inside the building.

Let us all give our support to this fine civic activity by being present. You will find the program well worth attending. The Holt Boy Scout Troop No. 112 will also take part in the activities of the day.

Confirmation Here Sunday

Confirmation services of the Nazareth Lutheran Church will as usual be held on Pentecost Sunday this year which is the 28th. A group of 15 young people will renew their Baptismal Covenant and be confirmed into the Lutheran Church at this service. The following are the confirmands:

Given Surprise Party Sunday

Friends, relatives and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Folden gathered at their farm home on Sunday to surprise them on their birthdays. Mr. Folden was celebrating his 70th birthday and Mrs. Folden had her 60th. They were presented with a cash purse as a remembrance of the occasion.

Rev. Aastad Coming Here

Dr. I. T. Aastad of Detroit Lakes, President of the Northern Minnesota District of the N. L. C. A. will arrive tomorrow evening for a visit at the home of Rev. and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson.

On Sunday afternoon he will install Rev. Hanson as pastor of Lanstad Lutheran Church at Gatzke. He will also make a Visitat to this congregation and Silver Creek.

Dr. Aastad organized the Nazareth Lutheran Congregation at the home of the late Reier Reierson in 1896.

Martin Seim returned last week from New York where he spent some time taking in the World's Fair and also visited with relatives near Chicago.

Relatives and friends gave Mrs. L. Sagstuen a birthday party Tuesday afternoon.

Sunnyside School Notes

At our Citizen's League meeting we decided to have onr picnic on Friday afternoon with plenty of ice cream cake and cookies.

We had all our final tests last week. Kenton Anderson and Milton Conklin both had an average of over 90 in test marks.

Kenton Anderson had 100 in his final Spelling test.

The Seventh and Eight grade pupils are busy reviewing for the State Board Examinations which commence next week.

We had our pictures taken last Tuesday noon. Melvin Larson came over and took them so we could all be on.

Sidney Engstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Engen, Mrs. Fred Peterson, and Ethel Vattendahl attended the play "Pickles to You" at Gatzke which was given by the Thief Lake group directed be Ferne Peterson. A very large crowd attended.

They also visited at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Hagen at Rollis.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Christenson visited at the Leonard Swan home Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Larson and family called at the Jacobson home near Thief River Falls Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swan and girls visited at the Bill Larson home Thursday evening.

Mr. and Frank Erickson and girls visited at the Anton Rodahl home Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Larson and family visited at the Leonard Swan home Friday evening.

Mrs. Frank Erickson and girls visited at the Carsten Sagstuen home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Benitt visited at the J. P. Benitt home Sunday evening.

Mrs. Ed Furr and Hazel visited at the Leonard Swan home Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Larson and family called at the Skomedal home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lars Ring, Jane and Lawrence visited at the F. W. Erickson home last Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swan and girls visited at the Herb Johnson and Tony Marck home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ueland visited at the Victor Eckman home at Newfolden Friday afternoon.

Kenton Anderson visited at the Alfred Larson home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Conklin and Milton visited at the E. Wegge home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swan and girls visited at the T. Kolden home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Conklin and Milton visited at the Ed Furr home Sunday evening.

Card In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved brother who passed away February 18, 1939.

There is a sad but sweet remembrance,
There is a memory fond and true
There is a token of affection, brother,
And a heartache still for you.

Dorothy Olson
Mrs. K. Tiedman
Mrs. O. R. Erickson

Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Fjelstad of Thief River Falls visited with Rev. and Mrs. Hanson on Wednesday evening.

Parasites Kill Many Sheep

"Parasites of various kinds are materially reducing the income from sheep here," County Agent R. A. Reierson reports from his own observations and statements made by producers.

Because of this he has arranged that two demonstration meetings be held in the county on June 7 and 8, at which a University Farm specialist will be present to discuss and demonstrate methods of control. These meetings will be held on the farms of Hokanson Bros., located 11 miles northeast of Warren in Alma township and Henry Hoper, located 9 miles northeast of Stephen in Augsburg township.

R. A. Reierson found that on many farms stomach worms, tapeworms, grubs in the head and lung worms have been attacking sheep internally, while ticks and lice were assisting them from the outside. "This saps the vitality, reduces the thrift and in some cases causes death loss in sheep and lambs," he says.

"The specialist secured for these meetings will be prepared to give practical recommendations for the control of these pests and to make other suggestions concerning feeding and management problems and the handling of wool," he concluded.

No More Shooting Allowed

Notice is hereby given that all those whom have Air rifles and other small firearms which they are using inside of the village must stop this at once. Many complaints are coming in that small children have been hit in the face by pellets from air guns in the hands of other children. Boys who are using 22 cal. rifles in the village must also stop this practice at once.

By order of Village Council.

Fricker Buys Home Here

Geo. Fricker closed a deal last week with R. J. Lund in Thief River Falls in which he became owner of the Lund home here. The S. Lorentson family are renting it at the present time.

Three Democratic Candidates Start Pre-Season Campaigns; Toe-Stepping Carefully Avoided

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

POLITICS:
Early Rumblings

From coast to coast extend the great rural regions whose political power has been recognized too late by many an office seeker. More vocal, more government-minded than their apathetic city cousins, America's small towns and farms write three-fourths of all letters to congressmen. They vent an opinion readily on such matters as those destined to determine 1940's election, namely: (1) foreign policy, and (2) agriculture, as related to the U. S. economic, labor and relief problems.

In 1938 serious Democratic reverses in farm states gave rise to a Republican hope: That the nation's midland vote pool will go G. O. P. in 1940. A Gallup poll recently confirmed it, giving Democratic hopefuls the jitters and forcing premature rumblings of next year's campaign. Nobody yet knows whether President Roosevelt will run again (31 per cent of U. S. voters would approve it) but this month three

CANDIDATE FARLEY

Democratic nomination campaigns are taking shape despite wise counsel that the administration had better settle immediately on a man who can be elected, rather than think only of the nominating convention. The campaigns:

Farley. At Mexico, Mo., America's smartest politician told a group of military students that "we are one of the few nations where a man's destiny is in his own hands." Postmaster General James A. Farley's destiny probably lay in the trip he was then taking, a gun-jumping, cross-continent tour in which he placed some 200 delegates under lock and key for himself or the man he chooses to run for President. Carefully avoided was any statement that might offend either Mr. Roosevelt or Vice President Garner, but Jim Farley was sizing up matters as a good politician should. A Roman Catholic probably could not be elected President, but Mr. Farley's 200 votes might easily make him vice presidential nominee.

Garner. Never has a southerner been elected President, the more so today because Negro voters almost furnish a balance of power in several northern states. But John Nance Garner's campaign manager has concentrated in south and southwest states to line up 200 delegates for the aging Texan whose intense popularity is the year's No. 1 political phenomenon. If a secret agreement exists between Democrats Farley and Garner, the tactics thus far bear it out. Each has studiously avoided an invasion of the other's stamping grounds, and though neither has spoken there is every indication that they see eye-to-eye. Both advocate economizing, and both looked with alarm on the President's "purge" last fall. Since a northern Catholic cannot hope to carry the South, and since a southerner might have trouble in the North, nothing could be more logical than a union of Garner and Farley forces.

McNutt. In 1940 a million college students will cast their first votes, and newly organized Student Opinion Surveys finds their choice (17.7 per cent) is Indiana's ex-Gov. Paul V. McNutt, now high commissioner to the Philippines. Meanwhile, from Indianapolis, Manager Frank McHale is busy broadcasting that Mr. McNutt is the only Democrat who can carry Indiana and is therefore a powerhouse throughout the northern states. Hurrying back home from his Pacific post, handsome Mr. McNutt is the first Democrat to actually open his 1940 campaign. Significantly, however, he has taken no cracks at Messrs Roosevelt, Farley or Garner; a vice presidency (which is the most likely berth for him) is no longer to be sneezed at after what is happening to Cactus Jack Garner.

BUSINESS:
Distribution

In 1870 about 75 per cent of U. S. workers were producing goods, the other 25 per cent distributing them. By 1930, reports the Twentieth Century Fund, production efficiency had increased so much that only 50 per cent of U. S. workers were needed for this phase. Meanwhile distribution had absorbed the other 25 per cent, accounting for half the jobs. A possible conclusion: Distribution may be costing too much. A possible rebuttal: Men must eat, and men kicked out of production by labor-saving machinery must turn to distribution jobs or starve. Though this raises per item cost to the consumer, every man benefits by a higher living standard.

Breaking down a sample year's total sales volume, Twentieth Century Fund found 1929's finished goods cost $66,000,000,000. Of this, $39,000,000,000 (or 59 cents on the dollar) went to distribution. This meant that production, which employs half the man power, gets less than half the revenue. Of the total 1929 distribution cost, $13,000,000,000 went to retail distribution, $7,000,000,000 to wholesalers, $9,000,000,000 to transportation, another $9,000,000,000 to manufacturers' distribution costs.

Smallest item of all was advertising, which (contrary to popular misconception) cost less than $1,000,000,000 and probably paid its way by giving consumers a better buy for their money.

EUROPE:
Peacemaker

"There are knots in European politics, but recourse to the sword is, perhaps, not necessary to cut them. Nevertheless, there is need that these knots be untied once and for all because sometimes a hard reality is preferable to a long uncertainty."

Benito Mussolini's statement referred specifically to two "knots," his own demands against France for concessions in the Mediterranean, and Germany's demands against Poland for Danzig and a slice of the Polish corridor. This offer to resort to conciliation in place of war gave heart to France and Britain, but they probably forgot that Signor Mussolini's speech fitted perfectly into a chain of events which matches with the pattern created last autumn at Munich.

IL DUCE
There are knots in Europe.

At that time it was Mussolini who "counseled" Der Fuehrer to talk things over at Munich. Hitler won concessions and Italy's reward was German support in Spain and Albania. This spring Il Duce again appears as Europe's peacemaker just a few weeks after the Rome-Berlin axis has been cemented into a military pact. Frightened France, realizing her Mediterranean argument with Italy is one of the "knots," will probably untie it and persuade Britain to appease once more by conceding Germany's right to Danzig.

Today's most likely solution of the Danzig problem is a plebiscite with League of Nations sanction, in which Danzig's 96 per cent German population will make quick work of an international crisis.

TAXATION:
Rehash

No. 1 surprise of this season's economy minded congress is that the senate should vote $1,218,666,000 for farm purposes. To the White House—not economy minded—this was also a surprise, so much that administration pressure will probably make congress "buy" its farm appropriation by sitting all summer to figure out new taxes. Reason: The President charges congress broke its promise not to vote any special appropriations without providing new taxes to meet the cost. Last year's parity payments of $212,000,000 (compared with the senate's current $225,000,000) were voted under similar circumstances and left a big hole in Mr. Roosevelt's budget.

Capitol Hill's two major tax figures are Mississippi's Sen. Pat Harrison, chairman of the upper house finance committee, and North Carolina's Rep. Robert Doughton, whose ways and means committee must originate all tax legislation. Generally speaking they agree with the President on one fundamental: That levies on low incomes shall not be raised. They therefore agree also that any tax revision this session must be merely a rehash of present upper-bracket levies. Less mutual is another White House principle, that government income must not be lowered. But congress, having invited deficit with its farm bill, has little choice. Revenue can hardly be lowered now.

With several weeks' debate still ahead if tax revision comes this session (it should, because corporate taxes yielding $1,300,000,000 expire next December) some solution like this is possible: Abandonment of the undistributed profits tax and retention of capital stock and excess profits levies; creation of a flat 18 per cent corporate levy instead of one varying, as at present, from 16½ to 19 per cent; lower rates for corporations making $25,000 or less. Proponents expect the rehash would touch business for $2,000,000 a year more than at present—not much in actual cost but a lot in principle when next year's election is considered.

NAVY:
Beef Stew

Fresh Argentine beef is barred from the U. S. by sanitary regulations, which is one major reason why Argentina disrupted the Pan American conference at Lima last December. But canned beef ("willy") is not barred. President Roosevelt made news recently by asking congress to permit the navy to buy its canned beef from Argentina at 15 cents a pound, 8 cents less than American beef. Moreover, he said, the Argentine product is better.

At Buenos Aires, Argentine Foreign Minister Jose Cantilo thought Mr. Roosevelt's taste for South American beef was "a fine gesture which may become an important precedent in friendly relations between the two countries." But at Washington a congress tremendously conscious of the farm vote thought otherwise. Discovering a cause celebre, Illinois Rep. Leo Allen raised visions of congressmen smacking their lips over a beef-tasting contest. Said he: "Many of us believe American beef has no superior. For that reason I am offering a resolution for a committee of five to investigate and determine whether Argentine beef is better."

PEOPLE:
Brinkmann Finale

Germany's complex, unorthodox, inflationary financial situation is enough to make any banker bite his fingernails. When Dr. Hjalmar Schacht was removed from the Reichsbank presidency last winter, Adolf Hitler named Dr. Rudolf Brinkmann as his successor. Last February Banker Brinkmann was reportedly found lighting cigarettes with 50-mark ($20) bills, suffering a complete nervous breakdown. Given a leave of absence, Herr Brinkmann still did not recover and has now been retired permanently.

¶ When Germany seized Austria, Baron Eugene de Rothschild of the international banking family fled to France. Less fortunate was his brother, Baron Louis de Rothschild, who in mid-May was en route to exile after 14 months incarceration at Vienna's Hotel Metropole where he had been held for a reported $10,000,000 "ransom."

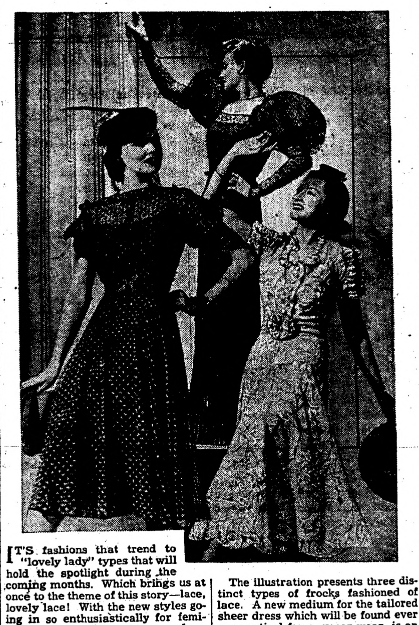
Lace Tunes to This Summer's 'Lovely Lady' Fashion Trends

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



IT'S fashions that trend to "lovely lady" types that will hold the spotlight during the coming months. Which brings us at once to the theme of this story—lace, lovely lace! With the new styles going in so enthusiastically for feminine prettiness in hat, gown and accessories, the logical answer needs must be lace, as has been the answer throughout the centuries of fashions that have gone before.

With the craze for lace trims on hats, for billowy masses of lace at throat and at wrist, with the return of the "baby waist" that is exquisitely sheer and entrancingly lace trimmed, with tailored laces for daytime wear, with sheer pleated laces for dress-up wear, with picturesque period frocks enchantingly detailed in lace, with lace playing a star role in boudoir fashions, with accessories even to gloves and bags and boutonnieres of lace, the current message of lace has become too vast, too all-inclusive for words. You just have to let the bigness of the lace theme grow upon you as the pageantry of present and coming modes pass in review.

The important thing to say about modern laces is that they are so versatile in character that there's a lace for every occasion no matter what the challenge may be. For that matter it is not an exaggeration to say that an entire wardrobe could be planned of lace. There are fabriclike laces for tailored use, stunning laces for afternoon frocks, laces of grand dame elegance for formal evening wear, sheer laces of cobweb mesh that pleat up beautifully, two-way stretch laces for bathing suits and so on and so on without end.

The responsiveness of lace to every mood of fashion accounts for the fact that designers are acquiring the lace habit with an increasing enthusiasm as the possibilities reveal the growing tendency of lace producers to supply a type for every need.

The illustration presents three distinct types of frocks fashioned of lace. A new medium for the tailored sheer dress which will be found ever so practical for summer wear, is an interesting conventionally patterned two-tone lace as pictured to the left in the group. Bruyere designed this dress which has a grosgrain ribbon belt and two ribbon bows on the shoulder.

Utterly feminine and charming is the afternoon dress shown in the foreground to the right. Vera Borea designs this lovely frock of a delicate but firm lace that delineates big florals with sheer mesh between. The ruffles around the neckline and on the sleeves are indicative of Paris trends. In this dress of horizon blue lace the ruffles lend a beguiling feminine note with no suggestion of fussiness. For summer afternoon wear and informal evenings, there is wide favor expressed for pastel laces.

An interesting feature of sheer afternoon lace frocks is that many are worn over costume slips in contrasting color. Dark laces, very sheer, are also worn over light foundation slips. The monotone effect that demands a matching color for the slip is equally good style.

The model in the center shows an evening dress designed by Molyneaux. It demonstrates how pleasingly sheer lace yields to pleated treatments. The straight-fitted sheath skirt is finely pleated, and the dramatic balloon sleeves are likewise pleated. The deep square decolletage is noteworthy.

Smart Rainwear

That adage, "prepare for a rainy day," ever instilled in the minds of the young, has been taken literally in the realm of fashion. The modern interpretation of stylish rainwear is reflected in the very attractive rain cape here pictured. Surely some little girl's geography book must have inspired this all-America raincape in that it is printed with a map of the United States, rivers and mountains and borderlines included. It comes either with a babushka to match, as pictured, or if preferred you can get it with attached hood.

Pleated Skirt in Summer Fabrics

Skirts and blouses are usually on the wane by the time really warm weather sets in and the lightweight suit usually is the only opportunity for continuing this casual style. But not so this year, at least if the prominence of spun rayon, linen and cotton skirts are any indication.

The pleated all-round skirt is especially good in summer fabrics, which may account for the increased popularity, and not only the skirt departments but the blouse and summer sweater departments are preparing for much activity.

The practicality of the skirt and blouse or sweater is undeniable. It is easy to have a number of changes at little outlay and there is less necessity of laundering than with a number of one-piece frocks.

Feminine Frills On Shirtwaists

Sportswear is not being neglected, even among the frills and ruffles of the majority of feminine clothes, and the shirtwaist is making a conspicuous appearance, changed in some cases by the addition of pleated and gathered fullness, but still basically the same.

In some instances this style is seen with additional color contrasts, among them one shirtwaist dress with rose top and navy skirt, another with a pink and white striped top and pink shirt, and others solid pastel shirtwaist frocks with contrasting bright cummerbunds around the waist.

Pocket Interest

Watch for peg-topped pockets in daytime and evening skirts.

★ A Promising Newcomer
★ Warning Bing Crosby
★ Radio Veterans Team Up

By Virginia Vale

WHEN you see "Wuthering Heights" you'll probably want to know something about Geraldine Fitzgerald. She plays the part of "Edgar's" sister, who marries "Heathcliffe," and she makes a definite contribution to every scene in which she appears.

She was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1914, was educated in a convent school, studied painting for a while, and then joined the Gate Players. The Gate Players did repertoire, so Miss Geraldine got experience in all sorts of roles. Then she was asked to make pictures in England, and did; she appeared in "The Turn of the Tide" and "The Mill on the Floss," and went right back to the theater.

But this time it was the New York theater, where she was seen in "Heartbreak House." Hollywood discovered her then. Warner Brothers gave her a contract, (with six months off each year for the theater), and she made tests on the Coast, and then returned to Ireland.

She wouldn't believe that she ought to return for "Dark Victory" until she had received three letters and a cablegram; she'd known people who rushed to Hollywood and then sat around and waited everlastingly for things to get started. But she finally returned, was borrowed by Samuel Goldwyn for "Wuthering Heights," and made "Dark Victory."

If Bing Crosby is ever found mysteriously dead a lot of the other singers in motion pictures will probably be questioned by the police.

Some one of them will certainly be driven to commit the crime by the way in which the young man sings. For example, he strolled into the Universal sound room not so long ago, took the pipe out of his mouth, sang four songs, one after another, put his pipe into his mouth again and went home. The recordings were perfect—you'll hear them in "East Side of Heaven," which is probably his best picture to date.

BING CROSBY

All of which won't seem remarkable to you unless you know what a complicated business this matter of recording sounds can be.

Mr. Crosby has been known to astound fellow-singers even more by eating a heavy luncheon before he had to sing, without its affecting the result at all.

Erno Rapee, Jane Froman and Jan Peerce will be co-starred in a gala musical revue which has been signed to replace the Screen Guild show on the Columbia network for the summer months, beginning June 11. There will also be a 16-voice mixed chorus.

The three stars are radio veterans, but this is the first time that they have appeared together. Rapee is one of the best known musical directors in America, Jane Froman has made a name for herself in both movies and radio, and Jan Peerce has long been a protege of Rapee's as well as one of the screen's popular singers.

The Andrews sisters like nothing better than a practical joke. Recently, while making a personal appearance at a theater in Brooklyn, N. Y., they tried to enter an amateur contest at a neighboring theater. The master of ceremonies wanted to hear their act before they went on, and they told him they would do their version of the Andrews Sisters' original version of "Hold Tight."

When they finished he sadly shook his head. "Sorry, girls, but I can't use you," he said. "That was the worst imitation of the Andrews Sisters I ever heard."

ODDS AND ENDS—Rudy Vallee, who recently announced on the air that he'd like to direct pictures, recently wrote and acted in a dramatic skit on his weekly broadcast, as well as acting as master of ceremonies, directing the music, and doing a bit of singing . . . Lewis Stone is proud of his record in pictures, but he's prouder just now of receiving an award for driving 500,000 miles in 34 years without having a traffic accident.

C. Houston Goudiss Describes the Role of Phosphorus In Nutrition; Tells Where to Obtain This Mineral

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

THERE are at least 11 different mineral salts which are essential to the structure or functioning of the human body. But of these, only four—calcium, phosphorus, iron and iodine—require the careful consideration of the homemaker. That is because a diet which furnishes adequate amounts of these four will automatically provide the others. But when the diet is deficient in any one of these four minerals, disastrous consequences may result.

It is therefore of the utmost importance that every homemaker should know something of their functions, and what foods supply them. In this article, we shall deal specifically with phosphorus.

Versatile Phosphorus

It has been said that if the biographies of the elements could be written, that of phosphorus would be the most interesting of all. That is because there are 14 different ways in which compounds of phosphorus may function in the body. In fact, it is doubtful if any other inorganic element enters into such a diversity of compounds or plays an important part in so many functions.

This mineral is indispensable for all the active tissues of the body and likewise helps in regulating the neutrality of the blood. It is found abundantly in nerve tissue.

Needed for Teeth and Bones

Its most significant role, however, is to team with calcium in giving rigidity to the bones and teeth. Approximately 90 per cent of the total phosphorus of the body and 99 per cent of the calcium are found in the bones and teeth.

Both these minerals are required in generous amounts, but almost twice as much phosphorus as calcium should be supplied every day. Moreover, children should have about one-and-one-half times as much phosphorus as adults, to meet the requirements for growth.

The muscles and soft tissues need phosphorus as well as the bones, and in the dietary of the child, they must share with the bones, the phosphorus that is provided by the food. Hence, the greater need for this mineral during childhood.

Phosphorus and Rickets

If a child's diet is deficient in phosphorus or calcium, or if conditions are not favorable for their proper absorption, rickets will occur. This devastating nutritional disease may result in deformities of the chest and pelvic bones, as well as the more familiar bow legs and knock-knees.

Investigators have spent many years in discovering how to prevent and cure this disease which has made life miserable for so many children and which has far-reaching effects that carry over into later life. For example, adults who have bow-legs or a pigeon breast as a result of childhood rickets, are always self-conscious because of their defects. And motherhood may be far more difficult for young women whose pelvic bones were deformed by rickets in their early years.

A Low-Phosphorus Diet

It was found that rickets may be associated with a low-phosphorus diet, even when the calcium content is high. And investigations also determined that there is a seasonal tide of blood phosphorus which corresponds to the amount of available sunlight. This led to the realization that sunlight—which we now know helps the body to manufacture vitamin D—is closely related to the proper utilization of phosphorus. And today it is well established that rickets can be prevented, or cured, by a diet containing liberal amounts of phosphorus, calcium and vitamin D. Vitamin D can be obtained from direct sunshine, but where this is not available in adequate amounts, cod-liver oil, irradiated foods, or those fortified with a vitamin D concentrate will supply this necessary substance.

Make Use of Sunlight

As we approach the season when the greatest amount of sunshine is available, homemakers should see to it that not only the children, but every member of the family spend as much time as possible in the sunlight. This will help to promote the proper utilization of phosphorus and calcium. And both teeth and bones will benefit, as well as the general health.

Where to Find Phosphorus

Every homemaker should acquaint herself with the foods that supply phosphorus most abundantly, so that she will be prepared to include this mineral in the diet every day. Egg yolk and dried beans are both valuable sources of phosphorus. So are whole grain cereals and lean meats. In fact, cereals and meats have this in common—both are rich in phosphorus and deficient in calcium. Whole grain breads are likewise important for their phosphorus content. And on a percentage basis, cheese ranks very high as a carrier of this mineral.

Cocoa also contains a large percentage, though it must be remembered that, as a rule, only small quantities of cocoa are consumed at one time. Many nuts, including almonds, peanuts, pecans and walnuts, furnish significant amounts. And this mineral is found in dried fruits such as raisins, figs and prunes, and in much smaller quantities in vegetables, such as spinach, cauliflower, string beans, carrots and brussels sprouts.

Milk supplies phosphorus, though not in such generous amounts as calcium. However, if you follow the rule of a quart of milk daily for every child and a pint for each adult, you will contribute materially to the phosphorus and calcium content of the diet.

Questions Answered

Mrs. S. E. N.—The three- or four-year-old child who wakes early should not be allowed to go for a very long period without breakfast. For this reason, seven o'clock is recommended as a good hour for his first meal of the day. After such an early breakfast, however, a mid-morning lunch of milk and crackers will be necessary. A child of this age may be expected to go to bed not later than seven o'clock.

Parental Co-Operation Should Bear Fruit

A school-teacher, after examination of the pupils in her class by the school nurse, wrote the following note to the parents of a certain little boy:

"Your boy Charles shows signs of astigmatism. Will you please investigate and take steps to correct it?"

The next morning she received a laboriously written reply from the boy's father, which read as follows:

"I don't exactly understand what Charlie has done, but I have walloped him tonight and you can wallop him tomorrow. That ought to help."

AROUND the HOUSE — Items of Interest to the Housewife

For Shiny Linoleum.—Dissolve a lump of sugar in the water when washing linoleum or oilcloth and a brilliant polish will result.

* * *

A Good Sink Brush.—A worn whiskbroom makes a fine sink brush if you cut off the worn bristles clear up to the stiff part. Always rinse clean after using.

* * *

Burnt Aluminum.—If you burn an aluminum saucepan when cooking, boil an onion in it. The burnt part will rise to the top like scum and leave the saucepan clean.

* * *

Sharp Kitchen Tools.—One of the most effective aids to speeding up cooking preparations, is to see that paring knives for fruits and vegetables, and knives for trimming up meats and fowl, are kept sharp. Dull knives not only waste an unbelievable amount of time, but they are disconcerting to thoughtful planning.

Prevent Soiled Curtains.—Paint patent clothes pins the color of your decorations in different rooms and use a pair to pin back curtains at night or during showers. This keeps the curtains from being soiled by the screens.

* * *

Heat Brown Sugar.—If dark or light brown sugar is too hard to measure, heat it in the oven, then measure it quickly while it is soft. Store it in the refrigerator or bread box, where it will remain soft.

* * *

Grease on Carpet.—Grease can often be removed from the carpet by rubbing with bicarbonate of soda applied with a piece of flannel. Rub well into pile with finger tips and then sweep vigorously with a small hand brush.

* * *

Keeping Linens White.—Stored linens will not become yellow if the inside of the linen closet is painted a deep blue.

RED OIL CLOTH
MARK SCALLOPS BY DRAWING AROUND A CUP — CUT OUT AND PASTE ON THE WINDOW FRAME
RED RICK RACK
CREASE CURTAIN HEMS 1/4" WIDE WITH A HOT IRON

Oilcloth Scallops and Red Rick Rack.

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: The curtains I made from your Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, are so smart and modern looking that they have given our living room an entirely new appearance. Right now I need an idea that will pep up my kitchen windows. Everything is up to date but the curtains. They look old fashioned. The color scheme is red and white, but please don't tell me to use red and white checked gingham because I have done that before.—J. B."

Alright, no checked gingham! How about some nice crisp dotted swiss with the widest red rick rack you can find for the edge? Then make a border around the top and sides of the window by pasting scalloped red oilcloth on the window frame, using wall paper paste. Cut the oilcloth in strips first, then mortise the corners by cutting them on the bias. Start marking the scallops at the corners, as shown here, making the center top scallop wider than the others. The tie-backs for the curtains may also be made of the red oilcloth.

With the help of Book 1, SEWING, for the Home Decorator, you can make many of the things you have been wanting for your home. Book 2—Embroidery and Gifts, is full of ideas for ways to use your spare time in making useful things. Books are 25 cents each. Enclose 50 cents for both books, and leaflet illustrating 36 authentic embroidery stitches will be included FREE. Address, Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

NO. 1747: For junior sizes. A precious play frock, with snug, wide sleeves, basque bodice, high at the neck, and a very wide skirt in the swirling skating silhouette. Included are tailored shorts, with a fitted yoke that fits slimly. A perfect thing for outdoor sports and summer daytimes. Make it of calico, gingham or percale, and trim it with rows of ric-rac.

No. 1527: An ideal design for a woman's street cotton. The plain tailored skirt is topped by a narrow sash belt, tied at the side. The blouse is cut on basic shirtwaist lines, with a plain front panel, side fullness, round collar. Gay little frills give it a feminine, summery touch. For this, choose linen, gingham, dotted swiss or flat crepe.

The Patterns.

No. 1747 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 13 requires 4½ yards of 35-inch material for the ensemble; 10 yards of ric-rac.

No. 1527 is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 34 requires 5 yards of 35-inch material; 2¼ yards of pleating or ruffling.

Wise and Otherwise

WHEN a man tries to drown his sorrow, he often finds that his head keeps swimming.

A woman, it is said, would soon tire of a perfect husband. Perhaps—but she'd have to find him first.

"Open your mouth and shut your eyes" is all right for kids, but it pays the rest of us better to open our eyes and shut our mouth.

A girl who's a good cook doesn't need to play with fire.

When somebody asks you to "listen to reason," ten to one you're in for an earful of his pet prejudices.

Life's Battle

WE ARE constantly speaking of the "struggle for life," and calling life "a battle"; but we do not see that our very existence, and the fact that we have a battle to fight, are due to the struggles and triumphs of those who have gone before us. We think that some strange thing has happened to us, and that our lot is an unusually hard one.

But such thoughts are altogether unworthy. Our fathers found life as hard a battle as we do, and if they had not fought we should not be alive to fight. Every stage of human history is the outworking of the same destiny; and it is in fulfilling ours, and entering well into the struggle for life as arranged for us, that we do our part toward perpetuating the moral life of humanity.

We are descendants, and somebody is responsible for us. We are progenitors, and we are responsible for somebody.

Pioneer School Notes

Joyce Johnson visited with us all day on Wednesday. We hope to have her in school everyday next year.

Betty Ness, Mrs. Ness and her Aunt Miss Erickson visited with us on Thusday. Miss Erickson has been a Missionary in India for fourteen years. She has also had the fortune of visiting many places in Europe and other continents. She gave a very interesting talk and told us a little about India.

The first and second grades have learned two new poems. They are "Hundreds of Pretty Stars" and "What Does Little Birdie Say?"

The Third graders have reviewed the poem, "Come Little Leaves."

Yvonne Johnson and Boyd Wilson took part in the County Declamatory contest at Warren on Saturday. Even tho they did not win any prize they enjoyed it and did fine.

Those who had perfect Spelling were:

Wilma Movick, Harold Ness, Marilyn Movick, Earl Ness, Conrad Tweten, Arthur Tweten.

The pupils are planning a short program for their last day of school.

The pupils had a spell-down on Monday. Boyd Wilson and Lawrence Folden were the two leaders. Lawrence's team won. Wilma Movick and Donald Skjerping were the best spellers.

Ringbo School Notes

The first, second, third, fourth and fifth grades made a border of circus animals.

Doreen and Evelyn made a new health chart.

The Little Citizen's League is going to have a short program in the afternoon.

Gertrude Nohre returned home Tuesday from St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls where she has been employed.

Dwarf and Midget

The public health service says that there is no difference between a dwarf and a midget so far as the human species is concerned. The term dwarf applies to other species besides human beings. The term midget is applied only to human beings. The term dwarf is generally considered a more scientific term than midget.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT REMEDY FOR DIET DISEASE OF STOCK

CHICAGO.—Restoration of depleted farm land by the use of chemical fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash not only increases crop yields, but helps remedy deficiency disease among livestock caused by a lack of necessary mineral elements in their feed.

Animals reflect the composition of their feeds, observes W. A. Albrecht of the Missouri College of Agriculture, and these in turn reflect the composition or available nutrient supplies of the soils on which they are grown. He declared:

"Animals will persistently graze closely in one area of a pasture while scarcely touching grass in another spot. When confined to soils whose fertility has been depleted, their judgment cannot be exercised and they may become the victims of some deficiency disease."

One of the most frequent and costly diseases acquired by animals fed on land deficient in necessary minerals is "Pica." Cattle suffering this disease have a tendency to chew bones and gnaw wood. Other symptoms are loss of weight, generally unthrifty condition, stiffness in hind quarters and at times in the front quarters, brittle bones that are easily broken, dull eyes and harshness of coat.

On farms where such a mineral deficiency exists in the soil, the use of a fertilizer containing phosphorus lime and potash is recommended by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee as a means of providing the necessary elements to restore the land and provide the plant foods so essential to the diet of livestock.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been on the cool and cloudy order. We had a light rain on Saturday and another light shower Wednesday. The grass is coming fast since it got top moisture.

The barber states that he will give a new tie with the new shirt which was stolen from his shop here recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Larson of Thief River Falls visited at the Hans Fosholm home Wednesday. The brought with them some boquets of large tulips and bleeding heart flowers.

Mrs. Fred Larson and son Ludvik visited at the Ole Larson home Sunday forenoon.

Marvin and Duane Horien visited at the Leo Horien home Sunday. They made the trip by bicylce and Shetland pony.

Notice of Meeting

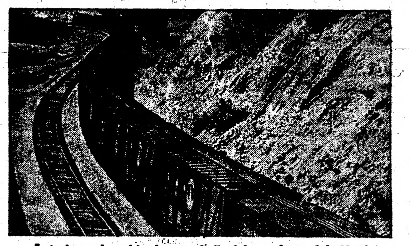
The Annual Meeting of the Holt Holding Company will be held at the Elevator Office, Holt, Minnesota, on June 6th, 1939 at 2 p. m. for the purpose of electing a board of directors and to transact any other business that may come before the meeting.

Dated May 25, 1939.

J. A. Sorum, Sec'y.



In trains such as this, the great bulk of the products of the Northwest move to distant markets. Railroads alone can perform this job. It follows that the nearer these railroad facilities are used to their full capacity, the lower can be the charges.

Ol' Man River

How has river transportation—developed and supported by millions of tax dollars—helped the farmers of the Northwest? Or the consumers?

Certain members of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce have been trying to find out.

Spokesmen for river transportation interests have been appearing before the Senate Committee to protest against regulating river transportation. This has afforded the Committee an opportunity to attempt to uncover some of the much-talked-about public benefits from this lavishly subsidized form of transportation.

What the Committee has brought to light can be summed up in a few words:

The farmers of the Northwest are getting no benefit from the millions of tax dollars that are being spent on such waterways as the Upper Mississippi and the Missouri. It is unlikely that they ever will. Consumers are in the same boat. Whatever "benefits" there are, are "pocketed" by the actual users of the waterways—who are neither farmers nor consumers.

The prices paid to farmers for what they grow naturally will continue to be based on the cost of transportation to markets by railroad, simply because the great bulk of their products must continue to be transported to those markets by railroad.

Gasoline, farm implements and most other commodities that are brought to the Northwest by river—mainly at the taxpayers' expense—are sold to the taxpayers at the same price as though they had been transported by railroad.

Nor does this injustice to the farmer and consumer end there. For as less business is left to the railroads, the expense of maintaining and operating them must be provided for by the business that must continue to be moved by railroad.

For these reasons, the demands of the river transportation interests are of vital concern to you.

Paying no tolls and for the most part no taxes, and depending upon your taxes to deepen and maintain sluggish, silt-filled channels, build huge dams, construct and operate locks—the spokesmen for river transportation demand that there shall be no liberalization of the regulation of the railroads, and that no similar regulation be applied to river transportation!

The railroads, for themselves and in behalf of those whom they serve, ask that all kinds of transportation be treated alike with respect to regulation, taxation and subsidies. This is one of the important issues before the present session of the Congress of the United States.

Memorial Day Program

A crowd of several hundred people came here on Tuesday to attend the Memorial Day program arranged by the local band. Rev. E. L. Tungseth of Thief River Falls gave the address of the day. Rev. T. C. L. Hanson was chairman and read the program and made announcements.

After the program at the school house a parade was formed and all marched to the cemetery where ceremonies were conducted in honor of the dead war veterans of this community. Several American Legion men and Veterans of Foreign Wars from Thief River Falls came up to take charge of that part of the program.

It was one of the largest and most impressive programs put on here on Memorial Day in twenty years and the local band is to be congratulated upon the fine work they did in making the arrangements.

Sheep Demonstration Meetings

W. E. Morris, Extension Animal Husbandman and W. A. Billings, Extension Veterinarian, are the University Farm specialist that Marshall County farmers will have a chance to hear and see at the sheep demonstration meetings, Wednesday and Thursday, June 7 and 8, reports County Agent R. A. Reierson.

Farmers from the northwest corner of the county will meet at the Henry Hoper farm, located 9 miles northeas of Stephen in Augsburg township, at 1 p. m. on Wednesday, June 7 while the farmers from around Warren and other parts of the county will meet at the Hokanson Bros. farm located 11 miles northeast of Warren in Alma townshtp, on Thursday, June 8 at 1 p. m.

One of the biggest problems confronted by Marshall county sheep raisers is the control of worms, ticks, and grubs, says R. A. Reierson. Demonstrations on that subject as well as docking, castarating, and handling wool, are being featured at each meeting to help local men raise a higher percentage of lambs that will grade "top" when they reach market.

University farm authorities report that all over Minnesota parasites are becoming a big obstacle to satisfactory returns the sheep business. Packing houses report that native lambs are not reaching the market in top condition, and Federal Inspectors are condemning a large percentage of livers as undesirable and intestines as unfit for sausage casings because of parasite damage. These conditions result in lower prices to sheep producers. They feel, however, that there are cheap and easy ways of avoiding these troubles and have planned these demonstration meetings withe thought in mind of giving suggestions for practical and economical control.

Sheep raisers will also be able to enjoy a special feature at the demonstration meetings here, says Mr. Reierson. Arrangements have been completed for E. S. Bartlett, sheep shearing specialist for the Chicago Flexible Shaft Co., to demonstrate proper and efficient sheep shearing and fleece-handling methods.

Mrs. Freda Anderson and Victor Johnson entertained the following at a Sunday dinner at the Johnson home in honor of Roy Johnson who was confirmed that day: Mrs. K. Nyberg and and Mrs. Eric Johnson of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre and Ethel and Gertrude, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lorentson and family and Mrs. Miller.

Everybody Welcome.

Pioneer School Notes

Mrs. Alf Movick visited school on Wednesday.

Betty Ness has been a visitor at school for three days this week.

We had our picnic on Friday afternoon. Even though the weather was unsettled, a large crowd attended. A short program was given. Running contests were also held. Mrs. R. Smith won in ladies race; Vern Wilson in the older boys' race; Chester Smith in the younger boys' race; Elaine Johnson in the younger girls' race; and Dorothy Skjerping in the older girls' race.

Eloise Saugstad has had perfect attendance the whole year. Miss Plymire gave her a manicure set. Wilma Movick received a box of stationery for the highest marks in spelling. Honor awards for persons not missing more than 5 per cent of the year were awarded to: Eloise Saugstad, Elaine Johnson, Dorothy Skjerping and Joyce Movick.

The report cards were given out on Friday.

Those on the honor roll were:

Harold Ness Wilma Movick, Marilyn Movick, Joyce Movick, Keith Movick, Lorraine Skjerping, Vernice Smith Yvonne Johnson, Isabella Tweten, Arthur Tweten, Earl Ness, Gordon McCullough, Boyd Wilson, Ludvig Tweten, Dorothy Skjerping.

Those that have had perfect attendance for the last period were: Lorraine Skjerping, Eloise Saugstad, Elaine Johnson, Donald Skjerping, Earl Ness, Willis Skjerping.

We are now enjoying vacation with the exception of the eight graders who are busy with state boards. We hope they all pass. The others plan to have a good vacation and be ready for school next September.

The Weather

The weather the past week end warmed up considerable. Monday and Tuesday were the hottest days so far this year. On Tuesday the thermomoter hit the hundred mark in this part of the state. We had local showers on Monday and Tuesday. Farmers are wishing for more rain.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Probe Into Moseley Activities Reveals Race Consciousness; Rome-Berlin Pact Discredited

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

RACES:
Semitism

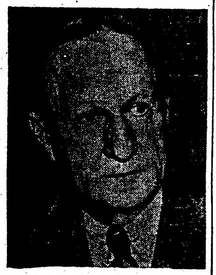
Last October top film executives met Movie Czar Will Hays to discuss how anti-Semitism might be checked insofar as it affects movie revenues. Last November Father Charles Coughlin made a radio speech tempering criticism of Germany's Jewish pogroms by commenting that Communist persecution of Christians was worse. Nazi sources, he said, had told him 56 of the 59 top men in Russia's Communist party were Jews.

This spring came "Equality," a magazine boasting prominent "Aryans" on its editorial board and dedicated to combating anti-Semitism. At the same time Collier's magazine found there was at least enough talk about the subject to justify a popularized treatise by Harvard Anthropologist Earnest Hooton on the Jew's "highly evolved and specialized characteristics of mind, temperament and personality."

Readers of the Hooton article found themselves realizing that Germany's horrible pogroms have at least made America conscious that there is such a problem. This realization became the more acute when Texas' Rep. Martin Dies brought his un-Americanism investigation committee back into session with the following unsavory allegations:



GENERAL MOSELEY
"How strange . . ."

Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, who retired from the army last autumn after throwing sharp shafts at the New Deal, is active in a nation-wide anti-Jewish organization. Moseley joined a drive financed by New York's Dudley Gilbert, who sent "confidential reports" he received from a night club "waiter" to James Erwin Campbell, reserve army captain of Owensboro, Ky. Campbell, in turn, issued reports to "key people" throughout the U. S. Dies said Gilbert had no intention of stirring up race hatred but thought he was doing a "patriotic service in anticipation of a revolution."

(1) "The fact is that the most serious problem confronting America today is just this problem of the Jew and how to get rid of his influence definitely—locally, nationally and internationally."

(2) "If the Jews bump me off be sure to see they get the credit for it from coast to coast. It will help our cause."

Notified of the charges, General Moseley abruptly closed his own private "un-Americanism" investigation in California's Imperial valley and flew to Washington in answer to a Dies subpoena. His comment: "How strange . . . that a patriot can discuss openly and frankly the problems involving Irishmen, Italians and Germans . . . but let him mention any international 'isms' or Zionism and their increasing control of America, then he is attacked on all sides . . . even his life may be threatened."

ITALY:
Axis Breakup?

In 1914 the homeland of Julius Caesar broke its triple alliance with Germany and Austria-Hungary because Trentino and Trieste were not forthcoming. Next year Italy went to war on the side of the Allies. European history has a way of repeating itself; Benito Mussolini, who last year saw everything to gain in an alliance with Adolf Hitler, and who has just signed a 10-year "invincible" military pact with Germany, may well be floating helpless against a current he cannot buck. Plainly top-heavy, the Rome-Berlin axis nowadays gets most of its oratorical support from Nazidom; though Mussolini chimes in, almost every speech indicates he would like peace with democracies. Left unspoken are the reasons he fears the man he calls friend. Reasons:

(1) If Balkan Yugoslavia breaks up, the area inhabited by Slovenes is almost certain to be grabbed by Germany from its Austrian outpost, providing the Reich with an outlet to the Adriatic sea and thence to the Mediterranean. Much though Germany's friendship might be valued, Italy cannot afford to let Hitler become a Mediterranean power.

(2) Italians dislike Russians, but both in heritage and ambition Adolf Hitler's nation is like Soviet Russia. An allied Berlin and Moscow would control Europe, a possibility which grows less remote as German-hating Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov retires from office and both Hitler and Stalin cease shouting at one another. Such a pact would leave Italy in the cold.

(3) Strong though her Mediterranean position may be, Italy is still weaker than the combined fleets of France and Britain. Mussolini is also alarmed at recent Anglo-French gains in the Mediterranean, especially their pacts with Greece and Turkey. And though he counted on Spain as an ally against democracies, Mussolini finds Generalissimo Francisco Franco hobnobbing too affectionately with Germany to his own exclusion. Franco hobnobs also with French, Swiss and Dutch bankers, seeking a reconstruction loan neither Italy nor Germany can give. So far as Mussolini is concerned, the Iberian peninsula is a bigger question mark today than one year ago.

(4) Several times the past year Italy has risked war to help Hitler, first in Austria, next in Sudetenland, next in Czecho-Slovakia, then in Memel. Each time the home folks wondered what Italy would get in return, and after one solid year of such risks they have received nothing but barren Albania. If Hitler marches into Danzig and drags Italy into a futile war, Il Duce will risk internal blowup.

Such are possible reasons why French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet met Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano in Rome recently for amicable discussion on French-Italian trouble points. Since modern treaties apparently mean nothing, there is a good chance Italy might junk her new German pact for a settlement with France and Britain. Britain's reluctance to sign a treaty with Russia might be founded on the hope that Germany and the Soviet would get together, thereby alienating Italy.

BUSINESS:
Competition Wanted

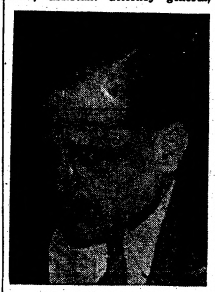
Under NRA the government forced industry into collusion, strict price levels being enforced to a point where competing bidders usually found their individually arrived-at quotations identical. But since NRA was invalidated identical quotations have often continued, providing Trust Buster Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, with what he terms prima facie evidence of collusion.



THURMAN ARNOLD

That a government which five years ago fostered collusion now fights it may seem inconsistent, yet a return to orthodox business philosophy has again made men believe that competition is the life of trade. Up before the house appropriations sub-committee, Trust Buster Arnold explained the justice department will need $520,000 more next fiscal year simply to carry on an anti-trust campaign which—after 40 years—"is just getting started."

No violent campaign is planned, Mr. Arnold explained, but five regional offices will be opened (New York, Atlanta, Chicago, Oklahoma City, San Francisco) and such nation-wide investigations as that of the oil industry will be co-ordinated. With individual actions at Madison, Wis., New York and on the Pacific coast, Mr. Arnold's oil inquiry will center on whether producers must not divest themselves of control of the retail filling stations, a practice he charges is collusive in that it holds up prices, stifling competition. Mr. Arnold on oil: "My point is that either we are going to have competition in the oil industry or if that is impossible it has got to go to congress for regulation—one of the two."

Big Tent Draws Favorable Verdict From Douglas

Army Engineers Build Footbridge in Eight Minutes

Rapid assembly of a footbridge across the channel of the Chesapeake and Delaware canal was demonstrated at Delaware City, Del., recently at the annual reunion of the First Engineers, U. S. army. ## Pretty Patterns That Are Oh So Practical!

SOMEWHAT formal, so that you can wear it smartly for shopping and runabout, is the wide-shouldered dress with buttons down the scalloped bodice and braid used to give the effect of a bolero. The circular skirt has a charming, animated swing to it. In batiste, linen or flat crepe, it's a dress you'll thoroughly enjoy all summer long.

Indispensable Slacks Suit.

If you're planning to have a lot of outdoor fun this summer (and of course you are) then a slacks suit is an indispensable part of your vacation wardrobe. This one includes a topper with front gathers that flatter your figure, well-cut, slim-hipped slacks, and a bolero with wide revers that you can wear with daytime frocks, too. Denim, gingham, flannel or gabardine are practical materials for this.

The Patterns.

No. 1741 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4⅝ yards of 35 inch material with nap. Three yards of braid.

No. 1750 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Size 14 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material for slacks and bolero; ¾ yard for topper.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Offers Practical Advice Regarding First Meal of the Day; Some Breakfast-Time Wisdom for Homemakers

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

IF THERE is one meal that can be regarded as more important than any other, that meal is breakfast. It comes after the longest fast and precedes a major portion of the day's work. Thirteen hours elapse between a 6:30 supper and a 7:30 breakfast, and the body engine requires a new supply of fuel before the daily activities are begun. Yet all too frequently this first meal is inadequate in food values, and is gobbled in haste . . . with consequences that may have a far-reaching effect upon health.

Men who set forth after a meager breakfast are licked before the day's work is started. They never seem to get into high gear and they lack the energy to perform their tasks efficiently. Homemakers who find themselves fatigued and irritable before the morning's work is completed may be surprised to learn that their lassitude is due to a skimpy breakfast. And children who go to school after an insufficient morning meal cannot hope to make good grades in their studies. They fatigue quickly, find it difficult to concentrate and easily become cross. Moreover they are apt to experience hunger pangs during the middle of the morning; and when it is time for the noon meal they will either eat too much or will have lost their appetite, thus disrupting the entire food program.

Starting the Day Right

It is therefore essential that every homemaker recognize the necessity for providing a substantial and satisfying breakfast. This is not difficult to do; nor is it necessary to spend a great deal of time in its preparation.

When I hear such complaints as "My family won't eat breakfast" or "They're simply not interested in food in the morning," I suspect that the menus are dull and monotonous; and perhaps members of the household have the bad habit of sleeping so late that there is no time to eat properly.

Both situations are easily remedied, and they are closely linked. For if the breakfast menus are made sufficiently attractive, it won't be difficult to persuade every member of the family to rise a little earlier in order to enjoy a substantial, unhurried meal.

A Model Breakfast

A well balanced breakfast includes fruit or fruit juice; cereal; an egg or bacon; bread or toast; and milk, cocoa or cereal beverage for the children, with coffee for the grown-ups. The egg or bacon may be omitted occasionally, for an egg may be included in some other meal during the day. But cereal in some form is usually the mainstay of the breakfast menu, and there are many kinds from which to choose—both hot cereals and cold cereals.

Hot or Cold Cereal

Some people have the notion that cereals must be hot in order to be nourishing. This is a fallacy. For the nutritive value of a cereal is determined by the grain from which it is made and by the manufacturing process—not by whether it is hot or cold. It is desirable to give whole grain cereals a prominent place in the diet. This rule can be followed even when cold cereals are used. For there are many nourishing ready-to-eat cereals made from substantially the whole grain. These appeal to the palate because they are so crisp and appetizing. And they supply important minerals, a good amount of vitamin B and some vitamin G, in addition to energy values.

It's interesting to analyze a popular ready-to-eat cereal, made from wheat and malted barley. We find a wide assortment of nutrients, including protein, energy values, phosphorus for the teeth and bones; iron for building rich red blood; and vitamin B which promotes appetite and aids digestion. It has been estimated that a serving of this cereal—three-fourths of a cup—with one-fourth cup of whole milk, will provide an adult with 7 per cent of his total daily requirement of protein; 11.5 per cent of his calcium, 11.2 per cent of his phosphorus; 9.75 per cent of his iron, and a total of 125 calories.

Vary the Method of Serving

To help make breakfast interesting, vary the cereal from day to day. Or offer a choice of several kinds of packaged ready-to-eat cereals and allow each member of the family to select the one he prefers. Vary the fruit also. And occasionally you may combine fresh, canned or stewed fruit with cereals to make a "cereal sundae." Further variation may be introduced by using brown sugar or honey in place of white sugar. And on occasion the cereals may be baked into muffins, waffles or pancakes.

It is also possible to serve the eggs in many different forms—poached, baked, scrambled or in a plain or puffy omelet.

If these suggestions are followed, it should be a simple matter for homemakers to serve tempting wholesome breakfasts that will send their families away from the table well fitted for the day's activities.

ASK ME ANOTHER ?

A Quiz With Answers Offering Information on Various Subjects

The Questions

1. What is an alliteration?
2. Claustrophobia is the fear of what?
3. Can anything that has been done be undone?
4. What is the largest number used?
5. What is the date of the flood in the Bible?
6. Is brass mined?
7. What is the difference between being interested and curious?
8. Is there any soda in soda water?
9. Are there any of the books of the Bible in which God is not mentioned?

The Answers

1. The recurrence of the same sounds at the beginning of two or more words in a sentence in close succession, as: "An Austrian army, awfully arrayed, Boldly by battery besieged Belgrade."
2. Confined spaces.
3. Try unscrambling an egg.
4. A vigintillion is the highest figure listed in numeration and consists of a numeral followed by 63 noughts.
5. According to Hebrew chronology, the deluge destroyed the earth in 2348 B. C.
6. No. Brass is an alloy of copper and zinc, which are mined.
7. Being interested means to have attention aroused. Curious is generally used to mean a desire to learn that which does not concern one.
8. No. It is properly called carbonated water.
9. The words "God," "Lord" and "Almighty" are not mentioned in the book of Esther, nor is the deity so much as alluded to in that portion of the Old Testament. The deity is not specifically mentioned in the Song of Solomon, but that book is symbolical and the deity is continually alluded to. "God," under one name or another, occurs in all the other books of the Bible.

AROUND the HOUSE — Items of Interest to the Housewife

When Burning Vegetable Refuse.—Put a handful of salt with the rubbish. This will prevent any unpleasant odor.

* * *

Coffee [illegible]s.—Remove from silks or woolens by soaking them in pure glycerine. Wash off in tepid, soapless water.

* * *

Use for Newspapers.—Save plenty of clean newspapers for the moth season. Moths loathe printer's ink, so you'll find the papers useful when woolies and blankets have to be stored away.

* * *

When Making a Fruit Tart.—Mix a little cornflour with the sugar before adding it to the fruit. This will make the juice like syrup and prevent it from boiling over.

* * *

Polishing Tip.—Wring out your polishing cloth in a pint of water in which a piece of whitening, about the size of a walnut, has been dissolved. Use when dry. This gives a splendid polish to mirrors, brass, and chromium.

* * *

For Discolored Handkerchiefs.—Handkerchiefs that have become a bad color should be soaked for 24 hours in a quart of cold water to which a teaspoonful of cream of tartar has been added. Afterwards rinse and dry.

* * *

Chocolate Substitute.—When using cocoa in place of chocolate, use three and one-half tablespoonfuls of cocoa for each ounce of chocolate, and add one-half tablespoonful butter.

* * *

Use for Lumpy Sugar.—Lumpy sugar will make a simple syrup good for sweetening if put in water and heated. A few drops of vanilla may be added.

* * *

Cane Cleaner.—Wicker or cane garden armchairs if dusty or dirty after being stored away during the winter, should be scrubbed with strong soda water and then rinsed and left to dry in wind or sun. This will tighten up sagging seats as well as clean them.

The hero of the story that has been making the rounds is a prominent businessman who had the bad luck to be bitten by a mad dog. He was rushed to the hospital for the Pasteur treatment.

While the antirabies serum was being prepared, the attending physician noticed that the patient was very busy making out a long list of names, and he asked:

"Are those the names of the people you wish to be notified if your condition should become serious?"

"No," said the victim. "This is a list of people that I'm going to bite if I go mad."—Boston Post.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT REMEDY FOR DIET DISEASE OF STOCK

CHICAGO.—Restoration of depleted farm land by the use of chemical fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash not only increases crop yields, but helps remedy deficiency disease among livestock caused by a lack of necessary mineral elements in their feed.

Animals reflect the composition of their feeds, observes W. A. Albrecht of the Missouri College of Agriculture, and these in turn reflect the composition or available nutrient supplies of the soils on which they are grown. He declared:

"Animals will persistently graze closely in one area of a pasture while scarcely touching grass in another spot. When confined to soils whose fertility has been depleted, their judgment cannot be exercised and they may become the victims of some deficiency disease."

One of the most frequent and costly diseases acquired by animals fed on land deficient in necessary minerals is "Pica." Cattle suffering this disease have a tendency to chew bones and gnaw wood. Other symptoms are loss of weight, generally unthrifty condition, stiffness in hind quarters and at times in the front quarters, brittle bones that are easily broken, dull eyes and harshness of coat.

On farms where such a mineral deficiency exists in the soil, the use of a fertilizer containing phosphorus lime and potash is recommended by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee as a means of providing the necessary elements to restore the land and provide the plant foods so essential to the diet of livestock.

ARE YOU ONLY A 3/4 WIFE?

MEN because they are men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness for three weeks of the month—but a hell-cat the fourth.

And make up your mind men never will understand. There are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood into womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and go "smiling through." Over a million women have written in reporting benefit. Why not give this world-famous medicine a chance to help YOU?

Rev. and Mrs. Hanson attended a farewell party for Rev. and Mrs. P. B. Trelstad at Middle River Tuesday afternoon.

Notice of Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Holt Holding Company will be held at the Elevator Office, Holt, Minnesota, on June 6th, 1939 at 2 p. m. for the purpose of electing a board of directors and to transact any other business that may come before the meeting.

Dated May 25, 1939.

In trains such as this, the great bulk of the products of the Northwest move to distant markets. Railroads alone can perform this job. It follows that the nearer these railroad facilities are used to their full capacity, the lower can be the charges.

Ol' Man River

Spokesmen for river transportation interests have been appearing before the Senate Committee to protest against regulating river transportation. This has afforded the Committee an opportunity to attempt to uncover some of the much-talked-about public benefits from this lavishly subsidized form of transportation.

What the Committee has brought to light can be summed up in a few words:

The farmers of the Northwest are getting no benefit from the millions of tax dollars that are being spent on such waterways as the Upper Mississippi and the Missouri. It is unlikely that they ever will. Consumers are in the same boat. Whatever "benefits" there are, are "pocketed" by the actual users of the waterways—who are neither farmers nor consumers.

The prices paid to farmers for what they grow naturally will continue to be based on the cost of transportation to markets by railroad, simply because the great bulk of their products must continue to be transported to those markets by railroad.

Gasoline, farm implements and most other commodities that are brought to the Northwest by river—mainly at the taxpayers' expense—are sold to the taxpayers at the same price as though they had been transported by railroad.

Nor does this injustice to the farmer and consumer end there. For as less business is left to the railroads, the expense of maintaining and operating them must be provided for by the business that must continue to be moved by railroad.

For these reasons, the demands of the river transportation interests are of vital concern to you.

Paying no tolls and for the most part no taxes, and depending upon your taxes to deepen and maintain sluggish, silt-filled channels, build huge dams, construct and operate locks—the spokesmen for river transportation demand that there shall be no liberalization of the regulation of the railroads, and that no similar regulation be applied to river transportation!

The railroads, for themselves and in behalf of those whom they serve, ask that all kinds of transportation be treated alike with respect to regulation, taxation and subsidies. This is one of the important issues before the present session of the Congress of the United States.

Northern Pan Fish Season

June 21 marks the opening of the bass, crappie, and sunfish season in the northern zone, and with this date all of the state firhing seasons are on and fishermen need no longer study the maps to see if they are in open or closed territory for taking some fish.

The only restrictions are those in existence as to limits of fish and methods of taking them, and that no fishing is permitted in posted areas that have been set aside for spawning. In many lakes, some bays and other sections have been designated as spawning areas for the nest building fish to act as feeders for the balance of the lake, and connected water.

Protecting these areas is recognized as one of the most valuable and effective methods of propagating bass and crappies particularly, because the male of these species lies over the nest protecting it, while the eggs are incubating. During this period the male will attach anything including lures. If he is taken, the entire nest of eggs is wasted.

Meanwhile with lake levels better than they have been in a number of years, fishing in most Minnesota waters is reported to be good.

Ice Cream Social June 18

A group of young people who are planning on attending Lake of the Woods Bible Camp met at Nazareth Lutheran Church on Monday evening to plan for an Ice Cream Social to be held on Sunday evening, June 18th. It will be held on the church lawn. Proceeds will go to the benefit of those who attend from here and will assist them in paying for their Camp Week.

More definite announcements will be made in the News next week. From an early survey, there is an indication that there will be 20 or more young people attending this summer.

At Marshall County Fair

Thrill packed entertainment produced by the world's greatest aggregation of daredevils, Jimmie Lynch's Death Dodgers, will feature the Marshall County Fair in Warren on Wednesday, July 5, according to Oliver M. Mattson, secretary.

Coming here direct from the New York World's Fair where all performers of this unusual troupe were schooled in the art of daredeviltry by Jimmie Lynch himself, the attraction promises to attract record breaking throngs. Frank R. Winkley, veteran thrill producer, will be in charge of the program here, and he has sent word that many new and unique features will be attempted by expert drivers in stock sedans.

"Lynch has trained a crew of capable drivers for me, and I feel certain we will give the patrons ot this fair two hours of breath taking entertainment," Winkley said. "Lynch spent hours personally with each driver and he has turned over more than $25,000 worth of automobiles, trucks and properties to insure the success of this program.

"Our programs will be varied with mirth provoking clowns to relieve the tension between the feats of the Death Dodgers. All men will be neatly uniformed, and patrons of this fair may be assured of an opportunity to see the highest type of thrill entertainment," Winkley said.

The Death Dodgers program will include such startling features as deliberate crash rolls with stock sedans, multiple high ski bumping with sedans, Roman ski jumping with sedans, head-on collision, the new and very daring aerial crashes, fire wall crashes and spectacular slides for life through blazing gasoline.

Celebrate Wedding Anniversary

About 150 people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Larson on Sunday to help them celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary. A program was given after which a delicious lunch was served by the self invited guests. The honored couple received a cash purse as a remembrance of the occasion.

Center of attraction was a three tiered cake baked by Mrs. J. Benitt and Martha Holst.

Relatives from Honeyford N. D. who attended were Mrs. K. Larson, George, Henry, Minnie and Mathilda Larson.

Rev. Hanson delivered the Commencement Address at the graduation exercises of the Middle River High School on Thursday evening of last week.

Nohre-Starr Wedding

At a beautiful candlelight wedding service at the Nazareth Lutheran Church on Sunday evening Miss Ethel Nohre became the bride of Mr. Robert Starr. The service was read by Rev. T. C. L. Hanson at 9 o'clock. Large candlrbras of lighted tall white candles, ferns and flowers at the Altar and candles in the windows furnished the setting for the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Gertrude, as maid of honor and a close friend, Miss Ruby Johnson of Duluth as bridesmaid. The groom was attend by Mr. Charles Marsh as best man, and Mr. Richard Jacobson, both of Delhi, Minn. as groomsman.

Miss Helen Reierson of Thief River Falls played a half hour of piano music before the ceremony. To the strains of the wedding march the bride and the attendants entered the church. Miss Nohre was escorted by her father who gave her in marriage at the altar, where they were met by the groom who entered from the sacristy. Serving as ushers were Mr. Harold Nohre, brother of the bride and Mr. Henry Nohre, cousin of the bride.

Allan Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larson, was ring-bearer and carried the ring on a yellow pillow. The flower-girl, Marilyn Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson of Wylie, wore a green silk dress and scattered flowers from a basket of sweet peas and baby breath.

The bride's dress was of white satin with long sleeves with inserted lace and a long train. She wore a trailing veil of white net fastened to a headdress of gems. She carried a boquet of Talisman roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Gertrude Nohre wore a floor-length pink silk chiffon dress and carried an arm boquet of mixed flowers. Miss Johnson wore a gown of floor-length net over taffeta and silver slippers, and a corsage of mixed flowers.

After the vows were spoken and as the couple were kneeling at the alter Marvin Sandberg sang "O Perfect Love". At the close of the ceremony, Miss Bernus Larson of Thief River Falls sang "I Love You Truly".

A reception was given by the brides parents at the church parlors where approximately 60 guests were present. A two course lunch was served. A wedding cake beautifully decorated had been baked for the occasion by Mrs. Louis Larson of Roseau. The color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in all the decorations at the reception. Waitresses were Misses Ruth Bottem, Eleanor and Lorna Peterson and Cleo Peterson who all wore yellow aprons and hair bows.

The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre is a graduate of the local school and of Lincoln High School at Thief River Falls.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Starr of Delhi, Minnesota.

The young couple will make their home near Delhi where the groom is engaged in farming.

Recovers Lost Bible

Bird Island -- When William L. Shore of Bird Island went to war in 1918, his mother gave him a small Bible which he took with him. He was stationed in the trenches at the Meuse Argonne and during that time became ill with the flu and was returned to a hospital behind the lines. Upon being taken to the hospital, his bible was lost and after his recovery when Bill returned to the front lines no trace of the bible could be found. On January 5th, the following year, a soldier of Cambridge, Mass., happened upon the treasured book and turned it over to Captain McElrey of Watertown, Mass., and since 1919 the latter has been trying to get in touch with the owner of the Bible. This week he succeeded in locating Mr. Shore because, inscribed in the Bible was tbe wording, "William Lawrence Shore, Bird Island' Minn. July 14, 1918 -- From Mother." A few years after the war the Shore family moved to Minneapolis but they were well remembered in Bird Island and the bible was directed to its owner.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

See Hope for League Rebirth Under New Russ-British Pact; Must Get Rid of Avenol First

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

INTERNATIONAL:
Rebirth?

Once the white hope of world peace, Geneva's League of Nations buildings are today what one correspondent calls "a stately mausoleum haunted by the ghosts of braver men." In its heyday the League stood for collective security, later watching Japan, Italy and Germany drift away without enforcing the covenant's spirit because such action might "divide Europe into ideological blocs."

Chief reason for League doldrums is its management. A carbon copy of Great Britain's current appeasement cabinet is Secretary-General Joseph A. C. Avenol, who in recent years has filed the machinery of collective security under lock and key.

Black marks on the League's record include Manchuria, Ethiopia, Spain and China. Each succumbed amid ineffectual, insincere League sanctions which were enforced against aggressor nations only if individual signatories found it "convenient." By this spring Mr. Avenol's back-tracking generalship reached a new low. When Albania protested its seizure by Italy, the secretary "forgot" to circulate its SOS among signatories. There was no reprimand, and at its May meeting Mr. Avenol prevented Russia's ambassador to Great Britain, Ivan Maisky, from reading a letter of protest against Czecho-Slovakia's seizure. At the same time he got the council to postpone any discussion of Albania until next September.

LEAGUE'S AVENOL
He "forgot" Albania's plea.

However, even as the League grows more decadent under Avenol leadership, hope rises for a rebirth of its collaboration machinery. Never a word-mincer, Soviet Russia has enough dislike for powder-puff diplomacy to force Britain and France—the League's other two leaders—into rejuvenating Geneva's halls under the new British-French-Russian mutual aid pact. First hopeful sign is the new treaty's goal of preserving European peace. Second sign: It has been communicated to the League and will possibly operate under the League covenant. But a prerequisite to any such rebirth would be the retirement of Mr. Avenol, whose job rests secure so long as the Chamberlain-Halifax-Hoare-Simon quartet rules Britain.

BUSINESS:
Middleman

Favorite butt of pro-chain store and pro-co-operative movements has been the wholesaler, who in popular notion is excess baggage in the U. S. distribution system. If the middleman could be eliminated, many believe, a bar of soap or pound of coffee would cost John Public substantially less.

To test this theory, New York's Twentieth Century Fund broke down the $38,500,000,000 which U. S. consumers paid in distribution costs for their merchandise during the peak year of 1929. Individual figures and percentages of the distribution cost:

|---|---|---|
| Wholesalers .... | (18%) | $ 7,000,000,000 |
| Retailers ...... | (33%) | 12,600,000,000 |
| Manufacturers | (24%) | 9,100,000,000 |
| Transportation | (23%) | 8,800,000,000 |
| Miscellaneous | ( 2%) | 1,000,000,000 |

Basic conclusions were that wholesalers did not earn excessive profits in 1929 (groceries, 1.3 per cent; confectioneries, 2.2 per cent; dry goods, 2.7 per cent), and that they remain an essential link in the distribution machine.

DOMESTIC:
Un-Americanism

To freedom-loving but undemonstrative U. S. patriots, the trouble with anti-Communist organizations is that they are pro-Fascist. Conversely, anti-Fascist groups (like the American League for Peace and Democracy) are more interested in promoting Communism than fighting Fascism.

When he began investigating un-Americanism last year, Texas' sincere Rep. Martin Dies won deserved criticism for letting his committee listen indiscriminately to anyone with an ax to grind. But thanks to Martin Dies the U. S. has become acutely aware of "isms" pounding on its doors.

Biggest threat, inspired by Italo-German success and fostered by depression-made malcontents, are the U. S. Fascists. This spring Fascism reared its head when Mr. Dies revealed a strong anti-Jewish movement led by Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley retired anti-New Deal army officer; Dudley P. Gilbert, New York financier, and such Ku Klux Klannish groups as Knights of the White Camellias, led by George Deatherage of St. Albens, W. Va. Blandly admitting his anti-Semitic sentiments, General Moseley has promised shocking revelations concerning Jews in high places before the summer is over.

Greatest handicap to an impartial investigation of un-Americanism is the very stumbling block Mr. Dies encountered last autumn, namely, ax-grinding. Best example, though in this case probably popular with Mr. Dies, was the arrest of Fritz Kuhn, "Fuehrer" of the violently Nazi - German - American Bund, charged with grand larceny and forgery in shortages of $15,000 from Bund funds. Overlooking the fact that Kuhn participated in Hitler's Munich putsch in 1923, has organized 94 active Bund branches and has done nothing to merit confidence of the U. S., critics looked suspiciously (though probably unfairly) at the two men responsible for his arrest. New York's Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia might have realized his many Jewish constituents would relish any anti-Nazi move. New York's District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, a potential G. O. P. presidential candidate, could expect excellent publicity from the case.

FUEHRER KUHN
". . . a lot of nonsense."

Said Mr. Dewey: "The indictment shows Kuhn is just a common thief." Answered Fuehrer Kuhn "It's a lot of nonsense."

SCIENCE:
Probing Atlanta

Long before the Revolutionary war St. James was a thriving capital of St. Kitts island, sometimes called Nevis, located in the Lesser Antilles southeast of Puerto Rico. In 1680 an earthquake dropped St. Kitts and its St. James 300 feet below the sea. This summer an expedition led by Detroit's Capt. Robert Hall plans to walk along St. James' submerged streets in one of science's most unusual expeditions. Connected with the surface only by a small telephone wire, divers will wear new helium-equipped suits which need no lifeline to compressed air machines on deck. Last year Captain Hall made similar experiments in the Lesser Antilles, examining submerged shipwrecks in crystal-clear tropical waters.

RUBBER—J. M. Slattery, Fisk tire executive, predicts 50 per cent increase in world rubber consumption during next 10 years. Items: Sponge cushions and mattresses, cushions for railroad tracks, traffic markers, flooring, furniture, packaging materials, plastics and latex garments.

GASOLINE—In 1938, U. S. gasoline consumption was 1 per cent above the previous year, although motor vehicle registrations were 1 per cent less than 1937.

JEWS—A new Berlin ghetto decree places still more drastic restrictions on areas to be inhabited by "non-Aryans."

GERMANY:
Ole Man River

Prussian army men are notoriously scrupulous about detail and lax about fundamental principles. In 1914 they made certain that every soldier's equipment was precise, yet overlooked French stubbornness. In 1938 they built amazingly perfect fortifications along the Rhine river, yet forgot that every 10 to 15 years the stream is subject to abnormal floods. Result: Unexpectedly one night a few days after Adolf Hitler visited the Limes lines, German soldiers fled their fortifications in the face of rising flood waters. A few days later news leaked out that a great stock of ammunition was lost and that the forts must be entirely rebuilt.

GERMANY'S LIMES LINES
Water did what weapons couldn't.

More fortunate were Frenchmen on the Rhine's other bank, who discovered their fortress engineers had anticipated the seven-foot rise.

Results of the inundation: (1) Germany will probably be stalemated against aggression until next fall, knowing the world knows of her vital weakness along the Rhine; (2) France began pondering how to produce artificial floods in the Rhine, paralyzing the Reich's first line of defense in case of war.

CHILE:
Next?

If the U. S. wants solidarity among Pan-American nations, she must pay for it. Such is the view of South and Central American countries who could get all the trade concessions they want from bartering Italy and Germany if Washington did not play ball. Last November, Cuba's Dictator Fulgencio Batista visited President Roosevelt. A few days later handsome concessions were announced. This spring Brazil's Foreign Minister Oswaldo Arahna came a-visiting, also winning concessions. Next came Nicaragua's President-Dictator Anastasio Somoza, who went away with $2,000,000 in credits. A few days later from far-away Santiago came the announcement that a Chilean economic commission will visit Washington in July seeking a loan and commercial credits. Far from being gifts, however, U. S. financial arrangements with Pan-American nations decrease American dependency on European and Asiatic nations and often provide new outlets for domestic surpluses.

NAVY:
Statistics

Significant and fearsome is a U. S. peacetime naval construction program bigger than any in history. With a $773,000,000 building appropriation on its hands, with 74 vessels already underway, and with 23 new contracts about to be let, the fleet's current status is something like this:

| Type of Vessel | In commission | Under construction | Appropriated for |
|---|---|---|---|
| Battleships | 15 | 6 | 2 |
| Heavy Cruisers | 17 | 1 | 0 |
| Light Cruisers | 17 | 8 | 2 |
| Aircraft Carriers | 5 | 2 | 0 |
| Destroyers | 218 | 35 | 8 |
| Submarines | 87 | 12 | 8 |
| Auxiliary | 107 | 12 | 3 |

Primary emphasis in the new program will be on capital ships, 15 such battlewagons already being in service. On the way are two more, the 35,000-ton North Carolina and Washington. About to be started are the South Dakota, Indiana, Massachusetts and Alabama. Two more, 45,000-tonners and larger than anything afloat, will be started under current appropriations. None of the eight battleships will be ready before 1945 or 1946.

COMING UP

JUNE 15—Justice Edgar J. Lauer of New York Supreme court, whose wife was convicted and sentenced for smuggling, to resign.

JUNE 15 — Semi-annual war debt payments due. Last December 14, of 13 governments owing $2,051,707,241 (of which $1,891,489,906 was in arrears), only Finland paid in full as usual, $232,935. Hungary made part payment of $9,828.16.

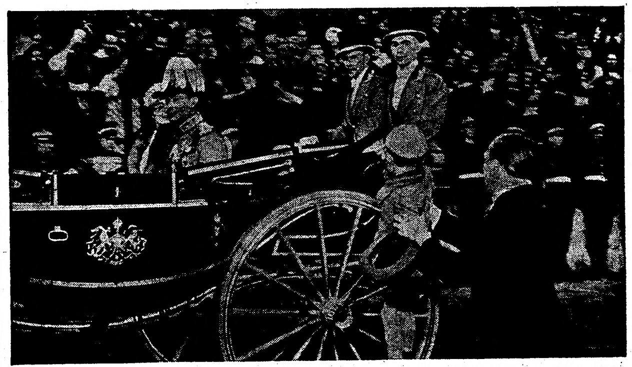
JUNE 23—Paul V. McNutt, U. S. high commissioner to Philippines and former Indiana governor, to arrive at San Francisco and open campaign for Democratic presidential nomination.

Youth Gets Close-Up View of England's Rulers



An admirer of the royal couple made sure his little son would get a view of King George and Queen Elizabeth as they drove through the streets of Ottawa in an open carriage. He broke through the ever-present guard and lifted the lad carriage-high so he might better see the empire's rulers. Thousands of wildly cheering citizens acclaimed the king and queen wherever they visited. This is the first time England's monarchs have visited either Canada or the United States.

Crown Prince Olav Close Second in Yacht Race

Puzzle: Find Your Congressman

Members of congress are typical New York World's fair-goers if this picture of more than 100 representatives and their families is evidence. They held a "special session" in a fair stadium to goggle at the daredevil demonstrations of Jimmie Lynch and his automobile death-dodgers. The camera wielding congressman at the left is not reporting for the Congressional Record.

RESCUE CHIEF

Admiral C. W. Cole, commandant of the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard, ordered the submarine Sculpin to try to make the first contact with the submerged Squalus when it went down with 62 men off White island on the New Hampshire coast. The Sculpin discovered a red smoke distress signal on the water's surface.

First Close-Up Picture of Giant Mirror

For the first time since work started on the 200-inch mirror for the giant Mount Palomar telescope, a photographer gained admission to the lens room at the California Institute of Technology and obtained this striking "close-up" of the huge mirror. Center of the mirror shows a 40½-inch hole through the glass, plugged temporarily for polishing convenience, through which the gathered light may be reflected from an auxiliary mirror to the Cassegrain focus beneath the 200-inch mirror.

CONSUMER'S VIEWPOINT

The laywoman's point of view was expressed to the national economic committee in Washington recently by Mrs. Alice S. Belester, Chicago housewife, who testified regarding kinds of advertising which would best suit the interests of consumers.

Home Sewn Aids To Summer Beauty

ADD variety and color, as well as smartness, to your summer wardrobe by making the charming accessory set in gay printed cottons like linen, pique or gingham. It's very easy to do—even the gloves, which have the new, roomy, blunt fingers. Your pattern (1643), includes a step-by-step sew chart that tells you exactly what to do.

This princess dress for afternoons is exactly what you want for hot summer days. This style (1752) is refreshingly simple, and it has a beautifully smooth, slim figure-line, upped sleeves, and a square neckline dipped in the front to make it more becoming. The frills at the neckline, sleeve edges and foot of the skirt, make this dress very feminine and flower-like. And it's so easy! The dress itself practically puts itself together, and the frills can be sewn in, in no time! Linen, voile, silk print organdy or flat crepe are pretty materials for this.

The Patterns.

No. 1643 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2⅓ yards of 36-inch material for jacket; ⅓ yard for gloves, and ⅛ yard contrast; 1⅛ yards for scarf; ⅝ yard for bag.

No. 1752 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 takes 4¾ yards of 39-inch material; 4¾ yards of pleating or ruffling.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Right Colors for Curtains and Slipcovers.

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I have your Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator, and the directions for slipcovers are so clear in the sketches that I have decided to cover my living room furniture which consists of a davenport, a club chair and a wing chair. I would like to have your suggestions for colors for these and for curtains."

With this letter there was a detailed description of the rug in the room. There have been a good many letters of this type lately, so I am showing you here how to analyze the colors in a figured rug and use them as a guide in planning a room.

It is not important that the rug color scheme be followed exactly, but do make a little chart of the rug colors as shown here at the left. If you do not wish to repeat the background color for your walls, use a pale tone of one of the other colors. A stronger tone of any color in the rug may become your accent color.

NOTICE: Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator, and No. 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroideries, are now 15 cents each, or both books for 25 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders immediately, as no more copies will be available, when the present supply is exhausted. Your choice of the QUILT LEAFLET illustrating 36 authentic patchwork stitches; or the RAG RUG LEAFLET, will be included with orders for both books for the present, but the offer may be withdrawn at any time. Leaflets are six cents each when ordered separately.

Everyone should have copies of these two books containing 96 How to Sew articles by Mrs. Spears, that have not appeared in the paper. Send your order at once to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

ASK ME ANOTHER ?

A Quiz With Answers Offering Information on Various Subjects

The Questions

1. How many days in a fortnight?
2. Of what country are the following the emblem: the thistle, the shamrock, the maple leaf, the lily?
3. Which is heavier, a pint of cream or a pint of milk?
4. What is a counterpane?
5. Does an electric light bulb shine or glow?
6. Are a turtle and a tortoise the same?
7. What does the title "Mona Lisa" mean?
8. How many Shetland islands are there?
9. Are passports required when flying to foreign countries?
10. Where in the Bible does it say that a woman should not whistle?

The Answers

1. Fourteen.
2. Scotland, Ireland, Canada, France.
3. A pint of milk. The cream floats to the top of the milk.
4. A coverlet for a bed. Originally stitched or woven in figures.
5. Both. Glow means to shine with intense heat.
6. Strictly speaking, turtle means members of the order which live in water, and tortoise, members which live on land.
7. Mona is an abbreviation for madonna (my lady). Lisa is a proper name.
8. There are more than a hundred, but only one-fourth of them are inhabited. All are very small.
9. Yes.
10. There is no verse in the Bible relating to a prohibition of a woman's whistling. The reference may be to the old English proverb: "A whistling woman, a crowing hen is neither fit for gods nor men." The origin is unknown.

Perhaps the Darky's Ducks Were Storks

A salesman was rattling along a country road in Tennessee, when he came to a ford. A Negro was standing by the little stream where some ducks were swimming. The salesman said: "Can I get through the creek with this car all right?"

"Yes, suh, drive right through."

The salesman, thus encouraged, drove into the stream, only to find that the water was so deep that it flooded his engine. He and his companion had to get out into the stream with the cold water up to their armpits and push the car to the bank.

The salesman turned and said: "What do you mean by telling me that I could drive through that creek?"

"Well, boss, I never knew dat water was so deep. It only comes half-way up on my ducks!"

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Hot Weather Hint.—Take advantage of the cool night air to stay the heat the next day. Leave all windows open in your house at night except those closed for safety. Early in the morning close all doors and windows and keep this cool air in, and the hot air out.

• • •

Use for Newspapers.—Put a thick layer of newspapers under your carpets. Moths will then give them a wide berth, and your carpets will have the tread of a soft pile. Moreover, the layer of paper will prevent dust working up from the floor into the floor covering.

• • •

Turnip Sauce.—Here is a splendid substitute for horseradish sauce. Scrape a white turnip very finely. Make some mustard with vinegar. Mix the two and add a little salt and pepper.

• • •

Hair Hint.—Lemon juice added to the rinsing water will help to preserve the color of fair hair and also make it bright and glossy.

• • •

Shellacking Chairs.—A coat of clear shellac over the seats of rush-bottom chairs will greatly prolong their lives and keep the reed from splitting.

• • •

About Cedar Chests.—Remember cedar chests will not kill moths or their eggs. But if the garment is put into the cedar chest free of eggs and larvae, it will never become damaged from moths.

• • •

Mustard on Sandwiches.—When using mustard or any piquant sauce for sandwiches, mix it with the butter before spreading on the bread. This ensures even distribution.

• • •

To Clean Pewter.—Wash the articles in hot water with a paste made of soft soap and powdered pumice stone. Then polish with a cloth or chamois leather.

TON OF FERTILIZER PER FARM IS U. S. AVERAGE

CHICAGO.—Use of chemical fertilizer in the United States has increased 400 per cent in the past fifty years, yet the consumption today averages slightly more than a ton per farm for the entire country, a report of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee says.

"In 1888 American farms used in addition to manure about 1,800,000 tons of commercial fertilizer," the report sets forth. "In 1938 the consumption of fertilizer was estimated at 7,200,000 tons, or about one and one-tenth tons per farm.

"Fifty years ago the average ton of mixed fertilizer contained only 13.8 per cent of plant food, as against 18.5 per cent now. Thus the average retail price of a unit of plant food was nearly 50 per cent lower in 1938 than it was in 1888."

"Spread" Between Chicago and Interior Markets Fluctuates Daily

The little pigs pictured above are learning that the "Spread" or "Difference" between prices paid for hogs at the Chicago central market and at interior markets in Southern Minnesota and Iowa is not a fixed amount determined by freight rates and other marketing costs. For, if this were true, the interior price line (shown at the bottom of the shaded area) would be a straight line.

As the chart shows, the difference between Chicago top and average interior top prices fluctuates from day to day, and, during the twelve months' period shown, has varied between the two extremes of 10 cents to 65 cents per cwt. below the Chicago market.

In this connection, Misc. Publication 222, "The Direct Marketing of Hogs," published by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, states: "There is no fixed relationship between prices at any market and prices at other public markets or at interior points. Data shows that a rise or a decline in hog prices is as likely to appear first at interior markets as at public markets. Although there is a close relationship between prices quoted at some markets and prices at other markets, no one market actually determines the price for hogs sold at other markets in this area. The equilibrium of the composite supply and composite demand at all markets marks the level of hog prices."

Data shown in the chart was furnished by the Federal Market News Service of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, and is based on top hog prices paid at Chicago and the average top hog prices paid at interior packing houses and concentration points in Iowa and Southern Minnesota for 220 to 250 pound butcher hogs.

Better Breakfasts

BETTER breakfasts make for better day's work—especially in straw hat season. July breakfasts should be light, yes; they should, however, be nourishing. The reason for this is because at the same time old Sol is putting iron in your system, he is helping you to burn up energy —and it must be constantly replaced. Try this breakfast, some fine morning; for it's not only delicious—it's horse-sense.

Bran Nut Muffins: Sift together one cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder and two tablespoons sugar, then add one cup bran. Add two well-beaten eggs, one cup diluted evaporated milk and six tablespoons melted butter. Mix thoroughly and add one-half cup chopped nuts. Bake in well-greased muffin tins in a hot—400 degree—oven for about twenty minutes.

A Word About Coffee

Be sure that you get coffee with the full flavor and aroma, vacuum-packed in cans. Use plenty of coffee and cook it quickly, because depending upon cooking to secure the desired strength of your coffee results in decidedly poor coffee. In serving, use either thick cream or hot milk. Keep on hand evaporated milk which makes a rich delicious addition to coffee.*

Ninth District Picnic Sunday

Over a thousand Democrats and Farmer-Laborites are expected at a large joint picnic sponsored by the 9th District Democratic Organization at the city park and lake pavalion in Detroit Lakes on Sunday, June 18th at 1:30 p. m. This is an opening move looking toward a merger of the two parties before the 1940 campaign. 9th District Democrats have already adopted a resolution asking that Farmer-Laborites be accorded one-half the memberships on each state and county committee if the Farmer-Labor Party changes its name to the "Democratic Party" pursuant to law.

Speakers will include Democratic State Chairman Joseph Moonan, Paul A. Rasmussen, former state budget commissioner, John E. Regan, severat times Democratic Candidate for governor, Farmer-Labor and Democratic county and district chairmen. A 35 piece concert orchestra and 125 voice chorus will be in attendance.

Larson-Sagstuen Wedding

In the presence of immediate relatives at the home of her parents on Friday evening at 8:30, Miss Vivian Larson became the bride of Louis Sagstuen. Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiated at the single ring ceremony. The bride wore a floor length gown of white embroidered net over satin.

The attendant were Miss Marian Larson, sister of the bride Mr. Raymond Sagstuen, brother of the groom. The bridesmaid wore a gown of pale blue silk.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Larson and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludvig Sagstuen. The newlyweds are well known in this community. They will make their home in Holt where Mr. Sagstuen is employed at the Carlson Merc. Co.

Harlan Gunheim returned here this week from Minneapolis where he spent a week.

Mixing Grasshopper Bait

WPA and county crews are working twenty-four hours per day endeavering to keep ahead of the township demand for grasshopper bait. To date, 35 carloads of materials have been mixed at the Argyle plant. Much difficulty has been encountered because of a shortage of available WPA help; however, the county commissioners have provided labor on county time in an effort to supply townships with bait.

Materials are nearly exhaustad. Twenty-eight carloads were ordered on June 3 and should arrive in the county in a few days. In addition, 16 carloads were ordered shipped on June 9.

Much bait is being wasted in that two much bait is being spread. Bait spreaders should be set so as to spread not more than 10 to 20 pounds wet bait per acre. Bait should be spread early in the morning on clear days when the temperature ranges from 65 to 85 degrees. These are the conditions under which the grasshoppers feed. There should be sufficient moisture in bait to attract hoppers.

Abrahamson Champion Shearer

Greenbush, Minn. June 10.—Thousands of enthusiastic rheep raisers thronged this little village today to listen to experts from the University gave talks and demonstrations on the best ways of handling sheep and also to witness the first sheep shearing contest under International Rule, ever held in Minnesota. This Sheep Day was put on by the Greenbush Unit of the Farm Bureau.

Chester Abrahamson of Lancaster won first place in the big Shearing Contest with a score of 95¾ points, taking only two minutes and forty seconds to shear his sheep. Henry Chouinard of Euclid was a close second with 95½ points and took only two minutes and thirty-five seconds to shear his sheep. He lost out however in some of the other points of the judging.

Anton Carlson of Marshall, Minn., was tbird with 94½ points and R. G. Fenske of Rochester and Peter Schires of Greenbush, tied for fourth place with a score of 90½ points each.

All the shearing was done on large pure-bred Hampshire sheep. Wm. E. Morris of the University and F. E. Bartlett of Chicago were the judges. These two men also conducted the demonstrations in the morning and gave talks on the best methods of handling and raising good sheep.

A special feature of the day was an old fashioned shearing competition between two blade shearers, Harold Neilan of Farmington and Harold Carroll of Red Lake Falls, which Carroll won with a score of 79.

Ice Cream Social June 18

The young people who are planning on attending the Lake of the Woods Bible Camp are sponsoring an Ice Cream Social on the lawn between the Church and the parsonage on Sunday evening. Serving will begin at 5 p. m. in the afternoon and continue throughout the evening. A very fine program is being prepared which will be rendered at about 8:15. Ice Cream, pop, candy, coffee, doughnuts, cake, and cookies will be served. Those who can to bring cake, cookies or doughnuts are asked to do so, as it will be of great help to those sponsoring this event. The entire proceeds will go to those who are to attend the Bible Camp next week.

The arranged program will be found in the church announcements of the Lutheran church.

Mrs. Miller who is making her home here with Mr. and Mrs. S. Lorentson, became ill last week and was taken to St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls Sunday.

Sanoden-Borchert Wedding

Miss Gladys Sanoden became the bride of Mr. Julius Borchert at a beautiful single ring ceremony at the brides home on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

The home had been decorated with rose and white streamers and garden flowers of irises and bridal wreath for the occasion.

The bride was attired in a dusty rose frook with a bolero of cutwork embroidery and wore white accessories and a corsage of pink and white sweetpeas.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson of Mentor. The bride's maid wore a beige suit with rose accessories. and a corsage of sweet peas.

The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sanoden, and is a graduate of the local High school and of the Mentor High school. She foremerely was organist for the Nazareth Lutheran church for eight years.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Borchert of Mentor and is a graduate of Mentor High school and has also attended the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks.

A two course luncheon was served following the ceremony by the bride's parents at which Mrs. Sanoden was hostess. A beautifully decorated wedding cake baked by Miss Emily Borchert centered the table which was set for seventeen guests. Those present besides the honored couple were: Mr. and Mrs. Sanoden, daughter Opal and son Russel, Rev. and Mrs. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. S. Lorentson and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson and family all of Holt; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Borchert, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson, Miss Emily Borchert of Mentor; Mr. and Mrs. L. Borchert and Mr. and Mrs. W. Borchert of Thief River Falls.

The newlyweds, after a generous shower of rice, left for a wedding trip to Detroit Lakes and other points. They will make their home near Mentor where the groom is engaged in farming.

Safetygrams

The Safety Man

Recently, a man wrote in and asked me whether all automobile drivers were bad drivers. We must remember that there are millions of good drivers compared to thousands of reckless ones. Approximately 25 percent of the driving public is responsible for all of the automobile accidents and the accompanying grief and suffering which is reported annually.

Seventy-five percent of the driving public does not have accidents.

However, it is necessary for the 75 percent that does not have accidents to be constantly alert because the constituents of the 25 percent that does report accidents is not permanent. In other words, the possibility of an accident is passed around frequently; and therefore, good drivers must be constantly alert in order to remain good drivers, and bad drivers ought to change their habits immediately.

IT'S SMART TO DRIVE CAREFULLY!

Mr. and Mrs. H. Moberg called at the John Benitt home Friday evening.

Y P S Convene Here

The Young People's Societies of the Evangelical Free Church of northwestern Minnesota will meet for their usual rally at the Holt Mission church from Friday June 16 to over Sunday June 18.

Services will be held Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p. m. On Sunday three services will be conducted at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 and 8 p. m.

All the services will be conducted in English except Sunday morning when part of the time will be devoted to Scandinavian.

Rev. Carl Fosmark of Bethel Evan. Free Church in Fargo, N. D. will be the main speaker. Special musical numbers will be presented by the various Young People's groups represented.

Rev. Thv. Myhrer of Newfolden is pastor of the local church. Pastor and church extend a hearty welcome to all.

Given Reception Dinner

A reception and dinner was given by relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gullick Swenson on Sunday, June 4th in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Strong of Thief River Falls. Mr. Strong is the oldest grandson of Mr. and Mrs. G. Swenson. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in all the decorations with the center of attraction being a three tiered cake. The waitresses were Ann Swenson, Marles Sorter and Lorraine Davidson who all wore pink and white aprons.

Relatives and friends from a distance who attended were: Mr. Mrs. Herb Strong, Alexandria, parents of the groom, and thier son Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Sannes, Warroad, parents of the bride, and thier son, Mrs. Louis Reed and children Warroad, sister of the bride, Sam Plough and sons, Thief River Falls, cousins of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson, Thief River Falls, attendents of the couple. Many gifts were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Strong as a rememberance of the occasion.

146 Drivers Lose Licenses

In line with ceaseless efforts to curb drunken driving on the highways, W. F. Rosenwald, Traffic Engineer and chief of the Safety division of the Minnesota Highway department, has reported to M. J. Hoffman, Minnesota Highway commissioner, that during April 146 drivers' lincenses were revoked, 141 of them for drunken driving.

In the history of the Drivers License division, there have been 5,670 revocations, and 5,481 have been for drunken driving. The 146 revocations are the highest for a single month since the Safety division, and are 50 more than were revoked during March

Hennepin county had the largest number of revocations with 32; Ramsey was second with 31; St. Louis third with 19; and Dakota fourth with 6. There were 50 counties which had no revocations, and 21 with only one. Drivers between the ages of 41 to 50 were deprived of their licenses in the most number of cases, there being 44 in this class Those between 21 to 25 and 26 to 30 were next with 23 each.

Mrs. Sandberg Hurt In Fall

While coming up from the basement of her home here with a small bag of potatoes on Monday, Mrs. C. L. Sandberg had the misfortune to fall in such a way as to land on the cement floor and struck unconcious. She was rushed to the St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls where she is being treated for a skull fracture and dislocated shoulder.

She will have to remain there for some time due to the seriousness of the fracture at the base of her head.

Given Wedding Reception

Friend and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sagstuen gave them a wedding reception at the Nazareth Lutheran church parlors on Wednesday evening. The newlyweds received many beautiful and useful gifts for their home.

Charming Patterns For Smart Fashions

IF YOU want to look slimmer than you are, and do it in the coolest, smartest way possible, make yourself a dress like 1756. The skirt, paneled front and back, and cut to a high, fitted waistline, is beautifully slenderizing. The bodice is adroitly gathered to take care of bust fullness. Cape sleeves flutter charmingly from a smooth shoulder-line, and the deep V-neckline is your favorite. Make this of chiffon, georgette, linen or voile. You'll be delighted with its softness, coolness and chic.

Three-Piece Sports Ensemble.

No. 1755 takes care of three things you'll certainly want to take on your vacation—and that's a lot to get out of one pattern. You can make with it a sleeveless play suit, a separate skirt that transforms it into a daytime dress, and a bolero that makes the dress into a little suit! Just think what a blessing that will be, when you come to pack! And all three parts are just as smart and becoming as they can be! Gingham, percale, linen and pique are practical fabrics for this.

The Patterns.

No. 1756 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4¼ yards of 39-inch material without nap.

No. 1755 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 5⅝ yards of 35-inch material; 10 yards of braid or bias fold.

Spring and Summer Pattern Book.

Send 15 cents for the Barbara Bell Spring and Summer Pattern Book, which is now ready. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes, selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Lived to the Law

Up to recent times in Palestine, nearly every Christian farmer observed the Deuteronomic laws in the Old Testament, which require him to leave part of his crop for the poor. Olive-grove owners especially obeyed the regulation forbidding them to shake their trees more than once so some of the fruit would remain "for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow."—Collier's.

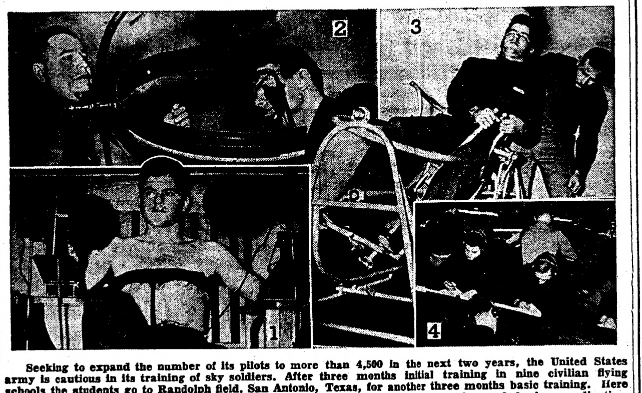
Uncle Sam Thorough in Training Sky Soldiers



Seeking to expand the number of its pilots to more than 4,500 in the next two years, the United States army is cautious in its training of sky soldiers. After three months initial training in nine civilian flying schools the students go to Randolph field, San Antonio, Texas, for another three months basic training. Here their mettle and fitness are tested. 1.—The photopolygraph determines muscular and brain co-ordination, respiration, reflexes and pulse. 2.—The primeter test for measuring the visual field of form and color is given. Eye defects and high blood pressure cause 45 out of 50 rejections. 3.—The balancing chair determines the sense of equilibrium. 4.—Ground school teaches the cadet how to read maps, how his engine works, and other details. This, plus actual flying, readies the cadet for advanced work at Kelly field.

POLITICS:
Showdown

When asked about a third term, President Roosevelt promptly discussed the weather, a habit chiefly distressful to West Virginia's anti-New Deal Sen. Rush D. Holt. Strongly against a third term, Rush Holt would need only a hint from the Sphynx-like White House to demand senate confirmation of a resolution he has kept pocketed more than a year. That resolution would forbid a third term.

Paridoxically, two New Dealers who least want a Roosevelt third term are greatest battlers against the Holt resolution. Both potential 1940 candidates, Vice President John N. Garner and Postmaster General James A. Farley fear a showdown. Reason: If the resolution were defeated after much-publicized Senate debate, the public might interpret it as a vote of confidence in President Roosevelt, thus encouraging him to run again.

NO THIRD TERM

SENATOR HOLT
The question: Resolve or not?

Contrariwise, Republicans and anti-New Deal senators favor a vote immediately, win or lose. Reason: The badly split Democratic party's No. 1 need is an immediate decision by President Roosevelt. If the resolution carries, that decision will be made for him; if it is defeated, he will be forced to say whether or not he will run.

AGRICULTURE:
Downgrade

In booming 1929 U. S. gross farm income was $12,791,000,000. In depression-ridden 1932 it was less than half, of $5,562,000,000. Returning prosperity zoomed it to $10,350,000,000 in 1937. But in 1938, according to bureau of agricultural economics reports, it dropped again to $9,220,000,000.

This was not unexpected, since farm income always follows the general economic trend. Chief interesting revelations: (1) That, contrary to popular belief, the U. S. farm problem is not confined to a few major crops like cotton and wheat; (2) that the $482,000,000 in U. S. subsidies for 1938 was 31 per cent more than in 1937 ($367,000,000), yet total income went down anyway.

Two possible deductions: (1) That all the U. S. government's costly farm relief measures have been ineffective; (2) that on the contrary they have been effective in bolstering farm income during natural "off" years.

| Crop | 1938 | 1937 |
|---|---|---|
| Corn ........ | $ 291,315,000.. | $ 248,914,000 |
| Wheat ...... | 443,554,000.. | 617,547,000 |

| Truck Crops | 318,176,000.. | 360,204,000 |
| Citrus Fruits | 81,349,000.. | 138,755,000 |

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and cure it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"?

If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

By Virginia Vale

APPARENTLY Jesse Lasky, who is now conducting his second search for new faces for the screen, thinks that there is something in a name—at least, something in my name. For he has chosen "Virginia Vale" as the name which will be bestowed on the girl who is selected as the winner of this nationwide talent quest.

The boy who wins will be called "Robert Stanton"—which makes me wonder if some man, somewhere, who really is named Robert Stanton, was as startled and exasperated as I was over discovering that his name had been kidnaped, as it were. There ought to be a law against it!

Freddie Bartholomew is no longer a star. Metro has demoted him, and promoted James Stewart, whose popularity increases with every picture he makes—and he's making plenty of them these days.

These are the days when the girls who are graduated from high school or college may be taking a screen test right along with their diplomas, without knowing it. Practically all of the major movie companies are in need of pretty girls, it's said, and talent scouts have gone forth to find them.

Of course, the very girls who come out best in these informal screen tests could probably go to Hollywood and try hopelessly for years to get into the studios.

Remember Wesley Barry, one of the screen's first child stars? He has been signed for a feature role in "Stunt Pilot," the second in a series of Monogram pictures based on the "Tailspin Tommy" cartoon strip.

He has been in the real estate business for three years, and during the last nine months has been sales manager for a large realty firm in Hollywood.

George Hicks, the NBC announcer who has been down to the bottom of the ocean and up in the clouds for special broadcasts, and is to cover the American visit of the king and queen of England, has received more than a thousand letters from fans who enclosed blank sheets of paper with the request that he get the royal visitors to autograph them. Hicks is the kind of man who wouldn't make such a request even for himself!

Cecil B. DeMille always orders an extra microphone on the stage when Cary Grant is doing a play on that radio theater program. —✳—

Over a period of two months The Three Marshalls (Peggy, Jack and Kay) have had to change their radio program five times because the songs they submitted to the stations before taking to the air were banned.

They couldn't sing "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum"—it was thought to be offensive. "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" was all right if only Peggy and Kay sang the lyrics; Jack could play the music, but he couldn't sing—network rulings reject the song if it's sung by a man.

They couldn't sing "The Preacher and the Bear" because the lyrics contain the word "coon." "Shoot the Likker to Me, Jive Boy," a jam session favorite, could be sung only if some word not suggesting an alcoholic beverage was substituted for "likker"—which in this instance was used as a musical term.

THIS idea is the result of an experiment. A friend had a set of sadly out-of-date white linen drawn work scarves for buffet, serving and dining table. Her dining room was being done over with touches of turquoise blue in the draperies and wall paper, so she had the scarves dyed to match. They were so effective that the simplest part of the drawn work design was copied in coarse linen in various colors for mats and scarves throughout the house.

While the turquoise scarves were especially attractive, those in golden yellow and a bedroom set in soft rose were also full of charm. The sketch shows how the drawn work is done. If you are looking for something effective that is quick to make, here it is. Just pull out the threads of the linen to make an open space about an inch wide. The scarf may be hemmed at the same time the outside edge of the opening is being whipped. Just follow these sketches. No other directions are needed. Use either linen or mercerized thread in a matching color.

NOTE: Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, and No. 2, Gifts, Novelties, and Embroideries, are now 15 cents each, or both books for 25 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders at once, as no more copies will be available when the present stock is sold. Your choice of the QUILT LEAFLET illustrating 36 authentic patchwork stitches; or the RAG RUG LEAFLET, will be included with orders for both books for the present, but the offer may be withdrawn at any time. Leaflets are 6 cents each when ordered without the books.

Everyone should have copies of these two books containing 96 HOW TO SEW articles by Mrs. Spears, that have not appeared in the paper. Send your order at once to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

JUST FUN

Different Effect

"I've altered your medicine this week, Tommy," said the doctor. "It's tablets, not pills."

"But I want pills," complained Tommy.

"Have you tried blowing tablets through a pea-shooter?"

"Yes," said the massive wife of the obviously henpecked husband, "it will be a joint account. My husband will make the deposits and I'll draw the checks."

AN HEIR?

"I just love this ozone."

"Guess I haven't met him. Has he got money?"

Tried 'Em All

Christy—I'm sure there are many girls who could make you happier than I could.

Frank—That's just the trouble. They could, but they won't.

Promise Me?

A man, evidently a stranger in Chicago, stopped a youth hurrying along Michigan avenue.

"Young man," he said, "I want to go to Lincoln park."

The young man seemed lost in thought for a moment, then he replied, "Well, you may go just this once. But you must never ask me again!"

All Over the Place

He was very, very rich, and he spent most of his time trying to impress people.

One day he rushed up to the railway station and threw a $20 bill down on the counter.

"Give me a ticket," he demanded.

"Where to?" asked the clerk.

"Anywhere," replied the rich man; "anywhere. I've got business all over the country."

True to Type

Mrs. Smith was relating her grievances over the garden fence.

"My husband is such a flirt," she complained. "I just can't trust him anywhere."

"Never mind, my dear," her friend consoled her. "He's probably only reverting to type."

"That's where you're wrong," said Mrs. Smith grimly. "He's reverting to typists."

QUICK QUOTES

BACK TO WORK

"THE most important job for congress today is what it has been for the last six years—to put America back to work. This must be the watchword. Back to work for the unemployed. Back to work for idle capital and empty factories. Back to work for all to the task of creating a better world. Only under an administration dedicated to such a program can America once more move forward."—*U. S. Representative J. William Ditter.

All-Around Man Was Worth the Money!

The customer was being shaved in a country town to which he was a visitor, when the barber cut his cheek.

The man was all apologies, and to give the cut a chance to close up, he placed a piece of tissue paper over the gash.

When the shave was finished the customer—to the great surprise of the barber—handed over a substantial tip.

"That's all right," said the victim, with a smile of forgiveness; "I don't often get shaved by a man who deals in three trades."

"Three trades?" queried the puzzled barber.

"Yes," came the sarcastic reply—"barber, butcher, and paper-hanger."

TON OF FERTILIZER PER FARM IS U. S. AVERAGE

CHICAGO.—Use of chemical fertilizer in the United States has increased 400 per cent in the past fifty years, yet the consumption today averages slightly more than a ton per farm for the entire country, a report of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee says.

"In 1888 American farms used in addition to manure about 1,800,000 tons of commercial fertilizer," the report sets forth. "In 1938 the consumption of fertilizer was estimated at 7,200,000 tons, or about one and one-tenth tons per farm.

"Fifty years ago the average ton of mixed fertilizer contained only 13.8 per cent of plant food, as against 18.5 per cent now. Thus the average retail price of a unit of plant food was nearly 50 per cent lower in 1938 than it was in 1888."

"Swan Song"

The term, "swan song," is familiar to all for a farewell performance, or the last creative effort of an artist. The allusion is to the song popularly believed to be sung by a swan when dying. The origin of the metaphor is found in the "Epigrams" of the famous Latin "Martial," probably Marcus Valerius Martialis, who is believed to have lived from the year 40 to 102 A. D. And a well-known use of it is in Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice."

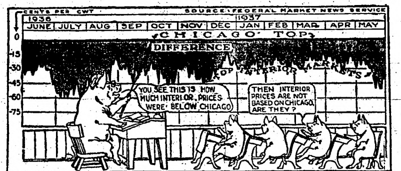
"Spread" Between Chicago and Interior Markets Fluctuates Daily



The little pigs pictured above are learning that the "Spread" or "Difference" between prices paid for hogs at the Chicago central market and at interior markets in Southern Minnesota and Iowa is not a fixed amount determined by freight rates and other marketing costs. For, if this were true, the interior price line (shown at the bottom of the shaded area) would be a straight line.

As the chart shows, the difference between Chicago top and average interior top prices fluctuates from day to day, and, during the twelve months' period shown, has varied between the two extremes of 10 cents to 65 cents per cwt. below the Chicago market.

In this connection, Misc. Publication 222, "The Direct Marketing of Hogs," published by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, states: "There is no fixed relationship between prices at any market and prices at other public markets or at interior points. Data shows that a rise or a decline in hog prices is as likely to appear first at interior markets as at public markets. Although there is a close relationship between prices quoted at some markets and prices at other markets, no one market actually determines the price for hogs sold at other markets in this area. The equilibrium of the composite supply and composite demand at all markets marks the level of hog prices."

Data shown in the chart was furnished by the Federal Market News Service of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, and is based on top hog prices paid at Chicago and the average top hog prices paid at interior packing houses and concentration points in Iowa and Southern Minnesota for 220 to 250 pound butcher hogs.

Better Breakfasts

BETTER breakfasts make for better day's work—especially in straw hat season. July breakfasts should be light, yes; they should, however, be nourishing. The reason for this is because at the same time old Sol is putting iron in your system, he is helping you to burn up energy —and it must be constantly replaced. Try this breakfast, some fine morning, for it's not only delicious—it's horse-sense.

Bake in well-greased muffin tins in a hot—400 degree—oven for about twenty minutes.

A Word About Coffee

Be sure that you get coffee with the full flavor and aroma, vacuum-packed in cans. Use plenty of coffee and cook it quickly, because depending upon cooking to secure the desired strength of your coffee results in decidedly poor coffee. In serving, use either thick cream, or hot milk. Keep on hand evaporated milk which makes a rich delicious addition to coffee.

Georgia Men Visit Game Farm

For the third time in the past six months, officials of the Fort Benning, Georgia, game reserve visited and studied Minnesota's Carlos Avery game farm last week. Major Remington Orsinger, game and fish commissioner of the army's 100,000 acre game reserve, flew to Fort Snelling in a huge army bomber, and in company with Frank Blair, superintendent of game propagation for the Minnesota division of game and fish, made his survey of the farm.

Major Orsinger, who has visited all of the leading game farms, pronounced the Carlos Avery the most modern propagation plant anywhere in the United States. Methods used here are being largely adopted in the Georgia unit.

The Fort Benning game reserve is unique in that it is the only such area operated by the United States Army. Here will be found, in addition to the large area of natural game cover, a complete propagation plant. The entire unit is operated by a regularly appointed game and fish commission, of which Major Orsinger, a former Minnesota resident, is chief officer.

Former visits to the Minnesota farm were made by the men in direct charge of the reserve and the propagation plant.

Last year the total production of the Carlos Avery farm included about 27,000 bobwhite quail, and 3,000 chukar partridges. This year it is expected that the total production will again be about 30,000 birds nearly evenly divided between the two species.

Lyseng-Stordahl Wedding

Before a candle-lit altar banked with ferns, peonies and gladiolas the marriage of Miss Grace E. Lyseng, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Lyseng of Hitterdal and Clayton Lyle Stordahl of Gatzke, Minnesota, was solemnized at 4 o'clock Sunday, June 18, at the Salem Lutheran Church in Hitterdahl. Rev. C. P. Aas read the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and lace in a princess style with tight fitting sleeves and a train. She wore Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson's wedding veil which was fashioned of illusion with a halo effect crown and a full length train. The bride carried a white Bible.

Gwendolyn Joan Holte and Audrey Johnson, 4-year old neices of the bride and groom were the bride's flower girls. They wore long colonial style dresses of yellow organdy.

Alice Lyseng, a sister, acted as maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of baby-blue silk net over taffeta and carried a boquet of Premier roses and lillies of the valley.

A cousin of the groom, Arloine Naplin, daughter of Mrs. Laura E. Naplin of St. Paul, was chosen bridesmaid. She wore pale pink silk lace and carried a boquet of Premier roses, Attendents of the groom were Arthur Stordahl of Roseau and Al Opick of Warren. Mr. Opick and Mr. Gerhard Lyseng acted as ushers.

The bride's mother wore navy blue lace and Mrs. Stordahl wore powder blue silk crepe. Both wore corsages of roses.

The nuptial marches were played by Miss Alma Lyseng. Mr. Jerome Nelson sang "O Perfect Love" and "At Dawning", and Misses Doris and Marie Solum of Fargo sang "I Love You Truly".

Following the ceremony, about 75 guests were entertained at the home of the bride's parents where a buffet supper was served.

The couple are on a trip to the west coast.

The bride is well known in Holt, having spent the past two years here as a teacher in the local school.

They will make their home at Gatzke where the groom is engaged in trucking in connection with the Stordahl Truck Lines.

Scouts To Go Camping

The local Boy Scout Troop is busy getting ready for their trip to Pike Bay near Cass Lake on Sunday to spend a week. We hope that all who are interested in scouting will help with the transportation for the boys to the summer camp. The boys in past years at camp have advanced in their scout work under the able supervision they get at the Camp. This year several of the young boys who have recently began scoutwork will take part in Court of Honor there and be advanced from Tenderfoot to Second Class. Several of the older boys who are now Life Scouts have been working hard and will try for Eagle Scouts, the highest rank that can be attained.

Alton Carlson Given Party

On Tuesday evening George Fricker entertained about fifty men from Holt and vicinity at a stag party at his home in honor of Alton Carlson who is soon to be married. The evening was spent playing various games of cards and the boys enjoyed a grand Dutch lunch with all the necessary trimmings.

After the lunch Alton dressed special for the occasion was presented with a very useful gift.

Tornado Hit Anoka Sunday

While the people up here in the northern part of the state enjoyed a fine afternoon on Sunday, a terrific tornado struck in the area north of Minneapolis and cut a swath 25 miles long. The city of Anoka was almost destroyed. One out of every five homes were ruined and many large business blocks torn down. Nine people were killed and over a hundred injured. The storm uprooted most of the beautiful trees in Anoka and they had some of the nicest trees we have seen. The damage is estimated at about $1,280,000 to Anoka and surrounding farms.

After the storm was over people living at Pine City, 70 miles away, found things that had blown from Anoka. A suitcase full of clothes, family pictures with glass intact and other documents were among the findings.

When we read about this storm we can fully appreciate how lucky we are to so far escape such disaster here.

Show Coming Here Next Week

The Dawson Variety Players will arrive here on Monday to stay for a week with their big tent. This show will be the best to ever play here according to their announcements.

New Grandstand At Warren Fair

This is the new Marshall County Fair Grandstand at Warren, built during the past winter by the Works Progress Administration and which will be dedicated on the opening afternoon of the 33rd Annual Marshall County Fair July 3, 4 and 5.

Modern in every respect and with a seating capacity of 2500, this new structure together with other improvements made at the Fairgrounds during the past year represents an investment of approximately $20,000. The fair association, sponsors of the project, contributed $7,000 for the materials, while WPA contributed $13,000 for labor and some material.

The grandstand is so constructed that the use of support posts for the large roof has been eliminated from the seating area in the stand which will afford unhampered vision of the large stage from any seat in the building.

The space underneath the structure is completely finished. Special rooms have been partitioned off for ticket offices, electricians quarters, band instrument storage, public and private directors' offices. The remaining portion has been divided into industrial display booths in which business firms of the county will display automobiles, household appliances, small utility farm machines and other industrial products during the fair. The floor space is all built of concrete. In front of the grandstand between the building and the race track is a concrete concourse, 30 by 150 feet on which bands will be seated and also bleacher space will be available for overflow crowds.

Other improvements on the fairgrounds include the construction of a new sheep exhibit building providing space for more than 120 head of sheep, painting of all buildings, relocation of buildings, grading of new streets, graveling, building of new electric light and power lines, building a new bridge to the Fairgrounds Park where the Model Boy Scout Camp will be set up, and construction of new fences. Ample automobile parking lots have also been made available for systemetic parking and handling of traffic.

The board of directors of the fair association has devoted much time and effort in rebuilding the grounds for the Greater Marshall County Fair on July 3, 4 and 5. They have arranged the greatest outdoor program ever presented in this section of the state, bringing in the highest quality entertainment available in the amutement field. Every day will be a big day.

Some of the major entertainment features for each day include—Opening day, Dedication and Children's Day, six bicycles free to children under 15 years of age, livestock parade in the evening. Second day, July 4, Fourth of July celebration, races and gorgeous display fireworks. Third day, July 5, Thrill day with Jimmie Lynch and his Death Dodgers direct from the New York World's Fair in a complete two hour program. The Ernie Young Production company will present nine big cicus acts at each program during the three days and in the evening of each day "Ernie Young's Passing Parade," one of the finest musical revues on the road today will be presented. Two big Dances have also been arranged for each day.

General admission to the Fair this year is only 25c, with children under 12 free. Plan now to take your family to the fair.

Many Attending Bible Camp

The Ice Cream Social held on the church lawn of the Nazareth Lutheran Church last Sunday evening was a success in spite of the threatning weather. The proceeds were around $20.00 and was used for the benefit of those going to Lake of the Woods Bible Camp.

Following are the young folks from here who went to Bible Camp: Mildred Odie, Marian Backlund, Wayne Larson, Adeline Peterson, Lois Hanson, Lucille Horien, Lowell Larson, Irene Ness, Eileen Larson, Evelyn Stienhauer, Jean Sorum, Francis Johnson and Shirley Horien. They went by a bus which came from Baudette. Rev. Hanson drove up there Monday and spent part of the time there this week. He returned Tuesday evening and went to the Camp again on Thursday accompanied by Betty Lou Lorentson and Dorothy Hanson who visited Camp. Rev. Hanson is Housing Manager and has charge of all the sleeping quarters for the boys, girls, faculty and pastors. He reported the Camp filled beyond capacity.

About 30 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Horien on Friday afternoon to help Mr. Johannes Johnson celebrate his 84th birthday. Lunch was served by the self invited guests and the honor guest received many gifts and a cash purse.

Mr. and Mrs. Josesh Oppegaard of Minneapolis, Mrs. Jana Oppegaard and Mrs. Lena Hoiseth of Crookston visited at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Hanson Wednesday.

A. O. Aspelin and daughter Caroline were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nohre on Sunday.

CCC Selection In July

Announcement is made by the Welfar Office in Warren that the quarterly CCC selection will be made again the first few days in July. Young men who are unemployed and in need of employment between the ages of 17 and 23 can be considered for this selection if they make preliminary application at the Welfare Office before July 1st. It is expected that there will be a good possibility of selecting all eligible candidates who present themselves at this enrollment. The previous rules for selection are still in force that young men of good character, sound health, and ambition are desired. If more candidates present themselves as eligible and can be enrolled those above 18 years of age will have preference. Interested young men are urged to call at the Welfare Office to make preliminary appliction.

Card of Thanks

I hereby wish to thank Rev. Hanson for his visits and comforting words. Also Circle 7 for the nice book Mrs. J. P. Augustine for the beautiful boquet of flowers, and all who visited me while I was at the hospital. God Bless you all.

Mrs. C. L. Sandberg.

Fairy Tale

The bus had to pull up very suddenly; a taxi behind could not stop and gently bumped into it.

The taxi-driver jumped out and, running to the front of the bus, proceeded to tell the driver what he thought of him.

The bus-driver remained silent until the taxi-man had finished; then he leaned out and said, very gently, "I thought you'd be cross!"

CONTINUATION

"I thought you learned to swim last summer."

"So I did. But I thought I'd take a post-graduate course from that handsome young millionaire who came down yesterday."

Girls today are not what they were 20 years ago, says a novelist. We agree; some of them are at least 10 years older.

Out of Mind

"And what," bawled the interviewer, "what do you think of the modern girl?"

"Lor', sir," replied the centenarian, "I be a 'underd, I be, an' I gave up thinking 'bout the girls nigh on five years ago."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Zealous Czechs Plan Rebellion Against German Domination; Nazis Puzzle Combat Strategy

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA:

Rebellion

Last March Adolf Hitler marched into Prague while stolid Czechs lined the streets and booed hatefully. Unnoticed were thousands of Bohemians and Moravians who slipped silently across the borders. Unconsidered were 12 Czech legations and some 70 consulates which remained open throughout the world in defiance of German orders. Forgotten was the national assembly's failure to dissolve. These things might well have remained unnoticed, unconsidered and forgotten were it not for the indomitable Czech will.

Symbolically, a few days after Nazi occupation, spiteful Czechs painted on a rock overlooking Prague: "We don't want your pfennigs! We want Benes!" The reference was to Eduard Benes, cofounder of the Czech republic 25 years ago with immortalized Thomas G. Masaryk; later the nation's president until he resigned after the Munich crisis; now a lecturer at the University of Chicago who wonders if the Czech saga will repeat itself.

BARON VON NEURATH
The question: To slap or pat?

Recalled today is Czecho-Slovakia's constitution, written in Chicago, and its declaration of independence, adopted in Philadelphia. Born first outside its own borders by idealistic exiles, will Thomas Masaryk's land be re-born in Chicago?

Three months after Czecho-Slovakia fell, such a development seemed possible. At Prague, German Konstantin von Neurath lost sleep over a maddening passive resistance on the part of his subjects. Rushing to Berlin, he consulted with Fuehrer Hitler over two methods of fighting back. Germany could either dominate Bohemia and Moravia by force, or try to reconcile the Czechs by encouraging more intimate cultural and political relations with Germany.

What he cannot reconcile, however, is the patriotic fervor of Czechs outside the Reich. In France are a reported 30,000 exiles waiting to enlist for The Cause. Other thousands are in Poland, planning a swift military seizure of Bohemia-Moravia should Germany become involved in war.

At her consulates and legations the defunct Czech government maintains a semblance of official contact with other lands, an advantage not possessed during the first nationalistic struggle. And from Chicago Dr. Benes is directing a world-wide mobilization of Czech moral and financial support, carefully avoiding open commitments which would "add to the difficulties of the (U. S.) President and department of state."

DOMESTIC:

Income

President Roosevelt's goal for total U. S. income is $80,000,000,000 a year, which critics say would not necessarily guarantee prosperity since living costs might rise correspondingly. In 1929 the national income was $82,000,000,000, by 1932 it had dropped to $40,000,000,000, and returning prosperity brought it to $72,000,000,000 in 1937. Just released is the figure for 1938, showing an 11 per cent drop to $64,000,000,000.

Best explanation of the drop, said Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins, was declining prices, coupled with reduced volume of production. More significant, however, were 1938's results of 1937's capital-labor battle, during which John Lewis' C. I. O. squeezed out higher salaries and expanded unionism. Net result: Labor gained and capital lost.

One index was the fact that compensation to employees for 1938 was off only 7 per cent from the previous year, while dividend payments to stockholders in corporations dropped approximately one-third from the $5,400,000,000 level of 1937. An even better index, however, was that income distribution in wages set a new high mark of 67.3 per cent in 1938.

Another significant feature: The construction industry, which has suffered severely since 1929, showed very little decline in 1938, indicating that U. S. housing requirements have reached so critical a stage that not even recession can stop new building.

AGRICULTURE:

New Uses

One major reason for today's U. S. crop surpluses was the World war. Then, and before, both the agriculture department and farmers bent their energies to establishing a production level that would accommodate an export market which annually took from 150 to 200 million bushels of wheat, eight to nine million bales of cotton, almost a billion pounds of pork, plus large quantities of tobacco and fruit.

Since then three factors have conspired to upset farm economy. First, U. S. export requirements were cut drastically as other nations became self-sufficient; second, agriculture became mechanized, cutting farm employment and making it easier to raise large crops; third, unscientifically tilled land "burned out" from too much repetition of the same crop.

No cure-all, but an encouraging move in the right direction will be underway by next summer when four regional laboratories begin seeking ways to make the farm a source of raw materials for factories. Authorized by congress and operating under the department of agriculture will be laboratories at:

Peoria, Ill., researching on corn, wheat and agricultural wastes, much of which is already used for such purposes as industrial alcohol.

New Orleans, where new uses will be sought for cotton, sweet potatoes and peanuts.

Wyndmoor, Pa., centering its activities on tobacco, milk products, apples, Irish potatoes and vegetables.

San Francisco, studying wheat, potatoes, alfalfa, vegetables and fruits.

COURTS:

Offsetting Factor

Vacationing from their Washington temple nowadays are the Supreme court's nine young and old men, as unique a mixture of legal talent as ever donned the traditional black robes. Abed with a doudenal ulcer is Chief Justice Hughes; visiting his old Kentucky home is Justice McReynolds; still in Washington, close to such friends as SEC's Jerome Frank and Brain Truster Tommy Corcoran is the court's youngest and most un-traditional member, 44-year-old Bill Douglas.

Gloating, meanwhile, is Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, whom observers credit with winning 12 out of 14 bouts with the high bench this past term. Yet in retrospect the session just ended was neither a capitulation by the Supreme court nor a victory for the New Deal. A better guess is that the once notorious poles of court conservatism and New Deal liberalism have grown less far apart.

ROBERT JACKSON
Victorious, but not too much.

Four Roosevelt appointees (Black, Reed, Frankfurter, and Douglas) have given the court liberalized color and today only two conservatives (Butler and McReynolds) remain. Middle-grounders are Hughes, Stone and Roberts, and Mr. Jackson had to convince only one of these to assure victory in any given case. Yet, paradoxically, the recent term brought a new high in dissents and divisions of opinions, a condition which proves that New Dealish justices have merely added zest to court arguments, and that they have not yet settled into a rut which permits observers to classify them in advance.

While the court grows more liberal, an important offsetting factor too often overlooked is the lesson Mr. Roosevelt's administration learned through disastrous defeats of the past. Today's legislation is drafted more carefully and with greater respect for constitutional precedent

★ A Second Abe Lincoln
★ Kenny Wins Protesters
★ Bob Burns' Make-Ready

By Virginia Vale

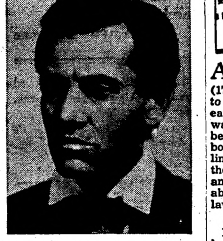
EVEN after the many portrayals of Abraham Lincoln that we have had on stage and screen, Henry Fonda has given us, in "Young Mr. Lincoln," one that is different. He could have walked through the part, because by nature he had been fitted to play it. It would have been no effort at all for him to look like Lincoln, with a little help from the make-up man.

But he gives such a superb performance that he seems really to be Lincoln as a young man; he is shrewd and tender and kind, not yet marked for greatness and for tragedy.



HENRY FONDA

There are other excellent performances in the picture, notably those contributed by Alice Brady, Donald Meek and Richard Cromwell. Put "Young Mr. Lincoln" high on your list of the pictures that you must be sure to see.

* * *

Kenny Baker, of radio fame, has won new laurels for himself on the screen. When it was announced that he would play "Nanki Poo" in the screen version of "The Mikado" there were loud protests from the dyed-in-the-wool Gilbert and Sullivan fans. What, they demanded, would a crooner do with the role? He'd be horrible, they declared, in contrast with Martyn Green, Sydney Granville, and the other members of the celebrated D'Oyly Carte Opera company, who have concentrated for years on Gilbert and Sullivan products.

Now they're acclaiming him. It's no surprise to the rest of the cast. After he sang his first selection, "A Wandering Minstrel," they realized how good he was. Elizabeth Bergner, who was working on a neighboring set, behind screens, promptly gave orders that the screens were to come down and work on her set was to stop every time that Baker sang. And those who protested that he was a crooner now agree with Victor Schertzinger, the director who insisted on having Baker, that the lad's not a crooner at all, but a lyric tenor.

* * *

David Niven may have lost out in private life, when Merle Oberon became Mrs. Alexander Korda, but he's doing all right in his professional career. Assigned to appear in "Whose Wife?" opposite Loretta Young, it's stated by the producers that he has the most important characterization of his screen career. "Whose Wife?" is an original screen play by Gene Towne and Graham Baker, and Tay Garnett will direct it—with those three top-notchers involved it's got to be good.

* * *

Bob Burns has a method all his own for preparing his material for those Thursday night broadcasts. He doesn't have a word ready at rehearsal time—just runs through the "spots" with the guest stars and Bing Crosby and rehearses his bazooka solo.

After the rehearsal he goes to a dressing room, armed with his pipe and tobacco pouch. Two hours later he's ready. His script consists of a few key words jotted down on the back of an envelope or a scrap of paper—things like "Aunt Boo's mousetrap" or "Snazzy's automobile," to remind him of what he wants to say. Probably that's the reason for at least part of the informality of that program—something that a great many people are striving to inject into other broadcasts, without marked success so far.

* * *

ODDS AND ENDS—In "The Sun Never Sets" Douglas Fairbanks Jr. shows an astonishing resemblance to Clark Gable . . . John Garfield objected so strenuously to making any more prison pictures that George Raft will replace him in "20,000 Years in Sing Sing" . . . Joan Crawford hasn't given up the idea of doing a musical play on Broadway . . . Sigrid Gurie will make two pictures a year for Universal for five years; remember her in "Algiers"?

PATTERN DEPARTMENT

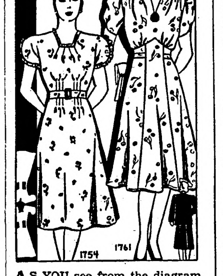
SEWING CIRCLE



AS YOU see from the diagram, the pretty daytime dress (1754) consists of just two pieces to sew together. Then make the easy darts at the neckline and waistline, so that your dress will be slim and softly full over the bosom, edge the sleeves and neckline with lace or ruching—and there you are! Anybody can do it, and it's so attractive and comfortable. Linen, gingham, batiste and lawn are nice materials for this.

Cool, Comely Jacket Frock.

If you're looking for an extremely smart and pleasantly youthful jacket ensemble in women's sizes, 1761 is the pattern for you. Gathers make the bodice just full enough, and the paneled skirt, cut to a high waistline, is beautifully slenderizing. The smart jacket is the most flattering length—certain to make your hips look slim. Chiffon, georgette, linen or pure dye silk print are pliant fabrics in which this design looks particularly well.

The Patterns.

No. 1754 is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46. Size 34 requires 3 yards of 35-inch fabric and 2⅜ yards of lace or ruching.

No. 1761 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 6½ yards of 39-inch fabric with nap for the ensemble and short-sleeved dress. With long-sleeved dress 7⅛ yards.

HOW to SEW

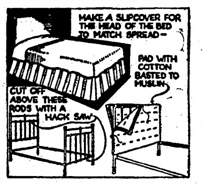
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS



MAKE A SLIPCOVER FOR THE HEAD OF THE BED TO MATCH SPREAD—PAD WITH COTTON BASTED TO MUSLIN
CUT OFF ABOVE THESE RODS WITH A HACK SAW

BETSY was all agog to have a bed with no foot piece and a padded head to match her spread. Ingenuity would have to substitute for money, and she was seriously considering this and that when the plumber was called to fix a leaky pipe.

As a tiny tot Betsy always said, "Let me watch," when workmen were coming and at 16 she hadn't grown up much. The plumber took a fine saw out of his tool bag and sawed a pipe in two just as if it were wood. Right then something clicked for Betsy. That old iron bed in the attic! It could be cut down. It was cut down, as shown in the sketch.

The top of this bed is padded with cotton basted to muslin. Betsy used an old comforter for padding. Her mind seems to jump with the greatest of ease from water pipes to iron beds and from padding to old comforters.

KOOL-AID CREAM SHERBET

(Made in Mechanical Refrigerator)

|---|---|
| 1 package Kool-Aid, any flavor | 2 cups milk |
| 1 cup sugar | 1 cup heavy cream |

1—Dissolve Kool-Aid and sugar in milk; turn into freezing tray and freeze ¾ to 1 hour (until slushy).

2—Whip cream (well chilled) until stiff.

3—Add partly frozen Kool-Aid mixture to whipped cream and whip just enough to mix well, but keep cold as possible.

4—Return quickly to freezing tray and freeze at coldest point. Requires no more stirring. When frozen, set control back to normal. Makes over one quart. If desired lighter, beat 2 egg whites fluffy with 2 tablespoons sugar and fold into above mixture before final freezing.—Adv.

AROUND the HOUSE

Items of Interest to the Housewife

For Grease on Carpet.—Rub in powdered bathbrick with a piece of soft cloth; leave overnight, and brush out with a stiff brush.

• • •

Laundering Tip. — Sorting and stain removal are preliminaries to the actual washing. The back-saving way is to sort from hamper or clothes bin (placed at non-stooping height) onto a large table.

• • •

Grease on Marble.—A paste of Fuller's earth and water spread on the grease spots on marble and allowed to stand for a few days will entirely remove them. Wash off and polish.

For Turnback Cuffs. — When making turnback cuffs for a man's shirt, sew the smallest sized snap on the cuff about one inch from the edge and at the proper place on the sleeve, and you will find this quite a time saver. The cuff will not have to be tacked after each laundering.

• • •

Before Refrigerating.—Rinse in cold water or wipe off with a damp cloth all your meats, vegetables, and fruits as soon as possible after they are delivered. Canned goods and bottles of milk should be wiped off before they are stored in the refrigerator or cupboard.

• • •

Ribbon Ends.—Short ends of narrow velvet ribbons can be utilized profitably by cutting them all the same length and tying them into bows. These bows are then placed one above the other against the front of a hat crown or, end to end, around a brim cuff. You can use any color scheme, the brighter the better, just so the ribbon is all of the same width and the bows uniform in size—or use in the same way as a dress trimming.

Quick Polish. — Dip knives in boiling water, dry and polish immediately for a quick polish.

"Daddy's got a job!"

● What a thrill—what a world of satisfaction those words carry: "A job!" Worth more than support or relief money because a job means relief from worry, escape from "relief"! It means hope and security and opportunity to realize ambitions for oneself and family!

The Brewers of Minnesota take pride in the 25,000 jobs their industry has created for Minnesotans. They want to keep these people secure in their jobs.

They want to cooperate with authorities to enforce all regulations surrounding the sale of beer so that the public's right to enjoy this good, mild beverage may be safeguarded.

Help your authorities to enforce the laws surrounding the sale of beer and you, too, can help keep 25,000 Minnesotans in steady jobs . . . help farmers keep a profitable market for their produce . . . help reduce taxes . . . help promote Moderation and Prosperity!

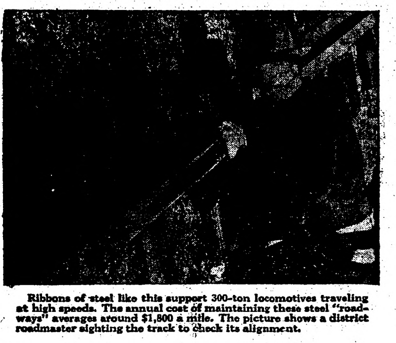
July 3-4-5

More to see. More to do



Ribbons of steel like this support 300-ton locomotives traveling at high speeds. The annual cost of maintaining these steel "roadways" averages around $1,800 a mile. The picture shows a district roadmaster sighting the track to check its alignment.

Getting Down to Cases

The railroads' highway competitors claim that instead of being heavily subsidized, they are over-taxed.

These claims are of concern to you, if for no other reason than that you are a taxpayer yourself.

As a property owner, you are called upon to pay your share of the general expenses of government—relief, schools, courts, policing, city streets, rural roads and bridges, etc. Also, as a highway user, you are required to pay license fees and gasoline taxes for the support of the highways.

The Great Northern, too, is called upon to pay its share of the general expenses of government, and besides, must provide and maintain its own "roadway".

Take, for instance, a certain trucking concern that is a competitor of the Great Northern. It is not a "little fellow" either. According to a circular it distributed recently, it did a business of more than 3¼ million dollars last year.

It claims to have paid quite a variety of taxes—the total of which, including license fees and gasoline taxes, is equal to 10 68/100 per cent of its total revenues.

It happens that this is just about the same proportion as the taxes paid by the Great Northern. Its taxes for 1938 were equal to 10 56/100 per cent of its revenues.

The Great Northern's taxes, which amounted to 10 56/100 per cent of its revenues, are supposed to be its share of the general expenses of government—in addition to which it must provide and maintain its own "roadway".

Certainly a similar obligation rests upon its competitors—first, to make a corresponding contribution to the general expenses of government; secondly, to pay its fair proportion of the cost of providing and maintaining the roadways which it requires for the operation of its trucks.

If the trucking concern's "taxes", amounting to 10 68/100 per cent of its revenues, are to be regarded as meeting the first part of that obligation, then it is enjoying the FREE USE of the costly public highways for its 473 trucks!

Bjornlie-Folden Wedding

At a pretty church wedding at the Free Lutheran church at Leonard, Minn., Mae Bjornlie became the bride of Rev. Arvid B. Folden with the grooms brother Rev. Arnold Folden of Jefferson, Iowa reading the ceremony. The vows were spoken at an altar banked with roses and white lilies at 11 o'clock Sunday forenoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bjornlie of Bagley Minn. and for the past few years has been employed in New York. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs T. B. Folden, and for the past three years has been pastor at New London, Conneciicut.

For the nuptials the bride wore white lace over satin, and a finger tip veil fashioned with a spray of flowers and carried a white Bible.

Miss Evelyn Langseth of Minneapolis was maid of honor and wore a floor length gown of pale blue Mouseline de Soie. The bridesmaids were Misses Myrtle and Bernice Bjornlie. They wore floor length gowns of apricot and aqua Mouseline de Soie. All three carried colonial boquets of mixed flowers and wore yellow gold charm bracelets, gifts of the bride.

The groomsman was Mr. Walter Folden and best men were Mr. Edward Folden and Mr. Albin Folden, brothers and cousin of the groom. They wore light grey suits.

The bride's parents served a wedding dinner to about 75 guests in the church parlors after the ceremony.

The newly weds will spend two weeks at a Bible Camp at Cooperstown, N. D. They will make their home in Spring Grove Minn. where the groom has been called to a pastorate.

Present at the wedding from Holt were: Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Folden and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bergman Folden and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Folden and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hanson.

At Marshall County Fair

Contracts have been signed with the Illinois Fireworks Company of Danville, Illinois, to furnish the mammoth pyrotechnical exhibition, which will be one of the largest exhibitions ever staged in this section of the country at the Marshall County Fair on the Fourth of July. Nothing will be overlooked, say the heads of this Company, to make this display as good, if not better, than any display ever exhibited at our fair.

Some of the features of this display will be: The Temple of Iris, The Oriental Puzzle Board, The Fool Wheel, The National Star, The Acrobat (a comical number), Niagara Falls, etc., and foremost in the ground displays will be a large threshing machine in full operation showing the straw spouting from the the chute.

In addition to this wonderful ground display, the spectators will be awed by one of the most magnificent aerial displays ever attempted by any Fireworks Company. Fires of every hue will be scattered high in the air, representing such as the Devil's Fork, Hissing Serpent, Butterfly, Spider Web, Weeping Willow, Flying Fish, Shower of Pearls, Diamond Necklace, The Grashopper, and others too numerous to mention.

After all the ground numbers and aerial shell have been given, then comes the greatest of all items, the Grand Finale, consisting of shells of every discription with loud reports and colors of every hue, releasing 218 individual presentations in this item alone. It is one bombardment after another with gorgeous colored shells raining riots of colors and the noise in rampand. This number is concluded with "Old Glory" waiving in the breeze.

Farmers Union State Wide Picnic

The Farmers Union will hold its annual state wide picnic at Itasca State Park on Sunday, July 2nd. The speakers for the day will be: Hon. John Vesecky, President, National Farmers Union from Kansa.

Hon. Emil Loriks, National Board Member of the Farmers Union from South Dakota.

Hon. Harold E. Stassen, Governor of Minnesota was also to appear on this program but on account of the Governors Conference in New York he will be unable to attend. A representative of the Governor may be there.

Songs, music and refreshments will be held. Also a Junior program. So come and bring your friends.

Herseth-Carlson

Miss Agnes Herseth of Bertha, Minn. was united in marriage to Mr. Alton Carlson at a church wedding at Bertha on Sunday. Details of the wedding will be published next week.

Mrs. Clifford Johnson of Strandquist had the misfortune of getting cut badly around the eye when she went to start the windmill on her mother's farm at Viking. She was rushed to St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls.

New Grandstand At Warren Fair

This is the new Marshall County Fair Grandstand at Warren, built during the past winter by the Works Progress Administration and which will be dedicated on the opening afternoon of the 33rd Annual Marshall County Fair July 3, 4 and 5.

Modern in every respect and with a seating capacity of 2500, this new structure together with other improvements made at the Fairgrounds during the past year, represents an investment of approximately $20,000. The fair association, sponsors of the project, contributed $7,000 for the materials, while WPA contributed $13,000 for labor and some material.

The grandstand is so constructed that the use of support posts for the large roof has been eliminated from the seating area in the stand which will afford unhampered vision of the large stage from any seat in the building.

The space underneath the structure is completely finished. Special rooms have been partitioned off for ticket offices, electricians quarters, band instrument storage, public and private directors' offices. The remaining portion has been divided into industrial display booths in which business firms of the county will display automobiles, household appliances, small utility farm machines and other industrial products during the fair. The floor space is all built of concrete. In front of the grandstand between the building and the race track is a concrete concourse, 30 by 150 feet on which bands will be seated and also bleacher space will be available for overflow crowds.

Other improvements on the fairgrounds include the construction of a new sheep exhibit building providing space for more than 120 head of sheep, painting of all buildings, relocation of buildings, grading of new streets, graveling, building of new electric light and power lines, building a new bridge to the Fairgrounds Park where the Model Boy Scout Camp will be set up, and construction of new fences. Ample automobile parking lots have also been made available for systemetic parking and handling of traffic.

The board of directors of the fair association has devoted much time and effort in rebuilding the grounds for the Greater Marshall County Fair on July 3, 4 and 5. They have arranged the greatest outdoor program ever presented in this section of the state, bringing in the highest quality entertainment available in the amutement field. Every day will be a big day.

Some of the major entertainment features for each day include—Opening day, Dedication and Children's Day, six bicycles free to children under 15 years of age, livestock parade in the evening. Second day, July 4, Fourth of July celebration, races and gorgeous display fireworks. Third day, July 5, Thrill day with Jimmie Lynch and his Death Dodgers direct from the New York World's Fair in a complete two hour program. The Ernie Young Production company will present nine big cicus acts at each program during the three days and in the evening of each day "Ernie Young's Passing Parade," one of the finest musical revues on the road today will be presented. Two big Dances have also been arranged for each day.

40th Wedding Anniversary

A large crowd gathered at the Lunke home Sunday afternoon to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lunke's 40th wedding anniversary. J. P. Benitt was toastmaster and a program was given consisting of a reading by their granddaughter Delores Engen, two songs by Mrs. Johnnie Nelson and Lida Monson and a talk by Rev. Hanson.

A table had been set for the honor guests and relatives, and centered with a three teired, cake made by Elda Benitt, decorated with birds, roses and a bridal couple. There was also a beautifully decorated cake made by Mrs. Harry Engen. Those serving were Mrs. J. P. Benitt, Mrs. A. C. Conklin and Mrs. Ed Furr. Table waiters were Misses Elda Benitt Lida Monson, Hazel Furr and Elaine Hoard. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lund, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Knutson, Mrs. Carrie Skomedal and son Gunsten all of Thief River Falls; Carl Johnson of Montpelier, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sorum and family of Crookston, Mr. and Mrs. Albin Dahl of Grygla; Mr. and Mrs. A. Hammarsten Goodridge; Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Lunke and family of Argyle.

Do your part in making this a safe 4th. Drive Carefully!

Card of Thanks

We heyeby express our heartfelt thanks to all who came to help us celebrate on Sunday. Especially do we thank those in charge of arrangements, those on the program and for the cash purse.

CCC Selection In July

Announcement is made by the Welfar Office in Warren that the quarterly CCC selection will be made again the first few days in July. Young men who are unemployed and in need of employment between the ages of 17 and 23 can be considered for this selection if they make preliminary application at the Welfare Office before July 1st. It is expected that there will be a good possibility of selecting all eligible candidates who present themselves at this enrollment. The previous rules for selection are still in force that young men of good character, sound health, and ambition are desired. If more candidates present themselves as eligible and can be enrolled those above 18 years of age will have preference. Interested young men are urged to call at the Welfare Office to make preliminary appliction.

Following are the young folks from here who returned home from Lake of the Woods Bible Camp Sunday evening after spending an enjoyable week there: Mildred Odie, Marian Backlund, Wayne Larson, Adeline Peterson, Lois Hanson, Lucille Horien, Lowell Larson, Irene Ness, Eileen Larson, Evelyn Stienhauer, Jean Sorum, Francis Johnson and Shirley Horien.

New China City Replaces Los Angeles Landmark

Buddhist rites, devil dancers and the traditional cavorting Chinese lion featured pageantry in Los Angeles' new China city recently when that picturesque quarter was cleaned of ghosts and demons. Replacing the old Chinatown, which was evacuated to make way for a new Union station, China city is the site of many historic incidents of early Los Angeles days. The ceremonies were intended to lay the ghosts of its past.

And the Mistress Grew Red With Indignation

The housemaid was under notice to leave, and her mistress summoned her to tell her a few truths.

"So I'm a flirt, am I?" demanded the maid, after a few preliminaries. "Well, I knows them as flirts more than I do. And another thing, I'm better-looking than you. Your husband told me."

"That's enough!" snapped her mistress.

"Oh, no, it ain't," the girl went on. "I can kiss better than you can, too. Do you know who told me that?"

"Don't you dare to suggest that my husband——"

"Oh, no," interrupted the maid, "it was the butler."

Head Hunters of New Guinea Are Particular About Child Training

HEADHUNTERS of New Guinea, going without clothing, yet very particular about training their children in habits of cleanliness and modesty, were the subject of study by Dr. John Whiting and S. W. Reed, graduate students of Yale university, who lived for seven months among a small primitive tribe of less than 400 persons in a mountain range far up the Sepik river.

Spankings and rewards are the basis of child discipline among these primitives, the Yale investigators discovered, but early in life the child learns to recognize a word of praise or a scolding as an effective substitute for physical punishment or caress.

Food taboos and cleanliness are taught early in childhood and these "morals" are almost never neglected in after life, they found. Sexual and aggressive activities are controlled primarily at adolescence and later, and the restrictions in these matters are never so binding—they are quite often violated.

The tribe still hunt human heads and Doctor Whiting participated in a spear dance which the natives performed before setting out on a raid against a neighboring tribe. No male is accepted as being fully adult and manly unless he has accomplished the feat of spearing an enemy and bringing back his head as a trophy, Doctor Whiting said.

The tribe live on the produce of their yam gardens, the boiled pith of the sago palm, and the roasted meat of the wild pig. Snakes and lizards also form part of their diet, and roasted white grubs are considered a delicacy. Doctor Whiting and Mr. Reed found it difficult to overcome their own food prejudices when the grubs were served them, but were surprised to find that they were "indeed excellent."

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

PATTERN DEPARTMENT SEWING CIRCLE

SEVERAL gay sets like 1762, including a fitted, broad-shouldered jacket, beret, gloves and envelope bag, will make a simple wardrobe look like a lot more! It's stunning with your day frocks and white skirts. Easy to make. Choose linen, gingham, pique or sharkskin for this smart design, which reproduces the style of expensive ready-mades.

New Slenderizing Fashion.

Large women who want a soft, pretty afternoon dress will find 1742 extremely becoming, and it's decidedly new and smart. The paneled skirt, with a graceful circular flare, is markedly hip-diminishing. The bodice fits nicely over the bust because it's gathered under the smooth shoulders.

Loose sleeves always look so pretty and feel so cool. In voile, georgette or chiffon, this will be your favorite for afternoon parties.

The Patterns.

No. 1762 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 35 inch fabric for short-sleeved jacket; ⅜ yard for beret; ⅝ yard for bag and ⅓ yard for gloves. A piece 1⅛ inches wide by ⅞ inch long for glove insert.

No. 1742 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4⅞ yards of 39 inch fabric without nap and ¾ yard of lace or braid.

Betsy Ross' Flag

The design of the first American flag was adopted by the Continental congress on June 14, 1777, and the Betsy Ross tradition is that she made the first flag after this adoption, though there had been others of similar design previously. An old cottage at 229 Arch street, Philadelphia, said to have been Betsy's home and the place where she made her flag, is carefully preserved for its historic interest, though the district around it has long since been given over to warehouses and loft buildings. The cottage is maintained as a flag museum.

Uncle Phil Says:

Making Good the Boast

Typical Americans think they are better than the average. That's what makes America great.

On a day when beautiful cloud forms are seen, there really seem to be mansions in the sky.

Those who comment most learnedly on being rich seem to be those who haven't any money. Few millionaires have time to be philosophers.

Can Human Ingenuity Do It?

Abolish poverty and end at least half the unhappiness in the world.

A nervously over-wrought man may be entertaining, but you are sorry he hasn't more repose. After all, people that "rest" you are the most agreeable.

Kings are those who have a great many privileges which they think it best not to exercise.

SMILES

Ultra

Mrs. Skjold—I wish to buy a fashionable dress.

Clerk—Yes, madam, will you have it too tight, too long or both?

Bowling Green?

Boogy—I'm a little stiff from bowling.

Woogy—Where'd you say you were from?

A REMINDER

"How the tide comes in with its long, green roll!'

"Simply a delicate intimation that we will have to come in with one, too, if we expect to stay here more than one week."

Barber—"But, lady, I'm supposed to do the talking here."

Safety Talk

Frisby—Why do you only talk politics with your wife?

Xercon—Politics doesn't remind her of anything she wants.

Breath of Air

Friend—Hello, George. Out for a stroll this fine evening?

Farmer—Yep! I need a mouthful of fresh air after being cooped up on a hunert-sixty acres all day.

You've really got insomnia if you can't sleep when it's time to get up.

Silver Silence

Youth (to fair companion)—Have you ever tried listening to a movie with your eyes shut?

Voice (from row behind)—Have you ever tried listening to one with your mouth shut?

His Problem

Little Johnny should have been hard at his homework. As it was, his father found him listening to the wireless and sucking his pencil.

"Well," asked father, "why don't you get on with your work?"

"I can't, dad," came Johnny's reply, "until I've heard the latest news bulletin. You see, I've got to draw a map of Europe."

Qualified

"Darling," said the film star to her husband, "have you bathed?"

"Yes, dear."

"And cleaned your teeth?"

"Yes, my pet."

"And shaved?"

"Yes, my love."

"Good—then you may kiss Fido."

Share Cropper

Barber—How do you want your hair cut?

Farmer—I'm not particular.

Barber—I'll cut it any way you like.

Farmer—That's a bargain. Cut it on shares. You can have half the hair for your work.

AROUND the HOUSE

Items of Interest to the Housewife

Garnishes.—A true garnish supplies flavor and appeals to the eye. Serve slices of lemon with fish, slices of lemon or orange with iced tea, chopped parsley as a topping for cooked potatoes, rice or macaroni and green pepper or pimiento strips on the top of potato salads.

• • •

When Mirrors Become Stained.—Make a paste of fine whiting and methylated spirit. Rub it over the mirror and leave to dry; then clean the mirror in the ordinary way.

• • •

To Make Meat Tender.—Meat is often tough because it has not been hung long enough before cooking. To make sure of steaks or cutlets being tender, soak them in olive oil for an hour or two before cooking.

Spare the Soap and Gilt.—Use very little soap on gilt china.

• • •

In the Living Room.—Too many cushions on the davenport often spoil its proportion.

• • •

Cleaning Cement Ornaments.—Use a medium stiff wire brush to clean the bird baths and other cement ornaments in the garden.

• • •

Inconspicuous Paint.—A "spotty" effect in a kitchen may result if door knobs, hinges, door panels, or parts of chairs are made too conspicuous with bright paint.

• • •

Plant Food Spreader.—Supply plant food to your garden from the first. A kitchen colander is a handy utensil to use for spreading the food.

• • •

Whipping Egg Whites.—Egg whites beat easier when at room temperature. Remove from refrigerator and let stand a while before whipping.

• • •

Economical Dessert.—One and a half cups of cooked prunes (chopped) added to a quart of partially frozen vanilla ice cream makes an economical dessert.

CLEAN GOVERNMENT

"TODAY the extermination of organized crime is gradually progressing from city to city. Its sponsors are being exposed and driven from power. The people have learned they need no longer tolerate the furtive alliance between the upper and the under world. In high places it has been learned that clean government can also be good politics."—Thomas E. Dewey, District Attorney of New York.

PAD FRAME WITH COTTON BATTING BASTED TO MUSLIN - THEN COVER

THERE comes a letter from a reader who says: "Thanks for the article telling how to make a chair of lumber and cover it. I wish there were more things that husbands and wives could do together. I have made all the curtains for our house and some slipcovers, but this chair that we both worked on was much more interesting."

Anyone that can make 3 wooden boxes and then screw or bolt them together, can make this davenport frame. The center box is made to fit an inner spring mattress of any size desired. All the other dimensions are given here.

One way to make the cushions is to bind flat sheets of newspapers together and then pad this base with cotton. Covering material in a rather heavy, rough textured cotton goods in a plain color or a conventional design will harmonize best with the modern lines of this piece of furniture.

The tree trimmer who sat on the end of a limb and then sawed off the limb has nothing on certain automobile drivers.

Is there any difference as far as results are concerned between the man sitting on the end of the limb and the man who drives an automobile recklessly by passing people on hills and curves and at intersections?

The man in the tree we would call a "fool". Much stronger language has been used by drivers who have been passed on a hill by a reckless driver. Innocent people become the victims of such careless acts, and serious accidents result.

Harry Heinze Was Killed

The sad news was received here on Thursday of last week that Harry Heinze, chief engineer at the Sunnyrest Sanitorium at Crookston had been electrocuted on Wednesday night in the water softner tank in the sanitorium power plant. Mr. Heinze who had held that job for twelve years, was found the next morning by Wallace Sorenson, assistant engineer.

The tank had been drained for repairs and Heinze was using an electric drill when the current shorted thru and his death occured.

Harry Heinze was born here at Holt on June 21, 1901 and was 38 years old. He was a graduate of the Holt High School. He was married May 11, 1930 to Evelyn Cook of Middle River. Surviving are his wife and three sons Lowell, 6, Charles, 5, and William, 2; and an infant daughter; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Heinze and a brother Frank of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Heinze and the children were visiting at the home of her parents a Middle River when the tradgedy happened.

Funeral services were held on Saturday from Our Savior's church at Crookston at 1:30 with Rev. E. A. Schuetts officiating and from the Nazareth Lutheran church here at Holt at 3:30. Burial was made in the Holt Ridge cemetery.

The pall bearers were the doctor from the sanitorium and five of Mr. Heinze's co-workers.

Jean Sorum escaped serious injury Thursday evening when she ran out on the highway to get away from some firecrackers that were being shot. She was hit by a car coming thru on the highway and had to be rushed to a hospital at Thief River Falls where she spent one day. She was badly shaken up and had some minor bruises.

Milla and Lucille Gavere of Minneapolis came Friday for a visit at the home of their mother Mrs. Anna Gavere.

Gilbertson Saved Young Man

Bud Gilbertson performed a noble deed last Sunday when he saved a young man's life as they were swimming in the river at the Skomedal park. Donald Johnson had swam across the river several times when he suddenly started to sink in the middle of the stream and was noticed by Gilbertson who is an able swimmer. Mr. Gilbertson pulled Johnson to shore and averted what may have been a sad tradgedy.

Celebrated Anniversary

A large group of neighbors friends and relatives pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mr. Carl Surmo at their home at St. Hilaire last Sunday, the occasion was their 25th wedding anniversary.

A picnic dinner was served by the self invited guests after which a program of songs, readings and a mock wedding was given. The honor guests were presented with a purse of silver on a silver platter.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sanoden motored to Mentor to attend a family reunion at the home of Mrs. Sanoden's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Forsythe on Tuesday.

Oscar Hanson and Harold and Thilda and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hanson of Mahnomen spent the week end visiting relatives here and at Thief River Falls.

Born to Rev. and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson, July 1, a boy, Harold Tollef, at St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls. Mother and child are getting along fine.

Card of Thanks

Herseth - Carlson Wedding

Baskets of garden flowers, delpiniums, gladiolas, mock orange blossoms, white peonies and baby breath decorated St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday afternoon, June 25 for the wedding of Miss Agnes Herseth, daughter of Superintendent and Mrs. Adolph Herseth, and Alton Carlson of Holt, Minnesota, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Carlson of Middle River, Minnesota. Rev. George Eschenbacher read the service at three o'clock.

Deward Schultz played a program of nuptial music on the church organ preceding the ceremony and Mrs. Deward Schultz sang "Because" and Henry Hitterdahl of Thief River Falls sang "The song of Ruth". Mr. Schultz used Lohengrin's weddingmarch for the processiopal and Mendelsohn's as a recessional. During the services Mr. Hitterdahl sang "O perfect Love".

Miss Herseth, who was given in marriage by her father, were a gown of white embroidered organza, made with a heart shaped neckline, puffed sleeves with a wide laced girdle. The skirt, which was gathered at the waist line, extended into a long traib. Her fingertip veil formed a halo which was held in place by tiny flowers. The bridal boquet consisted of a gardenia surrounded by talisman roses, baby breath and white sweet peas. She wore the bridegroom's gift, a cross set with diamonds.

Miss Ethel Roos of Hitterdahl was her cousin's maid of honor in a dawn blue velvaray organza gown made with a bolero jacket, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink delphiniums and white larkspur.

The bridesmaid, Miss Edith Herseth, sister of the bride, wore shadow embroidered apricot organza and ber bouquet was blue delphiniums and white larkspur. Rueben and Glen Carlson of Argyle attended their cousin as best man and groomsman respectively. Adolph Herseth, Jr., brother of the bride and Norman Roos of Hitterdahl, a cousin, were the ushers.

Mrs. Herseth, mother of the bride, wore a dress of dusty rose lace and the groom's mother was gowned in sky blue lace. Mrs. T. T. Sollom of Grand Forks, grandmother of the groom wore a dress of navy blue lace.

The bride is a graduate of the local high school. She was graduated from Concordia College, Moorehead, in 1938. and the past year has taught in McIntosh. Mr. Carlson attended St. Olaf College, Northfield and Concordia College, Moorhead.

Immediately following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Carlson left for a few days visit in Minneapolis and several weeks will be spent at a lake. After August 1 the happy couple will be at home at Holt where the groom is engaged in business.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Carlson and Charles Collins of Middle River; Mrs. T. T. Sollom of Grand Forks, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Carlson and family of Argyle; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sylvester of Thompson N. Dak., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hitterdahl of Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Becker and son of Fargo, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Reetz, Devils Lake, N. D., Mr. and Mrs. Carl Herseth, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Roos and family and Majorie Oss all of Hitterdahl; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Fricker of Holt; and Miss Jesse Christensen of Minneapoles.

Peterson Conducted Camp

Hartley Peterson, Francis Johnson, Russel Sanoden, Howard Lorentson and Milton Hanson spent from Sunday evening until Thursday at the Marshall County Fair at Warren where they took part in a model Boy Scout camp there. Mr. Peterson was Scoutmaster of the model camp which was made up of Boy Scouts from the troops of Marshall County. They also ushered at the grand stand.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Johnson ank son Mernit and daughter Avis and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Johnson returned home Monday from Clan William, Manitoba, where they had visited at the Theo. Johnson home. They reported the crops as real good this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hanson of Huron S. D., Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson and daughters and Lucille Horien spent Tuesday at the Pete Hanson home at Warren.

The Marshall County Fair this year had the largest crowd that crowd that has ever attended there. All the exhibits were first class and they had a fine program at the grand stand.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Blooflat and family of Park Rapids came Saturday for a visit at the Mrs. Fred Larson home.

Mrs. Edwin Johnson Passes

News was received here that Mrs. Edwin Johnson of St. Hilaire has passed away. Funeral services will be held at St. Hilaire on Friday. Rev. Hanson will assist in conducting the service.

Mrs. Johnson is very well known here, having lived on their farm in Mud Lake for several years. She was an outstanding member of the Lutheran Golden Valley congregation while they lived at Mud Lake and was always concerned about keeping that small congregation active.

Neighbors and relatives gathered at the T. B. Folden home Sunday afternoon and gave Rev. and Mrs. Arvid Folden a reception. A program was held including a talk by Rev. Myhrer, and a cash purse was presented to the newly wedded couple, after which lunch was served.

Those who motored to the Lake Agaziz camp on Pikes Bay, Cass Lake, over the week end to bring home the local Boy Scout Troop were: Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sorum and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson and family, C. A. Larson and family.

Miss Agnes Oppegaard, who is staying at the parsonage, spent from Saturday until Wednesday at the Mrs. Alma Lind home in Badger.

Rev. Hanson delivered a 4th of July address at a celebration sponsored by the Telemarken Luther League at the R. M. Johnson home southwest of Mavie on Tuesday.

C. E. Horien and sons returned home Thursday after exhibiting some of their Guernsey cattle at the Fair at Grand Forks and also at the Fair at Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Dahl and family and Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson and Rosamond of Fargo spent the week end at the Carl Johnson home.

Motorists Save 35 Lives

This month, due to increased safety precautions both on the part of drivers and officials, there are 35 more people alive than there were at the same time last year.

That figure, according to a report received by M. J. Hoffmann, Minnesota Highway commissioner, from W. F. Rosenwald, Traffic Engineer of the department, and head of the Safety Division, denotes the reduction in traffic deaths for Minnesota for the five months ending May 31. So far this year, there have been 152 persons killed in accidents in Minnesott, making a death rate of 8.1' whereas there were 187 killed and a death rate of 10.4 for the same period last year.

Statistics for the month of May 1939 show that there were 5 more persons killed during the month than for the same period last year. However, motor vehicle travel increased nearly 21 percent during May of this year as compared with that of May 1938. During May this year, 46 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents, where 41 died in the same month last year.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Reierson entertained at a birthday party for their daughter Carol on Sunday afternoon. The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Olson, Mrs. C. Hagglund, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Reierson and boys and Mrs. Knute Nelson and Olga and Gladys.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been warm and moist. We have had several big rains and the farmers are delayed some in their tame grass haying.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Sagstuen and family and Mrs. Hartley Peterson and Donovan spent Tuesday at the Fair at Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Larson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Larson and Martha Holst spent Tuesday at Warren at the Fair.

★ So On Through Life
★ Rudy in Another Role
★ Ingenious Quiz Program

By Virginia Vale

IT BEGINS to look as if those girls who made "Four Daughters" what it was (with the aid of John Garfield), have a life-time job. They appear again in the new "Daughters Courageous" with him, and will shortly make "Four Wives." The studio had intended to have them do "Four Mothers" as the next of the series, but now the wives will come first. Of course, they could go on forever, becoming grandmothers, widows, and then possibly "Four Second Wives." Just see what you, the public, started when you acclaimed the three Lane sisters and Gale Page in that first picture!

GALE PAGE

In case you're interested in that picture Samuel Goldwyn has been making, bringing Jascha Heifetz to the screen, the title has been changed again. "Music School" has been abandoned in favor of "They Shall Have Music," which is going to be a bit harder on the men who fit the names of pictures into theater marquees.

When you see Brian Aherne in "Juarez"—if you haven't already seen him—you might pretend that you're a movie mogul and study his performance with the idea of offering him the role of "Christopher Columbus" in the movie version of that famous Italian's life. That's what Edward Small did.

On second thought, maybe you'd better not bother. For it would be a shame to do anything that would take your mind off the grand picture that Aherne, Paul Muni and Bette Davis made together. "Juarez" deserves all your attention.

For a long time it seemed likely that Rudy Vallee would be remembered as the man who started the "crooner" wave that swept over the country. Now it seems far more likely that he'll be famous as the fellow who discovered and developed more celebrities than anybody else.

Tommy Riggs, Edgar Bergen, Bob Burns—they're just three out of a list of more than one hundred radio celebrities who owe their fame to the chance that he gave them.

Those quiz programs, in one form or another, seem likely to go on forever, which is bad news for all the singers whom they have crowded off the airways.

One of the newest and most ingenious is that presided over by the two writers of mystery stories who sign their output "Ellery Queen." It's known as "The Adventures of Ellery Queen." Each week a mystery story is dramatized, with Mr. Queen and four guest detectives listening. As soon as Queen knows who the murderer is he stops the play, and each guest is asked to give his solution of the mystery. Then the dramatization is resumed and the author's solution given. It's lots of fun to follow from your own arm chair.

One of the radio singers for whom quiz programs hold no threats is Felix Knight, who's just had another renewal of his contract on that half-hour preceding the Vallee show. He appeared on it for one guest appearance, something like 34 weeks ago, and has been a regular ever since.

Lum and Abner are going back to their old home in Arkansas this summer, partly for a vacation, partly to make sure that they haven't lost their accents (as if they could!) and the home folks are beginning now to prepare a proper celebration.

ODDS AND ENDS—"Tarzan Finds a Son," with little Johnny Sheffield as the son, is a lot of fun, and just about the time it was released Maureen O'Sullivan, who plays "Tarzan's" mate, was celebrating the birth of her first baby . . . Metro has once more temporarily postponed filming "It Can't Happen Here" . . . Now it's Benjamin Franklin whose life is to be screened . . . Joan Blondell gives her usual expert performance in "Good Girls Go to Paris, Too" . . . Whatever you do, don't miss Jack Benny and his valet, Rochester, in "Man About Town."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Oilcloth Folders for Your Cooking Booklets.

EVERY efficient kitchen has a book shelf. The paper back booklets that all homemakers love to collect may be placed in bright oil cloth folders so that they will make a brave show along with the bound cook books.

The prettiest folders of this sort that I have seen were made in green and yellow to match the kitchen color scheme. The diagrams given here show exactly how they were made. It is generally best to sort the booklets according to subjects rather than size.

The folders are stiffened with card board so they hold booklets of different sizes neatly. The cardboard should be cut the size of the largest booklet in the group. The fabric side of both pieces of oilcloth should be entirely covered with paste to make it stick smoothly to the cardboard. Letter or write the general subject of the booklets on a label and paste it on the back. Place the folder flat under something heavy until it is dry.

NOTE: Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, and No. 2, Gifts, Novelties, and Embroideries, are now 15 cents each, or both books for 25 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders at once, as no more copies will be available when the present stock is sold. Your choice of the QUILT LEAFLET illustrating 36 authentic patchwork stitches; or the RAG RUG LEAFLET, will be included with orders for both books for the present, but the offer may be withdrawn at any time. Leaflets are 6 cents each when ordered without books.

Everyone should have copies of these two books containing 96 HOW TO SEW articles by Mrs. Spears, that have not appeared in the paper. Send your order at once to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Undersea Painters
9-Day Railroad
Thwarting Thunder

SEVERAL European artists, dressed in divers' suits and using weighted equipment and thick oil colors that do not run when in contact with water, have painted pictures while standing on the bottom of the sea, sometimes 50 feet below the surface.

The world's longest continuous railroad journey today is on the Trans-Siberian Express between Moscow and Vladivostok, Russia. Although the distance is only 5,812 miles, the running time is 8 days and 21 hours.

After 12 centuries, the houseleek, Sempervivum tectorum, a common evergreen plant, still is grown on roofs in many villages of several European countries to protect the houses from thunder.

The Peruvian Indians clean their tall straw hats with white-lead paint, which eventually makes the hats as rigid and heavy as steel helmets.

Spirit of Progress

A country is in a good, and sound, and healthy state when it exhibits the spirit of progress in all its institutions and in all its operations; and when with that spirit of progress it combines the spirit of affectionate retrospect upon the times and the generations that have gone before and the determination to husband and to turn at every point to the best account all that these previous generations have accumulated of what is good and worthy for the benefit of us, their children.—Gladstone.

$50,000 Autograph

The United States Declaration of Independence was signed by 56 representatives, and W. Randolph Hearst, who began collecting signatures many years ago, now possesses 36 of them. Among them is that of Button Gwinnett, who signed for Georgia, and whose signature is the most prized by collectors. There are only 34 in existence, and one, ending a letter written by Gwinnett in 1776, was bought by Dr. Rosenbach a few years ago for no less than $50,000! A few years previously Dr. Rosenbach had given $28,500 for a similar specimen.

There are other valuable signatures, but none quite so sought after. A letter signed by Henry Fielding has fetched $3,500. Dickens' signatures can still be obtained for round about $1,000, and six years ago Bernard Shaw's were selling for $750.

Among politicians, Disraeli's signature is the most valuable, and will fetch anything from $250 to $2,500. The signatures of painters, politicians, and actors are worth at most a few pounds, and no knowledgeable collector will pay more than a few pence for even the most famous film star's handwriting.

Farmer Giles Found A Happy Equilibrium

Farmer Giles had married and all the village was talking.

The bride was some twenty years younger than her husband, and, said the villagers, this was not right.

Eventually the rumor got to the ears of Giles himself.

"Everybody's talking about you," began a friend. "They're sayin' you had no right to marry so young a girl as you did. The disparity is too great."

"Don't you believe it," said the farmer. "There's no disparity at all, for every time I looks at my wife I feel twenty years younger, an' every time she looks at me she feels twenty years older!"

Will Give Public Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carlson, newly wedded couple, through the columns of this paper, invites the people of this community to a reception at the Nazareth Lutheran church parlors on Wednesday evening, July 19th. Mr. Carlson said that they wished to give the people of this community a treat that everyone could take part in and wish to take this opportunity of doing so. He also said gifts were not expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hanson of Huron, S. D., and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson and Dorothy took a three day motor trip last week end to Winnipeg, Kenora, Fort Francis and Bemidii.

Thomas and Louis Smeby of Karlstad visited at the H. Moberg home Sunday afternoon. Joyce Moberg and Russel Hams returned home with them after spending two weeks visiting friends and relatives at Karlstad.

A double birthday party was held at the Dick Hanson home on Sunday for Ed Hanson and O. J. Hanson to celebrate their 77th and 75th birthdays. Many gifts were presented to both. A delicious dinner was served, the table being graced with two beautifully decorated birthday cakes.

This item came from Inverness Montana, Ed Hanson being a former resident east of Holt.

Life of Mrs. Edwin Johnson

Funeral services were conducted for the late Mrs. Edwin C. Johnson on Friday afternoon. At the Erickson and Lund Mortuary in Thief River Falls a large crowd of Holt and former Mud Lake residents along with many relatives gathered for brief services conducted by Rev. T. C. L. Hanson. From there a cortege was formed and services were conducted at St. Hilaire in the Lutheran Church by Rev. M. L. Dahle, assisted by Rev. Hanson.

Mrs. Johnson, nee Peterson, was born April 9, 1877 at Austin, Minnesota where she resided until her marriage to Mr. Johnson, September 1st, 1893. They resided for six years at Hartland, Minn., in Pine County for a year, then returned to Hartland to reside for seven years, and later lived at Middle River for two years before Mr. Johnson homesteaded in Mud Lake where they lived 27 years before moving to their home at St. Hilaire, where she died Monday evening July 3rd, from the effects of a stroke suffered some time ago, at the age of 62 years.

Mrs. Johnson is survived by her husband and ten children, six daughters and four sons: The children are: Mrs. Luella Sovde of Oklee; Mrs. Palma Kolken and Mrs. Anna Swan of Holt; Mrs. Myrtle Gregerson of Chisholm; Herbert Johnson of Middle River; Ruby, Verna, Ernest, Kenneth and Ahlert Johnson at home. She also is survived by five sisters and three brothers Miss Julia Peterson, Mrs. Inger Rhule, Mrs. Ollie Johnson, Mrs. Nettie Thompson, Paul, Ben and Thomas Peterson all of Austin, Minn.; and Mrs. Clara Pabst of Pasadena, Calif., and other relatives.

Mrs. Johnson wil live in memory as a staunch and true pioneer mother, who, with her husband, brought up a large family under pioneer conditions. Bad roads and distances did not hinder her from sending the children to school, and taking part in church work. As she passes on she leaves behind her this family who are every one a credit to her work well done.

She was laid to rest in the cemetery east of St. Hilaire. There was a wealth of floral offerings.

The pall bearers were Hilmer Moberg, C. O. Larson, Knute Nelson, Mike Leiran, Melvin Olson and Olaf Dahl.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reed Jr., and Mrs. John Reed Sr., and sons of Thief River Falls spent Monday at the Leo Horien farm picking Juneberries.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
© The Safety Man

The world world was shocked recently at the loss of three submarines, American, English, and French. Everybody spoke about the terrible loss of life and expresed sympathy for the wives and families of the men who died under water. Hundreds of thousands of dollars will be spent to bring those submarines to the surface, if it is at all possible, and to determine the cause of these terrible accidents.

While we are descussing these submarine fatalities, have you and I thought about the daily traffic toll? Ten times more persons were killed by automobiles on our highways during the days we were discussing these submarine accidents than died in the submarines. These families deserve sympathy, too.

You and I can help to eliminate these accidents by driving carefully and by supporting the many safety campaigns sponsored by organizations.

Crops and Soils Day

Tuesday, July 18, has been designated as Crops and Soils Day at the Northwest School and Station. According to Agronomist R. S. Dunham of the Northwest Station, great interest on the part of farmers is shown in the behavior of grain varieties under the heat and drought conditions which prevailed in early summer.

A full program for the day has been arranged with the Red River Valley Crops and Soils Association meeting at 10.00 a. m. and the speaking program and plot visitations scheduled for the afternoon. Outstanding plants breeders and pathologists will join the Northwest Station staff in the presentation of facts pertaining to crop production.

White Perjury

All falsehoods told on the witness stand are not punishable as perjury. When a lie relates to some immaterial matter, no crime is committed. Also, one who loses a case by perjury cannot sue the lying witness. Any prosecution for perjury belongs to the government in whose court the trial took place and is based not on the damage to the victim but on the abuse of public justice.—Collier's.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

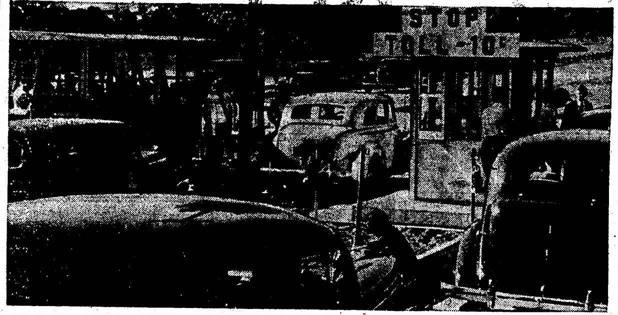
Connecticut Tries Toll Roads a la Lending Plan



Toll roads like Connecticut's new $20,000,000 parkway system would become commonplace throughout America under President Roosevelt's original $3,860,000,000 lending plan, which provided funds for construction of self-liquidating highways and bridges. Connecticut's experience provided a bird's-eye preview of public reaction to the plan, which departs from the traditional free highway system. Many motorists protested Connecticut's 10-cent fee, but they paid anyway.

School Children Examined in Mass Poisoning

A thorough examination is in order for these youthful victims of Staten Island's recent mass food poisoning "epidemic," which struck 368 students in 41 public schools. New York school officials investigated the epidemic and found it the result of tainted food served to the children during school hours. Emergency hospital resources of island towns were strained to the utmost. Left: Abraham Churchrow, investigator for the federal bureau of food and drugs, carrying canisters of food to be analyzed.

Gov. Long Promises Louisiana Purge

Earl K. Long, recently inaugurated governor of Louisiana and brother of the late Huey ("Kingfish") Long, has promised the state a "ruthless purge from within." Long, former lieutenant-governor, replaced Gov. Richard W. Leche, who resigned because of illness, postponed his resignation when Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of the state university, disappeared, and then announced his final resignation. Smith, accused of embezzling $100,000, had previously quit his post. Long is pictured here with his wife, an ardent movie camera fan.

Donkey Cart Returns to Tokyo Streets

Japan's war-time economy has resulted in the reappearance in Tokyo of the old-time donkey cart, used to transport goods on even the busiest streets. Gasoline, an important munition, is so valued that a drop of it is now compared to a drop of blood. Charcoal burning automobiles, a new invention, have also made their appearance.

She Gives Sea Shells

Winners of the recent seaside fete at Long Beach, Calif., were awarded with golden shell trophies by Miss Jane Walsh, who handed out the prizes given in connection with the city's annual surf, sun and sand celebration on the famed silver strand.

Depleted Reserve

Fate gave Charlie Fung, Chinese newsboy, a 50-50 break recently when fire broke out in New York's Chinatown. He was away when flames destroyed the rooming house where he lived, taking several lives. But $1,000 of his carefully collected savings went up in smoke. He risked his life to save the remaining $800 in silver.

Cool, Easy Frocks For Midsummer Use

DO YOU go in—or rather out—for active sports? Then there's a place in your life for the pretty play frock (1767) with short tennis skirt, sunback, and bright bands of braid. A little short-sleeved jacket and head kerchief are included in your easy pattern. In pique, gingham or chambray, it will make your vacation smarter and gayer.

Are you looking for something cool, becoming and different for daytime? Then 1778 is just what you want! A square-necked, youthful basque frock, with circular skirt, upped sleeves and a tiny waistline, it will look summery and refreshing even on the hottest day, with your big hat and white shoes. For this, choose silk print, linen, gingham or lawn.

1767 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 5½ yards of 35 inch material without nap. 2½ yards of braid.

1778 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Size 14 requires 4⅝ yards of 35 inch material with short sleeves. 1¾ yards of trimming.

Strange Facts

Regional Moods
Ears to Hear With
Who Is Perfect?

Motion-picture producers, wishing to adapt movies to different regional tastes, have been known to make pictures with two types of endings—a tragic one for the East and West coasts and a happy one for the Middle West.

Among the remarkable physical features that have been produced in animals through selective breeding are the enormous ears of the "lop-eared" rabbits. Some on record are six inches wide by twenty-eight inches long.

The tropical American vine called the ceriman, Monstera deliciosa, bears a peculiar fruit that resembles a pine cone and is about a foot in length. This fruit deteriorates inch by inch as it ripens, and must be eaten as it matures, a period that extends over several days.—Collier's.

Identical Twins

Many cases where parents could not distinguish between their own twins are on record. Yet only 30 out of 100 pairs look, act and behave alike. Twins do suffer similar ailments. In England, a pair had toothaches at the same time, had identical teeth extracted. Another pair, living 100 miles apart, suffered rheumatic attacks at the same time. Twins often get identical ideas. One visiting Scotland bought a gift for his brother. Returning to England, he found his twin had bought a duplicate gift for him.—Washington Post.

Star Dust

★ New Irish Contingent
★ Olivier Reaches Top
★ Pseudo-Scraps on Air

By Virginia Vale

THERE seems to be a new cycle starting in the movies, one involving young actresses who hail from Ireland. If they have red hair and green eyes so much the better.

Let me refer you to Greer Garson as a starter. She was launched in this country in "Goodby Mr. Chips," you know, and is a red haired, green eyed beauty. Geraldine Fitzgerald is another product of the Irish theaters. Maureen O'Hara, who arrived in this country with her mother recently, also with Charles Laughton, is the latest example. He felt that she should play "Esmeralda" when he does "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" for RKO.

She was born and brought up in Dublin, studied at the Abbey theater's school, and did a few bits in British pictures before she appeared in his "Jamaica Inn."

As she was just 18 everyone was prepared to give her all the encouragement they could, since she'd be in the company of experienced players. But after the first few days they discovered that she didn't need it. In fact, they had to be on their toes to keep her from walking off with the picture.

MAUREEN O'HARA

Perhaps ambitious youngsters who want to land in pictures would do well to rush to Ireland, achieve red hair, and start in with the Abbey Players, if this cycle is to continue. The only difficulty would seem to be acquiring green eyes, and exceptional ability to act.

If you read that delightful novel, "Rebecca," which until recently led so many best-seller lists, you'll be interested to know that Laurence Olivier has been signed to play the role of the hero.

Although he is young, Olivier has had years of experience on the stage and in the movies, but until this year he never reached the heights. Now it seems as if everyone wants him for a new production. He is appearing on the New York stage in "No Time for Comedy," with Katherine Cornell, and you can see him giving an even better performance in "Wuthering Heights," opposite Merle Oberon, than he gives in the play. He'll be perfect for the part of "Max de Winter" in "Rebecca."

*

If a brand new squabble breaks out between two radio stars, don't be surprised, and don't take it seriously. There isn't a really good feud raging on the air now, and radio stars discovered long ago that feuds whip up interest in their programs.

The best one of all took place years ago, between Rudy Vallee and Will Osborne, but that one was rather serious. Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie started theirs on purpose, and kept it going for years. A certain press agent has been trying to start one of those serialized battles between Sammy Kaye and Kay Kyser, with the question of which one originated the idea of singing song titles as the bone of contention, but be it said to the everlasting credit of Kyser and Kaye that they're too proud to fight.

Pat Friday, the 17-year-old co-ed from the University of California, who is singing on Bing Crosby's program this summer, will probably be a top-notcher in movies and radio in a few years. Crosby heard her sing at an amateur night at a Beverly Hills restaurant, and recently she made her coast-to-coast debut on the air, under his direction. The telephone switchboard at the Hollywood NBC studios was promptly jammed with inquiries about her, and the following morning two movie companies offered her contracts. She turned them down; wants to work only in radio until she finishes her college course, two years from now.

*

ODDS AND ENDS—"One Man's Family" has again been named the best serial dramatic program on the air in the annual Radio Guide poll . . . But in the same poll the Charlie McCarthy program won six awards . . . Errol Flynn has passed his U. S. Department of Commerce tests and has a private pilot's license . . . Bette Davis has had to shave her eyebrows and forehead to play "Queen Elizabeth"—the studio will have to give her a vacation after she finishes, to let them grow in again.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Make a pattern for chintz-covered lamp shades.

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I have a pair of lamps for my dressing table, and I would like to use some of my curtain material to cover plain shades. Can you tell me how this is done? C. H."

Here is a method that is shown for a living room lamp in Book 1. It may be used for a shade of any size. You will need the top and bottom rings from an old lamp shade. A cardboard foundation is cut to fit these, and the chintz or other fabric is pasted to the edge of this.

The AB line in the pattern diagram is as long as the diameter of the bottom ring. The dotted vertical line is approximately as long as the depth of the shade. The CD line is as long as the diameter of the top ring. Draw the diagonal lines to touch the ends of the AB and CD lines. Place a tack where they meet at E. Place a pencil through a loop in a string, as shown, and draw the bottom line of the shade making it as long as the measurement around the bottom ring plus a half inch. Shorten the string and draw the top to fit the top ring allowing for a half inch lap.

NOTE: Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, and No. 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroideries, are now 15 cents each, or both books for 25 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders at once, as no more copies will be available, when the present stock is sold. Your choice of the QUILT LEAFLET showing 36 authentic patchwork stitches; or the RAGRUG LEAFLET, will be included with orders for both books for the present, but the offer may be withdrawn at any time. Leaflets are 6 cents each when ordered without the books.

Everyone should have copies of these two books containing 96 How to Sew articles by Mrs. Spears. Send your order at once to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Whatever Else Might Be Said—He Was an Optimist

The fight was between two heavyweights, Puncher Smith and Killer Jones. In the first round, Puncher hit the floor hard five times, and just before the bell went down for a full count.

The winner was rushed to the mike where he said a few modest words. By this time Puncher had come to, and staggered to his feet. The announcer coaxed him to say a few words.

Puncher tried to keep his knees from collapsing. He heard sounds like the chirping of thousands of birds. Then he said to the mike: "Ladies and gentlemen—this is the greatest fight of my career—and may the best man win!"

JUST FUN

Disadvantage

Boogy—Truth is stranger than fiction.

Woogy—Yes, but it's seldom so well expressed.

Notice in a doctor's surgery: "Ladies in the waiting room will please not exchange symptoms. It gets the doctor hopelessly mixed."

Novelty

He was a gangster, and so crooked he couldn't shave with a straight razor. He stood in the witness box, his right hand raised.

"Do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth?" droned the court clerk.

"Soitenly," he promised. "I'll try anything once!"

Casus Belli

Officer—Can you describe your assailant?

Victim—Of course I can; that's what he hit me for—describing him.

Home-Like

"No, thank you, I'll stay at home," said a man who had been invited to join a party visiting the zoological gardens. "My eldest daughter does the kangaroo walk, my second daughter talks like a parrot, my son laughs like a hyena, my wife watches me like a hawk, my cook's as cross as a bear, and my mother-in-law says I'm an old gorilla! When I go anywhere I want a change!"

Difference in Inches

Little Tommy was asked the difference between prose and poetry. He pondered a while and then said: "There was a young man named Rees, who went into the sea up to his ankles.

"That's prose," he said, "but if the water had been a few inches higher, it would have been poetry."

Competent Judge

Two burglars had broken into a tailor's shop and were busy sorting out some suits when one of them saw one marked $65.

"Bert, look at the price of that one," he said. "Why, it's downright robbery, ain't it?"

No Go!

She had been planning an ambitious cruise on a luxury liner, and the house was full of guidebooks and tourist pamphlets. Her husband was heartily sick of the whole matter, and at last he burst out:

"It's not a bit of good your studying those steamship company's booklets. I keep telling you beggars can't be cruisers."

Our Presidents

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON was the oldest President when inaugurated. He was sixty-eight.

Zachary Taylor had never held any political office prior to his election to the Presidency.

The following Presidents were United States ambassadors: John Adams, Jefferson, Monroe, J. Q. Adams, Van Buren and Buchanan.

When Lincoln was inaugurated there were five ex-Presidents alive: Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan.

Five Presidents, Madison, Monroe, Polk, Buchanan and Garfield, had the name of James.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was the last President to be inaugurated on March 4 and the first to be inaugurated on January 20.

Pink Mayonnaise.—Mayonnaise can be given a decorative pink by the addition of tomato catsup or cooked tomatoes.

• • •

To Ripen Pears.—Pears are ripe enough to serve when the flesh yields slightly under gentle pressure of the fingers. To hasten ripening, wrap the fruit in several thicknesses of paper and store in a room of moderate temperature. To retard ripening, place in the refrigerator.

• • •

Stippling Linoleum.—If your linoleum is showing signs of growing old, try painting and stippling it. First remove wax and grease. Then use a good floor enamel or paint, put on two coats, and stipple. A plain color shows footprints too easily.

When Jar Covers Stick.—To remove covers from preserve jars place the jar top downward in a dipper of hot water (not boiling) and allow it to remain five or ten minutes. Remove the jar from the dipper and insert a steel kitchen knife at different points under the rubber. This will let in the air. The cover then can be removed easily.

• • •

Handy Duster.—The duster with a long handle is a convenience for the housewife who has a bad back.

• • •

Aid to Golfers.—If the strap on your golf bag makes your shoulder sore, take a piece of old sheepskin and mount it on the strap with the wool inside.

• • •

Removing Finger Marks.—Sweet oil will remove finger marks from varnished furniture.

• • •

Getting Ready to Can.—Zinc covers for fruit jars should be washed, then dipped in a solution of soda, dried, and allowed to sun for several hours.

• • •

Add a Little Blue.—To take away that faded look from boys' flannel suits, dissolve a little powdered blue in boiling water and add this to the soapy water in which they are washed. They will come out really fresh and new-looking.

ASK ME ANOTHER ?

A Quiz With Answers Offering Information on Various Subjects

The Questions

1. Why is the speaker of the house of representatives so called?
2. What country is the Land of Cakes?
3. How big a trunk did the Charter oak have?
4. What is the oldest parliament in the world?
5. Is there a word descriptive of the feeling of annoyance one has in a noisy place?
6. About how much of the world's habitable land surface does the British empire cover?
7. Is there a tropical valley in Canada caused by hot springs?
8. How does Victoria falls compare with Niagara falls?
9. What is a poganip?
10. Do Pacific salmon always return to the stream where they were hatched in order to spawn?

The Answers

1. The name was borrowed from British parliament.
2. Scotland is so called from its oatmeal cakes.
3. Nearly seven feet in diameter. It was in Hartford, Conn., and blew down in 1856. Its age was computed to be nearly 1,000 years.
4. The Althing of Iceland is the oldest parliamentary assembly, having celebrated its 1,000th anniversary in 1930.
5. The word is dysacousia.
6. About one-fourth.
7. Many stories have been written about this legend. The hot springs exist but they have no effect upon the climate.
8. The chasm of Victoria falls in South Africa is only about one-half as wide as that of Niagara, but more than twice the depth.
9. It is a dense winter fog containing frozen particles, formed in the deep valleys of the Sierra Nevadas.
10. In a great majority of cases, the returning salmon reach not only the same parent stream, but even the same small tributary. They die within a short time after spawning.

Their Own Medicine

There is an old proverb which says: "The cobbler's family go the worst shod." Probably he's too tired at the end of the day to worry about repairs to his own or his family's shoes. What about other trades?

The strenuous life of butchers demands the eating of plenty of meat. Very few vegetarians, if any, follow the butcher's profession. Tobacconists are generally heavy smokers.

Sweetshops give permission to their employees to eat whatever they fancy. Most of the girls sample every new sweet that comes in. Investigation proved that while some girls are inveterate sweet eaters, others are soon surfeited. Most opticians wear glasses.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Watch For Marked Hoppers

In another of a series of experiments to learn the migration habits of grasshopper, approximately 5,000 of the crop-destroying pests, marked with a silver spray, were released Thursday in the Red River Valley.

T. L. Aamodt, assistant state entomologist in charge of the control campaign, said the migration problem is the big one now in the state and additional informations on actions of the hoppers will be helpful in combating possible flights from the Dakotas.

"The marked 'hoppers were released by Al Buzicky of the Northwest Agricultural station at Crookston, about four miles northeast of that city," said Mr. Aamodt.

"They may fly as much as 50 miles by nightfall. Some 'hoppers have been known to migrate 200 to 300 miles if wind conditions are right.

"If anyone observes any of these silver 'hoppers, it will aid our control cauge greatly if information as to where they are picked up is forewarded to Mr. Al Buzicky, Crookston.

Planting Trout In Streams

Last week marked the opening of trout planting time in Minnesota, when over three million fingerlings and yearlings were hauled by truck and baggage car from the state state hatcheries and rearing ponds to the hundreds of streams of the state, according to the state division of game and fish.

The trout that were hatched last fall and winter have reached a size of three to five inches and compose the bulk of the plantings. However, a substantial start has been made in rearing trout to a catchable size, and these will be released in streams near the hatcheries.

One hundred thousand of these yearling have grown to a length of from eight to ten inches in one pond alone at the Lanesboro state fish hatchery. Others have been reared at Glenwood, St. Paul, Detroit Lakes, and French River. A series of rearing ponds is being constructed at Crystal Springs, near whitewater state park, where fish will be raised to catchable size before being released in streams.

In a number of Minnesota communities, local sportsmen's organizations, in co-operation with their local game wardens and the division of game and fish, are operating rearing and hatching ponds for panfish to stock local waters.

The bass, crappies and sunfish raised in these ponds are distributed in the fall of the year when they reach fingerling size, with a good chance for survival under favorable conditions.

New ponds have been developed at the Mounds Park hatchery, St. Paul, and the ponds at Glenwood hatchery are being reconstructed and improved.

The state division of game and fish is working as rapidly as possible toward a program of raising fish to a larger size before distribution is made, but this is a program that must be developed gradually.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
© The Safety Man

back in 1903, Charles F. Young was the speed demon who literally burned up the track at Mount Holly, New Jersey, with his single-cylinder, eight horsepower, four speed, double chain drive auto. It had a breath-taking speed of 35 miles an hour, and driver Young usually came in first.

Today some people insist on going through a busy thoroughfare, past school houses, and other dangerous locations on our highways at, not 35, but 55 and more. A car traveling 60 miles an hour, hitting a dead object, has the some force of impact it would have if it were dropped from the top of a 10-story building to the pavement.

Mr. Victoria Cyr and family of Minneapolis left for their home this week after spending some time visiting at the Saxberg home.

Mrs. C. Hagglund visited a few days last week at the John Olberg home near Middle River.

New Model City To Be Shown at New York Fair

NEW YORK (Special)—A magic carpet ride through space two miles above "Democracity," the perfectly integrated garden city of tomorrow, will feature the central theme exhibit of the New York World's Fair which opens April 30, 1939.

The exhibit, created by Henry Dreyfuss, industrial designer, will be dramatic in form. It will reach a stirring climax when, out of the distant skies above the floating audience, will troupe marching legions of workers, symbolizing the interdependence of man in modern civilization.

Nearer and nearer they will tramp, until the whole arch of heaven is filled with towering figures, arms upraised, singing the song of tomorrow. As the final strains of this marching air die away, great streamers of colored light shoot forth from the zenith, drenching the sky from horizon to horizon in all the hues of the rainbow.

"A Dramatic Show

This dramatic show will be housed in the eighteen-story Perisphere, companion structure to the 700-foot Trylon, which constitute the architectural focus of the Fair.

An entirely new method of projection, utilizing slides instead of film, will be employed to throw the moving figures on the sky. New methods of fluorescent lighting will be used.

The garden city itself will be a model—one of the largest ever built and the first to portray a full-size metropolis catering to a million people and complete in every last detail. This city of tomorrow will serve 1,000,000 people, but no one will live in it. Homes will be in suburban developments. Factories also will be located in satellite towns, and broad green belt areas will circle both city and towns.

Model City Possible

City planners, engineers, architects, landscape architects, airport specialists and other experts collaborated on the design of "Democracity," and so accurate is the model that, according to Mr. Dreyfuss, it could be given concrete reality today were sufficient funds made available. Blueprint drawings have been made not only of street layouts, harbors, airports, athletic fields and civic centers but of traffic and pedestrian over-passes, theatres, hospitals, shops, bridges, dams and apartments.

The entrance to the theme exhibit will be high up on the side of the Perisphere fifty feet above the ground. Access will be by means of the two longest moving stairways ever built in this country. Visitors will enter on two levels and step on to two magic carpets or revolving platforms placed one above the other and moving in opposite directions.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson assisted Rev. and Mrs. P. B. Trelstad of Middle River to move to their new home at Montevideo on Friday. He spent Friday night at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hanson of Milan. He was also accompanied by Miss Gertrude Nohre who was met at Montevideo by her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Starr and will spend some time visiting at the latter's home in Delhi. Rev. Hanson returned Saturday afternoon.

Blueberry Harvest Time

Blueberry time has arrived in Minnesota, and pickers are anticipating a bumper crop in the hundreds of berry marshes throughout the northern section of the state.

Picking blueberries in commercial quantities requires a lot of backbreaking toil, but with thousands of people gathering the tasty native fruit, the aggregate amounts to a sizable industry

Last year, a survey was conducted in one small area of about 900 acres near Moose Lake, and it was found that in this territory alone, 31,368 quarts of berries were picked. Valued at 10c a quart, this amounted to $3,168.80. From a number of northern Minnesota points, blueberries are shipped in carload lots as well as by truck to the metropolitan markets.

The following spent Thursday evening at the Sagstuen home the honor guest being Louis Sagstuen who was celebrating his 23rd birthday: Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Johnson and Gloria, Mr. and Mrs. H. Moberg and Walter, Gerald and Bertha, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Larson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Peterson and son, Mr. and Mrs. Carsten Sagstuen and family and Mr. and Mrs. Lars Ring and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. Myers and baby.

Mrs. Sam Leiran and Eleanor of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Johnson and Gloria, Mrs. John Hoffman visited at the L. Sagstuen home Saturday evening.

Mrs. John Reed and family of Granite Falls, Minn., Mrs. Lundeen of Adams, N. D. visited over the week end at the L. Sagstuen home.

The Holt Community Band Concert held at the H. Inman farm Sunday was well attended. The band has been progressing wonderfully in their playing. The refreshment stand was well patronized.

Appointed New Commissioner

Governor Stassen announced Friday the appointment of Lewis H. Merrill of Hntchinson, game and fish director, as acting state conservation commissioner pending a final decision on the ouster proceedings against Herman C. Wenzel, suspended commissioner.

Merrill, who was appointed game and fish director about a month ago to succeed H. E. Speakes, who was fired, will succeed Lester C. Badger as acting commissioner. Badger has been acting commissioner of the Conservation department in addition to his duties as Governor Stassen's secretary.

E. R. Starkweather, deputy director of game and fish, will take over direction of the division while retaining his deputy title during Merrill's service as acting commissioner. Merrill has been mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Wenzel as commissioner, but Governor Stassen said he is making no announcement at this time as to a permanent setup.

The hearing on ouster proceedings against Wenzel was concluded Thursday, Governor Stassen said he will set a date for final arguments before him as soon as he receives the 2,000-page transcript of the hearing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Forsythe of International Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Tice and Norma Fae of Mentor and Mrs. Cecil Leas of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Mrs. Cora Teal of Mentor visited at the G. Sanoden home Monday of last week.

A large crowd was present at the Ice Cream Social held on the church lawn sponsored by Circle 7 of the Nazareth Ladies Aid Sunday evening. Rev. Fjelstad of Thief River Falls gave a very inspiring address. There were several other numbers on the program and a concert by the local band.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wegge and Beverly of Thief River Falls visited relatives here Sunday. They also played with the local band at the concerts.

Smart Patterns in Midsummer Styles

IF YOU'RE looking for a gracious, sophisticated afternoon fashion in women's sizes, you will be delighted with 1763. Cut on true princess lines, it is beautifully slim and graceful. The shirred vestee and narrow roll collar give a pretty, soft, dressy touch, and it has the simplicity that you like in midsummer. For this, choose silk crepe, georgette or chiffon.

Dutch Mode for Tots.

Cool comfort and cuteness for tots is assured by 1765, a simple pattern including playsuit, pinafore and air-conditioned little bonnet. You can really make a whole summer-full of daytime clothes for your little girl, using this one easy design. It's so quick and easy to make. Gingham, linen, percale and seersucker are nice cottons to choose for this.

The Patterns.

No. 1763 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires, with short sleeves, 4 yards of 39 inch fabric without nap. ¾ yard of contrast for collar and vestee.

No. 1765 is designed for sizes 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. Size 2 requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch material, without nap, for pinafore, ⅞ yard for playsuit, ½ yard for bonnet. 8½ yards of braid or bias binding.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Map shows how France and Great Britain, aided chiefly by Turkey, have strengthened their positions in the Mediterranean against further aggression by Italy and Germany. New Turkish pacts with London and Paris, leading to an anti-dictator Balkan bloc, have kept European diplomats busy while British and French fleets strengthened their positions. Many observers think the Rome-Berlin axis has been "stymied" by these democratic counter moves.

Production of western beef may be more profitable to many New York dairy farmers than raising milch cows, according to Carl H. Frink, Clayton, N. If Frink's experiment is successful, it may alter the entire economic situation of dairymen.

GROWERS TRY NEW STRAINS OF CELERY

Combine High Quality and Disease Resistance.

By R. A. EMERSON

Celery growers are testing four new strains of cross-bred celery this spring, combining high quality and disease-resistance of the parent stocks.

Developed by the joint efforts of the departments of plant breeding and vegetable crops at Cornell, the new strains are a cross of the old Golden self-branching variety with the high quality and disease resistant green variety Giant Pascal. The growers have selected four strains for trial.

The new strains are said to be highly resistant to the yellow fungus, a serious celery disease in New York state. Though not all the celery land in the East is infested with the fungus causing the disease, the affected areas are extending more widely every year.

However, if growers continue to raise varieties that are susceptible to this disease, most of the muck land suitable for celery production will be infested before many years.

The cross-bed celery has better quality than most of the celery on the market today, he says. The plants were bred on the basis of length of stalk, thickness of stalk, and firmness; the resulting strains form thick stalks of celery that are "less stringy."

Good Breeding Birds Worth Protecting

Poultrymen who pedigree breeding are confronted each year with the problem of keeping breeding males in good condition from one breeding season to the next.

Since the progeny test is the basis of progressive poultry breeding operations, it is necessary that all males tested during their first year be kept until their breeding worth is determined. It is discouraging to discover that the best male, according to performance of his daughter in the laying house, has been beaten up by his mates during the summer months and cannot be used again for breeding purposes.

F. P. Jeffrey, instructor in poultry husbandry at the New Jersey college of agriculture, Rutgers university, says that because of their tendency to fight each other, it is unwise to allow male birds to run together in any large number unless they have access to a very large range which also provides a certain number of hideouts where the male can take refuge.

"A better system," Mr. Jeffrey says, "is to allow the males to run with females. It has been observed at the experiment station that three males with 100 females generally works out satisfactorily. This practice, however, is not desirable from the standpoint of sale of market eggs unless the eggs are given immediate cooling and retailed as quickly as possible.

"In case a valuable male breeder has been detected, it is worth while to keep him in a roomy, individual cage equal in size to one used for stud mating. The extra labor required in caring for him is well spent if he can be kept in good physical condition for the next breeding season."

Industrial Cycles Are Important to Farmers

Some of the nation's most important industries are "cyclical" in nature; their booms and poor times come in cycles, according to G. E. Brandow of the department of agricultural economics, Cornell university.

He cited buildings, textiles, and automobiles as the principal examples of industries that show these periods of activity and inactivity.

"The importance of industrial cycles to the farmer," he stated, "is mostly their part in causing changes in total business activity, which, in turn, influence the demand for many farm products. A long cycle in building is most important; its influence can be detected in the price of eggs and milk and in farm prices generally."

Mr. Brandow said the most important influence on profits in farming is the general level at which prices fluctuate or change. Industrial cycles and business activity do not cause changes in the general level of prices. he said, but they do explain many of the short-time ups-and-downs in prices and the time at which major changes occur in price levels.

Gardens Profitable

The farm garden returns as much from time invested as does any farm enterprise. The better the garden, the more returns it can make in food, fun, and profits to the family. Have the garden near the house. Odd moments can be spent there, and the lady of the house can easily gather the vegetables without waste of time. Nearness to the house also gives some protection against animals and thieves, but a permanent fence is the best insurance.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Star Dust

★ Film Folks on Stage
★ Ann Waited and Won
★ Kenny Signs Up to Talk

By Virginia Vale

HOLLYWOOD is planning for next summer, and you ought to do the same, if you're interested in seeing your favorite stars of the screen on the stage. It's all because of Charles Coburn, who has been an actor for the last thirty or forty years, and for the last two has been in Hollywood. During the last year he has appeared in "Idiot's Delight," "Made for Each Other," "Alexander Graham Bell," and the recently released "Bachelor Mother." And before long you will be able to see him with Carole Lombard and Cary Grant in "The Kind Men Marry."

But the project to give film stars stage experience is largely due to his experience as the guiding genius of the Mohawk Dramatic festival, which takes place each summer at Union college, Schenectady. There, experienced stars perform in well-known plays.

After his first year in Hollywood Charles Coburn discussed various faults of the motion picture industry with some of the directors and producers. He was asked to do something to remedy those faults—to start something like the Mohawk Drama festival, in fact. But he saw trouble ahead, with each big company demanding the leading roles in his theatrical productions for its stars. He felt that the best way out was for him to line up plays if some college would take over the festival. The University of California came forward, and now it seems to be all set. Stars, featured players, and even bit players and extras will have a chance to get theatrical experience—and the great public will have an opportunity to look on while they get it.

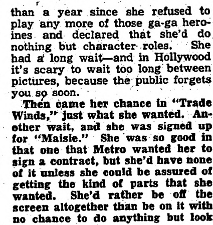
Ann Sothern deserves congratulations for knowing what she wanted and going after it, although sometimes the going was hard. It's more than a year since she refused to play any more of those ga-ga heroines and declared that she'd do nothing but character roles. She had a long wait—and in Hollywood it's scary to wait too long between pictures, because the public forgets you so soon.



ANN SOTHERN

Then came her chance in "Trade Winds," just what she wanted. Another wait, and she was signed up for "Maisie." She was so good in that one that Metro wanted her to sign a contract, but she'd have none of it unless she could be assured of getting the kind of parts that she wanted. She'd rather be off the screen altogether than be on it with no chance to do anything but look beautiful.

So—Metro gave her the contract that she wanted, and her first picture under the new deal will be "Busman's Holiday," made in England with Robert Montgomery.

New York had its picture taken from the air the other day, more extensively than ever before. A complete crew of cameramen and sound technicians spent several days shooting the harbor, the skyline, the World's fair, and everything else that they thought might be of interest to you when you see the forthcoming Walter Wanger production, "Eternally Yours." Mr. Wanger is doing everything possible for that picture; look at the names in the cast—Loretta Young and David Niven, Hugh Herbert, Billie Burke, Dr. Aubrey Smith, Zasu Pitts. If you pass this one up it won't be his fault.

Kenny Baker has a nice contract for next year, and Jack Benny will have to find a new singer to replace him. One of the big oil companies has lured Baker away, giving him a handsome salary, and a contract that will permit him to talk as well as sing, which Benny's sponsors didn't want him to do.

ODDS AND ENDS—Paramount is in favor of making Martha Raye a blonde for her next picture, and she doesn't like the idea . . . Maybe Sally Eilers was no lady when she dumped her ice cream soda into the lap of the woman who insisted on taking the seat Sally was reserving for a friend—but she was doing what thousands of ladies have yearned to do . . . When Dorothy Lamour went to Waukegan for the opening of "Man About Town" she was assigned to the hotel suite where she stayed when she eloped with Herbie Kay.

HOW TO SEW

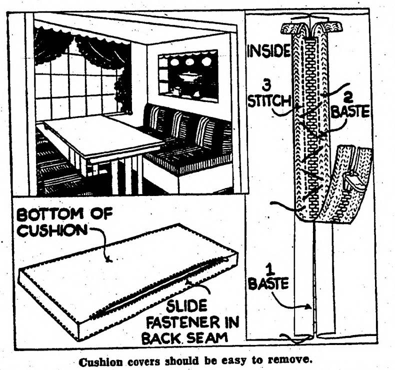
by Ruth Wyeth Spears



Cushion covers should be easy to remove.

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I have both of your books and they certainly have been a help to me. I followed your directions in Book 1 for making all of my slipcovers. Recently I started a wall hanging of crewel work embroidery that required many stitches that were new to me. I found them all clearly diagramed in Book 2, and was certainly glad I had it to turn to.

"I am now interested in covering seat cushions for our dinette. The children have both breakfast and their mid-day meal here. Can you suggest a material that will stand hard wear and that comes in bright colors? G. B."

Striped awning material would give good service and both you and the youngsters would enjoy the gay coloring in this much used corner. Green and orange stripes would be attractive, and this color scheme could be repeated in green curtains and orange paint for the inside of a cupboard. I have suggested slide fasteners for the cushions so that they may be removed easily for laundering.

Notice about book prices: Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator; and No. 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroideries, are now 15 cents each, or both books for 25 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders immediately, as no more copies will be available, when the present supply is exhausted. Your choice of the QUILT LEAFLET illustrating 36 authentic patchwork stitches or the RAG RUG LEAFLET, will be included with orders for both books for the present, but the offer may be withdrawn at any time. Leaflets are 6 cents each when ordered separately.

Everyone should have copies of these two books containing a total of 96 How to Sew articles by Mrs. Spears, that have not appeared in the paper. Send your order at once to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

AROUND the HOUSE

Items of Interest to the Housewife

Keeping Meat Fresh.—Vinegar rubbed over raw meat will keep it fresh.

* * *

To Brighten Aluminum.—To keep aluminum bright rub it with any of the acid fruit juices such as lemon or rhubarb, or let it stand in a rather strong solution for one-half hour.

* * *

Washing Windows.—A sponge and chamois make the best window washing combination. The sponge moistens the glass without spreading water, while the chamois serves as an excellent drier and polisher.

Improving Iced Tea.—Add a little grated orange and lemon rind to iced tea for a delicate flavor. A few chopped mint leaves placed in the tea when steeping also give a subtle taste.

* * *

Changing the Bed.—Many people prefer to change the bed more frequently, just changing the bottom sheet and placing the top sheet in its place, rather than changing both sheets at once and allowing a longer interval to elapse between changings. It does seem to freshen up things more often.

* * *

Use Underripe Fruit.—When making jellies do not forget to use fruits and berries underripe rather than overripe, for better consistency and flavor.

* * *

Treating Tile Floors.—Abrasives or bleaches have a tendency to roughen the surface of a tiled floor to the point where it becomes dirty sooner. For glazed tile on floors, use plain soap and water. Unglazed tile may be waxed and polished.

"No—she wanted to outdo the echo."

In Safety

"What's making you look so angry!"

"Nothing much; I cut myself with a safety razor, burnt myself with a safety match, and almost got run over reading a safety first notice."

Her Error

A film star was suing for breach of promise. The case had been going on for some days and the publicity, of course, filled the front pages of all the newspapers.

On the fourth day the judge received a note from the plaintiff.

"Please stop the case," it read. "I've just found out that the defendant is my husband."

"Darling," she exclaimed, "that's what I call a kiss."

Watering Flowers

IF WE would have the flowers of love blossom around us we must plentifully water them with the rain of appreciative words, and encourage them with the sunbeams of sympathy.

If the world is to find the richest treasures of genius and talent it must learn to have a sympathetic faith. Religion is not only the most powerful, but it is the most delicate of the influences that touch us; and that divine influence cannot thrive and increase within us, to warm and inspire the life, without it is nurtured by our sincere appreciation. The best things of life—love, peace, God—are "according to our faith."—Frank Crane.

BEER AND BRETZELS

AND now that happy days are here again — if you're not happy, maybe you're not making proper use of your new legal rights.

Let us see what they do with beer in the land where beer means "bretzels", and bretzels mean more beer—in Germany. There are probably no eating houses in the world which for picturesqueness can compare with the Ratskellers and Essig-hauses of Germany where Bavarian schnitzels are seasoned with Beethoven and Wagner, and where beer means hospitality and good cheer. A favorite quatrain, on the beer mats of German inns, translated, reads thus:

> "'Enjoy your life, my brother'
> Is gray old Reason's song
> One has so little time to live
> And one is dead so long."

Perhaps one reason Germans can enjoy their beer more than Americans do is because they are more discriminating about it. Realizing, for example, that beer and wine should never mix, they draw a line between restaurants which serve wine and those which serve beer. The wine restaurants are chic, but expensive, so in Germany, one does one's really serious eating and drinking in the beer houses. There, between twelve and one o'clock, are generous meals of soup, meat and vegetables and dessert, while later in the evening one goes to a wine restaurant for sandwiches, lighter foods and entertainment.

Here are "Happy Days"

Perhaps the best explanation of the charm of beer-drinking in Germany is the fact that the Germans eat the proper foods with their beer. Go into an inn where mugs of beer are slid across the bare table—it may be helles, light beer, or dunkel which is dark beer—and you will find great slices of dark bread, mysterious species of sausages, slabs of home-smoked ham with hard-boiled eggs, and enormous pfannkuchen, which are a cross between an omelet and a pancake. Or go, if you prefer, to one of the famous hotels of Heidelberg when the fruit blossoms are in bloom and the nearly-full May moon shines on the Neckar. You will find viands more rare, and cheese which boasts of greater vintage, but there, too, you will find that the foods that are served with beer are substantial foods that have a certain spice and tang.

One doesn't need to go to Germany, however, to get these foods. Many of them come in cans—inexpensive foods which our own grocers carry—and these can be kept always available on the pantry shelf. Here are some recipes for foods to go with beer:

Sauerkraut, Sausages and Apples: Heat the contents of one 1-pound can of sauerkraut and pile in the center of a large hot platter. Fry one pound of sausages (or the contents of a 9-ounce can of Vienna sausages) and arrange on top of the kraut. Around the edges place the apples. They are prepared by coring and paring six small apples and cooking them in a syrup made by boiling one cup sugar and one and one-half cups water and a few red cinnamon candies together. Turn the apples around often, so they cook and color evenly on all sides. Let them cook tender but not so long that they lose their shape. This serves six persons.

Corned Beef and Pickle Sandwiches: Chill a can of corned beef overnight in the refrigerator. Open, slide out the beef and cut in thin slices. Place a slice of beef on a slice of buttered rye bread, cover with a thin coating of chili sauce and then cover generously with lengthwise slices of pickle. Top with another slice of buttered bread.

STATES HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO SHOW WARES IN HUGE BUILDING AT NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK, (Special).—Included in the limited edition book of unusual size and beauty which the New York World's Fair 1939 Incorporated has sent to state governors and, through diplomatic channels, to foreign governments, is the following text devoted to. . . .

The Sovereign States of the Federal Union

George Washington, in declaring that the public felicity and prosperity of America depend upon the firm union and the unceasing cooperation of the sovereign American States, divined the future. The prosperity and the greatness of these United States have arisen from the free and unimpeded circulation of ideas and products in the world's greatest consumer market.

The Fair gives to each State the appropriate setting and opportunity to announce to the world its unique and indispensable contribution to America's rich and colorful civilization. The Fair contemplates a Hall of States, in the imposing Government group and flanking the structure which the Fair looks to the United States to build, to house the exhibits of the forty-eight States, and the Territories. Those wishing to participate more extensively will, in addition to their exhibits in the Hall of States, either erect their own buildings or obtain space to display their products and attractions in one or more of the exhibit zones.

The State of New York has naturally taken the leadership in the participation of the sovereign States of the Federal Union. Its total appropriations for Fair purposes may exceed $5,600,000; and the New York State World's Fair Commission, appointed by the Governor, has been active for some time. Other States already are beginning to express enthusiastic interest in participating more extensively than at previous world's fairs.

The many visitors will find a fresh cause for pride and enthusiasm in the revealing exhibits of their respective States. But beyond this, the exhibits will enable the States to make a persuasive presentation to all visitors of what they have to offer to the consumer and to the tourist.

Watch For Marked Hoppers

In order to study the distance and direction of flights of grasshoppers, Mr. Al Busicky, connected with the grasshopper control program, released 5,000 grasshoppers last week in the Crookston area. These were sprayed with a silver paint. This week Mr. Busicky will release another 10,000 from the territory east of Angus. These grasshoppers will be sprayed with a different color paint, than the origional release.

Mr. Busicky is very anxious to have people finding any of these grashoppers to send them to him at the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston, Minnesota or to the County Agent's office at Warren. When these grasshoppers are sent in, please furnish the section and township where they are found.

Five Day Fair Opens Monday

Officials of the Pennington county fair are expecting to smash previous attendance records at this year's fair which opens at Thief River Falls Monday and continues through Friday. Three entirely different programs of entertainment will be presented during these five days. On the opening night WLS radio artists will perform. A new Ernie Young revue, coming direct from Chicago with a cast of fifty people will be presented the next three days and on Friday afternoon and evening, Flash Williams, who was featured at the Minnesota State Fair last year, will present his thrill program. Afternoon programs will include horse racing and vaudeville and circus acts.

Ferne Peterson left for Bemidji Sunday afternoon to attend the last session of summer school at the Teacher's college. She was accompanied by her grandfather, C. O. Saastad, who spent a few days fishing and visiting relatives.

Many Attend Reception Here

One of the largest gatherings in recent years was present at the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Alton W. Carlson on the lawn of Nazareth Lutheran Church on Wednesday evening of last week. It was estimated that there were between 500 and 600 people present from the Holt and Middle River communities. Benches were set up on the lawn between the church and the parsonage to accomodate this large group. The program opened with 2 selections by the Holt Community Band. This was followed by a reading by Mrs. Wright, of Middle River. Mrs. O. H. Nohre rendered a vocal solo. Mr. E. M. Evans of Middle River spoke in behalf of the Middle River folks present. Following this was a piano solo by Mrs. Clayton Stordahl of Gatzke. Rev. T. C. L. Hanson gave a talk on behalf of the community and a welcome to the church and community. The program closed with a number of selections by the Band. Following the program, Mr. and Carlson took their places on the north side of the church where hundreds of well wishers were given the opportunity to meet and greet the newlyweds. Mr. and Mrs. Carlson served very fine refreshments which consisted of sandwiches, cake, ice cream and coffee. Besides this a large quantity of lemonade and a number of boxes of cigars were consumed. Circle No. 3 and No. 7 were in charge of the serving. Mrs. Carlson was formerly Agnes Herseth, a Concordia College graduate and last year taught at the high school at McIntosh. Mr. Carlson is well known in the Holt community and is the proprietor of Carlson Mercantile Co. All the guests enjoyed this fine gesture of Mr. and Mrs. Carlson and will be remembered as one of the most pleasant occasions of the community. The News joins the church and community wish the newlyweds abundant joy, happiness and prosperity in their new home in this community.

Peterson Is New Mail Carrier

Walter Peterson of Gatzke arrived here last week to take over the job as rural mail carrier on route No. 1. Mr. Peterson has spent a few years in this line of work at Gatzke and was transferred here because the route there was discontinued due to the Mud Lake area being vacated. He will move here with his family as soon as they can get living quarters. The News joins Holt and vicinity in bidding them welcome.

Historical Society Picnic

Conservation Club Meeting

The Northwestern Minnesota Association of Conservation Clubs will hold its annual meeting in the Municipal Auditorium at Thief River Falls, on Monday, July 31st. The business session will start at 4:30 in the afternoon, election of officers will be held ot 7:30. The officers have arranged an interesting program and lunch will be served. It is anticipated that there will be a controverary over the question whether or not the association recommend an open season on chickens.

Arvid Carlson Is Chairman Of Boy Scout Troop Committee

Installation of a Boy Scout troop at Middle River, and investure of 10 youths as tenderfoot scouts were completed by officers of the Lake Aggassiz council Wednesday night.

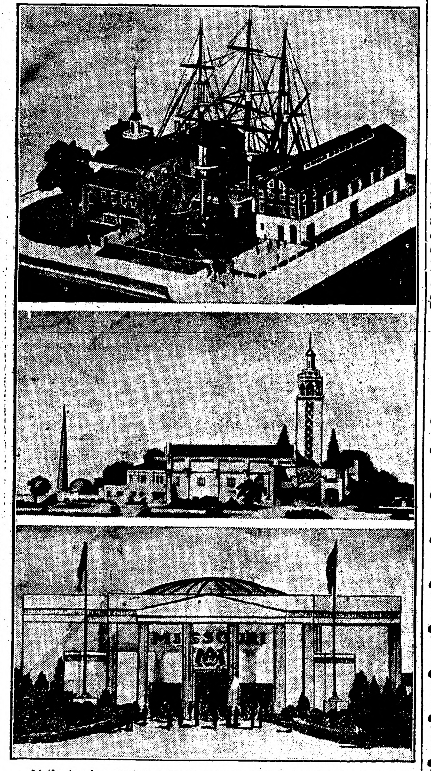
The new troop is under the auspices of the American Legion post there. Clarence Nelson has been named scoutmaster. On the troop committee are Arvid Carlson, chairman, Wellington C. Searl and K. L. Halverson.

Representing the council were Robert Hadlich of Grand Forks, chairman of the organization extension committee; Dr. C. L. Wallace of Grand Forks, president of Wesley college and a member of the Boy Scout national council; and Glen H. Prather, council executive, also of Grand Forks.

Scoutmaster and Mrs. Hartley Peterson, and the following Scouts, Jerome Sorum, Russel Sanoden, Howard Lorentson, Wayne Larson and Harley Engen attended from Holt.

Stilaf Anderson has now gone back to full time at his job as bookkeeper at the local bank. He hauled mail on route 1 the past winter and this spring.

Typical State Buildings At New York Fair 1939



At the top is a model of the New England Building for the New York World's Fair which opens on April 30, 1939. The scene is a typical New England waterfront with a 135-foot sailing vessel lying at dock. On one side is a merchant's warehouse; on the other, a two story structure indicating the Bulfinch contributions to New England architecture.

In the middle is the Florida exhibit which will occupy 2½ acres of ground and will depict the citrus industry, phosphate mines, animal life and other resources and advantages of the state.

At the bottom is the building of the state of Missouri in which will be shown the industrial, agricultural and recreational life of the state.

473 Arrests Are Explained

State Highway patrolmen have proved that their chief, Elden Rowe, meant what he said when several weeks ago he warned motorists against venturing on the highways with improper equipment.

During the month of June, 473 motorists were arrested by state patrolmen for improper equipment, of which faulty brakes and lights comprised major items. This compares with 204 arrests for the same cause in June of 1938. During the past June, 1,060 arrests were made and 950 more drivers were issued warning tickets for traffic violations, a repetition of which may result in arrest.

Speed too great for roadway and traffic conditions brought about the arrest of 111 motorists.

"Our traffic law enforcement is not a hit and miss proposition," Chief Rowe said, "but is patterned after the results of careful studies of the time, the day, the cause, the place, and the seriousness of accidents reported. There still seems to be entirely too great a misunderstanding of Minnesota speed laws. In zones posted for speed limits, these limits are absolute. On highways not zoned and posted, the speed of over 60 miles per hour in the daytime, or 50 miles per hour at night, is prima facia evidence of illigal speed. On all highways speed in excess of that warranted by the condition of the road or the volume of traffic is cause for arrest, under the heading of 'Speed too great for conditions'."

Patrolmen aided 4,371 motorists during June, of which 2,055 were stalled on the road, and atteded 121 accidents. Among major causes for arrest were 91 for driving through stop signs, 75 for careless driving, 65 for drunken driving, and 43 for dangerous passing.

Mrs. Janna Oppegaard, Mrs. M. O. Oppegaard, Misses Nancy and Janna Oppegaard and Misses Helene and Mary Ellen Locken, all of Crookston, all of Crookston visited Rev. and Mrs. Hanson on Friday.

County Lot Sale August 31

More than $30,000 worth of village and city property in Marshall county will go on the auction block on August 31 commencing at 10 a. m. under the forfeited tax laws adopted by the state legislature in the sessions of 1935, 1936 and 1939, according to a decision of the county board of commissioners in semi-annual session the first week in July.

The board has completed the appraisal of the city and village properties and set August 31 as the date of sale. No property can be sold for less than the appraised value, although any amount over the appraisal will be accepted during the public sale.

Terms of the sale were also adopted in a resolution, the terms providing that all lots with an appraisal of less than $250 shall be paid in cash, and properties appraised over $550, not less than 25 per cent of purchase price must be paid in cash at time of purchase, but the minimum down-payment shall not be less than $250 and the balance in three annual installments bearing four per cent interest.

Sale of tax forfeited unplatted real estate or agricultural lands which have been appraised by the board will take place later in the fall.

The village of Argyle has the largest amount of tax forfeited property with an appraisal of $10,791.00. The appraised value of forfeited properties in other municipalities in the county follow: Warren, $5,689.00; Holt, 4,142.00; Alvarado, 4,020.00; Middle River, 3,423.00; Newfolden, 55.00; Oslo, 3,353.00; Radium, 127.50; Stephen, 490.00; and Viking, $990.00. The total appraised value is $30,000.

A. O. Aspelin and Caroline and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson and Dorothy returned home Wednesday after a trip to Yellowstone National Park, Big Horn Mountains of Wyoming and Black Hills of South Dakota.

Missouri Meerschaum—From Cob Bin to Cob Pipe

Home of the Missouri meerschaum is peaceful little Washington, Mo., famous as the birthplace of the corn-cob pipe. Smoked by Alaskan sourdoughs, Congo chieftains and many an average man, these pipes are sold everywhere in the world. Left: After cobs are sawed into pipe lengths, the piths are bored out and master workmen turn the cobs into pipe-bowl shapes on power lathes. The cob is burnished and its pores filled with plaster of paris. Center: Surplus plaster is removed and first coat of varnish applied. Then punching machines fashion stem openings and after another coat of varnish, the pipe is ready. Right: Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York smokes his flame-scarred favorite corn-cob pipe at his desk. Other famous corn cob pipe smokers whose testimonials are on file include Marshall Foch, General Pershing, Sen. Bennett Clark and H. L. Mencken.

From Seattle to New York Via Northwest Passage

Envied by rocking chair adventurers are Dr. Homer Flint Kellems, skipper of the tiny ship Pandora, his daughter and his crew. The Pandora will sail from Seattle to New York through the Arctic sea and the famed Northwest passage, the trip to take approximately three months. Pictured at front: Dr. Kellems and his daughter, Vivienne. Other members of the crew include a cook, photographer and engineer. Inset: Leo Clark, radioman, who will maintain contact with the outside world. The little ship is expected to dock in New York in October.

Gotta' Match, Buddy?

It's going to be tough, but Bobby can do it. For the past six months this three-year-old Brockton, Mass., lad has been smoking cigars, cigarettes and a pipe. Now his mother, Mrs. Clyde Nordquist, says he's going to replace tobacco with candy. The reason: Too much publicity.

To Press Demands

Poised in Japan's "hot seat" as war with China is augmented by an apparent war with Russia on the Outer Mongolian-Manchukuoan border, Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma tried to encourage his people by discrediting the Russian conflict's importance, nevertheless pointing out that Japan will continue to press her demands for fishing and forestry concessions from the Soviet.

Where Jews Build a New Homeland

Strongly reminiscent of the pioneers who helped build America are these Jewish settlers in Palestine. A Jewish girl stands guard outside the settlement at Tel Aviv, in the Holy Land. Armed with a shotgun, she takes her turn at sentry duty while the menfolk work. Even the aged must work, remaining constantly alert for raiding Arabs who resent his seeking a homeland.

Roman Fire Laddies Practice Rescues

A second Nero would have little chance to fiddle while Rome burned. These young men, members of the Roman fire department, are shown at their Italian training camp as they practice rescues with scaling ladders. The fire-fighters carry out their drills as if they were engaged in military operation.

BIRTH RATE DROP HURTS MILK PRICE

Need Seen for Increased Use by Adults.

By LELAND SPENCER

The decline in the number of young children is one reason for the reduced use of milk the past few years, according to the New York state college of agriculture.

The declining birth rate calls for special efforts by the milk industry to push the general use of milk as a drink by adults, and especially to break down the tendency of adolescents to switch from milk to other drinks.

Efforts should also be continued to find ways to get fluid milk at less cost to families of low incomes. This is the surest way to ward off the substitution of other forms of milk for fresh milk.

As for dealers' "spreads" on retail milk in nine important markets of the United States, the spreads were reduced during the depression, but are now larger than ever.

The inability of milk dealers to reduce their spread on retail milk is the main reason for the less friendly public attitude toward them the past few years. Those acquainted with the situation, however, know that the chief obstacle to reducing the spread is high wages and the difficulty of using less labor, especially for retail delivery.

As to the outlook for the milk industry during the next two years, the Cornell milk marketing specialists say much depends on the trend of commodity prices.

Green Vegetables Needed For Well-Balanced Diet

Even before the searchlight of food research was turned on leafy, green vegetables their value in human nutrition was pretty generally appreciated. Today they have an important place on the list of "protective foods"—a way nutritionists have of designating foods with a very high dietetic rating.

Leafy, green vegetables merit a place on this list chiefly because they are rich in both iron and vitamin A. Many of them are also very rich sources of calcium. These three nutrients, according to a recent nation-wide survey, are food essentials in which American diets are often low.

Green leaves are also excellent sources of vitamin G. Thrown in for good measure are considerable amounts of vitamin C and Vitamin B1. Leafy vegetables, in addition, contribute bulk or roughage, some of which is usually desirable in the diets of persons in normal health.

Aerial Photos Offer Accurate Farm Record

With the advent of the Agricultural Adjustment act, and the need for accurate field measurement to check compliance with the soil conservation program, aerial photography came into its own as a cheap, quick, indisputable method of land mapping.

Accurate field measurement is important under the AAA because conservation payments are made at a specified rate per acre of land planted. Prior to the use of air photography, a number of methods, ranging from the old measuring wheel to surveying, were used.

Cost of checking performance from the air is about one-third less than the earlier methods of land measurement. Air photography costs about four cents per acre as compared with six cents per acre under older measuring methods. The cost is included as part of the administrative expense deducted from payments to farmers.

Farm Facts

Mushrooms have been cultivated commercially in the United States for less than a half century.

• • •

The importance of live stock in Ohio agriculture is shown by the figures for farm income in 1938. Sales of all farm crops brought $63,881,000 but the sales of live stock and live stock products totaled $218,685,000.

• • •

Success of artificial insemination in breeding of dairy cattle, tried for the past three months in six southern-tier counties, has led officials of New York state college of agriculture to sanction the method for use by dairymen throughout the state.

• • •

Farmers now pay approximately $1,500,000,000 annually for power and power machinery but before the World war they sold power in the form of work animals for several hundred million dollars annually.

• • •

One cord of barnyard manure or other well-rotted organic material per 5,000 square feet of garden is recommended as the first fertilizer to apply to the garden. This may be supplemented with superphosphate or with a balance fertilizer as needed.

Man Changeth

Do not think that years leave us and find us the same.—Meredith.

There Are Two Ways to Get at Constipation

Yes, and only two ways—before and after it happens! Instead of enduring those dull, tired, headachy days and then having to take an emergency medicine—why not KEEP regular with Kellogg's All-Bran? You can, if your constipation is the kind millions have—due to the lack of "bulk" in modern diets. For All-Bran goes right to the cause of this trouble by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this toasted nutritious cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if your life isn't a whole lot brighter! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Companions

They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

★ Spending Money Isn't All

★ Delay Brings New Lead

★ Alec a Top Notcher

By Virginia Vale

WELL, it's happened again; a "B," or low-budget, picture has turned out to be a lot better than many an "A"—or picture on which the studio shoots the works. Every so often somebody does an intelligent bit of work with a "B," and it draws audiences like a magnet, and people who can take the movies or leave them alone—and usually leave them alone—exclaim that, if all movies were as good as this one, they'd go frequently.

The picture in question is "Five Came Back," an RKO product, produced by Robert Sisk. It's probably Mr. Sisk's fault that the picture is so good, though due credit must be given to John Farrow, who directed it, and to the good script and excellent cast.

For Mr. Sisk had ideas about pictures. He thinks that it is more important to have a good story and a group of actors who really can act than it is to spend lots of money on a picture, achieving spectacular effects. If you remember "The Informer" and "A Man to Remember," for which he was responsible, you'll see what he means.

He didn't have stars for "Five Who Came Back"—the budget wouldn't allow it. So instead he engaged Joseph Calleia, Lucille Ball, Wendy Barrie, C. Aubrey Smith and Chester Morris. The plot, dealing with the forced landing of an air liner in a jungle and the effect on the passengers, wasn't new—but it has been well handled, and the dialogue is exceptionally good.

You may recall that "Northwest Passage" ran into difficulties last fall, just as shooting was about to begin. Payette Lake, Idaho, was the chosen location, and early snows in the mountains made it impossible for the company to work.

ROBERT YOUNG

The picture finally got started a week or so ago, but the postponement made changes in the cast necessary. So, instead of seeing Robert Taylor in the lead, you'll see Robert Young, and Walter Brennan will replace Wallace Beery.

—*—

Paramount, making a film based on the life of Victor Herbert, is so set on getting all details right in this picture version of the famous composer's career that Herbert's daughter has been signed up as technical advisor. Allan Jones and Mary Martin, who couldn't get anywhere in Hollywood until she went off to New York and made a hit on the stage, are the stars.

It looks very much as if autumn would find a new radio star with us. He's Alec Templeton, the blind pianist who has made frequent guest appearances on the air, and now has a regular spot on Tuesday evenings. He plays classical music superbly, and does parodies and musical sketches which are among the most amusing things in modern broadcasting—his recent performance of "Three Little Fishes" as a Handel oratorio, with Templeton singing, in a very good voice, had broadcasting circles predicting a big future for him.

Conrad Nagel, of stage and screen fame, is master of ceremonies on the program, which is one more thing to be grateful for—his diction and voice are good, and he has none of the plushy solemnity which so many announcers seem to think is necessary.

ODDS AND ENDS—Sammy Kaye and his band are touring again; don't miss them if they give a concert in your neighborhood . . . Gabriel Heatter always carries an "Emergency" script in his pocket, in case one of his scheduled guests for "We, the People" fails him, so if you hear him launch into a three-minute history of the program you'll know that somebody failed to turn up . . . Be sure to see the March of Time's "The Movies March On"—although it runs for only twenty minutes it's one of the most interesting things seen on the screen this year . . . Ginger Rogers proves in "Bachelor Mother," that she's one of the screen's top-notch comediennes, silencing for all time the people who have considered her just a good dancing partner for Fred Astaire.

HOW TO SEW

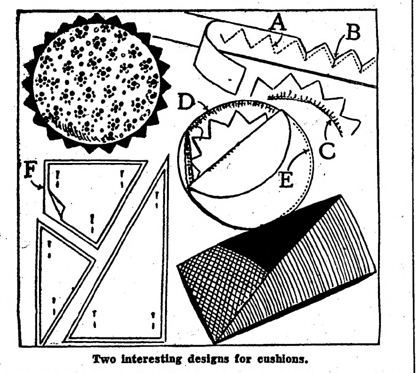
by Ruth Wyeth Spears



Two interesting designs for cushions.

"DEAR MRS SPEARS: I like to make interesting cushions—in summer bright cotton covered ones and silk covers in the winter. The cost is nothing as I find that after the waists of dresses are worn out, there are still parts of the skirts that are good enough to give long wear when made into these covers. J. B."

Thanks, Mrs. J. B., for that suggestion, and here are two covers that you might like to try. To make the contrasting edge for the round one, stitch two-inch strips together in points as at A, trim as at B clipping between the points then turn right side out. Pull out smoothly and press, then gather as at C. Stitch to one section of the cover as at D, then stitch the two sections together leaving an opening for the cushion.

To make a pattern for a modernistic patchwork cover, cut a rectangle of paper, then divide it into sections as shown. Use these sections as patterns to cut the fabric adding a seam allowance as at F.

Flying Is Risky Business, As Viewed by Pedestrian

A pedestrian crossed a traffic-filled street while looking up at an airplane overhead. Three buses shaved him so closely that his beard didn't appear again for a week, the wind from six passing cars raised the nap on his last year's suit, one five-passenger car removed the shine from the back of his left shoe, and the drivers of seven other assorted makes, while stripping their gears in an effort to avoid him, stripped their vocabularies of high-powered adjectives.

After stumbling over the curbstone on the farther side of the road, the pedestrian was heard to murmur, "My gracious, those airmen lead dangerous lives."

Items of Interest to the Housewife

Keep Oils Cool.—Store oils, such as olive or vegetable, in the refrigerator. They are likely to become rancid when opened unless they are kept chilled.

• • •

To Inform You.—Read the labels on canned foods. Many tell the number of slices contained in the can. Others give additional useful information about the contents.

• • •

Care of Bread Box.—Summer calls for diligent cleaning and airing of bread and cooky boxes, pantry and cupboard shelves and refrigerators. Since bread molds easily in the summer, it is best to buy just enough for each day's needs.

• • •

Washing Knitted Goods.—When laundering sweaters or knitted suits be careful not to stretch them while wet or they will be too large when dried. Before washing, lay the garment on some light-colored paper and trace about it with a pencil. When it has been rinsed fit the garment into the tracing and lay paper and garment on a Turkish towel to dry. Drying may require two days, but the fitting will be correct.

• • •

Position of Trellises.—Trellises should be a foot to 18 inches away from a wall. This gives air a chance to circulate and gives you a chance to spray the back of the vine.

• • •

Stains on Ash Trays.—To remove cigarette stains from brass ash trays, rub the trays with a paste of salt and vinegar. Then wash them well in hot water and soap suds.

Strange Facts

Expensive Stop

Reached for Sky

Bars That Don't

When a heavy passenger train makes a sudden emergency stop, the full application of the brakes to every wheel may wear away as much steel as a normal year's service and may result in as much as $1,500 worth of damage.

Few plants equal a species of British toothwort, Lathraea squamaria, in its efforts to reach daylight. One, which happened to germinate at the bottom of an abandoned mine shaft, extended itself to the top, a distance of 120 feet, although the normal height of this plant is only six inches.

When the automobile was commonly called the "horseless carriage," many names were proposed for the new invention, among them being autogo, autokinet, autovic, cabine, carleck, gasmobile, ipsomotor, kineter, sineque and victorine.

When Hodja, a famous jester of Turkey, died in the Fourteenth century, he was buried in the little town of Akehir, and a large, chained gate was placed in front of the tomb. No wall or fence was ever attached to it and visitors still smile at this "jest for the jester" as they step around this heavily padlocked gate to see the grave.

'Clothed in Gold'

A gold-plated silk fabric is described in Industrial and Engineering Chemistry. A silk dress is impregnated with a solution of a gold salt, which is then decomposed chemically, leaving a coating of pure gold upon the fiber, at a cost of about $3 per yard. When the dress is worn out, the gold can be recovered and used again. The garment was recently exhibited in England.

SEWING CIRCLE

THE afernoon dress with v-neckline, slim skirt and shirred bodice (1779) is unusually pretty for those of you who take women's sizes. Make it for hot days with short, full sleeves; repeat it later on, with the narrow roll collar and long, snug sleeves. Voile, chiffon, georgette, silk print and thin wool are pretty materials for it.

Dress With Jacket-Blouse.

A classic two-piecer that will give you loads of wear on your vacation travels as well as summer days in town, is 1783. It brings you a sleeveless tennis frock with sunback, that becomes a smart little summer suit when you add the fitted jacket-blouse. Thus you can solve two important clothes problems with this one easy pattern. It will be charming in linen, gingham, pique or sharkskin.

The Patterns.

No. 1779 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4⅓ yards of 39 inch material with short sleeves and no collar; 4⅞ yards with collar, and long or short sleeves.

No. 1783 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 4⅜ yards of 35 inch material, without nap, for frock; 1¾ yards for jacket. 4 yards of trimming.

NEW YORK FAIR 1939 IN CONSTRUCTION STAGE

NEW YORK (Special).—The $900,000 Administration Building of the New York Fair is under roof some 22 months in advance of the exposition's opening date and in August will be ready for occupancy by the hundreds of specialist workers who conduct the business of the "industry" and advance development of the $125,000,000 world event. The corner stone of this first major Fair building was laid on April 27 in the presence of many notable figures in national life.

The Administration building, shown as progressing in actuality and by an artist's sketch, is the Fair Corporation's workshop and showroom. While the 1216½-acre site of the exposition is today the scene of much and varied activity, with several exhibit pavilions going up this year, the majority of the 300 buildings necessary to housing the exposition are scheduled for construction in 1938. By midsummer of next year, it is estimated, fully 15,000 persons will be employed in building activities where only a year ago there was nothing but waste land.

Issued Weekly From The Home Of The Biggest Co-operative Creamery In Marshall County

H. O. Hanson, Publisher; Mrs. Mabel Hanson, Editor | Holt, Marshall County, Minnesota, Friday, Aug. 4, 1939. | Volume 29, Number 14

Rye Loans Offered Cooperators

Rye loans will be offered cooperators who have stayed within their total allotment for the farm on rye grading No. 2 or better to be stored in suitable farm storage. Acceptable storage will be such storage as is acceptable for wheat storage on the farm. Loans will be at a rate of 22c less than applicable 1939 loan rate for No. 2 Hard Winter Wheat but not greater than 38c per bushel. 38c per bushel will be the prevailing loan rate for Minnesota. In addition to the loan rate of 38c, a storage allowance of seven cents per bushel will be paid for a period ending July 1, 1940, providing rye is delivered to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Many people from here attended the Marshall County Historical and Old Settlers Picnic at Newfolden on Sunday. It was estimated that about three thousand people were there.

Harold Gavere came home Saturday after spending the past three weeks in Minneapolis.

John Anderson Passes

John Anderson, a pioneer of Marshall County for 36 years passed away at the home of his son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Micheal Leiran, July 29, 1939 at the age of 79 years, 8 months and 19 days. He was born December 10th, 1859 in Haabol Vestre Eide, Sweden.

On November 24, 1887 he was united in marriage to Olava Johanson and to this union was born three sons and three daughters. They resided in Fredriksdal seven years they moved to Oslo, Norway. In 1903 they immigrated to the United States and settled on a homestead in Section 26, town of Whiteford where he made his home until 1938 when he went to live with his daughter and son-in-law in town of Agdar.

He was preceeded in death by two sons and one daughter who died in infancy in Norway, also his wife who died 21 years ago at the old homestead in Whiteford township.

He leaves to mourn his passing two daughters, Mrs. Helga Leiran of Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Esther Broberg of St. Paul; one son John L. Anderson of Middle River; seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren and many other relatives.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Holt at one o'clock and at Silver Creek at two. Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiated.

Honorary pall bearers were: Christ Dahl, John Moberg, August Johnson, Christ Norbeck, Knute Nelson, Hilmer Moberg, Anton Sagstuen and Ole Balstad, Olaf Dahl and Martin Moberg.

Active pall bearers were: Geo. Moberg, Ole Moberg, Ludvig Sagstuen, Arnold Sannes, Selmar Leiran and Carsten Sagstuen.

Interment was made in Silver Creek cemetery.

Historical Records Survey Of The Bethlehem Norwegian Lutheran Church

The Bethlehem Lutheran church is located on the SE 1-4 of the NE 1-4 of Section 8, New Solum township, Marshall County, Minnesota and is about six and a half miles south of the village of Newfolden.

Religious services were held in the community by Rev. Bersvend Anderson as early as 1883 but there was no church organization until May 10 1884, when, at a meeting held at the home of Hans S. Hanson, a constitution was adopted and the following officers elected: Hans S. Hanson, president; R. C. M. Nelson, secretary; Ole Hanson, Christian Hanson and G. J. Vigen, trustees.

In the beginning the official name of the congregation was "Evangelisk Lutherak Menighed i Marshall County". Another meeting was held at the home of Hans Hanson on Feb. 28, 1898, for the purpose of incorporating as "The Bethlehem Congregation of the Hauges Norwegian Lutheran Synod". There were eleven members of the congregation present at the meeting. Carl Hanson acted as chairman of the meeting and Peter Dyrud was elected secretary. Nels F. Melvie was elected president of the new corporation and Andrew Paulson, Carl Hanson and Paul T. Olson, trustees. In 1917 the church became affiliated with the Norwegion Lutheran Church of America. At present (1939) the congregation is served by the same pastor as Zion Lutheran church at Viking, the First English Lutheran church at Strandquist and Bethesda Lutheran church in Marsh Grove township.

The first charter members included the following: Christian Hanson, Gunder Vigen, Ole Velle, Eric Tvet, Halvor Hellum, Ole Hanson, Ole Salverness, Retius Nelson, Reinhart Nelson, Paul T. Olson, Rasmus Nelson, Napoleon Nelson, Hans Hanson and Hans S. Hanson. Other early members were Carl Hanson, Lars Roseland, Iver Kregstad, John Kalseth, Hans Olson, Hannah Hanson, Trina Hanson, Andrew Dyrud, Ansten Olson, and Erik Hagen. Present membership of the church is 27.

Before a church was built, services were held in the homes of the members. A church was built of logs in 1884 on a two-acre site donated by Ole L. Velle. The deed bears date of January 1, 1885, the grantees being Chsistian Hanson, G. Vigen, and Ole Hanson, trustees of the Bethlehem Church Congregation. On May 25, 1899, a second deed was given by C. M. Rasmussen and wife to the Betlehem Congregation of the Hauges Norwegian Lutheran Synod covering the same tract. This second deed was given to correct a flaw in the title.

In 1898 the old log church was torn down and a new frame church was erected on the same site. A parsonage was bought in 1936. It is located in the village of Viking and owned jointly by the several congregations served by the resident pastor.

The present officers are: Melvin Ihle, president; Clarence G. Larson, secretary; Holterman Olson, treasurer; Melvin Ihle, Martin Nelson and Holterman Olson, Trustees.

The church records are not quite complete concerning the pastors who have served the congregation. According to "Who's Who Among Pastors" published by the Augsburg Publishing House in 1928, Rev. Bersved Anderson was stationed at Crookston from 1878 to 1894. He served twelve congregations scattered over a wide area and was the first pastor of the Hauges Synod in the Red River Valley. He preached in New Solum township in 1888 and organized the Bethlehem Congregation in 1884. The records of the congregation show that Rev. Anderson was called as pastor on April 7, 1885, but do not show how long he served after being called. Mr. Carl Hanson remembers that Lars L. Nervig and Peter C. Romo served the congregation for a time although their names are not found in the records. "Who's Who" shows that Rev. Nervig was engaged in Mission work in Dakota and Minnesota in 1884 and 1885 so he could have preached at Bethlehem in 1884. It is also possible the Rev. Romo served the Bethlehem congregation from 1889 to 1890 as he was stationed at Grafton, North Dakota then.

Rev. J. Westphal, 1891—1894.
Rev. Gustav Westerlund, 1894—1895.
Rev. August Bredeson, 1895—1897.
Rev. K. L. Kleveland, 1897-1900.
Rev. T. T. Boe, 1900-1902.

According to the authorithy quoted above, Rev. Adolph Krogstad was located at Edinburg, N. Dak, from 1896 to 1905, and at Crookston, Minn., from 1905 to 1907. So it is probable that Rev. Krogstad served at Bethlehem from 1903 to 1907.

Rev. Magnus Dahle, 1907-1909.
Rev. Iver L. Lasseson, 1909.
Rev. A. N. Skogerby, 1909-1919.
Rev. J. S. Brekke, 1919-1925.
Rev. John Hjelmeland, 1925-1927
Rev. Iver Lasseson, 1927-1932.
Rev. Harlan O. Peterson, 1932— and is there now.

The church has its own cemetery on the same lot with the church. The first interment was July 23, 1908, the name of the deceased being Thilda Olivia Swanson. Holterman Olson is sexton and keeps the record of interments.

The Norwegian language was used in the beginning. Not many services were conducted in English up to 1932, but since that date English has been used almost exclusively.

A Ladies Aid Society has been active ever since the church was organised but no complete record of their activities of earlier date than 1928, with the exception of the year 1920, has been found. The membership includes all the women of the church congregation. The present officers are Mrs. Holterman Olson, president; Mrs. Clarence G. Larson, vice-president; Mrs. Melvin Ihle, secretary; and Mrs. Louis Roseland, treasurer.

A Luther League was organized in 1934. The first officers were Mrs. Olga Oswald, president; Helen Silverness, vice-president; and Clarence Larson, secretary - Treasurer. The present officers are Raymond Tunheim, president; Eugene Tunheim, vice-president; Geneva Tunheim, secretary; and Clarise Olson, treasurer.

Four of the church pews, still in use, were made by Reinhart Nelson for the old log church about 1884.

OUR 1939 FLAX
Threshing Proposition

We have two flax threshing propositions to offer:

FIRST PLAN:

When your flax crop is ready for harvesting, and on receipt of proper instructions from you, we will arrange to swath and then combine your flax at a charge of $1.50 per acre and will, also, pay you $1.00 per ton for flax straw secured.

SECOND PLAN:

Is you have binder, you may use it making arrangements with our office. In using binder do not use twine, but bunch and then shock the same as when bundled or tied, and then after the bunches are properly cured, we will arrange to haul the bunches to the stationary combine in your field. On this plan, we will thresh your flax crop at the charge of 10c per bushel, and will, also, pay you $1.00 per ton for the flax straw secured.

Owner Is To Make Arrangement To Handle His Own Flax Seed

Naturally, we are interested in clean fields, but will accept fields that do not contain an excess amount of weeds and grasses such as quack, pigeon grass, wild oats, tumble weed, mustard, thistle or sweet clover. We are interested in long clean straw, and will cut your flax crop as close to the ground as possible, which is, also, necessary when cutting with the binder.

If interested in our proposition, we suggest that you communicate with this office now, and we will arrange to have our representative inspect your flax crop at an early date. Write us a postcard giving address, telephone number, location of field, and number of acres, also, when expected ready for harvest. Our representative will explain our plan in detail when he calls on you to inspect your field.

The Weather

The past week we have had two showers of rain. We had a good rain on Saturday evening and another on Tuesday. The farmers are busy cutting grain and report the crops are fair this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Patericks Beverly and Larry of Kansas City Missouri and Mrs. G. J. Conklin of Minneapolis visited at the A. C. Conklin home last week.

While they were here Mr. Conklin accompanied them to Lake of the Woods fishing.

Motorists To Respect Bikes

Too many automobile drivers overlook the fact that bicycle riders are just as much a part of vehicular traffic as is the person who drives an automobile or truck on the highways. As a reminder, W. F. Rosenwald, Traffic Engineer of the Minnesota highway department, issued a warning to all motorists to respect the rights of bicycle riders on Minnesota highways, and treat them the same as they would fellow motorists.

Under the terms of the uniform traffic act in Minnesota, bicycles are governed by the same regulations as are motor vehicles insofar as concerns obeying traffic signals, riding on the right side of the road, and signaling left turns.

Motorists all to frequently disregard the fact that a bicycle is entitled to the same privileges and the same respect as an automobile or truck, Mr. Rosenwald said.

Another habit he characterizes as all too prevalent among motorists is the sounding of horns when close behind bicycle riders. This habit often confuses or frightens the rider, and thereby creates a traffic hazard that is dangerous to both parties. The law specfically states that an overtaking vehicle shall have due regard for the vehicle overtaken. This applies to bicycles as well as automobiles.

The Gospel Duet Coming Here

The Gospel Duet, consisting of two young brothers, will be at Nazareth Lutheran Church on Wednesday evening, August 9th, at 8:15. The two boys, Telford and Oliver Pederson are from Benson. The former is a student at Concordia College and the latter is a graduate of the Lutheran Bible Institute, Mpls. and is a student at Augustana Academy, Canton, So. Dak. Their program consists mainly of singing sacred songs but along with this, there will be a meditation by Oliver and and instrumental numbers. These boys have travelled extensively this summer and this community is fortunate that Holt has been included on on their itinerary. The following evening, Thursday, they will render their program at Lanstad Lutheran Church, Gatzke. Since there is no admission charge, offering will be received to defray their expenses. The entire community is invited to attend this fine sacred program.

Announcements have been received of the marriage of Miss Edith Anderson of St. Peter to Mr. Alf Sather of Halstad at the First Lutheran Church at St. Peter on July 23. The couple were both former teachers in the Holt School.

Smart New Fashions For Now and Later

HERE'S a charming new pattern (1784) that gives you a pretty sleeveless dress, with a jacket that transforms it into the nicest kind of street suit. It's delightfully simple and cool—very easy to make, with flattering frills as the only trimming. Chiffon, georgette, silk print, flat crepe and linen are smart materials for this fashion.

Girl's Play Suit.

There's a place in every girl's life for the smart little play suit and suspender skirt that buttons all down the front. Cool, comfortable and easy-to-wear for summer play, it will be nice for school in the fall too. The shorts are becomingly flared, and the blouse has a becoming sports collar. Gingham, pique, linen and broadcloth are nice cottons for this outfit, 1786.

The Patterns.

No. 1784 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 6⅞ yards of 39-inch fabric, without nap for dress and jacket with three-quarter sleeves; 2½ yards of trimming.

No. 1786 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 10 requires 1⅜ yards of 35-inch fabric, for blouse; 1⅛ yards for shorts; 1¾ yards for the skirt, without nap.

Invents Snow Cruiser for Antarctic Trip

Dr. Thomas C. Poulter of the research foundation of Armour Institute of Technology is pictured with a model of the Antarctic snow cruiser, carrying a five-passenger airplane, which he will build for the United States Antarctic expedition setting out this fall. The completed snow cruiser will be 55 feet long, 10 feet high and 15 feet wide. The plane, carried on top, can be demounted in 10 minutes. Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, who will head the expedition, plans his latest dash to the pole for sometime in October.

What! No Chance of a Martian War?

There are no men on Mars and no men could live there. That was the opinion of three astronomers gathered at Cambridge, Mass. They are, left to right, Dr. Bart Bok, associate professor of astronomy, Harvard; Dr. Peter Vandekamp, director of Sproul observatory, Swathmore college, and Dr. Leo Goldberg, Harvard astronomer. Also pictured is a planetarium machine which duplicates motion of planets about the sun. The small planet between Dr. Goldberg's nose and the earth is Mars. The sun is the electric light bulb adjacent to Dr. Bok's neck, and the earth is at Dr. Vandekamp's shoulder.

HOW TO SEW

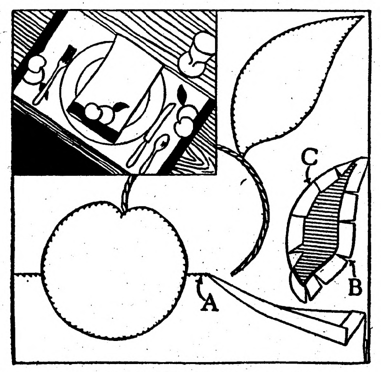
by Ruth Wyeth Spears



Design luncheon mat and napkin yourself.

WATCH any class of kindergartners cutting patterns from colored paper, and your fingers will itch to pick up the scissors and try it yourself. Why not? The luncheon mat and napkin shown here offer a suggestion for a way to use your cut-out designs for simple but effective applique work.

The long sides of the mats are hemmed and the ends faced with one-inch bands of green, as at A. The napkins are also hemmed on two sides and faced with green bands on the other two. The stem for the bright red cherry follows a circular line embroidered in green outline stitch. The leaf is of the green material.

Experiment with cutting the cherry and leaf in paper. When you have cut a design that pleases you, make a pattern in lightweight cardboard. Cut the fabric a little larger than the pattern, clip the edge as at B; then press it over the pattern with a warm iron as at C to make a firm crease. Remove the pattern, and sew the pieces in place with fine hemming stitches.

NOTE: Readers who have not secured their copies of my two books should send in their orders at once. Your choice of the CRAZYPATCH QUILT leaflet showing 36 authentic stitches; or the RAG RUG LEAFLET will be included FREE with orders for both books, for the present. Everyone should have copies of these two books containing 96 How to Sew articles that have not appeared in the paper. This offer will be withdrawn soon. Send order with 25 cents immediately to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill., and both books will be mailed postpaid.

Late-Term Congressional Bolt Looks Like Foretaste of 1940; G.O.P. Expect Victory in House

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CONGRESS:
Get Out of Town

As congress neared term's end, Franklin Roosevelt sat at his Hyde Park cottage with Democratic Chairman James Farley, talking and thinking. He could afford to do both, also to wish congress would get out of Washington in a hurry. Reason: The New Deal was being ground underfoot unceremoniously and indiscriminately in a manner that boded ill for any 1940 campaign plans the President might have. Moreover, everything indicated the poisonous Republican upsurge of recent weeks would rise to new heights in 1940. Expecting the 49 additional seats they need for a house majority, hoping for 16 new senate seats to make themselves a formidable minority, Republicans had the makings of a persuasive argument against the President's third-term ambitions. For if this happens, neither Mr. Roosevelt nor any other New Deal President could do much.

MARY NORTON
She might have stayed abed.

Equally important was what had already been done, not only by Republicans but conservative Democrats who found strength in coalition. The record of one week's insurgence:

Labor Board. New Jersey's Rep. Mary T. Norton got out of her sick bed to swallow bad medicine. Strongest foe of the bill offered by Virginia's Rep. Howard W. Smith to investigate the national labor relations board, she examined the record and found Mr. Smith had never cast a vote in favor of organized labor. Thus, when the house voted 253 to 135 to probe NLRB and (by custom) to place Representative Smith in charge, she felt justified in charging that he was "the last man in the world to pass on labor legislation or problems." New Deal poison here is that NLRB's alleged shortcomings publicized this summer and next winter will focus attention on the White House.

Hatch Bill. Passed by both senate and house, the "clean politics" measure of New Mexico's Sen. Carl M. Hatch is designed to keep relief out of political hands, and vice versa. Far more significant is that portion which forbids federal office holders from participating in national political conventions. Since 400 jobholders attended the 1932 G. O. P. pow-wow, and considerably more the 1936 Democratic convention, it is obviously the custom for pro-administration wheelhorses to write platforms and make nominations. Thus the New Deal will suffer at next year's Democratic convention because Mr. Roosevelt's best supporters may be absent.

Logan Bill. Passed quietly by the senate, this measure gave federal courts power to review acts of all federal quasi-judicial bureaus (like NLRB), striking the most severe blow at agencies created since 1933. Result: Administration and executive power would be badly crimped. Though last-minute senate reconsideration was possible, the bill was a cinch to pass if it reached the house.

Lending. Labeled by critics the "pump-priming bill of 1939," the President's pet $2,800,000,000 lending program fell to $2,490,000,000 passing through the senate banking committee where Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones became so exuberant in his praise for the bill that his tongue slipped. When he told the committee Reconstruction Finance corporation could handle the program two years with its present borrowing authority, smart Republicans jumped into the breach with a suggestion: Why, then, should congress bother legislating an entire new program when the same purpose could be accomplished by giving RFC a few new loan powers? In a sense this proved a Godsend; such action would put a hasty end to the last major measure still before congress. That done, the President's friends could get out of town until next winter.

DOMESTIC:
Nose Count

On August 15 someone in St. Joseph or Marshall county, Indiana, will hear a knock on his door. The 1940 census will be under way, tested at a cost of $20,000 prior to the most complete statistical inventory of the nation's resources ever attempted. Not until April will the official count be made by 140,000 enumerators working two weeks in urban centers and four weeks in rural areas. But from preliminary Indiana surveys the department of commerce will pick key questions.

No. 1 aim of the 1940 census is to check social trends. Since the depression changed social and economic status of most U. S. citizens, special emphasis will be placed on the following points:

Employment. Status of every citizen over 14 years of age during the week of March 24-30 will be checked, answering queries of many federal agencies.

Fertility. Great changes in reproduction rates among regions and in social classes have taken place since 1929. The census bureau hopes to verify its hunch that few U. S. cities are reproducing themselves.

CENSUS CHECKER AT WORK

Internal Migration. Depression brought big population shifts as people sought new jobs in new places. Not only will the 1940 residence be checked against 1935's, but the bureau will specifically check an away-from-the-farm movement.

Education. Replacing the customary illiteracy question will be one asking the highest grade of school completed, since illiteracy's problem is rapidly disappearing.

MISCELLANY:
Recall Recalled

In Michigan, 80-year-old Gov. Luren D. Dickinson added a radio speech to his earlier warning about sin and high life evils, then took his critics by surprise to endorse heartily a recall petition circulated by Detroit Republican John B. Corliss Jr. The petition was withdrawn.

Japan's Victory

In preliminary discussions at Tokyo, British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie recognized the necessity of extraordinary Japanese defensive measures in China, and abandoned Britain's program of aid to China, marking an about-face of British policy in the Far East that will pave the way for ultimate Jap domination of all China and expulsion of British (and probably other western nations') commercial interests there.

. . . Her Sorrow

Meanwhile Japan's economy—already sorely pressed by the long war in China—suffers from an unprecedented drouth in central and southern areas, threatening the all-important rice crop and causing a shortage of hydroelectric power. The electricity shortage is especially serious because Japan needs power for her speedup program of key industries. And funds ordinarily going for war purposes must be used for farm relief.

A President's Attendance Caused Flurry of Excitement in Church

One Sunday during the summer of 1917 the President suggested that we drive quietly over to Virginia and attend the service at the Pohick church, which was the place of worship of George Washington. When we arrived, the little edifice was well filled. Mr. Wilson, my brother Randolph and I were escorted to the Washington pew, given prayer books and left to ourselves. The service over, we were accompanied to the door by a member of the vestry and permitted to depart without any of the crowding about which usually attends the appearance of a President in public. Also I was impressed by the large congregation, for it was raining.

Afterwards Mr. Jervis, one of the secret service men, asked: "May I tell you a story?" This is the story:

Knowing our plans, Mr. Jervis had reached the church at 9:30, finding it closed and not a soul about. At the nearest house he inquired whether there was to be a service. The man did not know, but said that the preacher was holding Sunday school at his own home and that Jervis might inquire of him. At the minister's house Mr. Jervis found a young man instructing a group of barefoot girls and boys. Jervis asked the man whether there would be a service at the church, because the President had intended to come. "The President of what?" asked the clergyman. "Of the United States," replied Jervis. The minister looked at his caller sorrowfully. "Young man, are you ill?" he asked.

Jervis showed his badge, adding that the President and Mrs. Wilson were due in an hour. The minister clapped his hands. "Children, Sunday school is dismissed. All of you run home and tell your fathers and mothers the President is coming to church and I want a good congregation to welcome him." Then he turned to Jervis. "Young man, I must shave. You run over to the church and tell the sexton to ring the bell—vigorously." At the church Jervis found the old sexton opening the door. He gave the minister's message. The sexton's mouth stood open for a minute. Then he said: "Here, you ring that bell. It's just outside in a tree. I got to go home and shave."—Edith Bolling Wilson in The Saturday Evening Post.

"M" for Noon

According to the United States Naval Observatory 12:00 M is almost universally used to designate 12:00 o'clock noon. M in this connection is an abbreviation of "Meridiem," the accusative of the Latin "meridies," meaning midday.

Every dog has his day, says the proverb. And, judging by the row in my back garden, every cat has her knight.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Hold that temper! The value of keeping calm at all times, especially while driving an automobile is important.

Many times during your driving experience, you probably have felt like tearing apart the driver ahead of you because of some stupid act of his; what did you gain?

Be alert at all times and give some of these stupid drivers an opportunity to get out of your way. Do not let them cause you any embarrasment or involve you in an accident.

Keep your car under control at all times — travel the safe speed — and above all, "leave your goat" at home.

"It's Smart to Drive Carefully"!

NEW YORK FAIR 1939 IN CONSTRUCTION STAGE

NEW YORK (Special).—The $900,000 Administration Building of the New York Fair is under roof some 22 months in advance of the exposition's opening date and in August will be ready for occupancy by the hundreds of specialist workers who conduct the business of the "industry" and advance development of the $125,000,000 world event. The corner stone of this first major Fair building was laid on April 27 in the presence of many notable figures in national life.

The Administration building, shown as progressing in actuality and by an artist's sketch, is the Fair Corporation's workshop and showroom. While the 1216½-acre site of the exposition is today the scene of much and varied activity, with several exhibit pavilions going up this year, the majority of the 300 buildings necessary to housing the exposition are scheduled for construction in 1938. By midsummer of next year, it is estimated, fully 15,000 persons will be employed in building activities where only a year ago there was nothing but waste land.

Stassen Will Speak At Pelan

Governor Harold E. Stassen will be the main speaker at the Celebration of the Permanent Settlement of Roseau County to be held at Pelan Park on Sunday, August 20th.

Following his speech the governor will decorate the Roseau County Pioneers present who have lived in the county for fifty years. At the present time there are about seventy five known pioneers in the county who came there in 1889 or earlier.

These pioneers will each receive an award of Honor, which is being given by the Greenbush Band. The life histories and and pictures of these pioneers have been secured and will be filed in the Archives of the Historical Society.

The Historical Society under the direction of Mr. P. O. Fryklund will have an exhibit of Roseau County relics at the celebration and will also take part in the program.

The Great Northern Railway has a large extra gang crew here this week putting in ties.

Insurance Plan Streamlined

Wheat growers wanting to insure the 1940 crop, need only file an application and pay the premium before seeding time, points out Mr. Howard, chairman of the county AAA committee.

"The procedure for taking out crop insurance under the 1940 plan has been streamlined so that the grower can insure his wheat in a single operation," explains Mr. Howard. "Under the new plan, the county committee figures the insurable yield and premium rate for each farmer and notifies him of his yield and rate," states Mr. Howard. "Then the farmer applies for insurance to cover the number of acres of wheat he intends to plant. The total amount of his premium is figured when the farmer files his application, at which time he also pays his premium.

"After the grower has applied and paid his premium, nothing further is required of him, except to report to his county committee the actual acreage seeded and to notify his local committee in case of damage to an insured crop. The application, once it has been completed, is sent to the state office for checking, and then to the branch crop insurance office for review. If it is accepted, the Corporation mails the grower an acceptance and the application becomes an insurance contract. No policy will be written."

Harold Tollef, infant son of Rev. and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson was baptised in Nazareth Lutheran Church on Sunday morning. He was born on July 1, 1939 and his sponsors were: Mrs. Martha Oppegaard and son Lawrence and daughter Agnes of Madison and Stilof Anderson.

Mrs. Martha Oppegaard and son Lawrence of Madison and Mrs. Everett Evans of Ortonville arrived Saturday for a visit at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Hanson. They left again on Thursday accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. Hanson and son Harold and Miss Agnes Oppegaard. Miss Oppegaard returned home after spending the the summer here. Rev. and Mrs. Hanson and son will spend a two weeks vacation at Madison and Milan.

OUR 1939 FLAX Threshing Proposition

We have two flax threshing propositions to offer:

FIRST PLAN:

When your flax crop is ready for harvesting, and on receipt of proper instructions from you, we will arrange to swath and then combine your flax at a charge of $1.50 per acre and will, also, pay you $1.00 per ton for flax straw secured.

SECOND PLAN:

Is you have binder, you may use it making arrangements with our office. In using binder do not use twine, but bunch and then shock the same as when bundled or tied, and then after the bunches are properly cured, we will arrange to haul the bunches to the stationary combine in your field. On this plan, we will thresh your flax crop at the charge of 10c per bushel, and will, also, pay you $1.00 per ton for the flax straw secured.

Owner Is To Make Arrangement To Handle His Own Flax Seed

Naturally, we are interested in clean fields, but will accept fields that do not contain an excess amount of weeds and grasses such as quack, pigeon grass, wild oats, tumble weed, mustard, thistle or sweet clover. We are interested in long clean straw, and will cut your flax crop as close to the ground as possible, which is, also, necessary when cutting with the binder.

If interested in our proposition, we suggest that you communicate with this office now, and we will arrange to have our representative inspect your flax crop at an early date. Write us a postcard giving address, telephone number, location of field, and number of acres, also, when expected ready for harvest. Our representative will explain our plan in detail when he calls on you to inspect your field.

Many Win State Fair Trips

The 4-H club achievement day held at Argyle on July 26 was one of the high lights for the Marshall County 4-H boys and girls this year. The girls exhibited their clothing and canning; over twenty people participated in demonstrations; and dairy calves, beef heifers, colts, lambs, gilts and breeding poultry were on display during the day. Awards of trips to the State Fair were made and all contestants won prizes.

The judges for the events during the day were Howard Grow and Margaret Gunnelson, County Agent and club leader respectively, from Pennington county.

They highly recommended the work that many 4-H members are doing in this county.

The day's activities that drew most interest and attention were the demonstrations and exhibits at the city hall. During the day seven girls each made a loaf of bread and were judged on their general ability to make a loaf, on the finished loaf and on their 4-H club records. Doris Hogberg and Alice Pagnac were the winners of trips to the State Fair, and Jeanette Johnson was the alternate selected. Vera Grandstran was the winner of a trip from a group of individual demonstrations on cake making, canning and meal planning. Vera had a cake making demonstration.

On team demonstrations in clothing, Lucille Fitzsimons from the Middle River 4-H club and Ida Grandstrand from the Happy Corner club were the winners. In the agricultural team demonstration, Henry Hoper and Ida Grandstrand won the highest honors. They demonstrated the making and use of cottage cheese. Dick Fitzsimons won first in the handicraft division and Theresa Yutrzenka was the winner in the safety demonstration class.

Duane Horien, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Horien won a trip to the State Fair with his dairy calf which placed first. The other winner with dairy calf was Betty Kruger, placing in class three.

Other winners and the projects in which they were awarded trips to the State Fair were:

Thomas Dzienal—Colt
Laverne Peterson—Beef Heifer
Robert Backstrom—Breeding Gilt
Howard Folden—Ewe Lamb
Florence Price—Breeding Poultry

Week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nohre were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Larson Mrs. Fred Swanson, Carol Ann Swanson and Ruth Swanson all of Roseau and Warren Johnson of Minneapolis.

The Weather

The weather over the week end was hot and dry. This forced the crops to ripen in a hurry and the farmers are busy cutting them off the fields. Most farmers report a fair yield this year. The only thing lacking now is a fair price for what they have to sell.

Tuesday the weather clouded up and a steady drizzle of rain fell here during the day. This will help the pastures which were drying up badly and cutting hard into the production from dairy cows.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our thanks for the sympathy and kindness shown us during the long illness and death of our father and grandfather. Especially do we thank Rev T. C. L. Hanson for his many kind and encouraging visits and words of comfort. Also Mrs. Carl Torgerson for the two beautiful solos she sang. We thank the Silver Creek Ladies Aid and all others who gave flowers and in memory gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Leiran and family, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Anderson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Broberg.

The first new grain to be marketed at the O. T. Ness Elevator here in 1939, was brought in on Monday by John Berget when he sold a load of flax.

New Red River Bridge

Bids will be received August 18 by the highway commissioners of Minnesota and North Dakota, at the courthouse at Warren, Minn., for construction of a new interstate bridge over the Red River of the North.

The bridge, on Minnesota State Aid road No. 15, about 15 miles southwest of Stephen in Marshall County, is estimated to cost between $60,000 and $75,000. It will be financed by Federal Aid Secondary funds, supplemented by money supplied by Marshall county, Minnesota, and Walsh county, North Dakota.

Theo. Ness went to sleep while driving home from Red Lake Falls on Saturday evening and turned his car over in the ditch south of Thief River Falls. Mr. Ness received a gash in his forehead and a bruised face but was not hurt othhewise. His car, a 1938 chev coach was damaged considerable as it hit a cross road in the ditch.

While driving home a car for his brother George on Tuesday evening, Ole Jarshaw had the misfortune to upset it in the ditch when he went to sleep while going home on the grade west of town. He escaped unhurt and the car was not so badly damaged.

Strange Facts

Business of Dueling
Self-Esteem
Hanging Around

In several European countries today so many gentlemen still have to settle "affairs of honor" with a sword or pistol that dueling arenas constitute a profitable industry. Of the large number in Budapest, one arena is known to have booked a duel on an average of every 33 hours since it opened its doors in 1897.

The incredible self-esteem of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany was typically expressed on his pilgrimage to Jerusalem in 1898. Feeling that he was too important to pass through the city's regular gates like a "common person," he had a special entrance made for himself in the wall.

Up to the Nineteenth century in England, so many crimes were punishable by hanging that the numerous gibbets scattered throughout the country almost always had the body of a malefactor hanging from them as a warning. Eventually these objects became so common that artists painted them into their landscapes as an accepted part of the scenery.—Collier's.

Unforgiving

He who cannot forgive others breaks the bridge over which he must pass himself, for we all need to be forgiven.—Lord Herbert.

Big Cuts in Lend-Spend Bill Traceable to Lewis Barrage Against Garner, Wage Shifts

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CONGRESS:
Drifting

Time was when C. I. O.'s John L. Lewis and President Roosevelt were close friends. If this was an excuse for anti-Roosevelt sentiment in the rural U. S., such sentiment might have been dispelled the day John Lewis appeared before a hostile house labor committee. In a few choice words he denounced proposed amendments to the 1938 fair labor standards act. In a few more he called Vice President Garner a "labor-baiting, poker-playing, whiskey-drinking, evil old man . . ."

While this denunciation at least won Jack Garner the poker-playing and whiskey-drinking vote if he runs for President next year, its actual effect was much greater—indeed, it was stupendous. By denouncing wage-hour amendments Mr. Lewis stepped on rural toes (especially in the South) which wanted processors of agricultural products eliminated from minimum wage requirements. Thus he fanned into a blaze the growing coalition between Republicans and rural Democrats who are coolish toward the New Deal. Cheering Jack Garner in house and senate, this group proceeded to raise havoc with President Roosevelt's pet multi-billion lend-spend program, aimed to hasten recovery.

JOHN LEWIS

In the senate a $2,490,000,000 original proposal lost a $500,000,000 item for toll highways, bridges and tunnels, another $350,000,000 for leasing equipment to railroads. In the house the bill was tied in committee. While adjournment hinged on this bill and no other, Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley had to bite his fingernails and listen to an irrelevant two-hour neutrality harangue by North Dakota's Sen. Gerald P. Nye. Finally, after remarking quietly that "there seems to be some sort of an undercurrent that's causing this bill to drift," he dashed from the chamber and yelled at waiting reporters: "I don't know anything about anything!"

Finally passed and sent to the house, the emasculated measure looked something like this: (000,000 omitted)

| | Original Bill | Senate Bill | House Committee |
|---|---|---|---|
| Road | $750.. | Omitted. | $500 |
| Farm Tenancy | 600... | $600... | 400 |
| Public Works | 350... | 350... | 350 |
| Electrification | 500... | 500... | 350 |
| Exports | 100... | 75... | 100 |
| Rail Equipment | 500.. | Omitted. | 250 |
| Reclamation | Omitted.. | 90.. | Omitted |

The price Senator Barkley had to pay for his measure: (1) adoption of the amendment of Virginia's Harry Byrd removing tax exemption on government securities financing the project; (2) offering his own compromise amendment reducing Export-Import bank loans to $75,000,000 and providing all loans should be spent in the U. S.

AGRICULTURE:
Subsidies

Last year the U. S. agriculture department placed 118,000,000 bushels of wheat on the world market, losing an average of 27 cents a bushel in subsidies because U. S. prices were above world levels. This year world production will hit a new high and Liverpool prices have reached their lowest levels since 1592. Thus, to compete on the world market and still give farmers a fair price for exported wheat, the U. S. would suffer a subsidy loss of between 45 and 50 cents a bushel.

Offsetting bigger subsidies, however, is smaller domestic production. As Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace began estimating production, domestic consumption, required carryover and export surpluses, the picture looked brighter. Although a 100,000,000 export would cost the treasury between $45,000,000 and $50,000,000, the U. S. probably will not ask so great a share of the world market when the international wheat conference meets in London. To maintain a carryover of 175,000,000 to 200,000,000 bushels, an export of only 70,000,000 is needed. Thus, compared with the $31,860,000 spent on subsidies last year, a 50-cent subsidy this year would cost only $4,000,000 more.

Referendum

Only as a last resort does the agriculture department want to hold a referendum on corn marketing quotas for next year. With production estimates running high and flirting with the mandatory referendum figure, President Roosevelt signed an amendment to the AAA act allowing Secretary Wallace to delay the election, basing his decision on the crop board's September 1 report instead of the August 1 estimate. Other amendments, placing marketing quotas for wheat, corn and cotton all on a similar basis:

- Permit corn and wheat growers who plant within their acreage allotment their entire crop without penalty when a quota is in effect.
- Extend indefinitely the 55,000,000-acre minimum allotment for wheat.
- Extend indefinitely the 10,000,000-bale minimum in establishing cotton acreage.

WHITE HOUSE:
Hatch Bill

Passed by both senate and house, the bill of New Mexico's Sen. Carl A. Hatch to "clean up" politics found its way to the President's desk for signing or veto. Its purpose: To remove influence or interference of all federal administrative officials from elections or nominating efforts for President. Its result: Incumbent federal administrations will find their personal payroller machines of little help at nomination or election time. But state machines will wield great power.

Whether he liked it or not, President Roosevelt told his press conference he favored the bill's "objectives," yet he feared it was unconstitutional because vaguely drawn. For example, what can people legitimately do under its very broad language? Can officeholders attend political rallies or voluntarily contribute to a friend's campaign expenditures? Pending a decision from Attorney General Frank Murphy, the bill awaited presidential action. If not signed or vetoed by August 3, Mr. Hatch's bill would become law.

The White House also:

- Nominated James Lawrence Fly, TVA solicitor, to succeed much-persecuted Frank R. McNinch as a member of the federal communications commission.
- Ordered Secretary of State Cordell Hull to move from the second to the fourth floor of the old State, War and Navy building, making room for the six "assistant presidents" appointed under the reorganization bill, men with "a passion for anonymity."

RUSSIA:
Purge

In the U. S. an incompetent public official is demoted, or fired at the end of his term. In Soviet Russia, where Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov disappeared mysteriously last May 3, public officials may expect a fate ranging from imprisonment or execution to exile in Siberia's wastelands.

Strangely coincidental as July neared its end were two bits of Russian news. In Moscow, Dictator Josef Stalin and his right-hand man, Premier and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov announced in the Official Gazette the names of 79 high military and diplomatic officials who had been "stripped of their decorations," i.e., placed under arrest, for "actions unworthy of order bearers." Biggest shakeup was in the Japanese-pestered Far East, where Gen. Grigorio Shtern (successor to the vanished Marshal Vassily Bluecher) was succeeded by General Popov.

CONSTANTIN OUMANSKY
Purgee?

The other bit of news was gathered from such widely separated points as Berlin, Rome, Washington, and Tokyo. In each case Soviet embassies reported their ambassadors missing. Washington's Constantin Oumansky, who sailed from New York July 5 for a "vacation" back home, had not been heard from since he watched Moscow's annual physical culture parade two weeks later. Best guesses held that Premier Molotov, who has been shaking up the Soviet's diplomatic service ever since he replaced Comrade Litvinov, is doing some more shaking up—possibly via the custom-tested purge route.

Short, Short Story
OR 1-2-3 SEQUENCE

1—SURRENDER. Quick on the heels of Jap-Chinese anti-British protests and Jap army barricade of British concessions in north China, Prime Minister Chamberlain ordered Ambassador Craigie to recognize the "new order in China" and to promise not to obstruct the Jap army in its undeclared war. Britain hoped thus to free her hands in Asia, meanwhile "detaching" Tokyo from the Rome-Berlin axis. But he was wrong.

2—PROTEST. In Washington, the state department tabulated more than 600 attacks on U. S. citizens in China the past two years. Gallup polls showed 72 per cent favoring an arms embargo against Japan. Petitions (above) rolled into Sen. Key Pittman of the foreign relations committee. Suddenly, as Britain surrendered, the U. S. abrogated its trade pact with Japan, paving the way for an arms embargo six months hence. Britain's foreign office called it "co-operation" but it was far from that. It was a U. S. protest against Britain's weakness.

3—REVENGE. At first stunned, then angry, Japan announced the price for a new trade treaty would be recognition of the "new order" in China. Then Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita (above), an ardent admirer of Hitler, suddenly initialed the long-pending trade pact with Germany, bringing Japan into the anti-Soviet axis with Italy and the Reich. Next she threatened abrogation of the dead nine-power pact guaranteeing China's integrity. Net result of all incidents: U. S., Britain, France and Russia inadvertently found themselves aligned against Japan, Germany and Italy.

ASTRONOMY: ### Silence

At New York's World fair the management ordered a "blackout" and anti-aircraft defense against Martian invaders, but concessionaires wouldn't co-operate. At Mendoz, Argentina, an earthquake was blamed on Mars' proximity. At Bloemfontein, South Africa, scientists thought they found millions of square miles of snow on Mars' surface, but it melted in two days.

Cause of all this concern was the planet's approach to within a mere 36,000,000 miles of the earth, closest in 15 years. At Baldwin, N. Y., home of Press Wireless, Inc., Dr. Clyde Fisher of the American Museum of Natural History led an attempt to contact Mars. Figuring it would take 6½ minutes for a radio message to bounce back to earth if it hit Mars square on the nose, scientists Morse coded the letter "N," waited the allotted time and got nothing but cat-like squeals.

As a last effort they tried swing music. That, too, failed to penetrate and Mars began fading into the distance, still an enigma.

BRIEFLY . . .

- In Washington, a U. S. anti-trust suit against the American Medical association was thrown out. Reason: Medicine is a profession, not a business.
- In Rochester, Minn., 78-year-old Dr. William Mayo was buried near his brother, Dr. Charles, who died earlier this year.
- In New York, cotton interests claimed a victory when A. & P. food stores adopted cotton casings instead of jute for its flour.
- In New York, Anthony Drexel Duke became 21, and inherited about $6,000,000 with an $80-a-day allowance while attending Princeton. Comment: "Gosh! I'd like to know what anybody does with $80 a day."
- In Washington, survivors of the submarine Squalus, still off underseas duty until their boat is raised, got a pay cut.

A Matter of Consonants

By HERBERT WILSON
(Associated Newspapers.)
WNU Service.

MARGARET GUILLE BAXTER had the blues, and it seemed to her that she had a perfectly legitimate right to them. In the first place, it was Monday, and she had read the other day that a noted London scientist had declared the well-known Monday morning feeling to be a definite, scientific fact; moreover, she simply detested her name—Margaret Guille! Why, she moaned inwardly, had no affectionate nickname such as Peggy or Margie ever been given her; on the contrary, any attempt to shorten her baptismal name, even when she was an infant, had been vigorously opposed by her tradition-worshiping mother—"Guille" being an old French family name which, her mother insisted, added eclat to her first name. Beside being low in mind, Margaret Guille was low in funds, $1.80 being the amount she had been able to extract from her purse even though she had turned it upside down. As Daddy Baxter discouraged requests for advances, the outlook for the remaining five days of the month before her next allowance was due was far from rosy. To make matters worse, her hair needed trimming, a fluff of yellow showing beneath the tight little felt hat that she pulled down as far as possible.

"Hello, Margaret Guille," called a gay voice from the curb.

Used as she was to hearing her name from relatives, teachers and friends, it seemed, on that particular Monday morning to only add insult to injury. She said nothing, however, but stepped into the nifty little roadster of her next door neighbor's with no display of enthusiasm.

"I've got a wow of a plan, Margaret Guil—" began her companion eagerly.

"Peter Lathrop, can't you open your mouth without shouting my—my—detestable name?" she asked, irritation getting the best of her.

Peter looked at her in astonishment.

"Detestable name? What on earth do you mean? What's the matter with Margaret—"

"Don't you dare finish it!"

"But I've called you that ever since you were knee high to a grasshopper—everybody has—now if it were your last name that got you all wrought up, you know I've maintained for some time that Lathrop—"

"As for that plan—it's this. We'll telephone your mother from downtown and then drive out to a roadhouse for luncheon. What do you say?"

Margaret Guille's only reply was a subsiding sniffle, but it had an acquiescent sound.

It would be an exceedingly obstinate mood that could not be mellowed by the old world atmosphere of the quaint old inn called "The Worn Doorstep." Situated on the bank of a river, its charm lay largely in its dissimilarity to the usual roadhouse. Margaret Guille soon felt the soothing influence of the place. It was early—not yet one o'clock.

Peter, never one to lose a golden opportunity, had for the seventh time—he insisted upon its being the seventh as well as upon the fact that seven is an unfailingly lucky number—expatiated upon the advantages that would accrue if she, Margaret Guille, would change her last name to Lathrop.

"Baxter isn't the part of my name that bothers me," said she saucily. "Now if it were 'Margaret Guille' that you could eliminate—"

"Peter Lathrop!" she exclaimed suddenly, "I'll make a bargain with you. If you'll promise on your word of honor never to call me 'Margaret Guille' again I'll—I'll—marry you."

"Holy cats!" said Peter jumping up from his chintz-covered chair and making one long stride for her, "I'll promise anything in reason or out, but"—after an appreciable interval—"what am I to call you—in public let us say? It would hardly do to always say sweet—"

"You shall call me Peggy," interrupted his new fiancee. "I've longed for a nickname all my life and I'm going to choose my own, since I have to get married to get one."

"Peggy it is from this moment until death do us part," declared Peter with upraised hand.

Peter was undeniably hungry and he gave his rapt attention to the menu-card as soon as they were seated for luncheon.

"Margaret Gui—" one glance at the stony face across the table and he went on, "guinea hen is fine this time of the year, what do you say if we try it?"

The face across the table softened somewhat.

"I'll forgive the first name, but, Peter, I really thought you were going to say it all and if you had—"

"And if I had?"

"Why, of course, you would have broken your promise and we wouldn't be engaged."

After the luncheon Peter strolled out to the kitchen, and although the little Frenchman there was quite unable to understand anything except the denomination of the bill that he received, Peter expressed his most fervent thanks for the chef's thoughtfulness in serving guinea hen that day.

Showing the Latest Button-Front Styles

NO WONDER button-front dresses are so popular for midsummer! They go on without mussing your hair or getting mussed themselves. They look so smart, crisp and tailored, and they are easiest of all to press! No. 1787 is an unusually pretty version, so easy to make that even beginners can do it. Inside pleats make your waistline small. Gathers give a nice round bustline. Make this of gingham, linen, pique or sharkskin, and trim it with lace or braid.

Buttons to the Waistline.

A new and delightfully different version of the button-front is No. 1790. It has buttons to the waistline only. The skirt is cut with a wide lap-over, and a pretty, circular swing. For this, choose gingham, percale, linen or pique, with snowy frills to make it the more cool-looking and becoming.

The Patterns.

No. 1787 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4⅝ yards of 35-inch material with short sleeves; 1¾ yards of lace or braid.

No. 1790 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards of 39-inch material without nap; 2¼ yards of trimming.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

PRACTICAL PATRIOTISM

"YOU cannot build an ideal state by simply passing laws to regulate life's activities. Making people dependent upon the state is not building the state or the individual. To make man self-sustaining, adventuresome, a builder reaching out to find self and his Maker, that is practical patriotism."—U. S. Senator Alexander Wiley.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. ## The Slicing Doesn't Matter—It's Still From Bologna

These three Italian beauties, in a festive mood at the annual fair in Bologna, pose with Italy's largest ham, which weighs 83 pounds and contains enough meat for 5,000 sandwiches—sliced a bit thin, of course. Bologna, in central Italy, on the plains of the Po valley, is the center of the country's pork-producing area.

Doomed Man Is Honored Guest at Own 'Wake'

Death was an invisible guest at a gay party given in honor of Claude Joseph Bradley, pictured at piano, in a Brooklyn, N. Y., club. The affair given by some 200 of "Brad's" friends was an ante-mortem wake for the guest of honor. Doomed by a serious illness, he has only a few weeks of life left, according to his doctors. Undaunted, he jests about his fate and proved his courage by being the "life of the party" at the "wake." The arrow in the upper right points to the honored guest.

Charles Comiskey II, Heir to White Sox

Upon the shoulders of Charles Comiskey II may some day fall the responsibility of carrying on the name Comiskey, famous in baseball. The young man, now 13, shares equally with his two sisters in ownership of one-half of the Chicago White Sox, American League baseball club. His father, John Louis Comiskey, who died recently, left the entire holdings to his widow and three children, expressing in his will the desire that ownership in the club be kept in the Comiskey family at least until his youngest child attains the age of 35 years.

Chief of Legionnaires

'Ours,' Sisters Shout

NO TRESPASSING
UNDER PENALTY OF THE LAW.

When officials of Rockville, Md., dedicated the city's new $77,000 post office they encountered difficulties. Mrs. Elizabeth Wimsatt of Washington, D. C., erected a warning sign, declaring that she and a sister were among eight heirs of the former owner of the site and had received nothing from the government. After much wrangling, the chief of police persuaded the adamant sisters to leave the property quietly.

HOW TO SEW

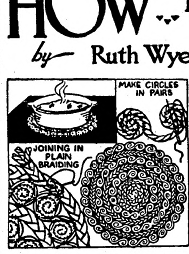
by Ruth Wyeth Spears



SO MANY requests for copies of these directions have been received, they are being printed again to accommodate those who neglected to clip and save them when they appeared before.

The mat is made of heavy white cotton cable cord such as you buy at the notion counter for seams and trimmings. The design is copied from a luncheon mat made years ago of corset strings! There was a fad at one time for sewing these in braided and scroll designs with fine stitches on the wrong side of the mat.

Follow the directions in the sketch, making the circles in pairs, using No. 40 cotton thread to sew them. Braid three cords together and then sew the braided strip around and around to make the center of the mat. Sew a row of the circles to the edge of this center part; then add another braided row, being careful to "ease in" the inside edge just enough to keep the mat flat. Continue adding alternate rows of circles and braiding until the mat is size desired. To join the ends of the braided rows, pull one end through the braiding to the wrong side of the mat; then trim the ends and sew them flat.

NOTICE: Every Homemaker should have copies of the two books containing 96 How to Sew articles. You may secure SEWING, For the Home Decorator; and Gifts, Novelties and Embroideries; both for 25 cents; and your choice of the Patchwork Quilt Leaflet showing 36 authentic stitches; or the Rag Rug Leaflet FREE, while the supply lasts. Don't delay, as the offer of both books at this low price will be withdrawn soon. Send your order at once to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Removing a Splinter.—When a splinter has gone very deep into the flesh try extraction by steam. Heat a wide-mouthed bottle and fill it two thirds full of very hot water and place under the injured spot. The suction draws the flesh down when a little pressure is used, and the steam in a few minutes removes both splinter and inflammation. This method is particularly good when the splinter has been in for some time.

Boiled Frosting.—If you have trouble making boiled frosting, try boiling the sugar and water until it forms a soft ball in the water, instead of till it spins a thread. Most people cook the sugar and water too long.

A BETTER PRICE FOR CULL COWS

St. Louis, Mo.—Cull dairy cows that are in better flesh and condition command a higher price than the average run of cull cows. And it really takes no great investment in time or feeding to add the extra finish that gets the better prices. A mixture of 1,700 lbs. of ground ear corn and 300 lbs. of Purina Steer Fatena is a widely used ration to put flesh on thin stuff. Such a mixture is reasonable in cost, especially where a feeder grows his own grain, for then he has to buy but 300 lbs. of this balancing concentrate to make a ton of fattening feed.

In feeding this ration, a week should be taken to gradually place the cull cows on full feed. After that, the ration should be kept before them in self feeders or troughs until they carry enough flesh to get the better price.

Notice For Bids

Sealed bids will be received by the Clerk of Holt School District No. 35, Holt, Minnesota, up to 5 o'clock p. m. Monday, August 21, 1939 for Bus Drivers on the School Bus Routes as follows: Route No. 2 and Route No. 3; and Route No. 1 and Route No. 4 combined. Bidders on Routes 1 and 4 should see the Clerk or Supt. of the School for specification of the routes before they submit bids.

The School Boardr eserves the right to reject any or all bids.

MULTIPLE BALLOON HOP AT STATE FAIR

Earl Barrows will make a multiple balloon flight on Thrill Day, September 1, at the Minnesota State Fair. Earl will be carried aloft by means of 40 small balloons, arranged in 10 clusters of four each. When he has reached his maximum altitude he will start his descent by shooting his balloons one at a time. He will wear a parachute for emergency. This will be the first flight of this type since Prof. Jean Piccard made his successful multiple-balloon voyage at Rochester. The Fair opens Aug. 26 and closes Sept. 4.

ENJOYING PICNIC LUNCH AT N. Y. WORLD'S FAIR

Confederate Veteran at Roseau

Roseau County boasts the unique distinction of having a Confederate Veteran among its early pioneers still living in the County. J. W. Durham of Roseau while still a young lad in Missouri, was pressed into service by Quantrell's Band of Guerillas and served as a runner for them for a short period during the Civil War.

Mr. Durham came to Roseau County in 1886 and homesteaded just north of the present village of Roseau. He was elected the first Sheriff of the County when it was organized. A few years ago, he published a book he had written, entitled "Minnesota's Last Frontier", which is full of lore of the early days in Roseau County.

Mr. Durham, although ninety years of age, is still hale and sound, delighting to reminise of the early days of Roseau County. He will be one of the Pioneers to be honored at the celebration at Pelan Battleground Park on Sunday, August 20th.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Obeying the law may keep a person out of jail, but it won't always keep him out of accidents. Being legally careful is not enough.

I have driven with men in communities where the speed limit was 30 miles an hour, and these drivers felt that they were within their legal rights to drive at that speed. However, because of some unusual condition of side-streets, traffic on particular thoroughfares may have been very crowded, and pedestrian traffic may have been heavy, too. Thirty miles an hour under those conditions was entirely within the law of common sense.

Regulate your driving to meet conditions. Adjust your temper and your driving habits so that you will be a sensible driver rather than a legally safe driver.

"It's Smart to be Careful."

According to reports received here, Mr. Mossbeck, a pioneer farmer of Beltrami county northeast of Gatzke, recently sold what is reported as the largest shipment of Grass seed sold by any one farmer in this part of the state for some time. He sold a lot of 45000 pounds of Timothy seed at 4 cents a pound.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lorentson have rented the upstairs of the house on the C. H. Gunheim farm and moved there last week. They will live there until Mr. Larson can build a new house they having bought the home Larson's have been renting.

Miss Boethin Resigns Job

Word was received here on Tuesday from Miss Helen Boethin of St. Cloud that she was resigning her position as high school teacher here, having been offered a promotion in the school at Dodge Center, Minn. This is closer to her home and the local board feels that in this case of her getting a much better position they are willing to release her from her contract here and wish her success in her new place.

Time To Poison Hoppers Now

Farmers are urged to spread grasshopper bait. Every female grasshopper will lay one hundred or more eggs before freeze-up. Unless steps are taken to destroy the adult grasshoppers, millions of eggs will be laid this fall. If conditions are favorable we can expect a severe outbreak in 1940. The time to control 1940 'hoppers is now before eggs are laid.

The dry weather since July 4 has been very ideal for spreading bait. Reports of good kills have been received from persons who have spread bait during the drought period. With harvesting and threshing almost completed, farmers are again urged to spread bait through their fields and along roadsides. Townspips are asked to cooperate by spreading bait.

In order to talk over a fall control program, two meetings will be held in Marshall County. Mr. T. L. Aamodt, Assistant State Entomologist, will be present to lead the discussion. These meetings will be held as follows: Argyle, Wednesday August 23 at 8:30 p. m. and Newfolden, Thursday, August 24 at 8:30 p. m.

About forty ladies of Holt and community gathered at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nohre on Friday afternoon and gave Mrs. Nohre a birthday party. She received a cash purse and a delicious lunch was served.

African Gray Parrot

The African Gray parrot, when properly cared for, may live as long as any of the parrots once it has become acclimated to the locality in which it is destined to spend the greater portion of its life. But the percentage of loss in shipping this species from Africa, and while it is in the hands of dealers, is so great that they are much more costly than most other kinds of parrots.

Released Red Painted Hoppers

Al Buzicky, grasshopper fieldman, on Monday August 14, 1939 released 10,000 grasohoppers which had been sprayed with red paint. These grasshoppers were caught, sprayed and released in Bigwoods township, seven miles north of Oslo.

This is the third batch of painted 'hoppers released this year. Mr. Buzicky is carrying on studies to determine the direction and distance of flight. In order to determine this definitely, Mr. Buzicky is requesting that farmers who find painted grasshoppers, send the specimens to the Conuty Agent's office or to him at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Garthus and Clarence Berglund of Duluth, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Garthus ana sons, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson and Angeline, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. L. Monson and Lida were entertained at the Otto Johnson home Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Garthus and Clarence Bergland of Duluth arrived here Saturday for a visit at the home of their son Bernard Garthus and family and also at the home af Mrs. Garthus's parents Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson. They all returned to Duluth Wednesday.

Pretty for Afternoon Or to Wear at Home

THE dress with shirring on the shoulders and sleeve tops is a charming, soft fashion for afternoons. No. 1795 gives you an unusually nice figure-line—rounded above and very slim at the waistline and hips, because the paneled skirt is cut high and beautifully fitted. This is very easy to make. Choose georgette, chiffon or silk crepe.

For the Young Girl.

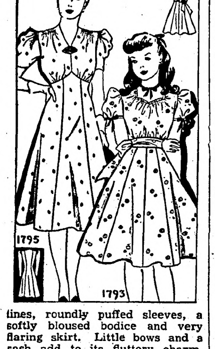
No. 1793 is a perfect dream of a dress for slim young girls, who look especially sweet in high necklines, roundly puffed sleeves, a softly bloused bodice and very flaring skirt. Little bows and a sash add to its fluttery charm. Dimity, organdy, taffeta and dotted swiss are especially pretty.



No. 1795 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires, with short sleeves, 5 yards of 39-inch material; 5½ yards with long sleeves.

No. 1793 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 10 requires 3½ yards of 35-inch material; 2½ yards of ribbon for sash and 2½ yards for little bows.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to cure it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Full Life

They only have lived long who have lived virtuously.—Sheridan.

NERVOUS?

Do you feel so nervous you want to scream? Are you cross and irritable? Do you scold those dearest to you?

If your nerves are on edge and you feel you need a good general system tonic, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with reliable Pinkham's Compound. It helps nature build up more physical resistance and thus helps calm quivering nerves and lessen discomforts from annoying symptoms which often accompany female functional disorders.

Why not give it a chance to help YOU?

Over one million women have written in reporting wonderful benefits from Pinkham's Compound.

WNU—Y 33—39

The Sufferer

The humble suffer when the powerful disagree.—Phaedrus.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Anti-Administration Congress Hangs Up Paradoxical Record With Unprecedented Spending

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CONGRESS:

'Res Ipse Loquitur'

"It speaks for itself," said Franklin Roosevelt in Latin after the house refused on roll call to pass his $800,000,000 bill expanding FHA's lending power. To both house and senate he forwarded "my good wishes for a pleasant vacation." Then he bundled up some 350 last-minute bills and left for Hyde Park while his loyal friend from Florida, Sen. Claude Pepper, was holding up adjournment by denouncing the "unrighteous partnership (Democratic-G. O. P. coalition) of those who have been willing to scuttle the American government . . . and jeopardize the peace of the world because they hate Roosevelt and what Roosevelt stands for."

But when the first session of the Seventy-sixth congress was safely packed away, observers meditated on its record: A rebellious, anti-White House gang had nevertheless appropriated the record-shattering peacetime total of $13,344,077,162 (see chart), including a last-minute $119,000,000 farm loan fund for the sake of quick adjournment. Appropriations tabulated:

FLORIDA'S PEPPER

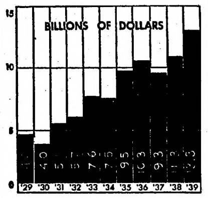
Observers also examined the piece-by-piece record of legislation and found Franklin Roosevelt's early-session victories almost offset his late-session defeats, though they knew no switch back to the sentiment of last January is in prospect when a permanently anti-administration congress meets again next winter. The record:

White House Victories. Congress was not all bad to the President. The senate confirmed all but 10 of his 10,988 appointees (including New Dealish Supreme Court Justices Frankfurter and Douglas, equally New Dealish Commerce Secretary Hopkins and Attorney General Murphy). Passed were his unprecedented peace-time defense program (intact except for Guam fortification); modified governmental reorganization (which will save about $30,000,000 a year), and his 1940 relief program, laden with restrictions. Continued were his gold content devaluation power and his $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund.



APPROPRIATION RECORD

White House Defeats. Vivid in retrospect, they include: (1) his $3,200,000,000 spend-lend plan, emasculated by the senate, killed by the house; (2) his $800,000,000 housing expansion bill; (3) neutrality revision, on which much of the nation agreed with him; (4) a 1939 relief deficiency appropriation of $50,000,000; (5) rejection by the senate of two appointees (Virginia's Floyd Roberts, as federal judge, and Nevada's William Boyle, as U. S. attorney for Nevada), and withdrawal of two more whose rejection was imminent (Wisconsin's Thomas Amlie, ICC appointee, and Donald Wakefield Smith, NLRB appointee); (6) refusal to hike debt limit above $45,000,000,000 (but long-term bond ceiling was raised).

Other legislative moves, some minor New Deal victories, other minor defeats, but only one (Hatch bill) carrying important political implications:

- House approval (over White House objection) of $50,000 to probe NLRB.
- Abolition (with apparent White House approval) of undistributed profits tax in "business appeasement" tax revision bill. Bill also provided reciprocal taxation of federal and state employees.
- Postponement to next term of badly needed railroad-aid legislation, one of the session's greatest failures. Only move in this direction: Approval of voluntary rail debt adjustment without necessitating bankruptcy.
- Postponement of much-debated revision of (1) farm program, (2) Wagner labor relations act, and (3) wage-hour act.
- Defeat of Townsend $200-a-month pension bill and passage of far-reaching social security amendments which freeze old age annuity pay roll taxes at 1 per cent for next three years, extend coverage to 1,300,000 more people and liberalize benefit payments.
- Passage of Hatch "clean politics" bill (received coldly by White House because it eliminates much of the administration machine from 1940's campaign) which proscribes political activities of all except top-bracket federal jobholders.
- Refusal to revive Florida ship canal (a White House proposal).
- Continuation (over White House objection) of Dies committee on un-Americanism, which was called a "forum of disgruntled politicians."

POLITICS:

Truths

Open for public inspection this month are two great, pertinent political truths: (1) That the right kind of publicity can turn a third rater into a first-rate presidential candidate almost overnight; (2) that today as always, public sentiment is sufficiently pliable to make room for any new face that may pop up. The conclusions: First, that presidential campaigns are largely a matter of smart public relations work; second, that 1940's election is not in the bag for any man.

PAUL McNUTT

Going up?

Cause of this excitement is Paul V. McNutt, who popped back from the Philippines two months ago, got his handsome picture in the papers, was called a "charming young man" by President Roosevelt, then ended up by getting himself named federal security administrator. From here he may develop into the President's crown prince.

In June Candidate McNutt ranked fifth among Democratic hopefuls as tabulated by highly accurate Gallup polls. In order: Garner, 47 per cent; Farley, 16; Hull, 12; Hopkins, 5; McNutt, 3. Six weeks after his federal appointment, Paul McNutt had jumped to second place. Jack Garner, still well in the lead, suffered a mite. The standings: Garner, 46 per cent; McNutt, 13; Hull, 12, Farley, 12; Hopkins, 3.

Other political news: Ohio's Sen. Robert Alphonso Taft, bad trailer in G. O. P. Gallup polls, became the first to toss his hat in the ring. While finding his senatorial office "interesting," Candidate Taft magnanimously agreed not to "run away from a harder job."

RACES:

One Way Out

Since last March thousands of Czecho-Slovakian Jews have fled to the U. S. on visitors' permits, their property confiscated, their only hope lying in refuge on some distant land. Sometimes even this hope is futile. Within two days the U. S. had this problem brought shockingly to mind twice:

- In Chicago, 43-year-old Mrs. Adele Langer (wife of a Czech Jew whose $1,500,000 textile mills had been confiscated), took quarters in a Loop hotel with her two sons, six and four. Late that night she threw her sons from the thirteenth floor window, slashed her wrists and jumped.
- In New York, German Refugee Albert Aaron, whose wife died two weeks earlier from an overdose of sleeping tablets, hung himself from his apartment door.

LOUISIANA:

Hot Oil

Heaped atop several score other indictments facing prominent Louisianans was a federal charge against former Gov. Richard Leche, whose feet had heretofore been kept clear of the muck surrounding state officialdom. The indictment: Charging Leche, Politician Seymour Weiss and Freeman Burford, Texas oil man, with stepping up production of Rodessa oil wells and running the contraband or "hot" oil over into Texas, violating the Connally act.

INTERNATIONAL:

Chess Game

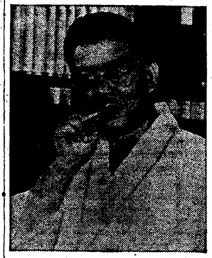
For two months jittery France and Britain have forecast another "crisis" in August or September. As August was born, it indeed looked like a crisis in which Japan had become of great nuisance value to Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini. What bothered Americans was that their own nation seemed being drawn into this chess game as a result of justified U. S. retaliation against insults in the Far East.

At Italy's Lake Como was played the key move in this game. There met Toshio Shiratori, Japanese ambassador to Rome, and Lieut. Gen. Matahiko Oshima, ambassador to Berlin. Their purpose: To perfect a military alliance binding Japan with Italy and Germany. If it failed, said their friends, the ambassadors had vowed to commit hara-kiri (suicide by disembowelment). Simultaneously, at Tokyo, youngish army leaders began a drive to purge foes of the military alliance.



AMBASSADOR SHIRATORI

Meanwhile there was every indication these three powers were doing their best to confuse and frighten not only France, Britain and Russia (who opened joint military conferences in Moscow) but also the U. S. Sharp on the heels of U. S. abrogation of the Jap trade treaty had come anti-American and anti-British demonstrations in China. Jap airships destroyed two Yangtze river steamers. At Tientsin a mob destroyed offices of the British International Export corporation. With democracies' attention shifted away from Europe for the moment, the axis exerted pressure on Spain and the Balkan states, dragging them into line should Europe become embroiled in war.

While Washington tried desperately to remain aloof, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons he might have to send a powerful fleet to Asia. More interesting to Americans, however, was the proposal of Laborite John Morgan that British and American Asiatic fleets be combined under a U. S. admiral to keep order in the Orient. Said he: "I would regard it as a first-class move."

AGRICULTURE:

Barter

Forgotten by surplus-ridden U. S. lard producers is the humorous situation several years ago when they bartered lard for German machinery, finding themselves holding several thousand musical but useless harmonicas. Today Germany still needs lard, for which she will pay 60 per cent above the present domestic price of 5 to 5½ cents a pound.

Contrary to the state department's reciprocal trade program is the barter plan producers would now institute. Rebuffed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, producers and German barter emissaries turned to the treasury department where Undersecretary John W. Hanes agreed to a hearing. The plan, which obviously seeks legal circumvention of very definite foreign trade regulations, is something like this:

U. S. packers, having arranged a transaction in Germany, would sell lard to an American importing firm, which would trade it to private German buyers for "askimarks," usable only in that country. The importer would then purchase German products now on the U. S. free list, paying in Germany money about one-fourth what he would pay elsewhere. Products, turned over to lard producers here, would be largely of farm nature: Machinery, cream separators and fertilizer.

BRIEFLY . . .

SIGNED—One-year continuation of Russia-U. S. trade treaty under which Soviet will buy minimum of $40,000,000 in American goods.

SETTLED—(But tentatively), C. I. O.'s United Automobile Workers strike against General Motors at Detroit.

FORECAST—By Chicago statisticians, an aggregate U. S. wheat crop of 710,000,000 bushels (527,000,000 winter, and 183,000,000 spring), or just about enough for domestic requirements.

FLOWN — By trail-blazing, ocean spanning Pan-American airways, about 3,500,000 Atlantic and Pacific miles in three months ending June 30, with 57,000 passengers.

ORDERED—By SEC, hearing on Germany's effort to float a $73,000,000 bond issue in the U. S.

On the Funny Side

WRONG STOP

The chief engineer and the master mechanic had spent the evening together. For obvious reasons, the master mechanic was a little hesitant about going home.

"I'll tell you what to do if you don't want to disturb your wife," said the chief. "When you get in the house, undress at the foot of the stairs, fold your clothes neatly, then creep quietly up the steps to your own room."

They met the next morning at the plant. "How did you get on?" asked the chief.

"Rotten," replied the master mechanic. "I did just as you told me. I folded my clothes neatly. I crept quietly up the stairs. But when I reached the top—it was the elevated station!"

SHE'S ALL THE REST

"It is said there are a thousand evils in the world—and one of them is man."

"Pray what are the others?"

"Woman."

Take His Chances!

The Browns were standing on the balcony of the seaside hotel, and couldn't help hearing what the young couple in the garden below were saying.

Mrs. Brown turned to her husband. "I think he's going to propose and we shouldn't be listening. Just whistle to warn him."

"Why should I?" asked Mr. Brown. "Nobody whistled to warn me."

Best Man

An Irishman obtained leave from work to attend a wedding. He returned with two black eyes.

The foreman asked him what had happened.

"When I got there," replied the Irishman, "I saw a fellow all dressed up like a peacock. 'An' who are you?,' says I. 'I'm the best man,' he says, an' begorra, he was, too!"

New Fish Story

Game Warden—Hey, you! Don't you know that the bass season isn't open yet? What are you doing with that big one on your string?

Angler—Why, you see he's been taking my bait all morning and I just tied him up until I get ready to go home.

HOPED HE WOULD

"If I ever catch you with my girl again I'll knock your block off!"

"I hope you will."

Long Distance Calls

He held her in his arms and gazed into her sweet blue eyes.

"What would you do if I tried to kiss you?" he asked.

"Yell for father," she replied.

He sprang away from her nervously.

"Great Scott!" he cried. "I thought he was in Paris!"

"That's right, he is!"

Agreed!

"Get ready to die," said the footpad, presenting his revolver. "I'm going to shoot you."

"Why?" asked his victim.

"I've always said I'd shoot anyone who looked like me."

"Do I look like you?"

"Yes."

"Then shoot!"

Old Query

At a recent "hill-climbing" contest, amid the dust and heat and the roar of the motorcycle, a vendor called:

"Don't forget, we have pop on ice."

"Were's mom?" yelled some wag in the crowd.

Settled for Life

"I'll never ask another woman to marry me as long as I live."

"What, refused again?"

"No—accepted!"

Cutwork That Turns Linens to Treasures

Pattern 6331

Here's your chance to own beautiful linens without any trouble at all! Cutwork's easy to do, you know—it's just buttonhole stitch (there's just a touch of other stitchery). Such a variety of floral motifs too. Get busy on a tea cloth, scarf or towel. These designs are stunning on natural linen or soft pastel shades with stitchery in white or the matching color. Pattern 6331 contains a transfer pattern of 16 motifs ranging from 3¼ by 3¼ inches to 4½ by 15 inches; materials needed; color schemes.

To obtain this pattern, send 15 cents in coins to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th St., New York, N. Y.

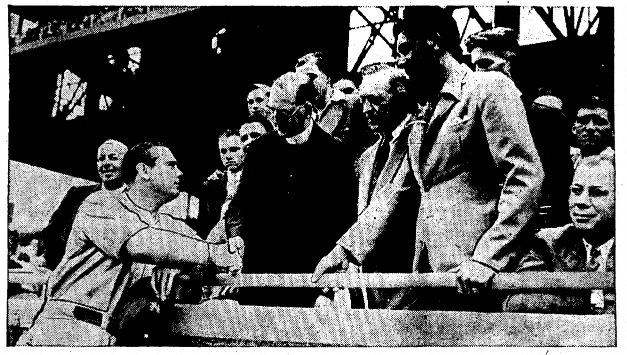
Manager Bill Terry Greets Boys Town Residents



Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, extended a welcome hand to Father Flanagan and his charges from Boys Town, Neb., just before the Giant-Cub game at Wrigley field in Chicago. The boys were on a baseball tour, having won the championship in a Boys Town tournament. They didn't bring Terry luck, however, as the Cubs managed to win the game with a ninth-inning homer.

'Somewhere in Holland Too Close to Germany'

"Somewhere in Holland too close to Germany" is the only locality identification given for this show of Dutch preparedness on the German border. Left: A steel-helmeted sentry stands guard before the entrance to one of the new border fortresses. The concrete stub is a "tank stopper," garnished with steel rails and a bouquet of barbed wire. Right: Soldiers of the Netherlands' regular army stand guard in a trench along the German border. Such scenes are plentiful along the entire frontier.

Here's World Wheat Supply

With the exception of Russia's huge wheat crop and China's output, the tentative world's wheat supply is 5,290,000,000 bushels. Which means that more wheat will be available for use in the 1939-'40 season than ever before, according to estimates made by the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics. The carryover is 1,200,000,000 bushels, and this year's wheat crop will total approximately 4,090,000,000 bushels.

HOW to SEW

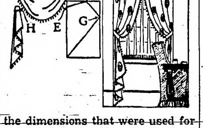
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

AN IMPORTANT speaker was scheduled, and the club rooms were looking rather shabby. The decorating committee reported that formal draperies would lend an air of distinction. The funds could only pay for the material. Sewing machines hummed and here is a sketch of the miracle that was wrought. Here also are the dimensions that were used for making patterns for the graceful valance sections which were fastened over rods with snaps.



For the looped section, cut paper 18 inches deep and half as wide as the window measured over the frame. From the upper right corner to point A is half of the window width less two inches. Point B is 6 inches below the upper left corner. Draw a diagonal line from A to B, and a curve from B to the lower right corner. Place the edge marked C on a fold of the goods. The diagonal ends are pleated and stitched into a band as at D.

For the end pieces, cut paper 15 inches wide and 24 inches deep. E is 3 inches below the upper left corner. F is 9 inches in from the upper right corner. G is 6 inches down from the upper right corner. Finish the top as at H.

The offer of the two 25-cent sewing books containing 96 HOW TO SEW articles that have not appeared in the paper will be withdrawn soon. At present you can get both books for the price of one; but don't delay; send 25 cents with name and address to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill., and both books will be sent by return mail, postpaid.

SENSE OF HUMOR

"THERE is no danger of a dictatorship in this country so long as Americans retain their sense of humor.

"Humor is a symbol of liberty and freedom in a country where we can see the ridiculous side of politics. ## To Report Accidents

All three of Minnesota's large cities have adopted, and by Sept. 1 will have put into effect thru their local police forces, the state's official system of compulsory accident reporting.

Minneapolis this week announced adoption of the state method and St. Paul and Duluth have already done so.

Under this system, every driver of a motor vehicle which is involved in a traffic accident that results in death, personal injury, or property damage exceeding $50, is required by law to report full details of the accident to the Commissioner of Highways in St. Paul. Such reports are for use in analyzing accident causes and preventing future accidents. They cannot be used as evidence in any court action.

Lutheran Men Plan Retreat

A unique event is being planned by the men of the Brotherhood of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, American Lutheran Conference. A four day retreat has been arranged at Green Lake, near Spicer, Minnesota. The retreat as planned will include inspiration, fellowship and recreation.

The Brotherhood of the N. L. C. A. is a nation wide organization with nearly five hundred local units scattered from New York to California and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. National headquarters are at Minneapolis. It is the official organization for the church. The Rev. Roy E. Olson is the Executive Secretary. The nationol president is Oscar E. Westberg of Williston, North Dakota. Rev. Olson will be camp director.

Other members of the faculty will include Dr. Jacob Tanner' Professor Emeritus of Luther Theological Seminary of St. Paul; the Rev. Jerrold Moilien of Grand Marais, Minnesota; and Dr. J. C. K. Preus Executive Secretary of the Department of Education. A seminar on Brotherhood methods will be conducted by Rev. Olson. The highlight of the retreat will be a festival service on Sunday morning, Sept. third, at which Dr. Preus will be the speaker.

All men of the church are invited to attend the retreat which will be the first of its kind to be held by the men of the Lutheran Church. It is planned to make the event an annual affair. The camp site which is owned by the Southern Minnesota District Luther League will be the scene of activities. The first session is planned for Friday evening, September first.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Johnson and Gloria and Mr. and Mrs. L. Sagstuen and Dorothy spent Sunday at the Old Settlers picnic at Pelan. While there Mr. Sagstuen took suddenly ill and had to be rushed to a hospital.

Farm Accident Rate High

Farming is more hazardous than most other occupations. Farmers are constantly working around dangerous machinery. There is always a chance of being badly injured by farm animals, by being kicked, gored or bitten. Corn pickers and shredders are particularly dangerous machines. Many people have been badly injured by mowers. Wood cutting takes a toll of bad injuries.

Ways of reducing farm accidents were discussed at much length at the recent meeting of the Minnesota Safety Council in Duluth. Representing the Minnesota Farm Bureau at the safety session was J. S. Jones, a member of the Safety Council's farm committee.

People can best avoid accidents if they know where danger is most apt to lie, Mr. Jones asserts. On recommendation of the Council, the Farm Bureau will co-operate in a county-wide survey to determine the extent and nature of farm accidents so that methods of reducing the toll may be worked out.

W. A. Dickinson, Farm Bureau safety specialist and a member of the farm safety committee, has proposed that in his home county, Cottonwood, such a survey be conducted through the rural schools. It is probable, Mr. Dickinson says, that the work will start soon after the schools open as school officials in Cottonwood county are showing an active and friendly interest in the project.

People often think that the farm is the best and safest place for children but specialists at the University Farm tell us that youngsters on the farm face many hazards unknown to children in the city. Many are hurt each year by mowers, many are kicked by horses and cows or bitten by hogs. The high speed of cars on rural roads makes traveling along country roadsides a hazardous thing for liitle folks. The farm child is probably not as safe from accidents as a youngster in the city.

The Safety Council is doing good work in trying to minimize farm accidents and many Farm Bureau units have engaged actively in accident prevention education. The Aitkin County Farm Bureau has made "Safety On The Highway" a major project.

Charles Munn, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission, declared recently: "When an accident befalls a farmer and there is no insurance and no hospitalization such as many industrial workers enjoy, he faces the dire prospect of becoming totally useless on on the farm.

"In a few days the corn harvest will be on in Minnesota. This always reaps a tragic harvest of dangerous accidents. Be on guard to prevent the suffering and heartaches these preventable accidents impose," says Mr. Munn.

"Some of the farm machinery and equipment sold to farmers would not be tolerated in industry because of exposed moving parts, unprotected gears and other dangerous features. Let us all unite in the common cause of promoting safety as a great humanitariun measure," Mr. Munn declared.

Opal Werner returned home Sunday from Glyndon where she visited at the R. A. Holmgren home.

Mrs. Wrolson Died In Canada

News was received here that Mrs. Gena Wrolson of Wanham, Alberta, passed away on Aug. 2, at the age of 46 years. Mrs. Wrolson, with her family, lived in Holt before going to Canada in 1920. She leaves to mourn her loss five children and a host of relatives there and also in the Holt community. She was a neice of Mrs. Otto Johnson here. Mr. Wrolson passed away a few years ago. A paragraph in the Grand Prairie paper states: "Mrs. Wrolson was a wonderful mother and played her part in the life of her community. She in her quiet way made many friends, all of whom regret her passing."

Bids were opened here on Monday evening by the local school board for bus drivers for the coming school year. Those who were awarded contracts to haul bus were Wm. Fluke, route 2, at $30.00 per month; Oscar Reierson, routes 1 and 4 combined as $25.00 and Edgar Horien, route 3 at $34.00 per month.

Card of Thanks

We hereby wish to express our sincere thanks for the tablecloth given to us by the people of Holt and community.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Carlson.

Mrs. Fred Peterson is visiting relatives in Bemidji this week.

Confirmation Class to Meet

The confirmation class of the Nazareth Lutheran church will be enrolled on Friday morning, Sept. 1 at 10:30, in the church parlors. All those who were 12 years of age on or before Aug. 1, 1939 will be enrolled in the Junior section. Anyone wishing to transfer to the Senior section must have one year of instruction previously and must be 13 years of age on or before August 1. The young people of the community who may wish to attend are invited to come and are asked to kindly respect the age limit.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nohre closed a deal recently whereby they bought a grocery store at Pembina N. Dak. They will move there about September 1. Mr. and Mrs. Nohre are both experienced in that line of work having spent many years in the business before moving to the farm last year.

C. A. Larson received news this week of the sudden death of his sister, Marie Larson, in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Larson will go there this week end for the funeral services.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Johnson and Gloria and Mr. and Mrs. L. Sagstuen and Dorothy attended a birthday party in honor of Helen at the home of her patents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Erickson.

Hitler, Duce Lay Groundwork For Five-Power Conference To Escape War Over Danzig

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EUROPE:
Another Munich?

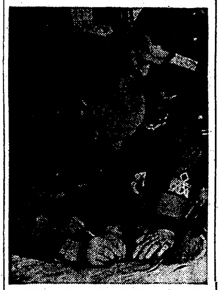
One fear long entertained but little discussed by France and Britain is that Danzig might simply and peacefully declare its union with Germany. If Poland then went to war, she would be labeled as an aggressor. This crafty scheme has been brewing in Adolf Hitler's mind ever since it became apparent that German force in Danzig would be met by Polish-French-British force. But originally it was Benito Mussolini's idea, for a conflict over Danzig would enmesh Italy just as a war over Sudetenland would have brought similar consequences last autumn. Already tired of aiding Germany's aggrandizement at the risk of their own necks, rank-and-file Italians were about ready to junk the Rome-Berlin axis.



RIBBENTROP AND CIANO

A more exalted statesman than Der Fuehrer, Il Duce sent his son-in-law foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, to confer near Salzburg with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. The apparent decision, pressed by Count Ciano and ultimately accepted by Hitler, was that Danzig was not worth a war. Having thus counseled moderation, Mussolini had again pressed his pants and entered once more the good graces of France and Britain. He was now set to repeat the history that led to last year's notorious Munich conference.

Rumors leaked out that Il Duce was loud in acclaim of the Vatican's sincere efforts for peace via negotiation. But Il Duce was not so high-minded. Laying the groundwork for a five-power conference (Germany, Italy, Poland, Britain, France) he intended to settle not only the Danzig issue but a few others as well, attaining his own end by winning colonial concessions from France.

While all Europe awaited an official invitation, the controlled Berlin press laid down a preparatory barrage by thundering that the "European powder barrel may explode" unless the Danzig issue is settled speedily. Significant in this picture was Russia's position. Should British-French military authorities drop their Moscow conversations like a hot biscuit when Mussolini makes his bid, observers agreed Paris and London would be guilty of a heinous crime. But both democracies assured no such thing would happen.

AGRICULTURE:
Paper Money

Script first made news in farm circles this summer when orange and blue stamps were adopted to help dispose of surplus commodities to relief families. Successful, the plan was next tried with non-reliefers. Latest development is Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace's announcement that food script will soon be used on a nation-wide basis.

Briefly . . .

AT KNOXVILLE — A federal court upheld President Roosevelt's right to oust Dr. A. E. Morgan as chairman of TVA.

AT CAMPOBELLO, N. S.—President Roosevelt announced he would shove this year's Thanksgiving ahead from November 30 to 23. Reason: To space holidays more evenly.

AT LANGLEY FIELD, VA.—Nine army fliers were killed in a bombing plane crash. Same day, at San Diego, two navy fliers were killed.

Coming up soon is even bigger script news. In Washington, Georgia's Sen. Richard B. Russell Jr. made known a "certificate plan" he will introduce at the next session of congress to solve the farm problem. Its gist:

The secretary of agriculture would give growers certificates covering their allotted portion of a normal domestic crop. For example, a cotton grower who got 200 pounds from each of his 10 acres over the previous five-year average, would get certificates for that part of his 2,000 pounds which is ordinarily sold domestically. To purchase this cotton, domestic buyers must also buy the certificates, paying for them the differential between the market price and parity price. If the parity price were 15 cents and cotton sold at 10 cents, certificates would cost five cents a pound.

Biggest advantage of the plan is that it lifts the burden of parity payments from government shoulders. Disadvantages: (1) It is merely a disguise for unpopular processing taxes, and would ultimately raise costs to consumers; (2) it still leaves the export problem unsolved.

Other farming news:

¶ Revised and extended to July 31, 1940, was the wheat export subsidy program. Under the old plan, government-purchased wheat was sold to exporters. New plan: Exporters will buy wheat direct from mills and elevators, seek a foreign market and advise the agricultural department how much subsidy they need to finance the export.

¶ Corn crop estimates were placed at 2,450,888,000 bushels, or 111,000,000 bushels under the previous month's estimate. Reason: Hot and dry weather. Meanwhile winter wheat estimates rose from 547,767,000 bushels to 550,710,000.

BUSINESS:
What Challenge?

What congress did or did not do to help or hurt business and labor offers a meaty conversational melange this month. Reason: Congress' refusal to try more pump-priming left the burden of recovery proof on the shoulders of private enterprise. But at the same time congress did little (in business' eyes) to alleviate business' tax and labor woes. Therefore both business and labor jumped into the national political arena soon after adjournment, one anxious to encourage a trend, the other willing to hop the bandwagon for whatever it was worth.

First word came from President Howard Coonley of the National Association of Manufacturers, who wrote his membership that business should be encouraged by the "conservative" trend in congress, but that "further positive action" was needed. One positive action: Amendment of the Wagner labor act.

C. I. O.'S PHILLIP MURRAY

(In Washington, the LaFollette civil liberties committee opened its hearings by accusing Mr. Coonley's N. A. M. with "deliberate" attempts to promote "organized disregard" for the Wagner act. N. A. M. called the report a "gross misrepresentation of fact.")

Next day C. I. O.'s Vice President Phillip Murray, whose Boss John Lewis has been in the public dog house ever since he called Vice President John Garner an "evil old man," appeared on a radio network to urge that President Roosevelt summon business, government and labor leaders to a national unemployment conference. The Murray position: "Unemployment is America's No. 1 social, economic, and political problem . . . Failure to solve it constructively might very well rock the foundations of our government."

Hesitant to tack political implications on what appeared to be an honest, labor-sponsored move against unemployment, many business leaders nevertheless held their tongues-in-cheek wondering what Phillip Murray had in mind. Should C. I. O. emerge from such a conference as a Great Peacemaker, business' drive to modify John Lewis' pet Wagner act would be seriously hamstrung.

POLITICS:
New Forecasts

When wallop-trading between legislative and executive branches characterizes a session of congress, there is every reason to expect that each side shall take its version of the story to that final judge—the People. In themselves such post-session rebuttals are merely rehashed opinions, yet President Roosevelt's peculiar interest in the 1940 election will continue to make bigger and better headlines until he decides to seek a third term or retire to Hyde Park.

Worthy of note, therefore, was his comment on signing the Ashurst bill creating a federal court budget officer. At that time he boasted that all objectives of the 1937 court reorganization plan had been accomplished despite the plan's defeat as an entity. Next day he charged congress' defeat of his neutrality and lend-spend legislation was leading business over a precipice. On the third day he created a sensation by warning he would bolt the Democratic party in 1940 if the convention decided on "conservative . . . or lip-service candidates" and a "straddlebug platform."

TEXAS' RAYBURN
"I am for . . . John Garner."

This served to produce 1940 forecasts from previously silent sources. Nebraska's Sen. Edward R. Burke predicted the President would organize and lead a new "liberal" party. He also thanked Mr. Roosevelt for bringing about such a realignment, terming the present labels "Democrat" and "Republican" as "an offense to the intelligence of the electorate."

Most sensational development, however, came from the President's own house leader, Texas' Rep. Sam Rayburn. Probably smelling a party rift, he wired this reply to a query by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram: "I am for that outstanding Texan and liberal Democrat, John N. Garner, for the presidential nomination in 1940, believing that if elected he will make . . . a great President."

Meanwhile, North Dakota's Republican Sen. Gerald Nye saw that a Roosevelt drift toward super-liberalism meant that all parties must follow suit in modified fashion. Said he: "If the Republican party is going to get anywhere in 1940 it has got to make up its mind that its candidate and platform are going to have to be forward-looking and progressive. Both will have to . . . maintain and improve some of the advances . . . established under the New Deal."

Another voice, that of Minnesota's Farmer-Laborite Sen. Ernest Lundeen: "If the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. would get together they would hold the 1940 election in the palm of their hand. The farm vote would swing in and they could march right into the White House."

News Quiz Answers

1. Twenty were killed, 60 injured when passenger train was derailed in apparent sabotage plot.
2. A Miami-Rio de Janeiro plane exploded while landing in Rio harbor, killing 14.
3. Moses Annenberg of Philadelphia.
4. Heart was exposed on top of chest.
5. Argumentative. Budget bureau places actual outlay for fiscal year at $10,472,354,914; Kentucky's Sen. Alben Barkley places it at less; New York's Rep. John Taber calls it $14,061,596,619.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Perhaps it is the heat, general, it seems, throughout the civilized world these days, or more likely it is one of those waves of human aspiration that sometime sweep the world. At any rate in announcing intention to return to Antarctica to seek to learn some of the primal secrets hidden in the interior of the continent at the bottom of the world, Lincoln Ellsworth shares ambition with Admiral Byrd, as with British, Norwegian, French and Argentinan flyer-explorers. Difference is that, whereas Mr. Ellsworth's motives are purely scientific, in other cases international politics in their relation to geographical claims are the incentives.

Born in Wealth, Ellsworth Picks Hazardous Life

Love of adventures manifested when yet in his 'teens sent Ellsworth forth to explore unknown regions in different parts of the world. Scion of wealthy parents, born in Chicago in 1880, he could have ordered his career, had he wished, along many lines less strenuous and of fewer hazards than the one he chose and in which he has become so distinguished. He came east to a crack seat of secondary learning, the Hill school, Pottstown, Pa., and upon graduation entered Columbia where he won scholastic honors in the department of civil engineering. But, becoming restive under the sedentary routine of student life, he did not wait to be graduated.

Faring forth into the wild, he became an axman on the first Grand Trunk Pacific railway survey of the transcontinental route across Canada. For five years he saw the virgin land of the Northwest, lived among Indians, shared the hardships of pioneers. In 1907 he became resident engineer of the Grand Trunk at Prince Rupert, B. C.

But his work, filled though it was with hardship and adventure, was not enough. Restlessness was in his soul and the unknown beckoned. So 1909 found him in the Peace river district in northern Canada, prospecting for gold. Then the World war came and, seeking action, he went to France where he became an aviator long before the United States entered the strife.

The real turning point in his career came with his meeting with Raoul Amundsen in Paris in 1924. With the great Norwegian explorer he participated in various expeditions culminating in 1926 with the famous flight in a dirigible over the North pole. Since then subsequent trips of exploration won him enhanced fame and added thrilling chapters to a gallant life of action.

◆

PROFESSOR J. B. S. HALDANE, the famous British biochemist, who just now offers to sit inside an air-raid shelter while it is bombed from the outside, is the only living test-tube—still unscarred.

Scientist Balks At Nothing, as Yet Unscarred

Last month he sealed himself in an air-tight chamber for 14 hours to learn how the victims of the Thetis submarine disaster felt in their last hours. He once ate an ounce of ammonium chloride a day, survived it and learned a lot about tetanus and saving children's lives. Studying fatigue, he shut himself for long periods in a tight chamber, the air charged with carbon dioxide. Tracing effects of acid on the body, he ate daily three ounces of bicarbonate of soda, following it with a chaser of hydrochloric acid, diluted with water. Twice gassed in the World war, he seemed to enjoy himself a lot, writing down his sensations with Gusto and later qualifying as an expert on mustard and other gases.

With all that, he hasn't a scratch on him and doesn't suffer even from indigestion. Husky and vigorous, he doubles as guinea pig and a writer, the latter pursuit greatly enhancing his fame, notably with his book Daedalus, which was quite a sensation in this country in 1924. He experiments on his mind just as he does on his body. He is moved mainly by the idea that we know precious little about life and death and the human body and mind, and that in the short time allotted to us we ought to try anything once, which he consistently does. He is a spirited writer, giver to epigrams, and is known as the G. B. Shaw of Science.

The son of a distinguished Scottish scientist, he was educated at Oxford and gained increasing reputation before he was 30. He is 47.

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Mitchell Field Celebrates 30th Air Corps Birthday

Sergt. C. L. Birch took on the job of guide and informant for a group of youngsters who helped the army celebrate the thirtieth birthday of its air corps at Mitchell field in New York recently. The sergeant is showing the youngsters some of the tools used in air fighting, including a machine gun which shoots pictures instead of bullets. It is used in air target practice, and its pictures show whether the gunner scored a hit or miss. The machine gun-camera takes rapid-fire pictures, and the "gunner's" aim must be just as accurate to get pictures as it is in actual aerial combat to score a direct hit.

Busy Londoners Find Time to Read Open Air Bible

Busy though they may be, rare are the pedestrians who fail to stop at least for a moment outside St. Paul's church in London to read the Bible which lies open in a glass-topped stand. Each day the Bible is turned to a different page. Here is pictured a window-cleaner, a porter, a page boy, and a mother and her child, attracted by the open volume. Each day hundreds of people stop in front of the famous church, read for a few moments, and go on about their duties. Many of the pedestrians admit that it's about the only time they read the Bible.

Children? Dictators Just Love Them

Though grim "military necessity" causes Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, left, and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy to build huge bombing planes in order to wipe out cities and their populations, the two dictators never fail to show their love for children—at least when they face a camera. Here Hitler playfully pats one of his youthful supporters who was singled out for the honor during a special celebration in Berlin's famous Olympic stadium. Mussolini proudly accepts a bouquet of flowers from a little Albanian child during his recent visit to Riccione.

New Chinese Stamp Honors U. S. Flag

An unprecedented compliment was paid the United States by China recently when a new stamp was issued to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence by the United States. The stamp bears the flags of China and the U. S. to symbolize the traditional friendship that has existed for so many years between the two nations. As far as is known, this is the first time that an independent nation has so signally honored the flag of another.

HOW TO SEW

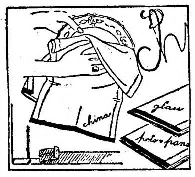
by— Ruth Wyeth Spears



THERE is logic in the idea that glasses, china and pots and pans should have their own towels. Here is a simple way to make that logic work. Write across the corner of each towel with a soft pencil the purpose for which it is to be used. Use a soft pencil and your best script with the tall letters at least two inches high.

Work over the hand writing with heavy, bright colored embroidery thread. Chain stitch, as shown here at the upper right, gives a good strong outline and may be done quickly. Use a different color for each kind of towel. Colored facings of prepared bias binding used flat as shown at the lower left make a practical edge finish. If you use flour and sugar sacks for dish towels, these suggestions for adding color will be especially useful.

'Twas High Time to Call Halt, Thought the Lady

Former Senator Fess was condemning in Atlantic City the war talk that is troubling the world.

"How unreasonable war is," he ended. "It is more unreasonable than the prize fight seemed to the old lady. An old lady said on her return from the big city:

"'One evening my son-in-law took me to a prize fight. I never saw such a thing. The two men came out on the stage and shook hands like the best of friends, then they began to punch each other all for nothing. They kept on punching till a man in the corner yelled "Time" and nobody answered him, so I pulled out my watch and screamed, "Ten o'clock"!'" — Philadelphia Bulletin.

Match Good for 600 Lights

A rival of the match invented by an Austrian scientist, is a lighting-stick capable of being used 600 times. Its stone-like stem is made up of chemicals, and burning gases develop when it is struck. As the burning gases raise the temperature, nitrogen gas is released in sufficient quantity to choke the flame after allowing time to light a fire or a cigarette.

NEW RECORD SET FOR EXHIBITS AT 1939 STATE FAIR

$127,000 For Educational Displays—National Percheron Show Added Feature

Unexcelled educational exhibits from farm, factory and home will form the background for the $25,000,000 expanded 10-day Minnesota State Fair, August 26 to September 4.

A record of $127,000 in premiums offered, to encourage raising the types of livestock and crops that command the best market, has resulted in increased entries in all educational departments. Every indication points to the 1939 fair as a record-breaker.

Dedication of the new 4-H building, in which will be housed all of the exhibits and demonstrations of the 3,500 contestants representing every county in the state, the revamping of the machinery hill exhibit grounds along with such improvements as the new horse, poultry, swine and sheep pavilions, provide Minnesota with the finest permanent plant in the country.

World Wide in Scope

World-wide in scope, the wide range of educational exhibits will appeal to all visitors. Bountiful crop displays, 7,200 head of cattle, horses, sheep and swine and dairy products in keeping with the importance of the industry to the Northwest, will be the farm contribution to the expanded fair. From the factory will come the latest types of machinery and labor-saving devices. From the home will come the finest examples of cooking, canning, baking, needlecraft and other household arts.

For the first time in the fair's 80 years the National Percheron Show will be an added attraction. Virtually every state and Canadian province will be represented by the finest Percheron horses, with keen competition forecast for the special premiums totaling $5,500.

Largest Minnesota Cattle Entry

Improved markets are reflected in the record dairy and beef entries in the cattle show. The largest entry of Minnesota-owned cattle in history has been recorded. The sheep and swine entries exceed those of a year ago, while the poultry show will have more than 5,000 birds.

Machinery hill, in its new dress, will feature $1,000,000 of streamlined farm equipment and labor-saving machinery. Most of these displays will be of the moving-type with factory experts present to explain operations and answer questions of interested visitors.

Agricultural and horticultural buildings will be jammed with field crops and fruits. The school exhibits will occupy new quarters on the ground floor of the grandstand. WPA displays also will be in this hall.

"Swan Song"

The term, "swan song," is familiar to all for a farewell performance, or the last creative effort of an artist. The allusion is to the song popularly believed to be sung by a swan when dying. The origin of the metaphor is found in the "Epigrams" of the famous Latin "Martial," probably Marcus Valerius Martialis, who is believed to have lived from the year 40 to 102 A. D. And a well-known use of it is in Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice."

Petrified Tree Found

A petrified tree, believed to be one of the largest in the state, has been reported to the North Dakota geological survey at the at the University by Fred C. Becker, of near New Salem.

More than 30 feet of the trunk of the tree has been uncovered in Beckers coal mine. The tree is five feet in diameter.

Explaining it, Dr. Frank C. Foley, state geologist and University geology department head, pointed out that 50 million years ago, just after the dinosaur disappeared, the state was covered by swamps and heavy forest. The climate was warm and humid.

During thousands of yerrs, trees and other plant growths were buried in swamps, resulting in North Dakota's lignite beds and in the occasional petrified trees. Tree struction is preserved in detail, and through action of water the wood was replaced by quartz.

School Begins Tuesday

School will reopen for another school year on Tuesday morning with three new members of the local faculty, and several new pupils. The children are anxiously waiting for school to begin after three months of vacation. The school building has been cleaned and floors sanded and refinished.

Miss Helen Erickson of Minneapolis has been secured to take Miss Boethin's place who resigned recently. Miss Erickson is a graduate of Gustavus Adolphus College of St. Peter. While at college she was very active in musical and athletic activities. She has considerale experience with girl scout work, which will be of interest to girls of the community. She will be in charge of Mathematics, English, Library, and Physical Education.

Miss Virginia Fadden of Alexandria, Minn. will be the Intermediate Grades teacher. Miss Fadden is a graduate of the St. Cloud State Teachers college and is experienced in piano instruction. She was outstanding in musical activities while a student.

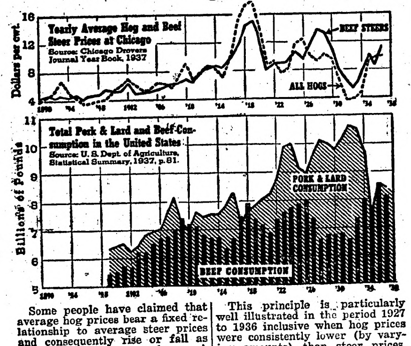
The Primary room will be in charge of Miss Carol Larson of Starbuck, Minn. Miss Larson is graduate of St. Cloud State Teachers college.

Mr. Emil Kaufert, Princeton, Minn., will return for his third term as teacher of the Upper Grades.

Mr. Geo. Karvonen is the Superintendent of the school and has been here the past three years.

Mrs. H. Moberg, Bertha and Gerald Moberg, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Moberg, and Gladys Nelson motored to Humboldt and St. Vincent Sunday and spent the day at the Rees and Babcock homes.

There Is No Fixed Relationship Between Hog and Steer Prices



Some people have claimed that average hog prices bear a fixed relationship to average steer prices and consequently rise or fall as steer prices go up or down. A study of the subject and the statistics shown in the chart above, however, does not bear out such a claim. As a matter of fact, since 1890 (war years excluded) the ratio of hog prices to cattle prices has been one of constant change. During this period hog prices were higher than cattle prices in 19 years and lower than cattle prices in the other 24. Almost every year saw a change in this ratio between cattle and hog prices.

One significant thing shown by the statistics is that when the supply of pork and lard to be consumed has been greater relatively than that of beef, the price of hogs has been lower relatively than that of steers, and, vice versa, when the supply of beef has been relatively higher than that of pork and lard, the price of steers has been relatively lower than that of hogs.

This principle is particularly well illustrated in the period 1927 to 1936 inclusive when hog prices were consistently lower (by varying amounts) than steer prices. During this period, the chart shows that the amount of pork and lard to be consumed was the highest on record for a like period, while beef on the other hand was less than average.

Other factors that have had a bearing on this price ratio are the volume of pork and lard that can be exported (now almost negligible), and the preference of consumers for pork or for beef, mostly due, of course, to a favorable price necessary to move increased supplies of one or the other into consumption. Naturally, the more hogs or the more cattle that come to market, the lower the price will be.

These are the economic factors that cause the price of one to be higher, or to be lower, than the price of the other, regardless of whether the livestock is marketed at central markets or at interior markets.

Family Reunion Held

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O. Larson and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Larson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sagstuen and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Myers and David attended a family reunion at the Edwin Anderson home in Agdar on Sunday. Other guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moe, Merlene and Curtis; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dahl and son Paul; Mrs. Annie Brye; Mrs. Marie Settingsgard, Miss Gunda Moe and Mr. Henry Moe all of Grafton, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Hans Langlie and family of Newfolden; Mr. and Mrs. Manvel Moe and Marilyn; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Anderson, Shirley and and Mary Ann; and Art Moe and daughter Arlett all of Agdar.

A picnic dinner was enjoyed and the group spent the afternoon visiting S. Moe and Mrs. Art Moe at the sanitorium in Thief River Falls. A six o'clock picnic supper was also served.

Boys Take Life Saving Tests

Scoutmaster Hartley Peterson and Russel Sanoden, Howard Lorentson, Rubin Ness and Milton Hanson motored to Devils Lake, N. D. Saturday where they took life saving tests as required for their Eagle Scout rank. They also attended court of honor where Fred J. Traynor, member of the state higher board of education, delivered an address. Orrie Larson of Crary, N. D., district commissioner, and Spencer McCrea of Grand Forks were in charge of the scouts. Glen Prather of Grand Forks, scout executive, also attended.

Walter Larson began excavations for the construction of a new home on lots bought from Mrs. C L. Sandberg, this week. It is gratifying to see two new homes built in our village with work on Mr. and Mrs. Karvonen's new home going right along. The need for more places to live in has been felt a long time in Holt.

New and Old Speed Kings in State Fair Auto Races

Emory Collins (top) and Gus Schrader are the new and old automobile dirt track racing champions. Collins won the honors from Schrader in 1938 by 75 points on the season's I. M. C. A. competition. Both will compete in the official championship races at the Minnesota State Fair on August 28 and 30 and September 2 and 4.

Check Childrens Health

With the first day of school in the offing, the Minnesota State Medical Associations's Committee on Public Health Education, reminds parents that good physical condition is more important than a hair cut and new shoes in the preparation for another year at school.

It is hoped that all Minnesota yonngsters have been playing, swimming, camping and hiking out doors and are now in the pink of condition. A good many have been on long and exhausting trips; however, and some of these children will probably need to rest up from their vacations before they go back to the schoolroom, according to the bulletin.

Others need special attention to eyes or ears and other sources of difficulty which could be cleared up before the school bell rings.

A special plea to parents to be sure that their children are as well and as free from physical hindrance as possible is made this week by the doctors.

It is far easier to have teeth and eyes and general physical condition checked now than after school is in full swing, the doctors say. It makes all the difference in the happiness and success of a child in school.

The most difficult and most frequently neglected rule for parents to enforce is the early to bed rule, the bulletin says. It should be enforced before school opens, not only as a preparation for the first day, but so as to establish necessary habits of rest for the entire school year.

Harold Gavere Given Party

A group of Holt friends of Harold Gavere surprised him with a farewell party on Thursday evening. The party was in the form of a weiner and marshmellow roast and was held in the park in Middle River. The guests were: Harold Gavere, honor guest, Howard and Betty Lou Lorentson, Orris and Myron Johnson, Roy Hagberg, Jean and Jerome Sorum, Opal Werner Evelyn, Beatrice and Lowell Larson, Marian Larson, Orlin, Rueben and Irene Ness, Milton and Lois Hanson, Roy Moline, Lucille Horien, Raymond Sagstuen, Lloyd Gilbertson and Vern Wilson.

Marian Larson is spending this week at the Minnesota State Fair as an individual health demonstrator from the Steiner 4-H Club.

Confirmation Class to Meet

The confirmation class of the Nazareth Lutheran church will be enrolled on Friday morning, Sept. 1 at 10:30, in the church parlors. All those who were 12 years of age on or before Aug. 1, 1939 will be enrolled in the Junior section. Anyone wishing to transfer to the Senior section must have one year of instruction previously and must be 13 years of age on or before August 1. The young people of the community who may wish to attend are invited to come and are asked to kindly respect the age limit.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Larson and family were Friday evening visitors at the Mrs. A. S. Elseth home in Nowfolden. They were accompanied home by Evelyn and Beatrice Larson who had spent the day as a guest of Miss Elma Elseth.

I. W. V. A. Convention

With every Legion post automatically a member, the third annual convention of the International War Veterans Alliance in Thief River Falls over the Labor Day week-end September 2, 3 and 4, will attract hundreds of World War Veterans and their friends from throughout Minnesota and North Dakota, in addition to a solid trainload of former servicemen coming down from Winnipeg and Manitoba.

Parades will feature each day of the convention, a score of bands and drum corps having signified their intention of participating, in addition to twenty or more floats. Professional street entertainers will also be in action each day, and there will be dances each evening, with a convention Jamboree and Jitterbug contest Sunday evening, Sept. 3, in the sports arena.

Highlights of the convetion program include an address by Governor Harold E. Stassen on the afternoon of Labor Day, September 4, and an official Northern League baseball game between the Crookston and Winnipeg teams Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the fairgrounds ball park. The main convention parade will be held immediately preceeding the ball game, and will wind up at the ball park.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Horien on Wednesday, a boy.

Nazareth Congregation Met

A special meeting of the Nazareth Congregation and Ladies Aid was held in the church parlors on Friday evening. The main question for discussion was to repair and improve the parsonage. It was unanimously decided to raise the house on a foundation, construct a basement and install a furnace. For a number of years, the foundation under the parsonage has been sagging to the extent that it would soon cause damage to the house. Since this is necessary, it was felt that further improvements could be made by making a basement and enlarging the heating plant. The men of the congregation showed a great willingness and enthusiam to donate their labor for excavating and building forms. The members of the Church Council and the Officers of the Ladies Aid were designated as a building Committee. The work will begin some time in September. Following the meeting the ladies present served lunch.

Mr. Ed Timm and daughter Clara, Mrs. Ray Olson and daughter Geraldine of Thief River Falls and Emma Schultz of Osakis visited at the W. E. Wegge home Friday afternoon.

Joyce Moberg returned home Sunday after being employed at Hallock the past two months.

New Fall Patterns Are So Flattering

A TINY basque waistline, reminiscent of the 1890s, flirtatious little bows down the front and a wide, circular skirt, put No. 1800 in the forefront of fall fashions, and flatter you outrageously! Be among the first to wear this enchanting frock, in faille, flat crepe or thin wool.

Designed to Slenderize.

Suave, sophisticated lines, shirring and gathers to give an uplifted bustline, a slim paneled skirt and small waist, make this dress (1716) as slenderizing as it is smart. Make it of rayon jersey, flat crepe, silk sheers or thin wool, and wear it not only for runabout but for informal afternoons as well.

The Patterns.

No. 1800 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material with short sleeves; 5 yards with long sleeves. 2¾ yards ribbon for bows.

No. 1716 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 5 yards of 39 inch material with short sleeves; 5½ yards with long sleeves; ⅞ yards of trimming.

Two Souls, One Thought—Escape—Stirred Them

Two explorers, bearded and soiled, met in the wilderness, and crouched over a fire of brushwood.

Said the first: "I came out here because the urge to travel was in my blood. The drabness of the towns irked me, and the ever-present smell of exhaust gas sickened my rebellious heart! I wanted to see the sun rise over mysterious horizons, hear the scared flutter of birds hitherto strangers to human footsteps, leave my footprints on sands unmarked before I came along, see Nature in the raw! . . . Why did you come out here?"

Said the second: "My wife's taking vocal."

Feminine Athletes Command Nation's Spotlight

Though defeated recently in the eastern grass court tennis tournament, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, left, coupled form and efficiency to give a good accounting of herself in her match with Alice Marble. Center: Dorothy Poynton Hill, glamorous swimming heroine of the Olympics, has become a proficient golfer. Here she practices for a Los Angeles invitational meet. Right: Mrs. Lela Hall of Strasburg, Mo., a modern markswoman who puts the famed Annie Oakley to shame, shoots and wins against the country's best male marksmen. In trapshooting competition she scored a total of 195 out of a possible 200.

Royal Family Entertained by British Schoolboys

Be-kilted and tie-less, King George of England appeared to have the time of his royal life when he visited the schoolboys' camp which he maintains. This year the camp was at Abergeldie, near the Balmoral castle. At left is Princess Elizabeth; beside her an aide de camp; King George is in center, then Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose.

Ciano, Hitler Grind Their 'Axis'

Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano chats with German Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler during conversations at Berchtesgaden and Salzburg between Ciano and Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister. Observers believed this conference brought a statement of Italy's disinclination to support Germany in a war over Danzig, also paving the way for an all-European conference to settle issues over Danzig and Italian claims against France.

Latest Admirer

Another Trophy for Women's Champ

Star Dust

★ Real Star Starters
★ What a 'Stand-In' Is
★ Jon Hall May Go Native

By Virginia Vale

AT THE studios of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer there is renewed interest in the filming of "Pocahontas"—if they do, they predict that early American history will come in for its rightful share of the spotlight. They've selected that continental glamour girl, Hedy LaMarr, to play the part of the Indian girl, Pocahontas, who captured the heart of Capt. John Smith when she, "whom no entreaty could prevail, got his head in her arms and laid her own upon his to save him from death," when he was captured by her father, Powhatan, and was about to have his brains beaten out.

HEDY LA MARR

You probably know any number of people who claim that they gave this or that motion picture star the push that started him or her on the road to fame and fortune. All too frequently those star-starters actually had nothing to do with the person's success.

There are two men who can shine in reflected glory, if they want to, but they're so busy shining in their own glory that they can't be bothered. One is a well-known tailor in Hollywood, Eddie Schmidt.

Adolphe Menjou went to him when he first tackled Hollywood. He knew the value of good clothes, but he hadn't any money. He wanted to make a bargain. If Eddie Schmidt would make him six suits, and trust him for them, he'd tell everybody where he got the clothes. That wardrobe was the thing that turned the balance in Menjou's favor.

The other star-maker is Sardi, who owns the famous restaurant in New York where screen and stage players eat every day in the week.

Not so very long ago William Gargan was stoney broke. He hadn't had a stage engagement for ten months, his wife was in the hospital. But he had to be seen in Sardi's, so that the theatrical world would know that he was still about.

Sardi had noticed him, and had faith in him. He invited the young actor to eat at his expense, also to entertain anyone who was important to him. The investment came to about $800 altogether. Leslie Howard was influential in helping Gargan to make a tremendous success in the stage version of "The Animal Kingdom." Hollywood dangled a contract—and Gargan was set. Both Menjou and Gargan paid their backers' bills the first moment that they had the money.

Isabelle Sheridan, Mary Pickford's cousin, is in the movies yet not in them—and she has no desire to step before a camera.

She's a stand-in—which means that she wears a star's costumes and stands patiently while lighting is tried out on her and the camera man figures what he wants. She's stood in for Constance Cummins, Merle Oberon, Virginia Bruce, Sally Eilers, Joan Blondell and various other actresses. At present she's doing it for Joan Blondell in Hal Roach's "The Housekeeper's Daughter."

Looks as if Jon Hall would go on playing native of the South Seas for the rest of his screen career. "Hurricane" started him, you may recall, and Edward Small's "South of Pago Pago" will keep up the good work.

Bette Davis' performance in "The Old Maid" is so good that people who've never liked her on the screen before are now admitting that the girl can act. And Warner Brothers' plans for screening "The Miracle" have been speeded up and put into production, after three years of discussion and preliminary work. Miss Davis will have the coveted role of the Nun.

ODDS AND ENDS—Sol Lesser is allowing Principal Productions employees an extra half hour for lunch, on condition that they'll play badminton during their additional time, on the courts across the street from his offices at Selznick-International . . . After trying for a year, Charles Correll of "Amos and Andy" has taught his dog to roll over . . . Irene Dunne thought you, the public, wouldn't like her as the hard-boiled heroine of "Front Page," so the part is being re-written.

Sew a Bag to Keep Your Ball of Twine In

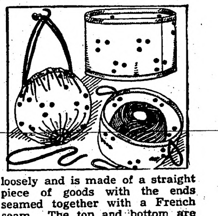
WHEN you want to wrap a package do you always know where to find twine? A ball of it in a bag like this one hung over the kitchen table will be ready for use.

Scraps from your piece bag may be used in this way. The bag is just big enough to cover the ball loosely and is made of a straight piece of goods with the ends seamed together with a French seam. The top and bottom are bound with prepared bias binding. A single cord is run through the binding at the bottom. It is drawn up to leave a small opening and the ends are tied and sewn securely. Two cords are run through the top with a loop of each cord left on the outside so that the bag may be drawn up by pulling them. The ball of twine is placed inside with the end running through the bottom opening.



Did you see the good news in the paper last week? About the new Sewing Book No. 3, which is now ready for mailing. It contains 32 useful ideas for home decorating; and things to use as gifts, and to sell at bazaars. You will be delighted with it. The price of this new book is only 10 cents postpaid. Send coin with name and address to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted, nutritious cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY HENRY W. PORTER

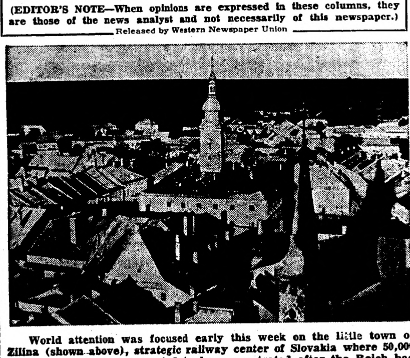
New Crisis Looms as Germany And Poland Mobilize Troops; Chamberlain Summons Aides

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union



World attention was focused early this week on the little town of Zilina (shown above), strategic railway center of Slovakia where 50,000 German troops were reported to be concentrated after the Reich had taken military possession of the Slovak republic which was already under German "protection." From Zilina more than a quarter of a million were deploying along a 100-mile front facing the Polish border.

EUROPE:

Week of Crisis

Peace or war?

Renewed activity, both military and diplomatic, indicated that this question may be answered one way or the other before this week of crisis ends.

Concentration of more than a quarter of million German troops, fully equipped for war, along Slovakia's border with Poland followed closely upon a conference between Hitler and Count Stephen Csaky, Hungarian foreign minister, after which it was announced that Hungary and the Reich had become firmly allied. Both of these moves were regarded as a part of the German plan to "encircle" Poland and as a buildup for Hitler's making a "final offer" to Poland on his demands for Danzig and a link with East Prussia through Pomorze (the Polish Corridor).

To meet this armed threat, Poland began sending troop reinforcements toward her frontiers facing Germany and Slovakia as a "precautionary measure against any eventuality." However, there were indications that Poland, feeling this military pressure, might advance some plan for settlement of the Danzig question by negotiation.

There were equally strong indications that she would resist armed force with armed force and count upon Great Britain to back her up. Whether or not her confidence in that backing is well-placed will become apparent if Prime Minister Chamberlain, who interrupted a vacation in Scotland to return to London, issues a statement after his conference with Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha, Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, and Malcolm MacDonald, colonial secretary. Significant was an editorial in the London Times, which often reflects the views of the British government. It said that Great Britain had given Poland "a specific pledge from which it will not and can not recede. It had given no such pledge to Czecho-Slovakia."

Meanwhile, if negotiation, rather than armed force, is used to solve the Danzig question, the impetus for it may come from Rome. After his conference with Hitler, Count Csaky flew to the Italian capital for conversations with Mussolini and his foreign minister, Count Ciano, after which he returned to Budapest. No official announcement of the result of this conference was forthcoming but it is considered likely that the axis powers hope to make Csaky a go-between for negotiations between Berlin and Warsaw. Since Hungary has been on friendly terms with Poland and with the axis powers, especially Italy, the Hungarian foreign minister would fit well into this role.

COUNT CSAKY
A go-between?

What effect the recently proclaimed trade agreement between Germany and Russia will have upon the resumption of negotiations for a three-power mutual assistance agreement between Great Britain, France and the Soviet is still undetermined. This agreement, which will probably give Germany access to much-needed raw materials, may so strengthen her hand in Europe's power politics that it may have a very decisive effect upon negotiations over Danzig, if that problem is to be settled by negotiation.

The latest move toward maintaining peace by negotiation was made by Belgium. King Leopold's government has invited the ministers of six small powers to rush to Brussels by airplane and join with Belgium in a peace plea to the larger nations. Those who were invited and who are said to have accepted the invitation were the Netherlands, Luxemburg, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland.

LABOR:

'Gag' on Ford?

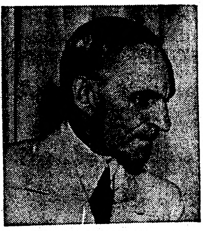
The Ford Motor company has notified the National Labor Relations board that it would not comply with an order which the board had issued against it reaffirming its earlier ruling that the company was guilty of violating the Wagner act by refusing to reinstate 24 men, said to have been discharged for union activity.

The new labor board decision retained the disputed section of the earlier ruling which required the firm to "cease and desist from . . . interfering with . . . its employees in the exercise of rights guaranteed in Section 7 of the act by circulating, distributing, or otherwise disseminating among its employees statement of propaganda which disparages or criticizes labor organization . . ."



HENRY FORD
Denied "free speech"?

The board referred mainly to the famous "Fordisms" as written by Henry Ford. The quotations contained anti-union sentiments.

In replying to the labor board, P. E. Martin, Ford vice president, denied that the company had discharged members of the United Automobile Workers of America or otherwise intimidated them and charged that the right of free speech was being denied Ford.

AGRICULTURE:

Milk Parley

As the result of renewed violence in upstate New York, marked by more milk-dumping and some skull-cracking when police and state troopers clashed with milk plant pickets, Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York city this week called farmer and distributor representatives into a conference to seek a peaceful solution of their dispute. The mayor's action came after the dairymen's strike had cut the usual supply available to the metropolitan area from 4,400,000 quarts to 2,300,000 quarts, although both sides had given assurance that hospitals, public institutions and other needy customers would receive an adequate supply.

The Farmers' Dairy union, which claims a membership of 15,000 dairy farmers and which is supported by the C. I. O., called the strike in an effort to force distributors to pay them $2.35 a hundredweight (or 47 quarts) for all classes of milk. The present price for such "blended" milk, which is used for manufacturing as well as drinking purposes—is $1.60 a hundredweight.

Hearings in Syracuse and New York city to discuss the price structure have been ordered for this week by the United States department of agriculture.

'Swing Style' Reading Not New; The Greeks Had a Word for It

Every now and then, the newspapers report a "brand new" idea or a "brand new" discovery. Take, for instance, the report about "swing reading." According to recent headlines, "swing reading" is the latest thing imaginable—the invention of two smart eye doctors in Los Angeles.

As the papers say, the doctors disclosed their "idea" a short time ago at a national convention of the American Optometric association. Advocating a new system of printing in "swing style," the doctors said they had something that would help the eyes. In short, they urged this type of thing:

> Many of the convention delegates
> a rof snoisses dennuhs yadretsey > day on the golf course. The weath-
> .enif saw re

This little excerpt must be read by swinging the eyes left to right along one line, then right to left along the next, and so on.

Well, we don't like to make ourselves seem scholarly, but the doctors have unwittingly dug up something pretty old. As a matter of fact, the ancient Greeks had a word for it, used the system and gave it up. They called it boustrophedon, and you can find the word in a good dictionary even to this day. Pronounced boo-stro-fee-don, with the accent on the third syllable, it means literally "turning like oxen in plowing." It is a compound of two Greek words—bous, meaning ox, and strephein, meaning to turn.

P. S. Incidentally, the excerpt quoted above reads normally this way: "Many of the convention delegates yesterday shunned sessions for a day on the golf course. The weather was fine."

Anybody else got a new idea?—Pathfinder.

Finally Name Was O. K. Though Not 'O,' but 'K'

A gentleman had completed his purchases, and the clerk, in filling out the sales slip, asked:

"What is the name, please?"

"Jepson," replied our hero. "Sixteen twenty-one West—"

"Your first initial, please."

"Oh, K."

"O. K. Jepson."

"I said 'Oh.'"

"O. Jepson."

"No. Rub out the O."

The clerk began to look haggard.

"Your initials again, please?"

"I said 'K.'"

"Pardon, you said 'O. K.'"

"I said 'Oh'—"

"Just now you said 'K.'"

"I said 'Oh,' because I didn't understand what you were asking me. I didn't mean it was my initial. My name is Kirby Jepson."

"Oh."

"No. Not O, but K. Here, give me the pencil and I'll write it myself. There, I guess it's O. K. now."—Annapolis Log.

ENTERTAINMENT SETS NEW HIGH FOR STATE FAIR

Two Distinct Night Shows Booked—Variety Keynote of $125,000 Program

Jammed with spectacular attractions, the 1939 ten-day Minnesota State Fair, August 26 to September 4, will offer the greatest entertainment program in its history. Costing $125,000 it will be replete with the world's finest thrillers.

To provide greater variety, the management is offering two distinct grandstand productions. These are Frontier Days Stampede and State Fair Revue of 1939. Championship automobile races, horse races, a superb horse show, statewide band contest, gorgeous fireworks, skeet shooting and another big Thrill Day are entertainment highlights.

Big Roundup

Frontier Days Stampede, presenting 150 cowboys and cowgirls, will vividly depict early pioneer days. Thrilling episodes will present dancing girls, trick and fancy riding, bulldogging, rope spinning, chuck wagon races, feats of marksmanship and other crowd pleasers. Four grandstand performances of Frontier Days Stampede will be presented Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings, August 26 and 27.

State Fair Revue of 1939, most lavish production of the entire outdoor show world, will have an all-star cast of 375 top performers of stage, cinema, circus and radio. Enriched by gorgeous costumes, spectacular lighting and elaborate settings, State Fair Revue will be staged eight consecutive nights beginning Monday, August 28, and concluding Labor Day night.

Jimmie Lynch Coming

A spectacular thrill program will be presented Friday, September 1, with Jimmie Lynch and his world fair thrillers coming here direct from New York for a one-day appearance. Included will be a motorcycle-to-airplane change, an airplane taking off and landing on an auto and a multi-balloon hop in which 40 small helium-filled bags will carry an intrepid balloonist aloft.

On the Midway will be the Royal American Shows with 44 new rides and attractions.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
© The Safety Man

Why does man make it a rule to take off his hat when riding in a hotel elevator carrying a woman? Why will man always pause to let a lady go first when entering or leaving a building?

Why, at social functions, will man spend an entire evening bobing up and down like a jumping jack whenever a lady enters the room?

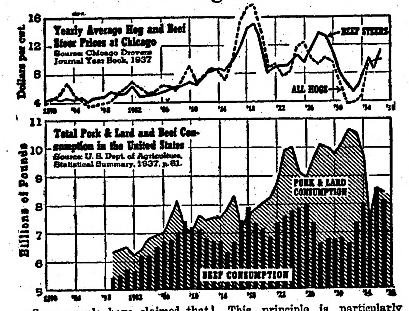
Why does man maintain a general policy of courtesy to all members of the fair sex?

If you have that answer, then answer this one, too - just let a lady, any lady, get behind the wheel of a motor car and he thinks nothing of crowing her off the road or even sending her off to the hospital if she dares for a moment to question his possesion of the right of way. Why?

If courtesy is the rule, let's remember that courtesy is also the rule while driving.

Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Fjeistad of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Anderson and daughter Inez, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sandberg and girls, Mr. A. O. Aspelin and daughter Caroline visited at the Rev. and Mrs. Hanson home Monday evening.

There Is No Fixed Relationship Between Hog and Steer Prices



Some people have claimed that average hog prices bear a fixed relationship to average steer prices and consequently rise or fall as steer prices go up or down. A study of the subject and the statistics shown in the chart above, however, does not bear out such a claim. As a matter of fact, since 1890 (war years excluded) the ratio of hog prices to cattle prices has been one of constant change. During this period hog prices were higher than cattle prices in 19 years and lower than cattle prices in the other 24. Almost every year saw a change in this ratio between cattle and hog prices.

One significant thing shown by the statistics is that when the supply of pork and lard to be consumed has been greater relatively than that of beef, the price of hogs has been lower relatively than that of steers, and, vice versa, when the supply of beef has been relatively higher than that of pork and lard, the price of steers has been relatively lower than that of hogs.

This principle is particularly well illustrated in the period 1927 to 1936 inclusive when hog prices were consistently lower (by varying amounts) than steer prices. During this period, the chart shows that the amount of pork and lard to be consumed was the highest on record for a like period, while beef on the other hand was less than average.

Other factors that have had a bearing on this price ratio are the volume of pork and lard that can be exported (now almost negligible), and the preference of consumers for pork or for beef, mostly due, of course, to a favorable price necessary to move increased supplies of one or the other into consumption. Naturally, the more hogs or the more cattle that come to market, the lower the price will be.

These are the economic factors that cause the price of one to be higher, or to be lower, than the price of the other, regardless of whether the livestock is marketed at central markets or at interior markets.

New School Bus Law

The vast majority of Minnesota's 594,000 school children and high school students will be crossing the road on country trails, broad highways and city streets, returning to school.

The extraordinary danger of traffic accidents that lurks in this annual event, coupled with the fact that this is the first full week of statewide "Go-For-Safety" campaign, prompted state Highway Commissioner M. J. Hoffman to appeal to motorists to "watch out for children" and W. F. Rosenwald, Safety director of the Highway department, to issue a warning to all motorists and school bus operators of the new school bus law which is now in effect.

Under the new law, adopted by the last legislature, all drivers of motor vehicles, whether meeting or overtaking a school bus which is halted to load or unload passengers, must come to a complete stop and wait until the loading or unloading is completed. This law is effective on all highways outside of business or residential districts.

On the other hand, for the guidance and protection of motorists, so that they may distinquish whether a halted school bus has stopped to pick up or discharge passengers or for some other purpose, the Department of Highways and the Department of Education have collaborated in working out a new stop order signal arm.

The law requires the driver of any school bus to swing the stop signal arm to an extended position when his bus has stopped for the purpose of receiving or discharging pupil, and to hold it in that position until all pupils have crossed the road safely or entered the bns,

When pupils are required to cross the highway, they must do so under supervision of the driver. They may be either personally conducted across by him, or may pass around in front of the bus and be conducted across by the school bus patrol, or may cross upon command of the driver, who shall first have made certain that no traffic is approaching.

Minnesota Has What It Takes

Minnesota has what it takes to attract the tourists, there can no longer be any qnestion about that.

The fact that the tourist business kept up so well this summer in the face of two glamorous world's fairs presenting such enticing lures to the vacationists establishes that beyond a shadow of a doubt.

It would not have been surprising if there had been a marked falling off in the tourist trade in this state this year under these circumstances. But instead, some Minnesota resorts report increases over last and the preceding years. The season started rather quietly and for some time it looked as though fears that had prevailed about the world's fairs competition might be justified.

Later in the season business staged a gratifying comeback and the closing weeks have completely restored Minnesota's recreationists confidence in the superiority of this region as the nation's playground.

Northwest School News

A high enrollment at the Northwest School of Agriculture Crookston, is assured for the opening date on October 2, according to Registrar J. Mlinar. He states, "Three hundred and twenty-six advance room reservation deposits the third week in August indicates an above average enrollment. New room reservations coming in daily indicate an enrollment of more than four hundred by October second".

Some additional dormitory space will be made available in cottages on the campus this year New quarters in the enlarged and remodeled Owen Building will be provided for the business training courses, Staff resignations during the year have been filled and new laboratory equipment has been installed for the opening of school.

Freshmen and new students will register on Monday, Oct. 2; upper claesmen will register on Tuesday morning, Oct. 3. Freshmen will be taken on tours of buildings and grounds on Tueshay morning and will attend a special convocation program. All classes start at 1:15 p. m.

What More Do We Want?

Minnesota has the soil and climate which, under proper management, produce abundant crops, enough for a population several times what it is now. Under this soil is countless wealth in the form of mineral ores and building stone. On top of it there still are valuable timber resources and almost unlimited facilitiss for making them produce more wealth. Also more than 10,000 lakes, water courses and natural scenic beauty - a paradise for the angler and the hunter and the outdoor recreation seeker.

Publisher H. O. Hanson has for the past three weeks been working on the construction of the Karvonen home here. After being ill for so many years its good to be able to enjoy work again, and, incidently, to inflate the flat purse.

Mrs. Ludvig Sagstuen has been ill this week and has had to stay in bed. She is at this writing feeling better.

4-H Members Win Trips

Duane Horien, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Horien, and Howard Folden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bergman Folden is spending this week at the State Fair at St. Paul showing their prize calf and prize lamb. They were awarded free trips through their 4-H Club work, and will compete with 4-H members from all parts of the state.

Plan Hot Lunches Now

Children who must eat their lunches at school will profit physically and get better grades if they can eat a hot lunch at noon, That noon meal is one-third of the child's food and should be as carefully planned as the other two meals of the day.

Plan with the teacher when school lunches are to be started. Perhaps you can be the one to call the mothers together to meet with the teacher and plan for the supply and equipment needed to serve the hot dish this winter. In Minnesota the school board may use funds for school lunches if they feel it is a benefit to the children in the community.

Visit school, The teacher may have some suggestions which will help you to get the hot school lunch plans under way.

Sunday School to Begin

The Nazareth Lutheran Sunday School will commence its religious instruction on Sunday morning at 9:45, It will furnish all the books for the first six grades, having adopted the new series that have recently been printed. It will follow the plan of requiring a deposit of 20c, 10c to be refunded in the spring if the books are in good condition, the remaining 10c to be used as book rent, Besides the regular classes, there will be the Primary class which is for children not old enough to be in public school. There will be a special class for those who are enrolled in the Confirmation Class known as the Junior Bible class, For those who are confirmed, there will be a class organized known as the Senior Bible Class. The children of the community are invited to attend and likewise, it is hoped that those from the country will also attend while the weather and roads are favorable. All the pupils are urged to be present at the opening session,

War Threats Still Hold Stage But Hope Is Not Abandoned; Nazis Get Chance to Bargain

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

The figures on this map indicate the flying distance between the chief cities of Europe which are certain to be targets for bombers if war breaks out.

EUROPE

War or Peace?

War or long negotiations, either may be the outcome of the diplomatic exchanges now proceeding between London and Berlin. Much depends upon the nature of Hitler's reply to the latest message from the British cabinet. Tension is high in all European capitals, war threats still hold the stage and before these lines reach the reader, the clash of arms may be resounding in Europe. But hope for a peaceful settlement over Poland has not been abandoned.

The British and French, apparently, are willing to concede something to Germany, but by no means all that Hitler demands. The showdown may come quickly.

It is apparent that each side is trying to bully the other with its bellicose intentions in order to force some sort of a deal to avert war. The latest British note, it was said, shows a willingness to facilitate a negotiated settlement between Germany and Poland. It also contained a flat warning that any German threat to the independence of Poland would find Britain and France fighting on the side of the Poles.

It is evident that at last the patience of France and Britain has reached the limit of endurance over Hitler's continual grabbing of territory. The brutality, bad faith and menacing methods of the Nazi government have kept Europe in a state of upheaval for years, and this must stop now, and definite guarantees must be given that will ensure the peace of Europe.

IGNACE MOSCICKI
Poland's pilot.

Diplomantic negotiations have been proceeding in half a dozen European capitals in an effort to avert another world holocaust. Principal interest centered in London where the British cabinet wrangled for hours over Hitler's latest proposals for a peaceful settlement of the German-Polish territorial dispute. These proposals were submitted to Sir Nevile Henderson, the British ambassador to Berlin, in an interview requested by Hitler. Henderson flew to London and laid them before the British government. The ambassador was to fly back to Berlin with the British cabinet's reply.

While the fuehrer's proposals were not at that time made public, it was the belief in well-informed quarters that they were not likely in their present form to offer any hope of providing a solution. Some sources close to the government were downright pessimistic.

Chamberlain's government, armed with dictatorial powers voted by parliament, continued to oil up the British war machine. The first significant act was to sign a treaty giving formal effect to British pledges of aid to Poland. The treaty will run for five years.

Another important war move was to prohibit dealing in a number of foreign securities. This action was interpreted as conscription of wealth. It is estimated that $15,000,000,000 worth of securities will be affected by the order.

Danzig, the Polish corridor and various sections of Poland along the border, these Germany must have, is Hitler's defiant demand, otherwise there will be war. These were the declarations of Hitler in a letter to Premier Daladier of France. This revealed for the first time officially Hitler's full demands on Poland.

"For a nation with honor it is impossible to relinquish a population of 2,000,000 of its compatriots at its border," the letter said.

In the meantime mobilization of German military forces was reaching its climax. New war measures were taken. Food and clothing ration cards were distributed. Purchase of gasoline was restricted.

In Washington it was learned that President Roosevelt is prepared to go the limit of law and perhaps farther to swing the power and resources of the United States to the side of Great Britain and France in the event of war. If he is unable to procure repeal of the arms provision of the neutrality act, he still will be enabled by certain loopholes in the legislation to temper the application of the embargo to favored belligerents. The loopholes are afforded by the rules and regulations on the export of war supplies that the law leaves to the discretion of the executive.

France, with the greatest force under arms since 1919, awaited calmly and vigilantly the outcome of diplomatic negotiations then under way. Notices were pasted up throughout the country ordering reservists to report to their mobilization centers at once. Approximately 2,300,000 men are now under arms. While not a general call to arms this partial mobilization is sufficient to provide France with an army on a wartime footing capable of taking the offensive as well as holding up a surprise attack until the whole manpower of the country could be mobilized, was the general belief in Paris.

In Warsaw a pall of depression settled on the Polish capital. In authoritative circles it was believed mediation by the United States, or some other equally distinguished and disinterested third power, was the only remaining chance to avoid European war. This conviction was crystalized as Warsaw heard from Paris that Hitler had refused direct negotiations with Poland for a peaceful solution of Danzig's status.

In Rome Premier Mussolini was represented as willing, perhaps eager, for negotiations that would avert war. But, along with this, Fascists emphasized, must be considered Italian claims upon France for a greater share in African colonial possessions. Il Duce, nevertheless, pushed military preparations. Hope for peace from an interchange of messages between Mussolini and Hitler was tempered by the frank Italian statement that Hitler was seeking to throw on other powers responsibility for any war that may result.

INDUSTRY:

Steps Ahead

While the sensitive financial markets had a slight attack of "jitters" as a result of European war threats, industry quickened its pace throughout the week.

Steel production was at the highest level in nearly two years, output of electricity set an all-time record, and the movement of railroad freight reached a new 1939 peak. Cotton textile mills were the busiest they have been this year. Automobile production increased as factories began to make more headway on the 1940 models.

Narrow gains were shown in retail trade over the preceding week.

WAR PROPAGANDA:

Deluges America

The greatest flood of war propaganda since the period immediately preceding American entry into the World war is deluging the United States, according to a report made public by the Dies committee on un-American acitivities.

The war propaganda, according to the report, is traced to two major groupings of European nations—the London-Paris entente and the Berlin-Rome axis. Communist Russia is placed in a separate category. The most effective war propaganda in this country emanates from Great Britain, the report said.

"Already wide sections of American public opinion have been definitely molded to the acceptance of many of the objectives of the current war propaganda emanating from abroad," the report said. "Polls of American public opinion would seem to indicate that certain powers (the London-Paris entente) have won the first major battle of the next war by enlisting the preponderant sentiment of this country on their side."

The report was compiled by Dr. J. B. Matthews, director on research on foreign war propaganda for the committee.

Of all the nations in the world the United States is the most coveted prize to be bagged by foreign war propagandists, says the report, as resources of the United States might well be the decisive factor in any war.

"When all of the war slogans have been stripped away from the underlying interests which they conceal, it is plain on the one hand that certain nations have empires and want to keep them, and other nations do not have empires (not imposing ones, at least) but want to acquire them," said the report. "Moscow's special interest—clearly established by its own propaganda over many years—is that these opposing combinations shall destroy each other, and that proletarian revolution and dictatorship shall be extended on the ruins of that destruction."

DR. J. B. MATTHEWS
Bares propaganda.

"Democracy versus dictatorship" is chief among the war slogans employed in this country to conceal the imperialistic aims of certain nations, according to the report.

JAPAN:

Drops German Ties

As a result of the Russian-German nonagression pact, a drastic change in foreign policy has been decided upon by the Japanese cabinet. Japan casts itself free from the ties which bound it to the German-Italian lineup and embarks on a course of "splendid isolation." The decision to start all over again met with the approval of the entire cabinet.

It was predicted that later the government will realign its internal structure, but no inkling was given as to probable developments.

PREMIER HIRANUMA

The government, it was reported, had abandoned consideration of measures to strengthen the anti-comitern pact, which allied Japan with Rome, Berlin and Hungary. Japanese newspapers were virtually agreed that the anti-comitern pact is dead as a result of the German-Russian pact.

The Japanese army was prompt in giving their unqualified approval to the cabinet's action in severing ties with Germany.

Finding it impossible to make the adjustments made necessary by the German-Russian pact, the Japanese cabinet resigned and a new cabinet is being formed.

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"A Ride With Death"

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Mary Billard of La Salle, Ill., is today's Distinguished Adventurer, and she wins that distinction—as well as the well-known ten bucks—with one of the most terrifying yarns I've seen in a long time.

It happened in 1913, when Mrs. Billard was Miss Mary Blanch, a girl of twelve, and Mary says, "The La Salle papers called me a heroine at the time, and it was all quite exciting for a girl of my age, but it lost its thrill when I thought of my mother lying in a hospital in a critical condition, fighting the dangers of gangrene and lockjaw."

You can see from that statement of Mary's that there was tragedy in that episode as well as adventure. And it started with nothing but a common, ordinary buggy ride. There weren't so many automobiles in those days, and most of the streets were mere unpaved dirt roads.

Mary's dad had bought a horse that had spent all its life on race tracks and was hard to handle when hitched to a buggy. It had run away twice, and Mary's mother didn't drive it any oftener than she had to.

But there came a day when she felt she HAD to drive that horse. They had just moved into town, and Mary was finishing a term at a little country schoolhouse three miles out of La Salle. Mary's teacher was coming back with her that evening, so Mother hitched up the horse and started out to get them.

Mother hadn't been feeling well all that day, but she made the trip to the schoolhouse without any trouble. They were all on their way to town, with Mary in the middle between her mother and the teacher, when, without warning, Mary felt her mother fall away from her.

Mary Looked Around and Saw Her Mother.

She looked around just in time to see Mother topple from the seat and pitch headlong into the road. She had fainted.

But that was only the beginning of a disastrous train of events. Mother had fallen out with the lines still clutched in her hands. The sudden jerk on those reins, caused by her falling, frightened the horse. It gave a leap forward.

"And with that leap," says Mary, "there started the fastest ride I had ever remembered in all my 12 years.

"We were horrified at the situation. The horse was plunging along at a full gallop, and my mother was being dragged face downward over stones and gravel, in a way that struck terror into my heart. The teacher and I were helpless.

"I pulled and jerked at the reins until I brought the horse to a stop."

"We called and screamed to mother, pleading with her to let go of the lines, but all our screaming was useless, for mother was in an unconscious condition, clinging to those reins with a death grip while the horse dragged her along."

And, for half a mile, mother dragged along beside the reeling wagon, in imminent danger of rolling under the wheels, while up in the seat Mary and the teacher sat paralyzed with fear, trying to hang on to the swaying, reeling buggy.

Mary says that buggy was running on two wheels a good part of the time. And at other times it seemed to be flying through the air, with nothing under the wheels at all.

Several men along the road had tried to stop the horse, but couldn't do anything with the crazed animal. At last, at the end of a half a mile, mother's hands loosened on the reins and the lines were free. They got between the horse's front legs, and that only served to frighten the poor animal more.

The Careening Carriage Flew Down the Road.

Still the reeling, careening carriage flew on. They had covered more than a mile, and now they were within a short distance of a narrow culvert, just outside of the business section of La Salle. There were pillars on either side of it, and it would be a miracle if the crazed horse got through that cramped space without wrecking the buggy.

The teacher was the first one to think of that culvert. She screamed to Mary that if the horse couldn't be stopped before they reached it they would both be killed.

"And with her voice still ringing in my ears," says Mary, "she rose to her feet, stood on them for a moment on the swaying floor of the buggy—and jumped! I shut my eyes as I heard her body hit the road, and thought that surely she must have been killed."

And now, Mary was left alone in that speeding buggy. She knew that, somehow, she had to get hold of those reins that were dragging down there beneath the horse's feet. Just a little way ahead, now, was the culvert. And even if the buggy did get through the culvert, it was certain to crash into something in the business district two blocks beyond. So, while the buggy reeled and swayed, Mary began climbing over the dashboard, onto the horse's back.

It was a desperate chance. Time and again Mary almost lost her hold in that precarious trip. The horse was slippery with foam and perspiration, and only by bracing her feet against the shaft did she manage to keep from being thrown into the road.

"I reached the horse's head," she says, "and the feel of my body on her seemed to frighten her all the more, and make her go faster than ever. But I got the lines from between her legs and started inching my way back to the buggy."

"I pulled and jerked at the reins until I brought the horse to a halt," she says, "and it stopped just a few feet in front of the dreaded culvert. A boy ran up to hold the animal, and I left the buggy and ran into town to get a doctor for mother. She was still unconscious when they brought her in, and to this day she carries, on the right side of her face, the terrible marks of that horrifying experience."

Mary says she's glad the horse and buggy days are over because—well—because she wouldn't want any of her children to have such an experience.

Animals and Birds Are Accurate Weather Forecasters

If you want to foretell the weather, watch birds and animals. It will be fine when swallows fly high, when bats fly late at night, when beetles take to the wing, and when morning chimney smoke rises straight up. Rain is indicated when birds fly low, when peacocks begin to screech, when crows fly up and circle around their nests, when sparrows become excited and chirp continuously, when morning smoke does not rise, when cattle caper about, and when donkeys bray. A change is due when dogs sniff the air, and if you see birds perching on the lower branches of trees a storm is not far away. The presence of cormorants at the mouth of a river foretells a heavy gale from the sea.

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK

Which cigarette gives the most actual smoking for your money? Here are the facts recently confirmed through impartial laboratory tests of 16 of the largest-selling brands:

1 CAMELS were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

Buy shrewdly. Get extra smoking and also enjoy the cooler, milder, tastier smoking of Camel's long-burning costlier tobaccos. Camel is the quality cigarette every smoker can afford.

Shelf Edging Dresses Up Kitchen Windows

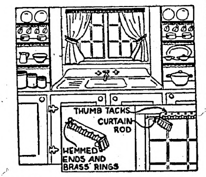
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

SOME of us can remember seeing our mothers cut scalloped shelf papers. Dextrously they folded and snipped the edge in points or curves; sometimes adding a cut out diamond in the center of each scallop. For many there is more satisfaction in this creation of their own hands, than in using fancy lace edge paper by the roll. Today, we find that same satisfaction when we choose oilcloth shelf edgings—thinking in terms of color has a fascination even beyond scallops with diamonds in the center.



THUMB TACKS
CURTAIN ROD
HEMMED ENDS AND BRASS RINGS

The suggestion sketched here for using shelf edging to dress up kitchen windows was sent in by a reader. The busy homemaker will appreciate the fact that the curtains are perfectly straight and plain and easy to remove for laundering. When windows and shelves match the effect is especially good. Banded towels may be of the same color, and tin containers for bread, sugar, and spices may be painted with bright enamel, to match.

The new Sewing Book No. 3 by Mrs. Spears is packed full of useful, money saving ideas, that almost any homemaker may put to practical use. Every idea is clearly illustrated with large sketches. You will be fascinated with the variety of interesting things to make for the home and for gifts. The price is only 10 cents postpaid. Send coin with name and address to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. ## As Amazed Britishers Viewed Runaway Launching

H. M. S. Formidable, new British aircraft carrier, rides serenely off the Belfast, Ireland, ways after launching herself a half-hour ahead of time. The 23,000-ton craft started sliding down the ways as workmen were knocking out the props preparatory to the launching. As it picked up speed, careening wildly into the water, it hurled timbers in all directions, killing one woman and injuring 20 other people. Lady Kingsley Wood, sponsor of the boat, managed to hurl the traditional bottle of champagne at the retreating craft. The new craft is considered one of the most modern of its kind in the world.

Your Children Can Help You; Let Them Try

● GOOD JUDGMENT needed in delegating household tasks. Even older children may be too immature to do difficult or too continuous work. Wise mother will keep close watch over youngsters.

By EMMA GARY WALLACE

WHERE there is a family of children and the means are limited, it often becomes necessary for the older children to give as much help as they possibly can, not only with the housework but with the care of the little ones, and the tasks are usually accepted cheerfully.

But good judgment is needed in such situations. The mother must remember that the older children are still immature, and that they should not be called upon for work that is too difficult or too continuous. What may seem light—not at all overtaxing—to older persons may be quite tiring to a boy or girl, and a child is entitled to a happy youth as far as can be managed. Then the little ones—even a single little one—may become quite demanding and tyrannical. The wise mother will keep a close watch of the general situation and see to it that each child is dealt with fairly.

In order that the mother herself sall not be overtaxed and made irritable by too many demands upon her strength and time, it may be necessary for her to simplify the household program as far as possible.

Part of the ironing, for instance, may properly be left undone. Many garments and sheets do not actually require ironing. If they are sweet and fresh and clean, pulled into shape just before they are quite dry and smoothly folded, that is all that is necessary. The beds will look better, of course, if pillow cases are ironed.

Even such ironing as may really need to be done, can be accomplished with less fatigue if there is a high stool to sit on—preferably with a back—and one of these costs little. There is no reason why dishes cannot be washed, or part of them at least, while using the same stool. If they are thoroughly rinsed and a drainer is used most of them will not need to be wiped.

Meals can be attractively served and yet be simple and nourishing. A baked custard takes less time and work than a pie. Baked apples, simple rice puddings, unfrosted cakes and "one-dish meals" each cuts down a little on the work, and every little helps. A "one-dish meal" is one where vegetables and meat are cooked in one container and served in that container.

Don't Let Work Become Humdrum.

Some sort of a play can be devised so that the work the older children do loses its humdrum character. For example: the living room is to be put in exceptionally nice order, because the Queen of Hearts is coming for supper, and as the children do the work, they could chant to some well-known tune,

"The Queen of Hearts
She made some tarts
All on a summer day.
The King of Hearts
He found those tarts
And stole them all away."

One of the children could pretend to be the Queen of Hearts who will come in with a bright red scarf around her shoulders or a gilt paper crown and inspect the dusting. The King might wear that crown at suppertime, when tarts may be served, but of course he would not be given a chance to defraud the others.

Taking care of the baby should be carefully supervised. Slender older children can wheel the baby or draw him about on a little cart or sled, but they should not be expected to carry him. The little one, who is being cared for by the older children, should not be allowed to impose upon them by demanding toys of which older brothers and sisters are choice, and perhaps are justified in not liking to lend if the baby is likely to break or spoil them.

It is not to be wondered at that older children sometimes look upon the little newcomers as very much of a trial. But under the right management, with sympathetic understanding, they may easily be led to love and willingly help care for the new babies. It should be made plain that they continue to hold, even more securely than before, their own special places in the affection and confidence of parents and relatives.

Lightweight Diving Equipment

Charles Edwards, 23 years old, who has dived for pearls in lightweight equipment invented by himself, is diving for gold in the deep pools of New Zealand's swift mountain rivers. He went from Sydney, Australia, to New Zealand with a mining engineer, who invited him to make the venture. Prospectors are recovering large quantities of gold from margins of New Zealand rivers, but deep pools have never been explored because the streams are too swift to permit dredging and the country too rugged for transporting heavy diving apparatus. Edwards' complete equipment weighs only 100 pounds.

These Smart Patterns Look Ahead to Fall

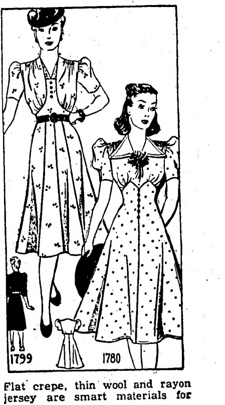
DO YOU take a woman's size? Then here is a lovely dress for you, (1799) youthful yet sophisticated, with clever bodice detailing, to create a round-bosomed effect, and a paneled skirt that makes your hips look narrow. It's a perfect style for luncheons and club affairs, yet not too dressy for street and shopping wear, too.



Flat crepe, thin wool and rayon jersey are smart materials for this.

Princess Lines and Shirring.

Business and college girls will like the slim lines and simplicity of this very attractive dress (1780), with princess skirt cut high in the front, shirred shoulders, and flaring revers that frame your face becomingly. For this, choose flat crepe, taffeta or thin wool, with revers in white or a pastel tint.

No. 1799 is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46. Size 34 requires 5⅜ yards of 39 inch material. ⅓ yard of lace for vestee.

No. 1780 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, and 40. Size 14 requires 5 yards of 39 inch material; ⅓ yard contrasting.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

SOUTHERN PINE GOES TO NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK (Special). — Southern yellow pine from the Eastern Shore, Maryland, and from points in Delaware, Virginia and North Carolina is already going into foundations in the central area of the New York World's Fair of 1939.

Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation, has just announced the purchase of 430 sticks of pine piling, in lengths up to 80 feet, from Nichols Brothers, of 90 West Street, Manhattan, and Norfolk, Virginia. Shipments of this lot are originating at Frankfort, Delaware, Preston, Maryland, and Melfa and Cheriton, Virginia. An order for piling of similar size is being filled at points in North Carolina.

The pine sticks are being driven into the ash-meadow fill of the 1216½-acre exposition site where they will serve as part of the foundations for bridge abutments near the Theme Centre and amusement areas of the Fair.

Match Good for 600 Lights

A rival of the match invented by an Austrian scientist, is a lighting-stick capable of being used 600 times. Its stone-like stem is made up of chemicals, and burning gases develop when it is struck. As the burning gases raise the temperature, nitrogen gas is released in sufficient quantity to choke the flame after allowing time to light a fire or a cigarette.

ENTERTAINMENT SETS NEW HIGH FOR STATE FAIR

Two Distinct Night Shows Booked—Variety Keynote of $125,000 Program

Jammed with spectacular attractions, the 1939 ten-day Minnesota State Fair, August 26 to September 4, will offer the greatest entertainment program in its history. Costing $125,000 it will be replete with the world's finest thrillers.

To provide greater variety, the management is offering two distinct grandstand productions. These are Frontier Days Stampede and State Fair Revue of 1939. Championship automobile races, horse races, a superb horse show, statewide band contest, gorgeous fireworks, skeet shooting and another big Thrill Day are entertainment highlights.

Big Roundup

Frontier Days Stampede, presenting 150 cowboys and cowgirls, will vividly depict early pioneer days. Thrilling episodes will present dancing girls, trick and fancy riding, bulldogging, rope spinning, chuck wagon races, feats of marksmanship and other crowd pleasers. Four grandstand performances of Frontier Days Stampede will be presented Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings, August 26 and 27.

State Fair Revue of 1939, most lavish production of the entire outdoor show world, will have an all-star cast of 375 top performers of stage, cinema, circus and radio. Enriched by gorgeous costumes, spectacular lighting and elaborate settings, State Fair Revue will be staged eight consecutive nights beginning Monday, August 28, and concluding Labor Day night.

Jimmie Lynch Coming

A spectacular thrill program will be presented Friday, September 1, with Jimmie Lynch and his world fair thrillers coming here direct from New York for a one-day appearance. Included will be a motorcycle-to-airplane change, an airplane taking off and landing on an auto and a multi-balloon hop in which 40 small helium-filled bags will carry an intrepid balloonist aloft.

On the Midway will be the Royal American Shows with 44 new rides and attractions.

Life of Nils Lysne

Funeral services were conducted on Saturday afternoon for the late Nils Lysne, pioneer of Holt Township, who died at his home east of Holt Monday, Sept. 4. Brief devotion was held at the home where the cortege was formed to proceed to Nazareth Lutheran Church in which he was a life long member. Funeral services were conducted at 2:00 by Rev. T. C. L. Hanson, assisted by Rev. L. M. Redal of Oslo, a former pastor. During the services, Mrs. O. H. Nohre sang a solo in the Norwegian language.

Nils Lysne was born in Lerdahl, Norway on June 11, 1858. In 1882 at the age of 24, he emigrated from the homeland and came to Larimore, N. Dak. While there, he was married to Miss Anna Olson in the year 1901. In 1906 he came to Holt with his wife and settled on a farm east of Holt which was his home until his death. He is survived by his wife and son, Stanley. At the funeral services, the church was filled beyond capacity, many of them being relatives and friends from long distances such as Montevido, Boyd, Dawson, Gonvick, St. Hilaire, Minnesota and Larimore, N. Dak.

Pall bearers were: Fred Wegge Walter Wegge, Edgar Wegge, A. C. Conklin, Wm. Paskewitz, and Oscar Carlson. He was laid to rest in the Ridge cemetery.

Larson and Gunheim had charge of arrangements.

In the passing of Mr. Lysne, we are again reminded of the passing of another of the pioneers who were instrumental in converting this part of the country from wilderness into the fine country of today and along with that, building of the community, the schools and the church. We are also reminded that these sturdy pioneers are leaving us at a rapid pace and that the younger generation is to take up where they have left off. May we all honor them while they are still with us.

"Safe In Bed' Not So Safe

The most dangerous spot in the world is not the city streets, it is your own bedroom in your own home.

This startling observation, attested to by accident records collected from all over the country, is emphasized in today's bulletin on safety issued by the Minnesota State Medical Association's Committee on Public Health Education in connection with the September campaign on accident prevention and proper first aid, now being conducted by the association in Minnesota.

A heavy annual toll of death and disability could be prevented at once, according to the physicians' bulletin, if everybody would immediately examine his own home and the habits of his own family with an eye to the possibilities of falls, burns, cuts, accidental poisoning, electrocution and accidental asphyxiation.

As a start, the paysicians urge a special survey of bedrooms and the stairways leading to them, because the largest number of falls occur in these home retreats where most people feel safest.

People fall in bedrooms chiefly because they so often move about there in the dark and often then they are only half awake. Slippery floors, loose rugs, obstacles such as stools, shoes, toys, carelessly discarded clothing on the floor, all are more dangerous than ever in the dark. The way to prevent falls from such causes is obviously to see that floors are not too slippery, to remove treacherous rugs and to keep the rooms tidy and the way cleared; also to have a light, even a faint one, handy so that there will be no reason for sleepy wandering in the dark, either in the bedroom or out into the hall past unlighted stairways. Many American homes still use oil lamps and fires from upset lamps, from defective amateur wiring and from smoking in bed add to the bedroom hazards.

The mere fact that a loose stair rail, a dark stairway, an amatuer electric connection, loose rugs and the unmarked poison bottle have never hurt anybody is no assurance that tomorrow they may not cause a fearful and unnessary tragedy.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our very sincere thanks to all who assisted us in words and deeds in the time of our sorrow before and after the death of our father and husband.

Especially do we thank Rev. Hanson and Rev. Redal for their comforting words and Mrs. Nohre for the solo. Also those who gave flowers and memoriams.

Annual Harvest Festival Sept. 24

The annual Harvest Festival of the Nazareth Lutheran Church, will be held at the church on Sunday, Sept. 24th. The Harvest Festival has its emphasis on the work of the Missions and is a special occasion for thanksgiving for the harvest we have again been privileged to partake in. The local pastor, Rev. T. C. L. Hanson, will preach a Foreign Mission sermon in the forenoon. For the Festival speaker, Rev. Abner S. Haugen, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, Crookston, has been secured.

Rev. Haugen is one of the outstanding pastors of the Norwegian Lutheran Church. He has not only made use of all facilities for studying in his own church body but has also done considerable studying in the seminaries of Chicago and New York. Because of this, Rev. Haugen has a very adequate grasp of fundamental truths of Scripture and because of his fine education, is able to present these truths in a simple but convincing manner. In the evening, the first meeting of the Luther League for this season will be held. The Program Committee of the Luther League has secured the Festival speaker for their Program in the evening. Because of the occasion, a Mission-Thank offering will be taken at the morning services and used for the cause of Missions and our Church Budget. The Ladies Aid will serve dinner and has the following menu to offer:

Menu for Dinner
Mashed potatoes Buttered carrots
Mock Chicken with gravy
Cranberries Sandwiches
Apple Pie Coffee
25c and 15c
Lunch
Sandwiches cake coffee 10c

Judging from past years, a large attendance is expected to be present and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to partake of the blessings of this festival.

Mrs. O. J. Backlund and Marian and Oliver, Rev. and Mrs. M. T. Johnson of Greenbush visited at the parsonage on Thursday evening.

Work On Parsonage to Begin

A special meeting of the Nazareth Lutheran Church was held at the parsonage on Tuesday to make definite plans for the proposed repairs of the parsonage.

The contractor engaged to raise the house from its foundation is expected to start working the latter part of this week, Following the decided plan, the men of the congregation will be asked to contribute their labor of excavating and building cement forms as soon as the house is raised which should be the first part of next week. The men of the congregation who are willing to help are asked to contact any member of the Council or the pastor and state what date they can be present and also state whether it is excavation or building forms. With a sufficient number of men, two days is required for each work, that is, state first or second day of excavating or first and second day of building forms.

Youngsters Give Party

About 35 of the younger set gathered at the O. B. Johnson home on Tuesday evening and gave Avis Johnson a farewell party. She received a cash purse and a big lunch was served An enjoyable time was had by all present.

Send us the news.

Safetygrams

Carelessness in driving is increasing on our highways. The figures for the first seven months of 1939 show an increase over those for 1938.

Are our law enforcement agencies becoming discouraged? We find police are very anxious to enforce the law, but in many cases we find a growing tendency on the part of our courts to become lenient and lax in enforcing the laws.

Educational agencies are trying their best to bring before the public the need for safe driving and instructions on how to do it. We must have law enforcement agencies and the courts to assist safety people in their work so that we will have a maximum of protection while we are driving or walking.

The newspapers have done a splendid job in calling this to the minds of their readers, and we urge that more stirring editorials be written in regard to the need for strict law enforcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nohre visited at the Arthur Lufkin home in Crookston last Thursday.

Mrs. Racine Olson and sons of Thief River Falls visited at the Paul Olson home Sunday.

U. S. Already Discusses Peace Allies Will Impose on Germany In Event Hitler Is Vanquished

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE WAR:

Good Start

"I regret that after 2,000 years of mankind, Sunday morning should find the prime minister in the position of announcing that men are on the eve of living like beasts."

Such were the sentiments of John McGovern, leader of parliament's independent labor party. His was the lone dissent that fateful morning when Neville Chamberlain, his peace efforts at a hopeless end, declared war on Germany. A few hours later France followed suit and by nightfall most of the British empire was also in line. By that time the rest of the world clamored to declare its neutrality.

Too busy was Neville Chamberlain to notice that Barbara Hutton Reventlow fled the romantic isle of Capri, or that American radio sponsors were about to complain over too many program interruptions for CBS and NBC news bulletins. Nor did he notice that thousands of London's pet dogs and cats were painlessly exterminated lest they prove a burden during evacuation. Said one weeping pet owner: "It's a damn shame. It ought to be Hitler on the end of this leash."

THE PRIME MINISTER
A fine Sunday morning.

Such was the man-on-the-street's background for war. Since 1936 he had accepted its inevitability, yet the awful reality of legalized brute force somehow left him benumbed. He watched without passion as Britain's popular Winston Churchill and Anthony Eden—both foes of appeasement — were given cabinet posts to solidify public sentiment. He slowly built a halo around the head of Prime Minister Chamberlain, whose frantic umbrella waving of the past two years had at least postponed the war. He may have wept over the news that French troops marched to the front "almost tenderly," hating war yet fervent in their ambition to "smash Hitler and all that he represents."

But as such things happen, British and French men-on-the-street were whipped into war frenzy the next morning. Steaming to Montreal, the liner Athenia was torpedoed off Ireland with 1,450 refugee passengers aboard, providing enough provocation to make even the "tender" French soldiers hate Germans in general as well as Der Fuehrer. Paris and London heard Polish civilians were suffering "frightfully" as Adolf Hitler headed for the eastern front and the first major battle, just getting underway in Upper Silesia.

After two days of "fighting," the World war of 1939 had developed into a decidedly unorthodox conflict. British warplanes flew over Nuremberg but dropped nothing heavier than propaganda leaflets urging the German people to discard Der Fuehrer. Nazi anti-aircraft guns failed to bark back. The same day French soldiers on the Maginot line were reported to have set placards atop their pillboxes, carrying this message to German soldiers in the West wall: "We won't shoot if you don't."

But there was good evidence that this evident lack of hostilities appeared only on paper. The lid of censorship clamped down over both France and Britain, screening what the French war office called "contacts" on the western front. All three major powers were evidently reluctant to invite revenge by bombing London, Paris and Berlin, yet the Germans admitted British bombers had attacked their fleet at Wilhelmshaven.

Where and How?

If France and Britain had any cut and dried plan for rushing aid to their beleaguered ally, Poland, they took their time executing it. Best guesses held both democracies were stymied, not only by Hitler but by the silence of other key nations. Germany's West wall and France's Maginot line apparently made the western front a bulwark of staticism. Both other routes of getting to Poland were perilous:

Via the Baltic. Though British battleships blockaded that sea, a Baltic expedition would be no pushover. Troop and supply ships must fight the Reich's famous and pestiferous submarines, must hold their breath against cunningly placed mines, and must land at Gdynia (Poland's only port) which might be in German hands by that time. Landing against an enemy has always been a major military problem, and already the Polish corridor has been nipped by German troops. Not only that, but Russia has naval strength in the Baltic and might decide to join the Reich's cause.

Via the Mediterranean. Strangely silent as war opened were both of Hitler's erstwhile continental friends, Spain and Italy. The allies hoped Hitler's sell-out to Russian Communism would keep Spain's Francisco Franco and Italy's Benito Mussolini out of the conflict, but no one could tell despite Spain's neutrality proclamation and Italy's resumption of sea traffic. With Mediterranean neutrality, French-British aid to Poland might go through the Mediterranean and Black seas, land at Rumania's port of Constanta and thence reach Warsaw. But Rumania, like all Balkan countries, was intent on neutrality.

At Home

In the U. S., which has watched Europe's wars for almost 200 years, observers were far enough from the forest to see the trees. Though President Roosevelt pointed out no American has the "moral right" to capitalize on the conflict, every economist knew it would probably start a boom. "Cash-and-carry" neutrality would make the U. S. support Britain and France, which dominate the seas, opening new markets for farm products and steel. But such a neutrality would also accentuate the already marked U. S. sentiment against Hitler, confounding isolationists by making the nation a virtual silent ally of the allies. Should enough American non-combatants be killed via torpedoes, the flame of 1916 and 1917 might again blot out reason. Hence the President urged the U. S. to weigh its facts with care.

ANTHONY EDEN
Winston Churchill also came.

The End?

Next to neutrality, the most moot question among Americans concerns the eventual end of hostilities. No longer does anyone but a fanatical anti-German see justice in the Versailles treaty of 20 years ago, which wrung lifeblood from the Reich and placed it in such dire straits that a Hitler was welcomed with open arms. But will Versailles be repeated?

Unless Russia jumps to Germany's aid, unless Mussolini and Franco junk their apparent neutrality, a war to the end would probably find Germany collapsing under economic stress. Hitler No. 1 would be vanquished, but can anything short of another "peace without honor" (such as Woodrow Wilson suggested) keep a Hitler No. 2 from rising out of the ruins?

Chronology

These were the events and dates that led to war in 1939:

AUGUST 21 — German-Soviet non-aggression pact announced, day after trade pact is signed.

AUGUST 23 — Hitler expands demands on Poland, which are refused.

AUGUST 27 — Hitler outlines policy to French Premier Daladier.

AUGUST 28 — Britain stands firm on negotiation for all points.

AUGUST 29-30 — Notes exchanged, but peace dwindles.

AUGUST 31 — Hitler invades Poland without declaring war.

SEPTEMBER 1—France, Britain send ultimatums, demanding Germany withdraw troops from Poland.

SEPTEMBER 3—Receiving no answer, Britain declares war at 11 a. m., France following at 5 p. m.

Polish Troops Off for the Front

A section of the Polish army's cycling corps as they neared the Polish frontier to face German soldiers. Chief of Poland's combatant forces is General Kasimir Sosnkowski, who is outranked in authority only by President Ignacy Moscicki and Marshal Smigly-Rydz, the Polish strong man.

Prepared for German Tanks

"No tanks" say these effective anti-tank guns of Poland's army. Here the gunners are ready for the advancing German army on the Polish border. Officials of the Polish army place a great deal of confidence in the guns, which have proved successful in halting mechanized forces.

Polish Troops in Front Line Trenches

Polish infantry awaiting the attack of German troops on the Polish Corridor border. President Moscicki emphasized the fact that Poland's first battles were purely defensive to establish beyond all doubt that Germany is the aggressor nation. Germany's initial land attacks were from East Prussia against Dzialdowo and Mlawa; from Pomerania against Chojnice at the narrowest part of the disputed Corridor, and from Breslaw against Katowice.

Germany's Iron Man

A recent photograph of Adolf Hitler, the iron man of Germany, who has led his nation into war. Frequent arbitration and mediation pleas made by diplomats of leading nations were ignored by the Reichsfuehrer.

Britain Transports Its Troops by Plane

Mobilization of the English army was materially hastened by use of airplanes in the rush to get troops to the continent. Above photograph shows members of the Second Battalion of the Royal Ulster Rifles boarding a plane for the front. The Soviet Union, too, has laid great stress on its troop carrying planes and its mass parachute leaps from the air. Russia, in the past few years, has carried on extensive experiments with this type of air raid and has repeatedly declared them successful. Many army officials, however, declare the mass parachute leaps impractical for war.

Leads Poland's Army

Head of Poland's army of 2,000,000 men is Marshal Smigly-Rydz, second in authority only to President Ignacy Moscicki. Poles term the war as "holy"—a battle for the ideal of liberty. Smigly-Rydz was appointed commander in chief of the army and successor to President Moscicki in event the presidency should become vacant.

Patterns You'll Use Repeatedly With Joy

TWO-PIECE styles like 1768 are very smart, this new season, and this is a particularly good one, with wide-shouldered, tiny-waisted jacket-blouse, and flaring skirt, to give you the hour-glass silhouette. Smart in faille, wool crepe or velveteen. Can be made with long or short sleeves.

Dart-Fitted Slip.

Large women, to whom fit is all-important, will revel in the smooth slimness of this dart-fitted slip, with darts not only at the waistline, but also under the arms, to ensure correct ease over the bust. Make it either with built-up shoulders or ribbon straps. It is perfectly flat over the diaphragm. And so easy to make! Only four steps in the detailed sew chart that comes with your pattern, 1821.

The Patterns.

No. 1768 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39-inch material without nap, with short sleeves; 4⅛ yards with long sleeves; ⅝ yard trimming.

No. 1821 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 3 yards of 39-inch material with built-up shoulders; 2⅞ yards with straps; 1 yard ribbon.

Our Personality

I SUPPOSE we shall never acquire the capacity to imagine how life can go on apart from a body as a carrier of our personality and as the organ of our values. As Emerson so well put it: No sociable angel ever breathes an early syllable to satisfy the longings of saints or the fears of mortals. The secret is kept. The mystery is solved. And it is as it should be.

I should be sorry if we had prospectuses of the beyond, if the secrets were all unrolled and we could calculate in advance. It is enough to know that it must tally with what is best in Nature. It cannot be inferior in tone to the already known works of the Artist who writes the moral law.—Dr. Rufus Jones.

NERVOUS?

Do you feel so nervous you want to scream? Are you cross and irritable? Do you scold those dearest to you?

If your nerves are on edge and you feel you need a good general system tonic, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with reliable Pinkham's Compound. It helps nature build up more physical resistance and thus helps calm quivering nerves and lessen discomforts from annoying symptoms which often accompany female functional disorders.

Why not give it a chance to help YOU?

Over one million women have written in reporting wonderful benefits from Pinkham's Compound.

WNU—Y 37—39

In Retrospect

The miracle of memory is that so much of its bitter dregs fall away and are lost in retrospect.—John Cowper Powys.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of worldwide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Lovely Filet Squares

The palm, since ancient times, has inspired artists. It is no wonder, then, that this lovely square in such simple crochet uses it as a motif. A stunning cloth or spread of mercerized string—smaller articles in finer cotton—will give you handiwork you'll treasure. Pattern 6373 contains instructions and chart for making the square; illustrations of it and of stitches; materials needed.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents in coins to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th St., New York.

By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—CAMELS give a smoking plus equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK

NOW—impartial scientific laboratory tests of 16 of the largest-selling brands confirm Camel's long burning. Here is a quick summary of the report recently completed by a leading laboratory:

1 CAMELS were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

Get cooler, milder, tastier smoking ...and more of it per pack...in Camels, the quality cigarette every smoker can afford. Penny for penny, Camels are your best cigarette buy.

Just a Little Smile

HASTE MAKES WASTE

"Fine piece of land out here!" said the dusty, shrewd-looking man as he descended from his trap outside the farmer's house.

"You're right there," replied the farmer, eagerly. "It's the best to be found in the country."

"Bit too high a figure for a poor man, I reckon?" asked the stranger.

"It's worth every penny of three hundred dollars an acre," answered the farmer, with an eye to business. "Were you thinking of buying and settling in these parts?"

"Hardly," murmured the traveler, making some notes in a book. "I'm the new tax assessor."

TOO MUCH CHEWED

Mrs. Blabb—Look at yonder flag! One of my ancestors was the first to carry it round the world. But my, what a rag it is!

Mrs. Stabb—Well, that's not strange—some of his descendants have been chewing it ever since he brought it home.

Like Christians

"How's Ireland?" was the question once put to the famous "Tay Pay" O'Connor in America, at a banquet given in his honor.

"O, Ireland's in a terrible, terrible way," Mr. O'Connor replied.

With his fingers he traced an imaginary map upon the table cloth.

"You see," he continued, "there's one religion in the North and another in the South, and they are continually at each other's throats." He paused and shook his head sadly. "I often wish they were all of them haythens, so they could live together like Christians."

Golf Courtesy

Two golfers were playing a match for a wager. After the first hole, the Englishman turned to his Scotsman opponent.

"How many did you take?" he asked.

"Eight," replied the Scotsman.

"I took seven, so that's my hole," said the Englishman.

After the second hole, the Englishman asked the same question.

"Na, na, laddie," he replied, "it's mae turn to ask feerst now."

NEXT ROUND?

He—Gee, but that was a knockout not being able to get the license on account of youth!

She—But we're still in the ring, are we not, dearie?

Always Has Time

Pretty Caller—Do you think the superintendent will see me now?

Bookkeeper—Certainly, madam, the superintendent always has time to see pretty girls.

Pretty Caller—Well, tell him that his wife is here.

Explained

"Talking about long drives," began a member of the golf club, "I had one that went 375 yards the other day. Yes, really I hooked, the ball hit the nearby concrete roadway, and from then on, it rolled."

Relic

Janie, looking through an old trunk, found a pair of embroidery hoops.

"Look, mother," she said, "I found a pair of wooden garters."

Small Fry

Mrs. Noowedd—Aren't these eggs rather small today?

Grocer—Yes'm, but the farmer who sells me my eggs had to start to town early this morning and took them out of the nest too soon.

Overhaul Job

Chuzz—Having your car overhauled shouldn't put you in a tight spot.

Alford—It does me—a cop overhauled it and now I have a speeding charge against me.

★ Public Deb No. 1
★ Garfield Lingers On ★ Golden Boy Holden

By Virginia Vale

CHARLES LAUGHTON proved himself a hero recently, and the cameras weren't grinding either. "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" company was on location, and hundreds of extras were milling about, staging festival scenes in Fifteenth century Paris. Part of the atmosphere was a trained bear in a cage, who was placidly eating ice cream.

Somebody bumped into the cage, as the mob pushed and shoved about, and it was overturned. The bear, ice cream dripping from his jaws, got out—and the panic would have been on, with people convinced that the bear was frothing at the mouth, if Laughton hadn't stepped in.

Over the public address system he reassured the crowd, telling them that it was ice cream on the bear's mouth, and that, if they would stand still, the trainer would tie the bear up.

CHARLES LAUGHTON

All in the day's work for Laughton—but can't you see the newspaper headlines if he hadn't kept his head?

* * *

Linda Darnell becomes a star in "Public Deb No. 1," with the top men at Twentieth Century-Fox all set to send her straight to the top. She was booked for "Drums Along the Mohawk," but they felt that the role assigned her wasn't important enough.

* * *

It's in John Garfield's contract that he may return to the stage each season. And it was in his own mind a while ago that he wouldn't make any more prison pictures. Consequently people were surprised when, after finishing "Four Daughters," he didn't rush back to Broadway, and he surprised them again, more recently, when he agreed to do "20,000 Years in Sing Sing" (which will be screened as "The City of Lost Men").

In the first case he was persuaded to stay on in Hollywood in order to get his screen career off to a good start. In the second, a nice, fat bonus check was used as persuasion.

* * *

In "Golden Boy" you'll meet a new movie hero, William Holden—six feet tall, possessed of brown hair, blue eyes, a pleasant personality, and so much ability as an actor that he was picked from 4,500 candidates for the leading role in the picture. And some of those other candidates were experienced actors.

Holden wasn't. He'd gone to college, and been a member of Paramount's stock company. It was when he took part in a college play in Pasadena that a talent scout spotted him, and he was signed to a seven-year contract. After that he didn't do anything but report at the studio and exercise in the gymnasium, until he made a screen test with a girl who was being considered for a role in "Golden Boy." Director Mamoulian saw the test, spotted Holden; Columbia bought a half-interest in him—and you'll see him in "Golden Boy."

* * *

Family notes: Paul Muni's wife took a screen test not long ago. Charles Laughton's wife (known to stage and screen fans as Elsa Lanchester) will appear on the Bing Crosby program September 21. On Thursday nights, when he's part of that same program, Bob Burns always telephones his daughter, Barbara Ann, to say good-night.

ODDS AND ENDS—Somebody in Atlanta wants to market a Scarlett O'Hara cocktail, and Metro's trying to stop it . . . Universal's sparing no effort to make Gloria Jean as popular as Deanna Durbin . . . Since her return to radio Jessica Dragonette is singing better than ever before—and she's practically the only star of the air waves who could stay away for two years and return to find that she was just as popular as ever, according to what's happened to others who tried it . . . Benny Goodman's chartered a plane to rush him from one one-night stand to the next; thinks it's too warm on trains.

DESSERTS IMPORTANT IN MENU
(Recipes Below.)

Desserts That Are Different

Build up your menu to an interesting climax with a new and delicious dessert!

Desserts really play an important part in the menu, and in nutrition, too.

Sweets, provided in proper amounts and in the proper place in the diet, are just as necessary to good nutrition as milk, meat, fruits, vegetables and cereals.

Plan the dessert to fit the menu—a light sweet for the close of a hearty dinner, and a richer, heavier dessert to wind up the meal that is fairly simple. Consider the weather, too, and when it's hot and humid, serve sweets that are temptingly dainty. When the temperature drops and appetites perk up accordingly, desserts may be sweeter, richer and more substantial.

You'll find in this collection of tested recipes from my own kitchen a dessert for almost any occasion.

Queen of Puddings.

2 cups milk
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter (melted)
2 egg yolks (well beaten)
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Dash salt
Currant jelly
2 egg whites
¼ cup granulated sugar

Scald milk and pour over the soft bread crumbs. Add melted butter, and allow the mixture to stand 10 minutes. Then beat egg yolks and add to the mixture, together with 3 tablespoons sugar, the vanilla extract and the salt. Pour this mixture into a buttered baking dish, place in a pan of hot water, and bake in a slow oven (275 degrees Fahrenheit) for 45-50 minutes or until custard is firm.

Cool and spread with a layer of currant jelly or strawberry jam. Cover with meringue made by beating egg whites and adding sugar slowly. Brown meringue in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit) for 18 minutes. Serve hot, warm or cold.

Lemon Meringue Pie.

1 cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup cold water
⅔ cup boiling water
3 egg yolks
1 tablespoon butter
¼ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add cold water; stir until smooth. Add boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is clear and thick. Cook 3 minutes longer. Beat egg yolks; stir cooked mixture into them. Add remaining ingredients, return to flame and cook 1 minute. Pour immediately into baked pie shell. Top with meringue.

Meringue.

3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Beat egg whites partially; then add sugar slowly, beating until mixture is stiff. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) for 18 minutes.

Maple Cake.

½ cup shortening
1½ cups brown sugar
3 eggs (separated)
2 teaspoons maple flavoring
2 cups cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk

Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar in small amounts, creaming after each addition. Add egg yolks, one at a time, continuing to beat well. Blend in the flavoring. Sift dry ingredients together, and add to the creamed mixture alternately with the milk. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold gently into the batter. Pour into two well-greased cake pans, 9 inches in diameter and 2 inches deep. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 40 minutes. Note: This cake is especially good with a fig filling and maple-flavored frosting.

Steamed Chocolate Pudding.
(Serves 5)

1⅓ cups pastry flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ squares bitter chocolate
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
⅓ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
Vanilla or peppermint candy ice cream

Sift flour, salt and baking powder. Melt chocolate and butter in top of double boiler and pour in bowl. Cool slightly; then add sugar, unbeaten egg, milk and vanilla extract. Beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients and stir until smooth. Pour into top of a well-greased double boiler and steam for 1½ hours. Serve with ice cream.

Graham Cracker Ice Cream.

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
¾ cup sugar
2 cups coffee cream
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Combine the cracker crumbs and the sugar; add cream, milk, and vanilla. Pour the mixture into the freezing container of a modern ice cream freezer; assemble the freezer, and cover. Pack with a mixture of 3 parts of crushed ice to 1 part of rock salt. Turn the crank slowly and steadily, for about 5 minutes, or until turning becomes difficult. Then carefully remove the cover, lift out the dasher, and pack down the ice cream with a spoon. Replace the cover, draw off the water, and replenish with ice and salt. Cover, and allow to harden for at least an hour before serving.

Good Old Pan Dowdy.

1 cup light molasses
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon clove
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons cinnamon
Apples
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
Rich pastry

Combine molasses and spices. Arrange pared and sliced apples in a baking dish, sprinkle with sugar, and dot with butter. Pour molasses mixture over this, and cover with a rich pastry, rolled rather thick. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 45 minutes. Then cut the baked pastry top in 2-inch squares and push them down in the molasses and apple mixture. Let cool slightly. Serve with thick cream.

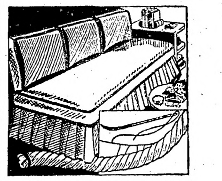
An Amateur Decorator Uses a Curved Needle

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: Some time ago in an article you suggested using a curved needle, such as upholsterers use, for sewing heavy cord trimming in place. I found that these needles are also used in making candle wicking bedspreads and are on sale in most notion and fancy work departments. Mine has been very useful to me; especially when reupholstering an old chair. This is just one of the many useful hints I have found in your articles and books. Thank you so much for all of them.—G. H."



Here is the picture of the curved needle used to sew bright contrasting cord to an upholstered couch. It is a useful tool when you are sewing to fabric that is stretched tightly. Everyone who finds pleasure in making a home attractive needs to know these little tricks that give work a professional touch.

Original ideas with complete directions for slipcovers; draperies and other furnishings are in the new Sewing Book No. 3. Every homemaker should have a copy; as well as everyone who likes to make gifts, and items for bazaars. The price is only 10 cents postpaid. Send coin with name and address to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

To Correct Constipation Don't Get It!

Why let yourself in for all the discomfort of constipation—and then have to take an emergency medicine—if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?

If your difficulty, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted cereal—a natural food, not a medicine—has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day, it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew!

Eat All-Bran daily, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

American Boy Magazine Companion To Thousands

Hundreds oflthousands of boys and young men read The American Boy Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than a magazine.

"It is as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum", writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpfnl in sports. I made our basketball team bebause of playing tips I read in The American Boy.

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have founnd that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Boy sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

AAA Election Soon

Marshall county farmers will next week elect the community and county committeemen who will administer their Agricultural Conservation Program during the coming year.

Plans for the balloting will be made at a meeting of county of county and comunity committeemen at Warren, Minn. Sept. 21, 1939. All elections will be completed by October 15. All farm operators will be notified at least five days in advance of the place and time for voting.

In each precinct, three community committeemen aud two alternates will be elected. County convention delegates also will be named and they, in turn, will choose a county committee of three members.

All members of the Marshall county agricultural conservation association may vote. Association members are all persons cooperating or participating in any current AAA program, and all other persons who have interests in farms in the county who state in writing on a form prescribed by the AAA, their intensions of participating or cooperating in any such program

Tom Howard, chairman of the county committee, urges all farmers eligible to do so take part in these elections.

"This is an agricultural program that is administered by farmers", he said. "These farmers are elected by other farmers -- their neighbors. We have here the facilities for using democratic prosesses to see that the men best fitted for the job are elected."

"It's to the interest of every farmer to vote. Vote as you please, but vote," Mr. Howard said.

Community elections will be held on Friday; Sept. 29 at 10 a. m. in Excel township and at 2 p. m. in Holt and East Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Ole Larson and family visited at the Alfred Larson home Sunday.

Holst-Fosholm

The Nazareth Lutheran Church was the scene of a pretty wedding last Saturday evening when Miss Irene Holst became the bride of Mr. Oscar Fosholm, both well known young people of this community.

The single ring ceremony was officiated by Rev. T. C. L. Hanson at 5:30 o'clock. Baskets of garden flowers and ferns in the church furnished the setting for the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Kathryn Heiran of Thief River Falls, a neice of the groom. The groom was attended by Mr. Willard Alden of Frederic, Wisconsin, a cousin of the bride. Immediately before the ceremony, Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson sang "O Perfect Love". To the strains of Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus", played by Miss Cleo Monson of Thief River Falls, neice of the groom the attendants entered the church. the bride was met at the altar by the groom. Serving as ushers were Marlan Augustine and Emil Heieren.

The bride wore a white satin princess style gown with a train and trailing a long veil with pearls adorning the lace turban crown. She carried a boquet of Premier Roses and Baby Breath. Miss Heieran was dressed in a peach net floor length gown and wore a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. She wore a gold locket, a gift from the bride. The bride's mother, Mrs. William Holst, wore a slate blue afternoon frock with a corsage of white Asters.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holst at the Church Parlors where about 60 guests were present. The church parlors were decorated in pink and white streamers and garden flowers. The bridal table was centered with a three tiered white wedding cake, and was adorned with pink rose decorations, green leaves, pink candles set in clear crystal holders and small bonquets of sweet peas and carnations were also used.

Serving as waitresses for the occasion were the following six friends of the bride: Misses Elda Benitt, Lenora Heldstab, Angeline Augustine. Emma Mehrkens Lois Mehrkens, and Esther Soiney.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding and reception were: Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Daeffer and son Weldon, of Waterloo, New York; Mr. and Mrs. John Daeffer and daughters, Eileen and Helen, of Siren, Wis.; Mrs. Ernest Alden and son Willard of Frederic, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. John Heldstad and daughters, Lenora and Elaine, of Crookston, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Felske, of Lockhart; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Monson and daughter Cleo, Miss Gylia Fosholm, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heieran and family and Miss Geneva Overum, all of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson and family of Wylie.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holst and is a graduate of the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston with the class of 1935. The groom is the son of Hans Fosholm and was graduated from Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls, in 1931.

The newly-weds will make their home in Holt where the groom is an assistant at the Farmers Co-operative Creamery. They will be at home to thier mauy friends in the near future.

Annual Harvest Festival Sept. 24

The annual Harvest Festival of the Nazareth Lutheran Church, will be held at the church on Sunday, Sept. 24th. The Harvest Festival has its emphasis on the work of the Missions and is a special occasion for thanksgiving for the harvest we have again been privileged to partake in. The local pastor, Rev. T. C. L. Hanson, will preach a Foreign Mission sermon in the forenoon. For the Festival speaker, Rev. Abner S. Haugen, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, Crookston, has been secured.

Rev. Haugen is one of the outstanding pastors of the Norwegian Lutheran Church. He has not only made use of all facilities for studying in his own church body but has also done considerable studying in the seminaries of Chicago and New York. Because of this, Rev. Haugen has a very adequate grasp of fundamental truths of Scripture and because of his fine education, is able to present these truths in a simple but convincing manner. In the evening, the first meeting of the Luther League for this season will be held. The Program Committee of the Luther League has secured the Festival speaker for their Program in the evening. Because of the occasion, a Mission-Thank offering will be taken at the morning services and used for the cause of Missions and our Church Budget. The Ladies Aid will serve dinner and has the following menu to offer:

Menu for Dinner
Mashed potatoes Buttered carrots
Mock Chicken with gravy
Cranberries Sandwiches
Apple Pie Coffee
25c and 15c
Lunch
Sandwiches cake coffee 10c

Judging from past years, a large attendance is expected to be present and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to partake of the blessings of this festival.

Yvonne LaRue, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson of Wylie was baptised at the parsonage on Saturday afternoon She was born on March 31, 1939. Her sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Monson and Cleo of Thief River Falls and Henry Fosholm.

Work On Parsonage to Begin

The recent heavy rains delayed the beginning of work on the parsonage of the Nazareth Lutheran Congsegation.

The contractor engaged to raise the house from its foundation is expected to start working the latter part of this week. Following the decided plan, the men of the congregation will be asked to contribute their labor of excavating and building cement forms as soon as the house is raised which should be the first part of next week. The men of the congregation who are willing to help are asked to meet on Tuesday when it is expected that the work will be so advanced that excavating and hauling away the old foundation can begin. Complete announcements of plans will be made Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Moberg and Joyce and Mr. and Mrs. L. Sagstuen and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Johnson and Gloria, and Ferne Sagstuen, attended the reception given for Mr. and Mrs. Art Leiran at the Molstad home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Rees of Strathcona, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Horien and family and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Horien and family visited at the Mrs. Ed Horien home Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Hartman of St. Cloud visited at the Jim Peterson home Monday.

Elvin Jarshaw Home on Furlough

Elvin Jarshaw arrived home last week from Long Beach, Calif. for a 30 day furlough from his enlistment in the U. S. Navy. Elvin is enlisted in the engineer's force, being a fireman First Class rated, on the U. S. S. Tennessee.

His cruises have taken him to many places such as Alaska, Hawaii, Panama Canal, Cuba and New York City. He will leave again for the west coast the first week in October. Elvin is a former student of the Holt High School.

Robert Starr arrived on Friday for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre. He returned home again on Monday accompanied by Mrs. Starr who had spent some time visiting at the home of her parents, and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson and baby who went to Madison to visit at the Oppegaard home during the work on the parsonage.

Pot and Pan Holders That Hang in a Row

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A GREEN and white kitchen is as fresh and crisp as a lettuce leaf. I stepped into one the other day with white walls, green floor and green organdy curtains. Everything was green and white, and over the stove hung a set of patchwork pot holders like a row of bright green and white tiles. All of us love old quilt patterns. For those who do not have time to make quilts, here is a modern use for your favorite designs.

Perhaps you were put to bed as a child under this eight-pointed star? The sketch gives the dimensions for the patterns for the two triangles used in making it for the pot holder. Piece eight small squares of two triangles; then eight oblong blocks of three triangles. A layer of sheet wadding is used for padding. The backing for the holder is white. The three layers are quilted together by sewing just inside the white triangles of the pieced top.

Have you sent for your copy of the new Sewing Book No. 3? Every homemaker will want a copy for it contains useful ideas for home decorating; as well as original ideas for things to use as gifts, and to sell at bazaars. You will be delighted with this new book. The price is only 10 cents postpaid. Send coin with name and address to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

European War Gathers Steam After Preliminary Skirmishes; Polish Resistance Is Expected

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE WAR:

Lineup

As day after day passed into history, the War of 1939 engulfed more nations and brought more millions face-to-face with dread actuality. On Britain's side came the Union of South Africa, one-third of whose 30,000 European population speaks German. A few days later Canada's Prime Minister Mackenzie King ordered a declaration of war published in the Canadian Official Gazette. After 10 days of fighting, the lineup found Germany and her ally, Slovakia, with 90,600,000 population against a total ally population of 505,556,000. The figures:

| Nation | Population |
|---|---|
| Germany | 86,600,000 |
| Slovakia | 4,000,000 |
| VERSUS | |
| Poland | 32,348,000 |
| France | 43,000,000 |
| Great Britain, including: | |
| United Kingdom | 48,000,000 |
| Australia | 8,000,000 |
| New Zealand | 1,600,000 |
| Union of South Africa | 10,000,000 |
| Canada | 11,209,000 |
| India | 351,399,000 |

Still aloof were the imponderables. Egypt, treaty-bound to Britain, had severed diplomatic relations with the Reich. Turkey, also treaty-bound, called up her reserves as France's Gen. Maxime Weygand reached Ankara. But the greatest imponderables were Russia and Italy, both leaning Germany-ward, whose jump to Adolf Hitler's assistance could place France and Britain in an extremely uncomfortable position.

War of Words

Past-master at the art of propaganda is Germany's Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, whose technique after one week of war was obviously taking better hold than the ironclad censorship of France and Britain. The allies' first mistake was to confine announcements to useless official communiques, opening the way for nervous conjecturing. Ministries of information worked at such a snail's pace that the London Daily Mirror commented: "The mills of the Gods grind slowly, but seemingly those of the air ministry are geared even more slowly." Soon radiophotoing of news pictures was banned by London, leaving U. S. readers with nothing but German propaganda photos. Meanwhile the British propaganda office gave correspondents such patently cooked-up stories as one that the ex-Kaiser had warned Hitler he faces disaster.

GEN. GOERING

He wooed France.

Herr Goebbels was smarter, if more unethical. His radio stole a Warsaw wave length and warned the Poles to evacuate. But he did allow U. S. correspondents to visit the front and released announcements which were acceptable to the press because they were partly true, and more damaging for the same reason.

But the major war of words came from Germany's Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, who swore at Britain and cooed at France, renewing the well-substantiated rumor that Germany will be ready for peace when she has conquered Poland. Sample:

"We want nothing of the French . . . It is the English government which incited people. We know England will fight till the last Frenchman—remember that, you Frenchmen!"

Next day Britain reiterated: No peace talks if Germany stays in Poland.

Western War

In 1914 it took two weeks to start a real dogfight on the western front. The War of 1939 proved no exception. In the first seven days allied troops made steady gains, "feeling out" the enemy on all parts of the front. But not until the allies had dug in almost to the recessed Siegfried line did Adolf Hitler withdraw several divisions from Poland and rush them westward to the rescue.

As the second week got under way, two salients and counter-offensives seemed brewing into two major battles. (See Map). The first was near Saarbruecken, where a French offensive pointed eight miles into German territory. To the west, Nazi troops sought to relieve this pressure and possibly reach France's highly touted Maginot line.

Meanwhile, just north of Switzerland, French troops pushed into the Black forest hoping to open a path via Austria to sorely pressed Poland. In Rome military observers chuckled over this offensive, knowing full well that France had originally intended to aid Poland via highly vulnerable Italy, which decided instead to stay neutral.

Eastern War

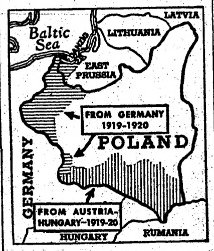
As war in the east reached its second week, Adolf Hitler released a masterpiece of understatement: By decree, Germany's far eastern frontiers were restored to their 1914 positions (See Map). Since Germany had already regained about twice the area she lost in 1919, some naive observers may have wondered why Der Fuehrer continued his march to Warsaw. But while he was about it, Hitler had evidently decided to take a little more, plus all the land Poland got from Austria-Hungary in 1919.



EASTERN FRONT

Losses regained, and then some.

This was no easy job. Blustering and boasting of the war's first days was silenced as Poland lived up to her promise. The retreat had really been strategic, after all. Moreover, Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz really had about 1,000,000 unused troops. As the Poles dug in behind the Bugg and Vistula rivers, London heard that the eastern front's greatest battle was growing on a 250-mile front. Even Berlin communiques admitted "fierce battles."

Biggest of Poland's unspoken worries was the juggernaut at her back door, Russia. Thousands of reserves poured through Moscow bound for the west after mobilization was decreed "in connection with the German-Polish war." Was the Red bear about to strike, too?

Next day Moscow's Pravda said no. Russia was merely preparing to disarm and interne eastward-fleeing Poles when the war was over.

War at Sea

Still a mystery was the whereabouts of Germany's giant Bremen, which left New York one day before war was declared. Reports placed her variously at Iceland, Mexico, South America and Russia, but she was probably snug in a Spanish harbor. Manhattan's waterfront still housed the French Normandie and British Queen Mary, probably there for the duration. Though British and French lines no longer announced their schedules, the Ile de France sneaked into New York. Two British boats, the Georgic and Samaria, sailed in darkness.

This was fool's fun unless convoys awaited the allied vessels when they left neutral waters. After one week of war 12 British-French boats had reached Davy Jones' locker as the Reich's submarine campaign began gathering force. Small victory for Britain was the fact that all German shipping had run to cover; unless allied boats could sail the seas there might be a repitition of 1917's near tragedy. In that year convoys were perfected.

War at sea could not fail to touch U. S. shipping. The Manhattan and other boats left for Europe with giant flags painted on their sides. New York brush wielders did a landoffice job camouflaging allied vessels. Off Cobh, Ireland, the liner Washington rescued 33 crewmen from the torpedoed British freighter, Olivegrove.

But U. S. shipping was a breath-holding business. Painted flags meant little in mined waters. Besides, other neutral nations were beginning to suffer: (1) A Dutch mine sweeper hit her own mine and sank with 33 aboard; (2) a Greek freighter, Kosti, was reportedly destroyed by a German mine in the Baltic; (3) Danish fishermen, fearing mines, clung ashore.

DOMESTIC:

Backfire of War

As Europe's military machines got up steam, Franklin Roosevelt found himself puzzling over two conflicting problems: (1) How to keep out of war and preserve U. S. business-social normalcy; (2) How to prepare against war, yet be ready for it when and if it comes.

Neutrality and Normalcy. Paradoxically, commodities, stocks and bonds soared despite food surpluses and the present neutrality law, which automatically clamps an embargo on arms shipments to belligerent nations. Reason: Wiseacres of Wall street, most of them anti-Rooseveltian, were pretty sure the President would summon congress to repeal the present neutrality law and substitute "cash-and-carry."

After a week of mildly effectual warnings to profiteers, the cause of normalcy was still suffering. Meanwhile the White House played a waiting game, holding a congressional summons in abeyance until public opinion had crystalized. When housewives began complaining of rising prices, when politicians began debating the merits of a neutrality that barred shipment of bullets but permitted highly vital oil to go abroad, the President was apparently ready to act. Washington expected congress about October 2, but Idaho's Sen. William E. Borah warned there would be no hasty change in the law.

SECRETARY WOODRING

'Emergency.' To most citizens' surprise, the White House revealed that U. S. military strength is far below the 937,000-man peacetime level authorized by congress. Ordered, therefore, was a 104,500-man increase in armed forces and a 150-man boost in FBI under an executive decree declaring a "limited national emergency."

While Secretary of War Woodring mulled over his immediate expansion problem, his mind's eye might have looked to the future and an even greater problem should the U. S. get its feet in Europe's mud. Within 90 days after a declaration of war, an army of almost 1,000,000 men could be drafted. Since the subject popped into headlines, the joint army and navy selective service committee announced there are about 41,000,000 males between 18 and 64 of whom about 26,000,000 are between 18 and 45, the "normal" military age.

★ Screen Cinderella

★ Athlete Gets Lead

★ To Have—Not to Hold

By Virginia Vale

WANT a Cinderella story? It concerns Kathryn Adams, who didn't win a "Gateway to Hollywood" contest. She did get first place in the eliminations for her part of the country (Minnesota), however, and got to Hollywood.

But she lost out there, and was all set to go home. The story goes that Gregory La Cava, the ace producer-director, saw her walking across the RKO-Radio lot, and asked her to take a screen test. She did, so sure that nothing would come of it that she even told him that she didn't like the script provided for her, and he let her write her own.

And—she was given the second lead in "Fifth Avenue Girl," the latest Ginger Rogers release, and may go farther than the girl who won out in that contest in which she was an also-ran.

*

Major Bowes and his staff looked forward to a let-up in the number of amateurs they'd be auditioning during the summer months, but instead of diminishing the number of applicants increased. They lay it to the New York World's fair—it seemed as if most of the people who went to New York for the fair didn't care so much about seeing it as they did about trying to land on the "Original Amateur Hour."

Major Bowes

The arrival of cooler weather hasn't lessened the number of applicants—and auditions continue, at the rate of 600 per week.

*

It's Clayton Moore who's to have the lead in "South of Pago Pago," after all. He's a newcomer to the screen, but has the athletic background which seems to be the main requirement for the role. Moore hails from Chicago, where he was inter-city swimmer, pole vaulter, basketball player, boxer, and practically everything but a ping pong champion, apparently.

*

Paul Laval, the orchestra leader, collects batons used by celebrated conductors. He has 71, formerly the property of such famous leaders as Toscanini, Bruno Walter and Mascagni. But they're to have, not to hold—when he's conducting an orchestra he doesn't bother with a baton, just uses his hands.

*

There seems to be something about being on the radio that makes a man want to drive the oldest car he can get his hands on.

Jerry Mason, who is "Sr. Blodgett" in "The Life and Love of Dr. Susan," has one that first saw the light of day in 1930. He arrived at rehearsal the other day all out of breath—his car had broken down and had to be towed to a garage, the first time that had happened, and he'd driven it 85,000 miles. "I knew it wouldn't last," he remarked sadly.

And James Melton drives around Connecticut, where he lives in summer, in a red, four-cylinder car dated 1910. He wears a cap, goggles and a duster.

*

Gary Cooper has been enjoying himself at Southampton, Long Island, among the debutantes and the sand dunes, visiting his wife's family, and resting up from the exertions of "The Real Glory"—which, incidentally, has the conquest of the Philippines for its background. David Niven worked in that picture too.

*

ODDS AND ENDS—Joan Crawford is said to be considering a return to the stage as a night club dancer in a play called "Gods of the Night"—it all depends on whether she can get a vacation from picture-making . . . John Trent, former transport pilot, isn't allowed to fly while he's at work on one of his "Tailspin Tommy" pictures . . . Richard Barthelmess will play John Garfield's brother in "Underground" . . . Barthelmess was one of First National's leading stars—now First National has been merged for years with Warner Brothers, and Barthelmess hasn't been on the lot for five years . . . Barbara Stanwyck may find herself back on the stage this fall, and in a musical show at that.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

Voltaire Born Arouet

The great French poet, dramatist and philosopher known to the world as Voltaire, was Francois Marie Arouet, born in 1694, the son of Francois and Marie Marguerite Daumart Arouet. At the age of 24 he was imprisoned in the Bastile for writing verses that displeased the regent of France. During this imprisonment he changed his name to Arouet de Voltaire. But as time passed the "Arouet" was dropped and he became known simply as Voltaire.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

PATTERN DEPARTMENT

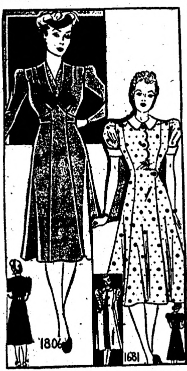
SEWING CIRCLE



IF YOU take a large size, then you'll find 1806 one of the most becoming dresses you ever put on! The long, slim lines of the paneled skirt make your hips look much narrower, and the bodice gathers give correct ease over the bust. With its touch of lace, this will be very smart for bridge parties, luncheons and club affairs. Make it of flat crepe, thin wool and, later on, sheer velvet.

Coat Style Dress.

The "something different" about this practical dress is the way the closing is cut sharply over at the waistline. The design (1681) gives you plenty of lap-over, so that you needn't sew buttons and make buttonholes all the way down. And of course you don't need to be told how easy the coat style is to make, to get into, and to iron.

The Patterns.

No. 1806 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material, with short sleeves; 4⅞ yards with long sleeves; 1 yard for vestee.

No. 1681 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 35-inch material without nap; ⅝ yard contrasting; 2¾ yards edging.

Whistler Couldn't Pass Up Opportunity to Use Bailiffs

Mrs. A. M. Moncrieff, who has just celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday, knew many of the great Victorians in the days when, as Nita Gaetano, she was a celebrated singer—and tells some good stories about them.

Once she dined with Whistler, the famous artist, whose pictures now sell for fabulous sums. Two manservants were waiting at table.

"You must be doing well, selling a lot of paintings," she remarked, a little surprised that Whistler should "splash" in this way.

"No," whispered her host. "They're bailiffs. I thought they might as well be doing something useful."

Linking the countryside with the nation's large consuming markets long distances away, is the indispensable railroad—so dependable day in and day out, in winter and in summer, that its almost perfect functioning is taken for granted.

Canadian Grain Rates

Railroads serving the wheat-producing states of the Northwest sometimes are charged with being unfair to the farmers because their grain rates are higher than those of the Canadian railroads.

Why is it that the Great Northern cannot carry grain for as low a rate as the Canadian lines?

The explanation is that the Canadian government paid its railroads—and continues to pay them—to carry wheat at lower rates.

Canada adopted this policy because the government regarded it as necessary to attract settlers to western Canada.

The Canadian government aided the construction of the privately-owned Canadian railroad by giving it $25,000,000 in cash, 25,000,000 acres of land, certain completed lines of railroad, and perpetual tax concessions.

Then, about forty years ago, the Canadian government made a contract with the railroad, granting additional cash subsidies and lands, and providing for a further reduction in grain rates.

And, of course, the government-owned Canadian railroad has maintained the same rates as the privately-owned system, but the huge annual deficit of the government road—$54,000,000 for the one year, 1938—is paid by the Canadian taxpayers!

The Great Northern, on the other hand, was built through the Dakotas and to the Pacific Coast without any assistance from the government of any kind—no cash subsidies—no land grants—no tax concessions.

For each mile of railroad the Great Northern operates, it is obliged to pay more than four times as much taxes as the Canadian lines:

TAXES PER MILE OF LINE
Canadian Government-Owned System $ 240
Canadian Privately-Owned System - - $ 255
GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY - - - $1,042

If the Great Northern's taxes last year had been reduced to the level of the Canadian railways, on condition that the difference be applied wholly to a reduction of wheat rates, farmers could have shipped their wheat at LESS THAN HALF RATES!

It's Smart To Be MODERATE!

- It's smart not to overdo anything . . . working, playing, eating, drinking.

Enjoy everything in moderation . . . that's the way to make sure of getting real happiness!

Mild, wholesome beer is the bulwark of moderation. Students of government have long held that beer used in moderation is the most practical way to attain true temperance.

The Brewers of Minnesota are urging moderation for several reasons: to preserve your right to enjoy wholesome beer, and their right to make and sell it . . . to keep more than 25,000 Minnesotans in gainful jobs . . . to help Minnesota farmers hold their annual $3,500,000 market for barley and corn.

To retain these benefits, the brewing industry of Minnesota is cooperating fully with your law enforcement agencies so that the retailing of beer will be as wholesome as beer itself.

Many Attend Festival

Large crowds were present at the sessions of the Harvest Festival at the Nazareth Lutheran Church last Sunday afternoon Highlights of the day were the two stirring and soul searching addresses given by Rev. Abner S. Haugen, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church at Crookston. In the afternoon he spoke on the Theme: "Things That Remain" and in the evening "Love to Christ." The evening meeting was under the auspices of the Luther League. The Ladies Aid served dinner at noon and lunch in the afternoon. In the evening, refreshments were served by Mrs. L. Monson, Mrs. Ben Garthus and Mrs. Johnny Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Inman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Larson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swan and family, were entertained at the Ludvig Munson home Saturday evening, the occasion being Mr. Munson 51st birthday. The evening was spent in playing games and cards. A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Munson.

Summer Ended Saturday

The summer season for 1939 faded into autumn on Saturday afternoon at 4:50 p. m. Friday, the last day of summer, ended in a cool note. The high was 62.

Only in March and September is the earth's axis at right angles to the direction of the sun. So, in these months occur the equinoxes when the day and night are equal the world over.

At 4:50 on Saturday the sun crossed the equator on its way south for the autumnal equinox. Winter officially begins December 22 at 12:06 p. m.

It was no wonder that it was cold here on Monday as Albert Lea in the southern part of the state had a September snow for the first time in many years and it also snowed at International Falls on Monday morning.

The new 1940 automobiles have been provided with a complete new unit of lighting.

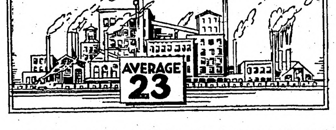
The new equipment is known as "The Sealed Beam Light System." No dirt, dust or moisture can penetrate the sealed unit to corrode the reflecting surfaces and lens. More light, properly distributed is thrown on the road surfaces.

The new lamps throw two light beams. The lower beam is for city driving and the top beam for country driving.

These lights will provide more protection and greater safety after dark on the nation's streets and highways.

O. T. Ness has been doing a big business in grain and grass seeds at his elevator here the past few weeks. He has shipped out several carloads of grass seeds this fall.

The Average Manufacturing Plant Of Minnesota Is Small



Many people think of industry in terms of great plants, towering smoke stacks and long lines of employees.

That is a misconception. In Minnesota, industry is small. Ninety-eight per cent of the industries of the state employ but an average of 15 wage earners. Plants employing fewer than 100 workers account for 40 per cent of the total manufacturing employment of the state.

In over 4,000 manufacturing establishments of Minnesota there are 203 which employ more than 100 wage earners.

In Minnesota the last available census returns show that there were but 12 plants employing more than 1,000 wage earners and these plants accounted for 17 per cent of the total number of wage earners of the state.

Industry, large or small, is of great value.

By and large, Minnesota industry is new in years, small in size and limited in resources. The vast majority of Minnesota industries are owned by those who operate them or are employed in them.

This information compiled by the Inter-Organization Committee for the retention and development of industry and business in Minnesota.

Hunting Season Opens Sunday

The longest duck hunting season in several years - more than six weeks - will open for Minnesota hunters next Sunday, Oct. 1 It closes at 4 p. m. on Tuesday. November 14. The federal regulations forbid shooting ducks before 7 a. m. or after 4 p. m. on any day throughout the season. All counties are open except Ramsey. During the same period it will also be legal to shoot geese, coot, Wilson's or Jacksnipe. The bag limits are:

Ducks - daily shoot 10 in the aggregate with 20 in possession of all kinds, not more however, than three of any one or three combined of canvasback, redhead, bufflehead or ruddy duck may be included in the daily bag and only 6 combined of the species named may be included in the possession limit. Wood duck, swans, yellowlegs may not be taken at any time.

Geese— daily limit - 4 in aggregate of all kinds, except Roos goose. Coot - 15. Wilson's or Jacksnipe 15. A person may not take more than 15 in the aggregate of all kinds of these waterfowl in any one day. The possession limits are: Ducks 20 Geese 8, Coot 25, Snipes 15.

Excel Farmer Passed Away

Funeral services were conducted for Oliver Molstad on Tuesday afternoon at the Silver Creek Lutheran church with Rev. T. C. L, Hanson officiating.

Mr. Molstad was born at Buxton, N. D. December 2, 1887 and passed away September 21st, 1939, at the age of 51 years 9 months and 19 days.

He came from Buxton. N. D. to Excel township in 1894 and in October 21, 1918 he entered Service of the World War. He returned in February 1919. He lived in Chisholm, Minn. from 1921 until 1924 and has since that time made his home in Excel Township.

He was a member of the Board of Trustees of Silver Creek Congregation.

He was married Nov. 11, 1919 to Lena Riedel, and leaves to mourn his passing his wife, Mrs. Lena Molstad, three daughters, Mary-Ann, Betty-Lou and Dorothy-Mae and four sons, Clebert, Clayton, Oliver Jr. and Larry and one brother Albert Molstad all of Excel Township.

His parents, one son and one brother preceeded him in death.

Sharon LaVonne Wegge, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wegge was baptised at the Nazareth Lutheran Church on Sunday morning. She was born on July 14, 1939 and her sponsors were: Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wegge.

Mernet Johnson left Tuesday for Morgan, Minn. where he will be employed with Megarry Bros. on an oiling job.

Hunters! Drive Carefully

On the eve of the opening of what promises to be Minnesota's best waterfowl shooting season in many years, W. F. Rosenwald traffic engineer and director of the State Highway department's Safety division, this week cautioned motorists to exercise extreme driving care on these highways which will be overcrowded during the next few week-ends.

Pointing out that the number of hunters killed in traffic mishaps traveling to and from shooting grounds in comparable to and often exceeds the number killed by mishandling of firearms Mr. Rosenwald urged special caution and alertness on the part of drivers travelling main trunk arteries leading into what is known as "the best duck country". Highway patrolmen will give special attention to such areas.

In order that the gratifying results indicated in preliminary reports from the statewide September campaign may be continued through the October and November hunting seasons, Mr. Rosenwald urged hunters to:

Watch carefully for stop signs at intersections.

Travel at conservative speeds - for rural roads will be as crowded during certain hours as city streets.

Start early - - plenty of time is the best insurance against the temptation to unsafe speeds.

Observe the white lines - - never try to pass on any curve or hill unless you have a long sight distance ahead.

Never mix liquor and gasoline nor liquor and gunpowder.

Keep to the right of the center line - - when two cars try to drive in the same space someone gets hurt.

Do not, for any reason, stop on the roadway; pull off to the right when you must stop. If you leave your car, lock it!

If you are at the wheel, let the other fellow watch for birds and likely hunting grounds.

Fire Razed Gatzke Store

Word was received here late Wednesday evening that the old A. P. Nelson store at Gatzke burned to the ground. Details are lacking as to the origin of the fire.

Those who have potatoes to dig this fall tell us that they are too green to dig yet. This is due to the late rains which seem to have started the spud crop to grow again and they are clinging to the vines.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fosholm have this week moved into the rooms vacated by G. Karvonens in the Hagberg house and will make their new home there.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Karvonen moved into their new house on Saturday.

Drawing at Engen Garage Saturday evening Sept 30 at 8 o'clock.

Walter Wegge and H. O. Hanson are busy completeing a new silo and remodeling a large dairy barn on the Wold farm west of Thief River Falls. Mr. Wegge has built new barns and houses here and around Thief River Falls all summer. He expects to be busy with this kind of work as long as weather permits.

Dovre-Hetland Wedding

Martin Hetland surprised the people of Holt this week when he made the announcement that he has been married to Miss Gladys Dovre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Dovre of Middle River, almost two months.

The marriage took place at the Holt Lutheran parsonage on August 9th with Rev. T. C. L. Hanson reading the ceremony. They have kept it a secret until this week. Mr. Hetland is our local barber and the young couple will make their home here having rented the upstairs rooms at the Joe Nelson residence.

The Weather

We had a killing frost Friday night and cold and frosty Sunday night. Wednesday we had rain. Thursday morning we had a ligth snow. Now we are all set for "Indian Summer".

Prices Are Going Up Fast

Many items have taken a sharp climb in price since the war broke out in Europe. Groceries were among the first to go up in price and now other commodities are following suit. Jobbers are quoting higher prices to come on most kinds of merchandise in a short time. This will force all people in business to raise the price on their goods.

Rural Credit Sold 29 Farms

Rural Credit Department this week reported that up to September 15th 29 Rural Credit Farms have been sold in Marshall County, leaving 238 farms owned by the Department in this county. The Department has set a sales quota for itself of 20 per cent of the farms on hand at the first of the year to be sold this year. In Marshall County 54 percent of the quota has been reached. Located in the Thief River Falls Area, which is comprised of 3 counties, Marshall County is one of the leaders in the matter of farm sales in this area.

With 3886 farms over the whole state on hand on January first, and a quota of 777 farms to be sold this year, the Department has sold 543 farms up to this time. The Department of Rural Credit feels that with the cooperation of the citizens in each connty who are interested in having these state-owned farms returned to the tax rolls, there is little doubt but that the established quota will be reached and perhaps exceeded by the end of the year.

Rev. Hanson, Mrs. S. Lorentson, Mrs. Joe Nelson, Mrs. H. O. Hanson and Miss Helen Erickson attended Teacher's Training at Trinity Lutheran Church at Thief River Falls Monday evening.

POLAND'S PAST, PRESENT, FUTURE (?)

Territory taken by Poland from Lithuania (and previously by Lithuania from Russia), together with land lost to Poland at the treaty of Riga, is the Soviet's first military objective in "protecting" Ukrainians and White Russiani. Germany will probably take all Polish land formerly belonging to herself and to the Austro-Hungarian empire. Eastern Galicia, populated by Ukrainians, yet a part of the Austro-Hungarian empire and highly coveted by Germany, has a problematical future. Area in white may remain a Polish state.

THE WAR:

Diplomatic Front

Thoroughly vindicated this month are the astute international observers who have called Russia's Josef Stalin the shrewdest diplomat of Europe, shrewder even than Germany's Adolf Hitler who begged and won Russia's friendship a few weeks ago. Like a remote control operator who needs only to punch buttons, Dictator Stalin sat in his Kremlin palace and manipulated diplomatic machinery that responded like one-two-three clockwork in a sequence of events that sped westward from Tokyo to Paris and London, leaving the harried allies of Europe's war in miserable shape:

Truce. For five years stubborn Japan has fought an undeclared, informal war with Russia in the vast wastelands of Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia. Ambitious elsewhere, Dictator Stalin was not free to meddle in European politics or peck at the British empire so long as Japan remained a nuisance. But one upshot of the recent Russ-German nonaggression pact was a more thorough welding of world totalitarianism. Germany, already allied with Japan, intervened to start conversations between Soviet Premier Viacheslav Molotov and Japan's ambassador to Moscow, Shigenori Togo. Result: A Jap-Soviet truce, welcomed in Tokyo because it meant Nippon could not only push her conquest of China but also oust pestiferous French and British interests from the Orient.

MOLOTOV
Eyes turned west.

Conquest. Thus freed, Russia turned westward. German troops already occupied half of Poland, whose defense was collapsing rapidly. While Dictator Stalin ran the show from behind scenes, Premier Molotov sent his troops, tanks and planes wheeling across the frontier to "take under their protection" about 11,000,000 Ukrainians and White Russians in eastern and southern Poland. Thus relieved (by pre-arrangement) from conquering the rest of that nation, Germany was in turn freed to turn westward.

Result. Some observers believed 70 German divisions used against Poland were rushed to the western front, where silence still masked hostilities in the Saar basin. But both France and Britain knew their job was becoming more formidable hourly as the Nazi juggernaut began unleashing its full strength.

Questions, Forecasts

Unnoticed in this ghastly and growing conflict were the fate and fortunes of men-at-arms. Britain had lost 22 ships including the veteran airplane carrier, Courageous. Three hundred thousand men fought in the Saar, with thousands more on the way. Gdynia fell. Brest-Litovsk and Lwow were shambles. Warsaw, in even worse shape, negotiated her surrender. Paris heard the Russians were invading Lithuania, also that the Polish war had cost Germany 100,000 killed and wounded. (One dead was a grandson of the ex-Kaiser.) France's mine layer, Pluton, exploded in Morocco.

But men were merely pawns in the game of war. While they died, their leaders fretted over a future which may make today's holocaust mild by comparison. Nations with far-flung territories (France and Britain) suffer most when their enemies (Japan, Russia, Germany and Italy) are also far flung. While the harried allies had their hands full keeping mighty Germany at bay behind her invulnerable West wall, these things might happen:

Japan. Under German coaxing, Dictator Stalin might withdraw his support of China's long-suffering Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, thus paving the way for immediate completion of Japan's war. Meanwhile the maze of European concessions and settlements in China could be wiped out because western nations are too busy at home to complain.

Russia. With 600,000 men concentrated on the Afghanistan border, the Soviet could use this nation as a jumping off place in her campaign to establish rule over India. Meanwhile the Kremlin's threat is luring Turkey away from her alliance with Britain and France, thus closing the Black sea outlet which has been Rumania's sole hope of independence.

Germany. Between them the Reich and Soviet must divide Poland. If Germany takes only her pre-World war territory (See Map) and Russia takes only the land Poland took by force in 1919-20, a buffer state would still remain between the two powers—provided a settlement can be reached in southeastern Poland, whose rich Galician lands are coveted by both Berlin and Moscow.

Italy. Shattered was the popular belief that Italy would not only stay neutral, but might even come to the allies' side. Observers still expected Benito Mussolini to promulgate a peace conference any day, but they also knew he had an ulterior motive. Italy wants the French-Italian port of Djibouti, entrance to Italian Ethiopia, made a free port; she wants control of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad; she wants a major voice in administering the Suez canal; she wants other assorted and miscellaneous concessions which the allies foolishly denied her after the World war.

TROOPS IN WEST WALL
While allies had their hands full . . .

Choice. The four totalitarian nations might decide to strike first and talk peace later. Or they may poise their threats and then sue. Whichever course they take, Britain and France are on the spot; never in modern history have their empires been so completely threatened. Probably the better part of valor is to fight and ignore totalitarianism's peace offers. From experience, Europe's democracies have learned appeasement merely whets the appetite and prolongs the torture.

Neutrality Proclamation Stamped With Official Seal

Secretary of State Cordell Hull watches an aide affix the official seal of the United States upon the neutrality proclamation which previously had been signed by President Roosevelt. Shortly afterward, Mr. Roosevelt issued a proclamation placing an embargo on arms, ammunition and implements of war to belligerent nations. ## These Factors May Tell Story in Europe's War

| ASSETS → / NATION ↓ | AIR STRENGTH | ARMED FORCE | NAVAL POWER | RESOURCES (PERCENT OF PRODUCTION) |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| BRITAIN | 4,000 | 1,000,000 | 2,062,000 (TONS) | 100% |
| FRANCE | 3,500 | 6,300,000 | 780,000 | 60% |
| GERMANY | 6,500 | 3,200,000 | 500,000 | 30% |
| POLAND | 1,000 | 2,000,000 | NONE | 10% |
| RUSSIA | 5,000 | 12,250,000 | 306,000 | 100% |
| ITALY | 5,000 | 5,700,000 | 680,000 | 20% |

Military, naval and economic might of Europe's leading powers is shown on the above chart, prepared from best available sources.

Creating New Life In an Old Rocker

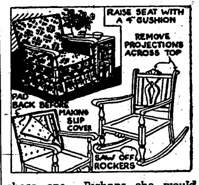
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THERE were rocking chairs hanging from the ceiling of a certain second-hand furniture store. "Nobody wants them any more," mourned the dealer. "I'd sell any one you see for 50 cents." The little bride with me promptly chose one. Perhaps she would paint it for the porch.



RAISE SEAT WITH A 4" CUSHION
REMOVE PROJECTIONS ACROSS TOP
PAD BACK BEFORE MAKING SLIP COVER
SAW OFF ROCKERS

What she actually did is shown here in the sketch. The result was the small but comfortable, modern looking chair at the upper left. The bride raided mother's attic for two things that went into the making of this chair. One was an old quilt that she used to pad the back. The other was feathers from an old bolster which were used to stuff a seat cushion tightly so that it would raise the seat which had been lowered by removing the rockers. Cotton basted to muslin could have been used for the back padding and a cotton substitute for the cushion filling.

The new sewing book by Mrs. Spears contains 32 other useful homemaking ideas, with all directions clearly illustrated. You will be delighted with it. The price is only 10 cents postpaid. Enclose coin, with name and address, to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill., and book will come to you by return mail.

★ U. S. Speeds Releases
★ Chateau to Orphans

By Virginia Vale

HOLLYWOOD does not know yet what the European war is going to do to its major industry. The very profitable foreign market for pictures is out now, of course (it's said that Metro might have made two million dollars on "Gone With the Wind" alone). So the picture-makers are going to economize.

Then there are the foreign-born stars to consider. Samuel Goldwyn decided not to go ahead with "Raffles" because David Niven might be called back to England.

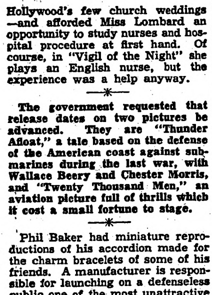
Victor McLaglen, Ray Milland and George Brent have all become American citizens; McLaglen got his final papers years ago.

*

Herbert Wilcox and Anna Neagle departed for England, Mr. Wilcox announcing that, because of the war, he would postpone making his proposed picture about Bonnie Prince Charlie. Robert Montgomery had to cancel making plans for working in "Busman's Holiday" in England and started for home. Maureen O'Sullivan also had to turn right around and start back to America again, instead of making the picture for which she'd gone abroad.

*

If Carole Lombard had to have appendicitis she certainly picked a convenient time for it. Of course, production on "Vigil in the Night" was held up. But it gave Brian Aherne time to marry Joan Fontaine—incidentally, they had one of Hollywood's few church weddings—and afforded Miss Lombard an opportunity to study nurses and hospital procedure at first hand. Of course, in "Vigil of the Night" she plays an English nurse, but the experience was a help anyway.



CAROLE LOMBARD

*

The government requested that release dates on two pictures be advanced. They are "Thunder Afloat," a tale based on the defense of the American coast against submarines during the last war, with Wallace Beery and Chester Morris, and "Twenty Thousand Men," an aviation picture full of thrills which it cost a small fortune to stage.

*

Phil Baker had miniature reproductions of his accordion made for the charm bracelets of some of his friends. A manufacturer is responsible for launching on a defenseless public one of the most unattractive dolls that it has ever been our fate to see; it's a "Baby Snooks" doll, but we'd say that Fannie Brice had material for a libel suit, if it's supposed to look like her.

*

Benay Venuta, the radio singer, still corresponds with Myrna Loy, though it's years since they met. At that time they danced side by side in the chorus at Grauman's Chinese theater, we're told.

*

Two dramatic serials will take over the Thursday evening hour that has belonged to Rudy Vallee for so long. The first half hour will feature "One Man's Family," that ace among radio serials; the second will be taken by "Those We Love."

*

Madeleine Carroll, who returned recently from Europe, has turned over her 200-year-old chateau near Paris to the Sisters of the Poor, for the shelter of orphans evacuated from the city.

*

Brenda Joyce comes into her own in "The Rains Came," and is likely to become the movies' next glamor girl without the usual buildup given by the publicity department. She's blonde and beautiful, and what's more, she can act.

*

ODDS AND ENDS—News commentators, warned to be neutral when they discuss the war, walk a verbal tight rope every time they face the microphone . . . "The Women" promises to be one of the biggest hits of the current movie season . . . And "The Old Maid" is another . . . Irene Dunne finally convinced everybody that she wouldn't play the heroine of the re-made "Front Page," and Jean Arthur steps into the role . . . "Arizona" won't be made at present despite the large sum spent on preparation . . . Norma Shearer, arriving from Europe, said she thought Charles Boyer had been mobilized; she slept on an army cot, because the boat she returned on was so crowded.

Faith Essential If Youngsters Trust Parents

● MISTAKES WILL HAPpen and children often regret them as much as their parents. Confidence comes much easier if child is sure he will receive fair treatment for self-admitted mistakes.

By MARION BROWNFIELD

BETTY, aged 11, was in the kitchen washing the dinner dishes while her father and some relatives were visiting in the breakfast room adjoining. Betty often "did" the dishes alone. She now proceeded methodically to stack them as she had been taught to do. Then she prepared the soapy dishwater and placed a second pan to rinse the dishes in. All the time, however, one ear was straying toward the pleasant conversation nearby. Mother was across the hall putting the last stitches on a dress Betty was to wear on the morrow, and the little girl was dawdling in order to enjoy the chat Daddy was having with the "company."

Suddenly, Betty breathed a prolonged, "Oh—!"

Daddy's head appeared in the kitchen doorway. "Break something?" he inquired.

"The hot water did!" explained Betty replacing a tea kettle of hot water on the stove.

The guests in the breakfast room smiled at the explanation. But Betty bravely held up a cracked tumbler.

"Too bad," said Daddy sympathetically.

"I'd better go and tell Mother." Betty marched gravely out of the kitchen.

"I'd give anything if my boy, George, would own up when something like that happens," remarked Cousin Harriet. "I scold him and scold him, but it doesn't seem to make any impression."

"H'm," said her husband, "it makes him afraid to confess."

Betty, back in the kitchen, approached the breakfast room door, holding the cracked tumbler. She smiled at her father. "Mother says I must be sure to have the rinsing water cool enough to put my finger in. But she says not to worry about this particular glass, because it was a cheap one." Betty resumed her dishwashing humming softly to herself.

"Well, it's a sort of habit, I think," her father said in an undertone to his relatives, "this 'fessing up,' but Betty's mother never makes it hard for a child to tell her anything. She says confidence is the one thing she wants from the children. And we find that they themselves are as regretful over a mistake or an accident as we are. We simply talk it over and sometimes, not too often, use it as a basis for a future reminder to avoid repetition.

Honesty Is Natural for Ted.

"When we gave Ted his new bicycle I told him to be careful where he parked it—not to leave it long in unfamiliar surroundings. He was pretty careful the first month. Then he forgot one day and left his wheel in a vacant lot down near the railroad tracks, while he pitched an impromptu ball game."

"And it was stolen?" inquired Cousin Harriet.

"No; when he went for it, apparently it was all right. Then he discovered about half a dozen of the parts were gone!"

"Well," said Cousin Harriet's husband, "I expect he didn't relish telling you!"

"No," said Ted's father with a laugh, "he didn't. He commenced, though, by saying, 'You were right, Dad, about my bike.' "

"It's expensive," complained Cousin Harriet, "the things these youngsters do; I would whip George if he disobeyed me like that!"

Ted's father shook his head. "That's out of date, Harriet. I said to Ted, 'What happened, Son?' He then told me just what had happened and what was missing. Well, I told him it was his job to earn back those missing parts.

" 'I've been thinking it over, Dad,' he said, 'so I asked Mrs. Clark, down the street, if I could mow her lawn, and she said she would like to have her car cleaned. It'll be every two weeks, Dad!' "

"To have to work for something, like that, will make a man of him!" approved Cousin Harriet's husband.

"We must go." Cousin Harriet arose.

Betty hurried from the kitchen and soon returned. "Mother wants you to see my new dress!" she said.

Cousin Harriet looked around the kitchen. It was unmistakably in order. "Your wife must take a lot of time and trouble training the children." She sighed.

Betty's father hesitated. How much dared he say? "Well, an 'ounce of prevention—' " he ventured. "But after all, children are people—they are seldom intentional miscreants—that is if you treat them as if you expected them to be responsible.—If you—well—take it for granted, you know."

DON'T THESE LOOK AWFUL GOOD?

My Favorite Recipes

Lucky, indeed, is the homemaker who has among her treasured recipes Aunt Martha's "receipt" for soft molasses cookies, Mother's rule for old-fashioned apple pan dowdy, or grandmother's instructions for making home-baked beans. Those old, favorite recipes are the mainstay of many a tempting meal.

Each one of us has our own prized collection of just such recipes—some old, some new, but all of them tried and approved by a critical family.

The recipes I'm giving you today are some of my own favorites—family "heirlooms" and contributions from friends and neighbors who are excellent cooks.

When you're a "seasoned" or experienced cook you may take liberties with a recipe or with directions, but if you're a beginner, or if you're trying a new dish for the first time, it's better to stick to a proven recipe and the accurate measurements it calls for.

Accuracy in cooking means level teaspoons and tablespoons and cups in the amounts the recipe specifies; it means sifting flour once before measuring; combining ingredients by the method given, and cooking or baking according to time and temperature recommended.

Oven Fried Chicken.
(Serves 4)

1 2 to 3 pound chicken (cut for frying)
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs
¼ cup water
1 cup fine cracker crumbs
Fat for frying
1 onion (chopped fine)
1 cup cream

Dip pieces of chicken in flour to which salt and pepper has been added; then dip in beaten egg to which water has been added and finally roll in cracker crumbs. Brown in hot fat (1 inch in depth). Place in baking pan, sprinkle with onion, and top with cream. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees), until tender, approximately 1½ hours.

Surprise Muffins.
(Makes 2 dozen small muffins)

1 egg (well beaten)
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter (melted)
2 cups cake flour
3 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons cherry preserves

Beat egg and add milk and melted butter. Mix and sift the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Pour liquid ingredients into the dry ingredients. Pour into well-greased muffin tins and place ½ teaspoon of preserves on top of each muffin. The preserves should be partially covered with muffin batter. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for approximately 12 minutes.

Vanilla Ice Cream.
(Automatic Refrigerator Method)

⅔ cup sweetened condensed milk
½ cup water
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup whipping cream

Blend sweetened condensed milk, water, and vanilla thoroughly. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan. Place in freezing unit. After mixture is about half frozen remove from refrigerator. Scrape mixture from sides and bottom of pan. Beat until smooth but not until melted. Smooth out and replace in freezing unit until frozen for serving. Serves 6.

A Chocolate Sauce for Ice Cream.

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 tablespoons butter
⅔ cup boiling water
5 tablespoons white corn syrup
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt

Melt chocolate and butter and add hot water gradually. Bring to a boil, add corn syrup and sugar, and cook over low flame for 5 minutes. Cool slightly, add vanilla and salt.

Gingerbread Waffles.
(Serves 6)

1 cup molasses
⅓ cup butter
1 teaspoon soda
½ cup sour milk
1 egg (beaten)
2 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon salt

Heat molasses and butter to boiling point. Remove from fire and beat in the soda. Add sour milk, beaten egg, and the flour which has been sifted with the ginger and salt. Mix well. Bake in hot waffle iron. Serve with whipped cream and a dash of nutmeg.

Honey Spice Cake.

¾ cup shortening
⅓ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup strained honey
2 eggs
3 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup nut meats (broken)
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cream shortening. Add sugar and beat thoroughly. Add honey. Separate eggs, beat yolks and add to mixture. Mix and sift all dry ingredients. Add ¼ cup of dry ingredients to nuts and add to cake mixture. Add remaining dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk and vanilla, beating between each addition. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into mixture. Place in well-greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45-50 minutes.

Clam Chowder.

½ cup carrot (chopped)
2 tablespoons onions (chopped)
1¼ cups potato (chopped)
¾ cup celery (chopped fine)
1 pint clams
2 cups water and clam liquor
Salt and pepper to taste
1 pint milk
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons parsley
½ teaspoon paprika

Chop the vegetables in small pieces and place in large kettle. Chop the clams and add together with the clam liquor, water, salt, and pepper. Cover and cook about ½ hour, or until vegetables are tender. Scald milk. Make a smooth paste of the flour and water. Add half of this flour paste to the clam mixture and half to the scalded milk. Cook each, stirring constantly, until the mixtures thicken. Combine and add butter, parsley, and paprika. Serve very hot.

Whipped Cream Fluff.
(Serves 5)

1 cup rice (cooked)
½ cup shredded pineapple
⅓ cup canned red cherries
1 dozen marshmallows (cut in pieces)
¼ cup sugar
½ cup whipping cream

Chill rice thoroughly. Then add fruit and marshmallows, and sprinkle lightly with sugar. Just before serving, fold in whipped cream. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Priced as You Go

In Hong Kong, Cantonese restaurants have different prices for different floors, the higher the floor the higher the price. The food is the same, but the roof garden level has the prettiest waitresses, best service, most tasteful surroundings, and real ivory chopsticks.

Whatever price you pay per pack, it's important to remember this fact: By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—CAMELS give a smoking plus equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK

CAMEL
I LIKE A MILD, COOL, LONG-BURNING CIGARETTE. THAT MEANS CAMELS

YES, there's not only extra pleasure in Camel's costlier tobaccos, but extra smoking, too, because Camels are long-burning. Recent impartial laboratory tests of 16 of the largest-selling brands confirm the superior burning quality of America's favorite cigarette. Here is a summary of the scientific test findings:

1 CAMELS were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

Camel's long-burning, costlier tobaccos also give you cooler, milder smoking...topped off with a superb aroma and delicate taste that have no equal. Get smoking pleasure at its best and more of it per pack in Camels, the quality cigarette every smoker can afford. Penny for penny, Camels are your best cigarette buy!

American Boy Magazine Companion To Thousands

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read The American Boy Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than a magazine.

"It is as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum", writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpfnl in sports. I made our basketball team because of playing tips I read in The American Boy.

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have founnd that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Boy sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

Linking the countryside with the nation's large consuming markets long distances away, is the indispensable railroad—so dependable day in and day out, in winter and in summer, that its almost perfect functioning is taken for granted.

Canadian Grain Rates

Railroads serving the wheat-producing states of the Northwest sometimes are charged with being unfair to the farmers because their grain rates are higher than those of the Canadian railroads.

Why is it that the Great Northern cannot carry grain for as low a rate as the Canadian lines?

The explanation is that the Canadian government paid its railroads—and continues to pay them—to carry wheat at lower rates.

Canada adopted this policy because the government regarded it as necessary to attract settlers to western Canada.

The Canadian government aided the construction of the privately-owned Canadian railroad by giving it $25,000,000 in cash, 25,000,000 acres of land, certain completed lines of railroad, and perpetual tax concessions.

Then, about forty years ago, the Canadian government made a contract with the railroad, granting additional cash subsidies and lands, and providing for a further reduction in grain rates.

And, of course, the government-owned Canadian railroad has maintained the same rates as the privately-owned system, but the huge annual deficit of the government road—$54,000,000 for the one year, 1938—is paid by the Canadian taxpayers!

The Great Northern, on the other hand, was built through the Dakotas and to the Pacific Coast without any assistance from the government of any kind—no cash subsidies—no land grants—no tax concessions.

For each mile of railroad the Great Northern operates, it is obliged to pay more than four times as much taxes as the Canadian lines:

TAXES PER MILE OF LINE

| | |
|---|---|
| Canadian Government-Owned System | $ 240 |
| Canadian Privately-Owned System - - | $ 255 |
| GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY - - - | $1,042 |

If the Great Northern's taxes last year had been reduced to the level of the Canadian railways, on condition that the difference be applied wholly to a reduction of wheat rates, farmers could have shipped their wheat at LESS THAN HALF RATES!

The Average Manufacturing Plant Of Minnesota Is Small

Many people think of industry in terms of great plants, towering smoke stacks and long lines of employees.

That is a misconception. In Minnesota, industry is small. Ninety-eight per cent of the industries of the state employ but an average of 15 wage earners. Plants employing fewer than 100 workers account for 40 per cent of the total manufacturing employment of the state.

In over 4,000 manufacturing establishments of Minnesota there are 203 which employ more than 100 wage earners.

In Minnesota the last available census returns show that there were but 12 plants employing more than 1,000 wage earners and these plants accounted for 17 per cent of the total number of wage earners of the state.

Industry, large or small, is of great value.

By and large, Minnesota industry is new in years, small in size and limited in resources. The vast majority of Minnesota industries are owned by those who operate them or are employed in them.

This information compiled by the Inter-Organization Committee for the retention and development of industry and business in Minnesota.

4-H Clubs News

The seventeen 4-H clubs who have been active in Marshall County during the past year will be holding their annual meetings this month in their various communities. These meetings mark the opening of the new 4-H club year. Officers for the coming year and the program of work will be outlined for the year. Old members as well as new members will have the opportunity to sign up this fall and get an early start on projects for next year.

It is quite a lot of advantage to get started early on many 4-H projects although it will be possible to join during the winter or early next spring. An early start in a project means that the members may start their work during this fall and during the winter months, that they will have more time to do better work, and that they will be able to take a more active part in their 4-H club. A start this fall, in projects such as cake or bread baking, clothing or thrift, canning or meal planning, will relieyd much of the strain in completeing projects for the county fair and achievement day next summer. Likewise it would be well to get baby beef projects underway during the winter, and get an early start with other livestock projects in the spring.

Most of the 4-H Clubs have become community affairs. In most instances they are holding their meetings right in the community and homes of families belonging to the organization. The clubs have proven of interest to every member or the family. No one is restricted from membership who is between ten and twenty years of age. There are no membership fees or dues in the organization as it is sponsored by farm people in cooperation with county and state agricultural extension service and the United States Department of Agricultnre.

The primary objectives of 4-H club work have been to develop and encourage worthwhile activities for young people on the farm, to build ideals and goals for farm boys and girls, and to develop young people physically and morally. In Marshall County the past year, 389 young people have carried on over 600 projects These young people have strived to do good work; they have learned how to assume some responsibility and have had an enjoyable time. The 4-H meetings have been community get-togethers.

There must be far more than 389 young people of 4-H club age on farms in Marshall County. The membership is welcome to anyone. Plans are underway for new clubs in communities where there have been none this past year. Watch for meeting dates of clubs in your communities, or if there is none get in touch with the county agent. An early start this fall provides an excellent opportunity to take advantage of everything the 4-H club offers during the year.

Demand Rising, Wont Run Away

Improved demand for farm products during the last quarter of the year—October, November December— is forecast by the U. S. Bureau of Agricnlture Economics on the basis of expansion in industrial activity and consumer incomes in recent months, accelerated now by war conditions.

Wm. H. Dankers, extension economist, University Farm, St. Paul, calls special attention, however, to the warning which the Bureau has issued to producers not to expect a "run-away" market, since supplies of practically all farm products are more than enough for current and prospective needs.

According to the Bureau, sustained improvement in farm prices will depend upon actual, not speculative, increases in domestic and foreign demand for farm products. Some of the iuitial war upsurge in commodity prices already has abated since it has become generally realized that supplies of most raw materials are ample and unused manufacturing capacities more than sufficient to take care of any likely near-term increase in consumer demand.

Harry Engen, owner of the Engen Garage here, closed a deal with a party in Thief River Falls in which he became owner of one of the large retail wood yards in that city. This week Mr. Engen purchased a quarter section of land in the Ringbo community from which he will get a supply of wood for his new business.

Several hundred farmers were in Holt on Wednesday to get their wheat allotment checks from the government. This was the payoff place for all of eastern part of the county.

Most of the sportsmen who went out after ducks on Sunday came back reporting a lot birds but poor hunting as the weather was clear and warm and the birds stayed high all day.

According to word received on Wedneseay Roy Grovum of Agdar Township got three Canadaian geese while out hunting and the Berg Bros. got two.

Robert Earl Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Johnson was baptised at his home Sunday afternoon, Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiating. His sponsons were: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lorentson and Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre. The officiating parties and Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Erickson and Mrs. Hj. Johnson and children were entertained for supper following the ceremony.

Alfred Simonson returned to Holt Saturday after spending about a year in New York.

Work on Parsonage Progressing

The excavation for the new basement under the parsonage was completed this week, the forms for the foundation have been built and it is expected that by the end of the week, much of the concrete will have been poured.

The men of the community are doing the work and have showed fine cooperation and interest in the work. Although the work is going on at a favorable rate, it is expected that it will take all of this month before it if fully completed.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been rainy. This week so far we have enjoyed warm and cloudy weather.

On Saturday afternoon the Carlson Mercantile Co. store here emerged from behind a false front with a brand new front and other repairs made to the building recently by R. M. Nyhus and J. O. Johnson. Mr. Johnson states that he is one of the carpenters who installed the first front in the building 28 years ago.

Mrs. Jesse Sorum, who has been a patient at Mercy hospital at Thief River Falls for almost six weeks suffering from complications after having pneumonia, is progressing nicely at this writing.

Men's Club To Meet

At the monthly meeting of the Men's Club at the Nazareth Lutheran Church which will be held on Tuesday, a film "Duck Hunting in Northern Minnesota" will be shown as part of the program. This film is made available through the courtesy of the Minnesota Tourist Bureau at St. Paul. Along with this, plans are in order for securing a speaker on a Conservation project which will augment the emphasis on Conservation at this meeting. The Program Committee is making all efforts to make this another interesting program so that a fine attendance may be on hand. Election of Secretary and Treasurer will take place at the business meeting to fill the places left vacant by Harold Nohre and Stilof Anderson. The men of the community are invited.

Basket Social

There will be a Basket Social and Dance at Sunnyside School, Dist, 59, on Saturday evening, Oct. 14 at 8 p. m. Everyone is cordially invited to come.
Miss Carlson, Teacher.

A Girl Scout Tropp was organized on Wednesday evening and 16 girls were present for the first meeting. They are under the able leadership of Miss Helen Ericson, who has taken special training in that type of work. Anyone wishing to join are welcome to do so.

Life Stage Contract
Mongolians Marked

As late as 1921, twelve hundred clergymen, representing fifteen denominations, met in Philadelphia to choose and promote a "moral gown for women." The creation finally selected was somber in color, sacklike in design and reached from the neck to the ground. The ladies were merely amused.

The longest term theatrical contracts made at the present time are those issued by the Comedie Francaise, the French national theater in Paris. An artist who becomes a member of this company is obliged to sign an agreement to remain for twenty years.

Russia Becomes New Factor In East European Diplomacy; Baltic, Balkan States Worry

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE WAR:
In the East

In 1916 the late Lord Balfour told his British cabinet brothers that "the more Russia is made a European rather than an Asiatic power, the better for everyone." His thesis: That Germany would then be forced to divert attention to the east.

Lord Balfour's wish came true in late September when Russia and Germany split Poland. (See Map), agricultural Russia getting more farm land which she doesn't need, and industrial Germany getting more manufacturing facilities which she doesn't need. But there was nothing to indicate this split-up pleased France and Britain, for Germany and Russia had become fast friends and were upsetting every applecart in eastern Europe.

Except for Warsaw's heroic resistance, the war in Poland was over. But there was plenty of other trouble. Pro-Nazi Iron Guardists in Rumania assassinated Premier Armand Calinescu and a reign of terror began as his successor executed hundreds of other Iron Guardists as an object lesson. Under similar conditions of internal strife, other nations (Austria and Czecho-Slovakia) had been invaded by Germany.

POLAND'S PARTITION
For each, more of the same.

While Germany turned her eyes westward, Russia closed the Neva river and thus stopped export of Finnish lumber to England (because cellulose, essential in gunpowder, comes from woodpulp). Next the Kremlin was host to a flock of visitors, including little Esthonia's Foreign Minister Karl Setler who found his nation under big Russia's thumb. Latvia and Lithuania also watched, because Russia covets the Baltic sea outlet which any of these three nations could give her. Another early arrival was Turkey's Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu, indicating increased Soviet sway over the Black sea. Yugo-Slavia and Hungary were rumored anxious to restore diplomatic relations, for the Kremlin was definitely in eastern Europe's saddle.

At Sea

After nearly a month of war, the score on losses stood at 29 British ships, one French, nine German and nine neutral. Scandinavian nations began suffering as two Swedish and two Finnish boats (both carrying woodpulp to England) were torpedoed by Germany. Miscellany at sea:

℄ The Polish liner Batory was placed in Canadian service as a munitions carrier.

℄ A U. S. Mediterranean destroyer, the Jacob Jones, saved a British steamer from submarine attack off Portugal.

℄ Germany announced sinking an unnamed British destroyer.

In the West

As a construction crew works harder when the boss is watching, so did Germany's army put its shoulder to the western front when Der Fuehrer and Col.-Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch arrived from Poland. Gone was the last chance for peace (See WAR OF WORDS) and the lethargic fighting of earlier weeks developed into serious warfare. Though French-English troops repulsed the Nazi sorties staged for Adolf Hitler's benefit, the real battle was yet to come when Germany's 70 divisions arrived from Poland. Seizing time by the forelock, British and French planes reportedly bombed the Friedrichshafen Zeppelin works and pounded their way right up to the main Siegfried line.

War of Words

Biggest revelation of the week was Britain's "blue book" on pre-war diplomacy, showing that Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson had been warned on August 16 that Russia would join the Reich in partitioning Poland. This disposed nicely of the Soviet excuse that she had marched to protect Poland's Ukrainians and White Russians.

Biggest propaganda news was the British announcement that Germany's "freedom" radio station was active again, urging people to desert Herr Hitler.

But the biggest word battle of all was found between Rome and London. To Bologna Fascist leaders, Dictator Mussolini pointed out that Poland was "liquidated" and that the justification for war was therefore ended.

Next day a British spokesman reiterated Prime Minister's earlier recitation of Britain's war aim: "To redeem Europe from the perpetual fear of German aggression." Il Duce's peace feeler had failed.

PAN AMERICA:
Job, Opportunity

Undiplomatic as happy kids who know a secret are U. S. business men who stand to profit from South American trade expansion during the European war. In late September, while 22 American nations met at Panama City to weld their friendship and neutrality, there was much bustling among tradesmen in New York and Washington.

The National Economic and Social Planning association said the U. S. stands to gain "tremendously" in Latin-American trade, but was wise enough to warn that expansion must proceed on the "basic principle that the only justifiable purpose . . . is to benefit all concerned." Next day American Express company's Lynde Selden announced his firm was opening a chain of Latin-American offices to help the U. S. in a boom trade he expected would reach nearly $300,000,000 a year.

Gone are the days of U. S. "dollar diplomacy" in Central and South America, a policy which reaped as much ill will as it did profits. But there is every indication that Europe's new war will indeed bring a trade boom, moreover that U. S. profits this time will be instigated just as solidly by our southern neighbors as "dollar diplomacy's" profits were instigated by American profiteers.

SUMNER WELLES AND WIFE
He bore no gifts.

This turning of tables was obvious at Panama City. First off, the conference talked about neutrality and a 300-mile defense network around the entire hemisphere, in which belligerent activities would be banned. But U. S. Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles drew just as much attention as neutrality. While long-hostile Argentina was negotiating a reciprocal trade treaty in Washington, Undersecretary Welles was kept busy explaining why his country could not arrange more financial aid like it recently extended to Haiti, Nicaragua, Paraguay and Brazil. Reason: Congress' failure to pass the lend-spend bill. Thus the Export-Import bank, which financed Brazil's recent purchase of 14 freighters, could not underwrite a similar bid from Chile.

Though he bore no gifts, Undersecretary Welles could go back home with a pretty good idea of the job and opportunity confronting the U. S. in Pan-America relations: To "carry" its economically strapped markets until world markets are restored to normal.

CONGRESS:
Neutrality

Strange bedfellows and cockeyed political combinations mingled with pleas for "an adjournment of politics" as congress got its teeth into Franklin Roosevelt's neutrality problem. The argument: Should the arms embargo (barring munition sales to belligerents) be replaced by "cash-and-carry," under which warring nations could buy and carry off (in their own ships) anything they wanted? A Gallup poll showed 57 per cent of the U. S. favored "cash-and-carry," but that didn't stop an argument. On the contrary, one kind of politics adjourned and another took its place. Incidents:

EDDIE RICKENBACKER

℄ Alf Landon, 1936 G. O. P. presidential nominee, told the New York Herald-Tribune that a third term denial would be Franklin Roosevelt's greatest contribution in the present emergency. The President (whose popularity has zoomed to 1936 heights) made no comment.

℄ A "Wisconsin-Palo Alto axis" was formed by isolationists and anti-repealists, embracing such peculiar chums as former President Herbert Hoover, former Wisconsin Gov. Philip LaFollette, Father Charles E. Coughlin, Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker and J. C. Hormel, Austin, Minn., meat packer. As his fellow aviator, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, had done the week before, Captain Rickenbacker made a radio talk. The "axis" named itself the Keep-Out-of-War committee.

℄ All Republican and one Democratic (Missouri's Bennett Champ Clark) members of the senate foreign relations committee were barred from a private session of that group called to draft a neutrality bill. This brought many sarcastic remarks about "adjourned politics."

At last a measure was submitted to the complete committee and seemed certain to reach the floor for heated debate. Not only would it provide "cash-and-carry" neutrality but it would placate presidential foes by requiring a majority of both houses for invocation. Another executive check: the munitions control board must report to congress on sales to belligerents each six months. Ninety-day credit was extended to belligerents. Other features: (1) Authorizing the President to designate combat zones and bar American ships and citizens from them; (2) prohibiting collection of funds for belligerents; (3) requiring belligerents to take title of goods before shipment.

The Wild Goose

By EDNA BARNES

(Associated Newspapers.)
WNU Service.

NAN WARREN was sweeping the back walk that late afternoon when she heard a faint honk coming from the air above her. Startled from an abstraction, she lifted her dark eyes to the wedge-shaped flight of wild fowl which was dimly defined against the autumnal grayness of the sky. One straggler labored far behind the procession.

"He won't get far, poor thing," she told herself.

Again came the sound of a honk, nearer this time. Nan sped toward the creek which marked the boundary of the premises. Peeping over the fence she saw a gray shape floating upon the icy water. The wild goose! Unable to fly farther, he had come down to rest.

A third honk, altogether different from the others, split the air. A car had driven into the yard and had stopped at the back door. Nan's stepson, George and his wife, Pearl, had returned from town.

"What are you doing down there by the creek in this cold?" Pearl demanded.

Nan flushed. "A wild goose came down—"

"A wild goose!" shouted George. "I'm going to get my gun and shoot him. Gosh, Pearl! Think of tasting wild goose again!"

Nan caught his arm. "Please, George, let him live. Don't harm him. He's just a tired old gander."

George flung off her restraining hands.

"Do you want that goose for your Sunday dinner, Pearl?" he asked.

"I sure do."

"That settles it." George dashed to the house. His gun stood just inside the door. It was loaded, for he had been hunting skunks the night before. He seized the shining, deadly thing, and, with it in his hand, ran toward the creek.

There was a crashing report from the direction of the creek. Nan put her hand to her throat. A moment later she heard Pearl cry out, "Good for you!" George was outside the window. He stood holding his limp trophy up against the pane for his wife to see.

Nan went into the dining-room and began to walk round and round the table she had set for supper.

Suddenly Nan could bear it no longer. She hurried up stairs to her room. It was a dear, warm little room, containing her most intimate personal belongings. Taking her suitcase from the closet she began to fill it with necessary articles culled from bureau drawers. When the suitcase was packed she dressed for a journey.

Her reappearance in the kitchen caused the young couple to exchange glances of alarm.

"Where are you going?" demanded Pearl.

"Say! Look here now," blustered George, "you're making too much fuss about nothing."

Nan laid a letter upon the table. "You can read that after I'm gone," she said quietly. "It's from your Aunt Libby, George—your father's sister. I got it today while you were gone. Libby wants me to come and live with her this winter. She's poorly. She sent me money for my ticket. I've decided to go, that's all."

It was past ten that night when Nan opened the door of a small shop on the main street of a lively town and surprised the shop-keeper, a gray-haired woman, who was getting ready to close up. The woman glanced at Nan as at a last customer, then her face glowed with surprise and pleasure.

"My sakes! Nan, I never expected to see you, leastways as soon as this?" she cried.

Libby Hale was cosily situated, Nan found. She had never been there before. Over a pot of tea and a plate of toast they sat down to talk.

"I've been wanting to send for you this long while," Libby said. "Ever since my husband died. I'm no great hand to run a shop. But, of course, my living is there. I suspect you know all about buying and selling, Nan. You worked in a store before you married my brother. Since I got poorly I've often thought it would be so nice if you could come here and help me. Doctor thinks I should go away and take a cure, and maybe I can now you've come. Anyway, I need you more than those young stepfolks of yours."

"Shouldn't wonder," Nan sighed. "But you know when a woman's widowed and childless she likes to feel somebody belongs to her. I hung on there partly on that account and partly because the house was as much my house as theirs. Your brother left it that way. He never dreamed that things would turn out so. You know, Sister Lib, I was getting too tired to keep up with the flock." She was unaware of Mrs. Hale's astonished gaze as she went on, a far-away look in her dark eyes. "I was obliged to see that if I ever came down to rest—like a wild goose does, you know, even though it was my own creek, I'd be—shot." Suddenly her face brightened. "I'm not so old, Libby. I don't feel old. Lots of folks at my age start over again. I'm going to take a try at it, anyway. As for storekeeping"—she laughed softly—"it comes just as easy to me as eating."

A Late Hour

Uncle Lige bought a clock, so tall that it was almost impossible to get it into the house. The old man was extremely proud of it, and found it very good company. He would lie awake nights to hear it tick.

One night the clock got out of order and began to strike. The old man awoke and counted one hundred and two. He promptly sat up in bed, and calling to his wife said: "Cynthy, get up, get up. It's later than I've ever known it to be."

'Hour Glass' Frocks Flatter Your Figure

EVEN house dresses must flatter your figure this fall—like No. 1822, cleverly dart-fitted at the waistline. It's really pretty enough to make up in street materials as well as in household cottons like gingham, calico and percale. Deep armholes and beltless waistline make it supremely comfortable to work in. As you see from the diagram, it's so easy to make that you can finish it in a day.

So Feminine and Charming.

Here's a grand double value, in No. 1827, that gives you a dress, with two-way neckline, in the seductive new silhouette, and, besides, a flaring, frill-edged petticoat! The flare-skirted dress, with broad shoulders and a waistline slimmed in by side sash belts, can be made either with the youthful collar and cuffs, or with a plain round neckline. You'll love it both ways. For this, choose taffeta, wool crepe, flat crepe or faille.

The Patterns.

No. 1822 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4⅜ yards of 35-inch material. Two yards of trimming.

No. 1827 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 4⅓ yards of 39-inch material with short sleeves; 4⅔ yards with long sleeves; ⅝ yard for contrasting collar and cuffs; 2 yards of braid. Size 14 requires 1¾ yards of 39-inch material for petticoat, with 2½ yards of pleating.

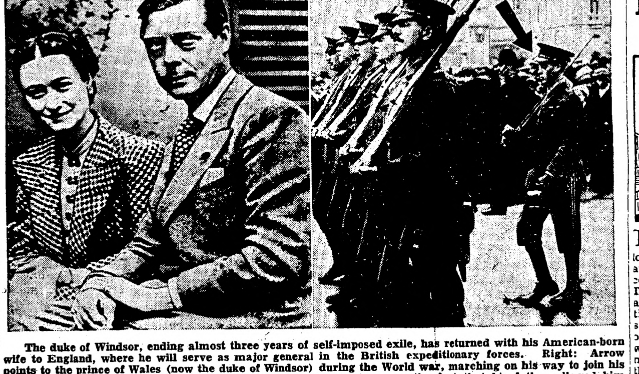
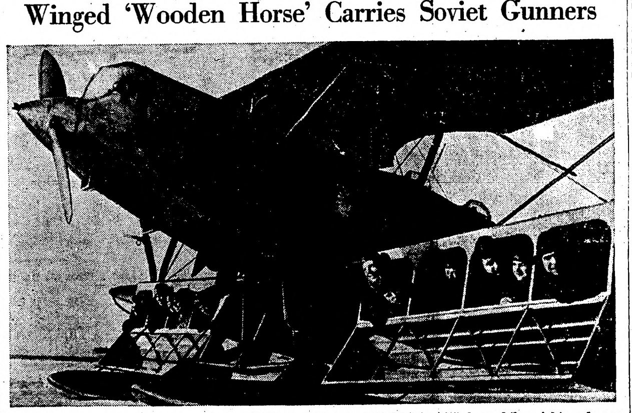
Windsor Returns to England—Again in Uniform



The duke of Windsor, ending almost three years of self-imposed exile, has returned with his American-born wife to England, where he will serve as major general in the British expeditionary forces. Right: Arrow points to the prince of Wales (now the duke of Windsor) during the World war, marching on his way to join his father, King George, in France. The youthful prince was elated over the fact that his father allowed him to join the expeditionary forces.

Winged 'Wooden Horse' Carries Soviet Gunners



The wooden horse of Troy has a modern counterpart in this military transport plane of the mighty red army of Soviet Russia. Carrying 16 men armed with machine guns in wing compartments, these planes fly to a point behind enemy lines, where the gunners are dropped by parachute. A fleet of these planes can land a sizable army in a very short time.

U. S. Gunners Bolster Canal Defenses

Anti-aircraft troops of the Sixty-second coast artillery on board the army tug "Major Normoyle" on the first leg of their trip to the Panama Canal Zone, where they will bolster this country's defenses. The troops later transferred to a U. S. army transport off the Brooklyn army-base.

Bottle Babies Thrive on Milk Diet

These bottle-fed babies are perfectly content with a diet of milk, rolled oats and corn syrup. Captured in their Nevada homeland four months ago, the antelopes were turned over to the Washington state game department and are being kept on a secluded ranch near Portland. The black spots on their heads are the beginning of antlers.

Fatherly Advice

Professing himself ready to fight as his father did 21 years ago, Alvin C. York Jr. wants to join the navy. Sergeant York, who captured a German machine gun company single-handed during the World war, is showing his old tunic to Junior. The sergeant thinks the boy's place is in the infantry, however. "The time to hit," young York declared, "is while the hittin's good."

At long last war has succeeded in getting into milady's hair. Here is a coiffure decorated with air craft and cannon decorations in silver. It was demonstrated at a New York hairdressers' convention.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

THE first curtains of this kind I ever saw were made of the long pieces of good material left at each side of a sheet after the center part had begun to wear. These were dipped in dye to make a soft cream color for the foundation part of the curtains. Wide stripes of gingham and narrow ones of prepared bias trimming were then stitched in place to make stripes. The chart shows the colors that were used and gives the widths and spacing of the stripes.

Of course, you will have some ideas of your own about the stripes and colors. Perhaps you can copy the color scheme of the rug in the room or the wall paper. Or colors in a picture may offer a suggestion for colors for the whole room.

Whatever the materials used you will have fun planning the stripes.

In case you should want to use short lengths of goods for the foundation part of the curtains, stitch these together with the seam on the right side; then place a stripe over the joining.

There are 32 other homemaking ideas in the booklet which Mrs. Spears has just prepared for our readers. All directions are clearly illustrated. You will be delighted to own one of these new booklets. Enclose 10 cents in coin with name and address, to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill., and booklet will be postpaid by return mail.

Hope and Fate

"What we call hope is at first aggressive," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "and then becomes a patient expectation that fate will permit a few of our fears to subside."

American Boy Magazine Companion To Thousands

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read The American Boy Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than a magazine.

"It is as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum", writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpfnl in sports. I made our basketball team because of playing tips I read in The American Boy.

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have founnd that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Boy sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

A Ghostly Frolic For HALLOWE'EN

HALLOWE'EN parties rate a bit of additional time spent in planning them. Not many of us have the time to spend collecting woodland leaves, hollowing out dozens of pumpkins and doing the things which made Hallowe'en parties of years ago such momentous events. But let's see what can be done with a few yards of black and white cloth toward giving a smart silhouette Hallowe'en party.

Get Out Scissors And Ideas

Cut out masks for your invitations, using black cloth. Attach to the tie-around cords of the mask a white tag on which is lettered:

Heigh-ho—it's Hallowe'en
Don this mask, or you'll be seen.
Sneak around to our back door
When you come, we'll tell you more.

Place a black cardboard shade over a white light at your back door and be ready to greet your guests. Previously cut white cloth into as many ghost-shrouds as you have guests, and when each black mask appears at the door slip the wearer a white shroud. Pinned to each shroud is an envelope labeled PRIVATE TO YOU. On a piece of paper inside each envelope instruct each person as to whose ghost he represents. Use ghosts of living prominent persons—George Bernard Shaw, Joan Bennett, Hitler, Mussolini, or whomever you choose.

Guess Who!

After the ghosts have mingled in the living-room for a half hour or so, let each person write their guesses as to the various identities. The person making the most correct guesses receives a prize—book of good ghost stories.

Then, masks off—and on to the feast, which incidentally is also a black and white affair and very delicious. The recipes serve eight persons.

SILHOUETTE HALLOWE'EN MENU

Caviar Stuffed Celery Hearts
Ripe Olives
Chicken, Sweetbread and Pineapple Salad
Cloverleaf Rolls
Lemon Milk Sherbet
Devil's Food Cup Cakes with White Icing
Vanilla Popcorn Balls
Chocolate and White Mints
Black Coffee

Caviar Stuffed Celery Hearts: Choose small tender hearts of celery and have them crisp and very cold. Keep a can of caviar on ice for at least three hours before using. Then season it with lemon juice and cayenne, and stuff the celery with it. Serve on white paper doilies on black plates, or black paper doilies on white plates.

Chicken, Sweetbread and Pineapple Salad: Dice the contents of one 12-ounce can of chicken and add one cup of cold diced sweetbreads, one-half cup of halved and seeded white grapes and one cup of canned pineapple tidbits which have been drained. Season to taste with salt and white pepper, and moisten with cream mayonnaise. Serve very cold in lettuce cups.

Lemon Milk Sherbet: Scald together the contents of one 1-pound can of evaporated milk, one and one-fourth cups water, one cup cream and two cups sugar. Chill thoroughly. Beat one egg well, add three-fourths cup lemon juice and add slowly to the milk. Freeze immediately. This serves eight.

Reduced School Levy

The October meeting of the Board of Education of the Holt Consolidated School District was devoted almost entirely to discussion of finances of the district. It is of note that the financial situation of the district has improved during the past few years. The receipts have increased so as to have resulted into a larger surplus each year. For example it might be pointed out that with almost equal expenditures the surplus has been as follows: 1934-35, $444.85; 1935-36, $77.14; 1936-37, $1640.00; 1937-38, $3336.69; 1938-39, $2680.16.

The bonded indeptedness has been reduced from $27,000 to $25,209 within the last three years. The board voted to retire two $500.00 bonds on the payment date of December 1; thus reducing the indebtedness to $24,500.

In view of the financial situation, $2200.00 was voted as current levy. This is a considerable reduction from the past levy of $3200.00. It is hoped that this reduction will result in a lighter tax burden in our district. On the other hand it may be well to keep in mind that an increase in the county and state rate may nullify the efforts of the local board of education.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Olson and sons moved here recently from Felton, Minn. unto what is known as the Atwood farm. Mr. Olson called at the News office to subscribe to the paper as he wishes to become acquainted with affairs of the community. Mrs. Carl Vogen from the Mud Lake Game Preserve visited Mrs. C. A. Larson Tuesday evening.

The Average Manufacturing Plant Of Minnesota Is Small

Many people think of industry in terms of great plants, towering smoke stacks and long lines of employees.

That is a misconception. In Minnesota, industry is small. Ninety-eight per cent of the industries of the state employ but an average of 15 wage earners. Plants employing fewer than 100 workers account for 40 per cent of the total manufacturing employment of the state.

In over 4,000 manufacturing establishments of Minnesota there are 203 which employ more than 100 wage earners.

In Minnesota the last available census returns show that there were but 12 plants employing more than 1,000 wage earners and these plants accounted for 17 per cent of the total number of wage earners of the state.

Industry, large or small, is of great value.

By and large, Minnesota industry is new in years, small in size and limited in resources. The vast majority of Minnesota industries are owned by those who operate them or are employed in them.

This information compiled by the Inter-Organization Committee for the retention and development of Industry and business in Minnesota.

Rev. Ordahl Passed Away

In a beautiful hillside cemetery on the prairies of eastern North Dakota were placed the earthly remains of the late beloved Rev. M. B. Ordahl by his relatives and friends on Monday afternoon, October 6th. The community was shocked to learn on Saturday that the former pastor of Nazareth Lutheran Church and associated congregations had passed to his eternal reward on Friday morning as a result of a heart attack.

Mathias Borreson Ordahl was born on Nov. 52, 1874 at Gloppen Nordfjord, Norway of parents Borre Daniel Ordahl aud Inger Gaasmyr. He was baptized and confirmed in the home church. In 1890 he emigrated from the homeland and came to his uncle at Benson, Minn. Here he attended the Hume Academy in the years 1897-1899. He received his high school education at Glenwood Academy, Glenwood during the years 1899-1901. In the year 1902, he taught in the schools at Fairfield, Minnesota. The following years 1903-1905, he continued his education at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa. In the year 1905, he enrolled at Luther Theological Semirary, St. Paul, to prepare himself for his life's work, the holy ministry. From this institution he was graduated in May, 1908. On July 19, 1908, he was ordained into the ministry of the Lutheran Church by the late Dr. H. G. Stub, having been called to serve a large Home Mission field in and near Holt. Here he labored for 18 years under the most hazardous conditions of the pioneer pastors preaching the Word of God with the courage, boldness, sincereity and truthfulness as that of the Apostolic preachers.

During the years here he served 15 congregations and preaching places at one time or another. Rev. Ordahl resigned from this field in 1926 when he received a Call from the Binford, Sutton and Glenfield congregations in North Dakota. This Call he accepted and was installed by the Rev. David Stoeve on Jan. 1, 1927. This call he served for 8 years and during that time, he also served temporarily the Pekin and McHenry charges. While serving there, his health began to fail in that a heart ailment developed and caused a stroke in the summer of 1934. In the fall of the same year, he suffered from another stroke which left him incapable of continuing in the active service of the ministry Recognizing the incapability to serve in his position, he resigned as pastor in June 1935.

Rev. Ordahl was united in marriage to Miss Inga Marie Gunderson of Minneapolis on June 20, 1911: Surviving him are his wife and 7 daughters. Mrs. Henry G. Hendrickson (Hildred) Mrs. Arthur C. Anderson (Volborg) Esther, Florence, Dagny, Myrtle and Evangeline. He is also survived by one brother in Norway.

Funeral services were conducted at the Glenfield Lutheran Church, Glenfield, No. Dak. on Monday, Nov. 9 at 3 p. m. with Dr. P. H. Holm-Jenson of Cooperstown officiating. He was assisted by Rev. V. E. Boe of Finley. Rev. R. C. Overgaard of McHenry and Rev. T. C. L. Hanson of Holt. The pastors of the Cooperstown Circuit and Rev. Hanson served as active and honorary pall bearers. The large church where the funeral was held was so crowded that it was not even possible to stand on the entrance steps testifying to the many friends who mourn him. As a further testimony of the esteem held by his friends, there was a wealth or floral offerings and In Memoriam gifts reached near the $75 mark.

In the obituary read at the funeral, the family paid this respect to their loving husband, father and father-in-law: "He has been a loving and understanding husband and father with a friendly disposition and strong convictions guided by his firm faith in his Risen Lord." This will be a lasting memory and a source of strength to the family he leaves behind. These parting words of our Savior to His diciples come as a comforting message today, "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me." John 14.1.

As one looks back upon the faithful service of Rev. Ordahl, one admires the sincerity and conviction in which he preached the Word of God. He labored at a time when the country was being settled and suffered many things with his parishioners. The world offered him very little. He knew poverty, insecurity and sickness. Still with all this, he was always satisfied and content and never a word of bitterness. As his labors and struggles are now over, his former parishoners and friends all speak this benediction over his life: "His Lord said unto him, Well done thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful, over a few things, I will make thee ruler ver many things: Enter thou into the joy of the Lord"

Blessed be his Memory!

Men's Club

Mr. Vogen, of the Mud Lake Game Preserve, spoke on the "History of Wild Life in America" Tuesday evening at the Men's Club, and showed a thoro knowledge of the subject. Rev. Hanson showed several reels of moving pictures. Mr. E. Kaufert was elected secretary and Mr. Alton Carlson treasurer to fill the vacancies left by Harold Nohre and Stilaf Anderson.

Attendance at the meeting was good and the program enjoyed by all. Lunch was served by Wm. Holst, Fred Stienhauer and Geo. Karvonen.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson and Guy Anderson attended the funeral of the late Rev. M. B. Ordahl at Glenfield, No. Dak. on Monday Others from a nearby commuinty in attendance were Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Sabo of Mavie and Gelia Fosholm and Halvor Fodstad of Silverton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Breden and Mr. and Mrs. H. Wahlin and family of Maple Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Julius Borchert of Mentor and Rev. Hanson were supper guests at the G. Sanoden home Sunday.

Infants Baptized

Robert Fredrick Nyval, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nyval and Allen Dale Stienhauer, infant son of M. and Mrs. Adolph Stienhauer, were baptized on Sunday afternoon at the home of the former's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stienhauer, with Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiating. Robert Fredrick was born on Aug. 23, 1939 and his sponsors were his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Voth. Allen Dale was born on June 28, 1939 and his sponsors were Ronald Sculthurp and Lawrence Lubitz. Following the ceremony the officiating parties and other relatives and friends were served a buffet supper by Mrs. Fred Stienhauer.

Baker-Klungness

Miss Lorraine Gladys Baker and Mr. Joseph E. Klungness were married at the parsonage on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 7th with Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiating. Their attendants were Miss Mary Sampson and George Baker. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Baker of Agdar and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Klungness also of Agdar. They will make their home on the Klungness farm.

Mr. and Mrs. W. McMurray of Eugene, Oregon, came last week for a visit with relatives.

Stored Duck Law

Hunters and other possessors of ducks who place the birds in storage in butchershops or other cold storage plants, run the risk of having them seized by game wardens unless clearly identified according to a warning issued by E. R. Starkweather, acting director of game and fish in the department of conservation.

Under the law, it is the duty of wardens to seize all hunted game birds found without identification sufficient to support a presumption of legal possession, Mr. Starkweather pointed out. He, therefore, suggested that stored birds carry the name of the owner, address and hunting license number, or in case the birds are a gift, the name, address and license number of the doner.

Selma Saustad and George Sauderbrey of St. Paul, Mrs. Clarence Doran and Patty of Grygla, and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Saastad were guests at a turkey supper at the Fred Peterson home Saturday evening.

Shadow Social

There will be a Shadow Social at the Busy Bee School, Dist. 137, on Saturday night, Oct. 14. Ladies bring your shadow and lunch for two. Everybody welcome.

Gay Aprons From Unbleached Muslin

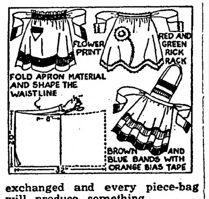
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Every one who has ever lived in the country knows the possibilities of unbleached muslin. The source of supply there is flour and food sacks but even purchased by the yard it is an inexpensive, sturdy material for aprons and many other things.

If you have friends who share your enthusiasm for interesting aprons, plan and cut them in a group; then trimmings may be exchanged and every piece-bag will produce something.



FLOWER PRINT
RED AND GREEN RICK RACK
FOLD APRON MATERIAL AND SHAPE THE WAISTLINE
BROWN AND BLUE BANDS WITH ORANGE BIAS TAPE

The diagram shown here gives you cutting dimensions for the skirt part of a plain little apron and shows how to shape the waistline. Belts for the bibless type are rather wide now—two or two and a half inches finished. Ties are generally 4-inches wide and as long as you like. Now, do be daring when you come to pockets or adding a bib. Try an idea of your own. These gay unbleached muslin aprons are just suggestions to get you started.

Living by Spurts

THERE are people who do their work in the world evenly, steadily, quietly. They get up in the morning knowing that the day has its appointed task, which must be done. They dispose of the task with serene exactitude.

The next day brings another, and the next another; each is performed in the same spirit. There is competence, accuracy, but no excitement, no enthusiasm, and likewise there is no discouragement or despondency. Such persons take work and play, as they take sleeping and eating, as part of the routine of life.

Other people live and move by spurts. Everything with them is a matter of zeal and passion. There are days when their daily labor takes on a glory. They see rich possibilities in it of achievement and distinction. They throw themselves into it entirely; they see new openings for effort, and take advantage of them, build large and splendid edifices of hope and confidence and call upon every resource of their spirits to realize them.

Then come days of reaction. Perhaps there is a physical element to consider. At any rate, the spurt collapses. If there is character behind it, the man goes on working somehow, gets his daily task done; but there is no passion in it, and very little hope. Such lives are made up of alternations of enthusiasm and despair.

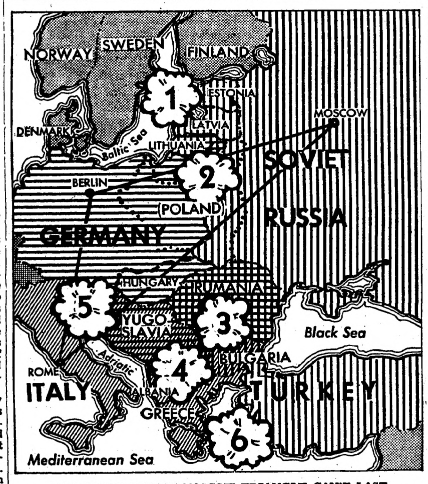
'Sphere of Interest' Division Produces Clash of Ambitions In Baltic and Balkan Sectors

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.



WHY ROME-BERLIN-MOSCOW TRIANGLE CAN'T LAST

Map shows European sphere-of-influence division and resultant conflicts. Numbered explosions show probable sites of conflict between "triangle" members:

ONE—Baltic sea, long an exclusively German area, becomes a Russian sea following tiny Estonia's capitulation to Moscow. Russia thus becomes naval threat to Reich.

TWO—Russ, Nazi interests and nationalities clash here; Lithuania falls in both spheres of influence.

THREE—Rumania in German sphere, yet Russia will probably force partial dismemberment by demanding return of Bessarabia and cession of south portion to Bulgaria. Rumania also essential to Russ "Black sea pact."

FIVE—Italian, German spheres clash in Yugo-Slavia, which each seeks to dominate. Italy fears German victory would make her a Mediterranean power, thus threatening Mussolini's domination there. Italy further sees herself left in the cold by Russ-Nazi division of Eastern Europe.

SIX—Turkey, in Russian sphere, is foe of Italy, since that nation covets Turkey's Dodecanese islands.

THE WAR:

Diplomatic Front

As September died, U. S. correspondents visiting Germany's Siegfried line found idyllic peace (see WESTERN FRONT). The war was being fought elsewhere, in London, Berlin and Paris, but chiefly in Moscow where Dictator Josef Stalin was teaching Adolf Hitler the danger of playing with fire. Signed by the Nazi-Soviet second men, Foreign Ministers Joachim von Ribbentrop and Viacheslav Molotov were treaties (1) pledging "necessary measures" if Britain and France refused Adolf Hitler's peace, (2) partitioning Poland to give the Reich a bigger slice than under the original military demarcation, and (3) stimulating trade between the two nations.

Joachim von Ribbentrop returned to Berlin in high spirits, handing Boss Hitler the weapon of Russian co-operation with which he hoped to force peace upon the allies. But Herr Von Ribbentrop had paid dearly for this weapon, and the allies were not entirely displeased. The price had been extension of Russian influence into Baltic and Balkan lands to which Berlin once held clear title. Moreover Von Ribbentrop had signed away Italy's title to Balkan domination, apparently without consulting Signor Mussolini.

RIBBENTROP

Russian gains were many: She took over Estonia, thereby becoming a Baltic naval power. She extended sway over Latvia and barked at little Lithuania's door, where Hitler has long been kingpin. She got Poland's oil and wheatfields, looked hungrily at Hitler's Rumania, made a pact with Bulgaria and another with Turkey.

The allies were pleased for several reasons. First: The entire sphere-of-influence was such a hopeless jumble of mixed nationalities and conflicting ambitions that a blowup was considered inevitable. Second: Two ambitious and ruthless dictators, once isolated from each other, now worked side-by-side with no buffer state between them to absorb the shock. Third: Russia could not be expected to give the Reich much immediate economic help, because her own mobilized armies require first attention. Moreover, Polish oil wells had been rendered unproductive for a year.

Western Front

The allies prepared for a mighty Nazi offensive when they refused Hitler's peace, but for the moment all was quiet. A. P.'s Louis Lochner and U. P.'s Frederick C. Oechsner visited the Siegfried line, finding French and Nazi troops fishing, washing clothes and whittling. But in the Saar sector the French continued to advance, while overhead there was occasional fierce fighting.

Aerial Front

Conflicts between planes brought conflicting reports. London admitted some planes "have not yet returned" from a raid over Helgoland's German sea base in the North sea, and Berlin reported five of the six raiders were shot down. Two days later London told of a miracle: Over the western front, a five-plane British reconnaissance squadron was allegedly attacked by 15 German fighters. Three British ships were shot down, a fourth forced to land, but the fifth "flew on to finish the job," shot down two Nazi planes and forced the remaining 13 to flee because they were "shaken by the steady and accurate fire" of the lone British plane.

Naval Front

Three Norwegian steamships were sunk by Germany in one day; next day the Reich seized three Danish vessels. Apparent reason: Germany has decided everything is contraband of war, which U. S. cash-and-carry advocates maintained was good reason American ships should stay out of belligerent waters.

War Miscellany

¶ Poles in France, planning a strong army, appealed to U. S. Poles to come abroad and fight.

¶ Experts figured Europe is spending $61,000,000 of the world's wealth on war each day.

¶ In London, Britain called 250,000 more men to the colors, including all men between 20 and 22, with exceptions.

AGRICULTURE:

Profit

Signed last June 23 was a U. S.-British barter treaty with dual purposes: (1) to deplete surplus U. S. cotton and British rubber holdings, and (2) to build up for each nation a supply of strategic war materials which must be held in reserve for seven years unless either goes to war. By early October it looked like the god of war had netted Uncle Sam a $20,000,000 profit on his deal.

Reason: When the pact was signed quantities of rubber and cotton involved had about an even value on the world market. But a month of Europe's conflict forced highly important rubber up some 30 per cent, from 15.48 cents to 21 cents a pound. Meanwhile cotton declined from 9.58 to 8.85 cents a pound.

With first cotton shipments to Britain underway from new Orleans, U. S. boats prepared to pick up the first consignment of British rubber at Singapore on October 15.

NEWS QUIZ

Know your news? Answer all the following and your score is 100. Deduct 20 from each question you miss. Any score above 60 is good:

1. Choice: Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz is (a) the mayor of Warsaw who led that city's heroic defense; (b) the president of Poland; (c) an Indo-China sea captain who refuses to wear shoes.

2. What high American dignitary of the Roman Catholic church died recently?

3. Ernest Simpson is the former husband of the duchess of Windsor (nee, Wallis Warfield). Why was Ernest Simpson recently in the news?

4. Does the average American fear an invasion of the U. S. by Germany if the allies are defeated?

5. If it weren't for the European war, you'd hear a lot about Changsha. Where is it, who covets it, and who cares?

(Answers at bottom of column.)

DOMESTIC:

Congress

Simple enough in early phases of neutrality discussion was the proposition of lifting the arms embargo, restricting U. S. ships from belligerent zones and holding belligerent credits to 90 days. But when hair-splitting starts, it is hard to stop. As congress opened debate on the issue, administration forces claimed 65 senators (16 better than a majority) favoring cash and carry neutrality. But many an administration supporter soon found himself just as bellicose as Isolationists Nye, Borah and Lundeen.

Typical was Colorado's Edwin C. Johnson. Though he favored lifting the embargo, the 90-day credit clause stuck in his throat: "There is nothing to keep an individual in a belligerent country from buying in large quantities and turning the goods over to the government." Thus he and many another senator wanted 90-day restrictions enforced against not only the warring nations but their residents as well.

At least two more issues threatened to split repeal backers:

(1) The clause imposing jail sentences on Americans traveling in forbidden combat areas. Said Senator Johnson's fellow Coloradoan, Alva Adams: "For years we've been trying to preserve the rights of our citizens, and now we propose to make felons out of them when they try to exercise their rights."

COLORADO'S JOHNSON
He was for and against.

(2) The clause empowering the President to designate combat areas in which American ships could not travel. Presumably this meant U. S. ships must not only avoid Baltic, North and Mediterranean seas, but must also steer clear of Australia, New Zealand, Britain's Caribbean possessions, and even Canadian ports. Unless modified, it meant U. S. merchant ships must not only limit themselves largely to western hemisphere routes, but must even then watch their p's and q's.

Repercussions

¶ In New York, George A. Sloan of the Consumer Goods Industries committee announced manufacturers were avoiding boosts in their selling prices so long as possible, despite price advances in raw materials.

¶ In Cincinnati, delegates to A. F. of L's fifty-ninth convention heard a plea that the U. S. offer its "mediation services for world peace." Incidentally, A. F. of L. reported 4,006,354 paid members, only 72,386 short of 1930's all-time high despite interference from C. I. O.

¶ In Michigan, political prophets wondered how his anti-repeal stand on the present neutrality law would help or hurt Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, current No. 1 possibility for 1940's G. O. P. presidential nomination. If he wins, the prophets think his nomination is in the bag.

¶ In Gearhart, Ore., Assistant Attorney Gen. Thurman W. Arnold told the Oregon Bar association that wartime trade conditions are no excuse for ignoring the anti-trust laws.

News Quiz Answers

1. (B) is correct. Raczkiewicz was named president of the exile Polish regime to succeed Ignace Moscicki, who resigned and interned in Rumania.
2. George Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago.
3. Ernest Simpson's wife gave birth to a son.
4. Yes. According to a Gallup poll, 64 per cent of the U. S. has this fear.
5. Changsha is in China, newest objective of invading Japanese army, being defended by Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's army.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—The aged president of Poland, Ignaz Moscicki, put an air-conditioning system in his old plush-draped Baroque palace three years ago. A scientist, a devout believer in the benign miracles of the laboratory which will some day transform a tragically afflicted world, he devised the system himself and superintended its installation. It turned heavy, sluggish air into cool mountain breezes, and gave him new energy for his continuing scientific work, at the age of 70.

Moscicki Looks To Science to Cure Ill World

Perhaps the falling leaves give poignancy and sadness to the fate of this kindly old gentleman, driven from his country in the up-thrust of the new—or possibly the old—savagery of Europe.

One might write off Josef Beck and Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, political and military careerists, also exiled, as incidental casualties, caught in the backwash of their own ambitions. President Moscicki, although merely a symbol in feudal Poland, may find a place in the later balance brought forward. If there is to be a new dark age, it may be that laboratories will be the monasteries which will be the havens of the humane spirit and the aspiring intelligence, as were the monastic refuges of the Middle ages.

He is one of the greatest electrochemists in Europe, ranked with the great German, Haber. In the field of synthetic chemistry, he holds about 300 patents. He was a college professor for many years, tall and thin with white hair and a spiked moustache, as convinced as was Woodrow Wilson that a "new freedom" could be gained by the mobilization of planetary intelligence and good will. Much in the manner of our own distinguished Dr. Robert Andrews Millikan, he acclaimed the ultimate triumph of science over hate and stupidity. To date, the good genii which they have summoned are enslaved by men of lesser understanding.

◆

DR. JUAN DEMOSTHENES AROSEMENA, president of the Republic of Panama, is, in spite of his middle name, a practical man, cautious in speech and action. As the keynoter for the inter-American conference of foreign ministers at Panama, he sharply assails totalitarianism and religious and racial persecution and invokes unity of the American republics in the spirit of constructive isolation for which our state department is proselyting just now.

Panama Chief Talks American Unity, Isolation

Dr. Arosemena, a realistic veteran of Panamanian politics, has, in the past, accepted our "good neighbor" policy on grounds of enlightened self-interest. He has been keenly aware that the Canal Zone might be a major trouble spot, if war comes this way, and, recently, discussing its defense, he said, "If they start shooting up the canal, they'll be shooting at us, too, and that's why we want to help defend it."

He was foreign minister of Panama from 1929 to 1936, elected president in the latter year, and in years past has been sharply opposed to the United States on various issues. In the presidency, he has inclined much more in our direction. He is friendly and genial, rather in the cut of an enterprising business man. In the 1938 Lima convention, he joined the Brazilian delegation in accepting the Roosevelt overtures for friendship and unity.

◆

THIS writer has heard several expressions of astonishment over the eagerness of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller to fight for Nazi Germany. It was only last June that the churches of democratic countries throughout the world proclaimed him "the first Christian martyr of modern times" and set aside a Sunday for commemoration of his heroism. The submarine commander of the World war, having become a great evangelical pastor in Berlin, had led the nonconformists in opposition to Nazi seizure of control of religion, and had gone to a concentration camp.

Freedom, Like Peace, Perhaps Is Indivisible

The explanation of his backsliding as a martyr may be found in the records of his earlier career. He was an early and zealous ally of Hitler and his brown shirts, aiding in stamping out freedom, complacent in the face of pogroms and the wreck of all civil liberties, resistant only when his church was assailed.

Apple Fritters. — Pare several apples, slice them, sprinkle the slices with sugar and allow them to stand in a cold place for an hour. Meanwhile, make a batter from one cup flour, two beaten eggs, one-half cup milk, one grated lemon rind, two tablespoons sugar and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Dip the cold apple slices in the batter and fry in deep fat. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve.

ACID INDIGESTION?

Winona, Minn. — Mrs. Jake Overing, 671 E. 10th St., says: "Everything seemed to turn to gas in my stomach. There was a bitter taste in my mouth. Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

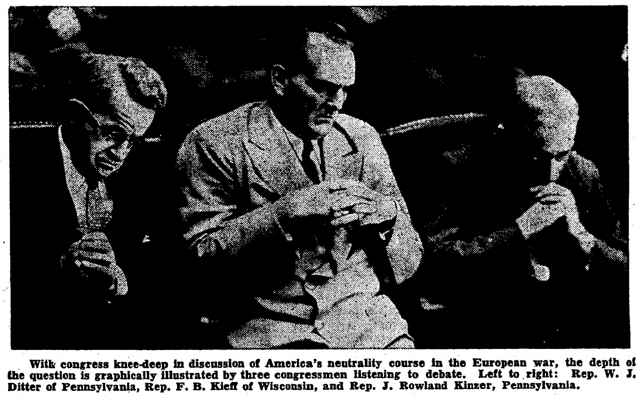
Neutrality Looks Like a Ponderous Question



With congress knee-deep in discussion of America's neutrality course in the European war, the depth of the question is graphically illustrated by three congressmen listening to debate. Left to right: Rep. W. J. Ditter of Pennsylvania, Rep. F. B. Kieff of Wisconsin, and Rep. J. Rowland Kinzer, Pennsylvania.

Sobriety and Fun Mingle at Legion Conclave

"Keep America out of the war" was the warning sounded by speakers at the American Legion's twenty-first convention in Chicago. Left: Retiring Commander Stephen Chadwick greets Henry Ford, auto magnate, who was among notables at the session. Right: The Legion had fun, too. Man Mountain Dean, former wrestler and a member of the Buford, Ga., post, had little success as sergeant-at-arms.

Jumps 190-Foot Span; Hurt Later

It wasn't the 190-foot leap from San Francisco's Golden Gate bridge that hurt Charles Delps, St. Paul high diver. He injured his shin on a rock while swimming ashore. His wife, Lillian, scolds him at a San Francisco hospital.

Duke Steps Out

In full kit of an English major general, the once-exiled duke of Windsor leaves the London war office en route to the French battle front. Observers noticed the duke preserved his distinctive dress even in wartime, wearing non-regulation shoes.

Soviet, Germany Split Polish Loot

Map shows the latest partition of Poland, with areas going to both Germany and Russia. The Reich got the smaller and richer part but Russia got more land to provide a 50-50 break. Observers also noticed that industrialized Germany got more industrial property, which she does not need, and that Russia received agricultural land of which she already has too much. The San and Vistula rivers form a major portion of the all "water" boundary, which cuts through the suburbs of Warsaw, ancient Polish capital, and gives Russia such important cities as Lwow, Brest-Litovsk and Wilno, historic Lithuanian city which Poland captured shortly after the World war.

Comely 'Refugee'

Wilma Birth of Chicago was among the prettiest American refugees arriving from war-torn Europe aboard the S. S. Volendam, a Dutch vessel.

Adam's Day
Slow in Anger
Spotted Aristocrats

The world's 250,000,000 Moslems observe Friday as their Sabbath because, according to Mohammed, this was the day Adam was created, the day he entered and was also expelled from Paradise, the day of his repentance, the day of his death and the day he will be resurrected.

Chameleons are "slow-motion" fighters. When two enemies start a battle, many minutes, even hours, pass between each thrust and parry. Sometimes the only way that one can tell a fight is in progress is by the color of their skins, which have turned black with rage.

Increasing age diminishes attendance at the movies to an astonishing degree. Surveys indicate that the number who no longer attend increases from 50 per cent at the age of forty to 75 per cent at sixty to 98 per cent at eighty.

Although about nine thousand members of Britain's aristocracy and sporting world are admitted to the Royal Enclosure at Ascot, England, at each meeting, thousands are excluded because they are in bankruptcy, involved in a divorce, owe too much money to a bookmaker or have not been presented at a royal court.—Collier's.

Name Changes

Siam is the latest country to change its name. It is now to be known as Muang-Thai, the land of the free.

Towns sometimes change their names, too. Comparing the latest U. S. Postal Guide with former issues, a newspaper finds that "Frugality has disappeared from Pennsylvania, Graft from Colorado, Coin from Kentucky, and Truth from Arkansas." Worst of all, Love, Arkansas, has become Ash Flat.

Love let down. And burned out.

It's All Wrong

A lunatic was trying to knock a nail into a wall. But he had the head of the nail against the wood and was hammering the point.

At length he threw down the nail in disgust and said: "Bah! Idiots! They gave me a nail with the head at the wrong end."

Another inmate of the asylum who had been watching, began to laugh.

"It's you that's the idiot," he said.

"Why?"

The other jerked his thumb at the opposite wall. "Nail was made for the other side of the room," he said.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPARTMENT

IF YOU take a large size and want to have your afternoon dress fit with the perfection the smart silhouette demands, send for 1830. It's very easy to work with, and is carefully detailed to give you the uplifted bustline and narrow hips that are essentially important to a slenderizing effect. It will be lovely made up in thin wool, flat crepe or sheer velvet, with a gleaming brooch or clip at the plain v neckline.

Three Styles in Aprons.

This practical pattern, 1829, really gives you three apron styles, because the pinafore part is perforated so that you can make it two ways, and both ways are thoroughly protective and useful, with buttoned straps, crossed in the back, that won't slip off. Both pinafores and the little tie-around have a pretty flare. Make these of linen, gingham, lawn or batiste, and tuck two or three sets away for gifts, too.

No. 1830 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 5½ yards of 39 inch material with long sleeves; 4⅞ yards with short.

No. 1829 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires, for No. 1, 1¾ yards of 35 inch material and 8 yards bias fold; for No. 2, 1⅓ yards of 35 inch material and 2 yards of pleating; for No. 3, 1¾ yards of 35 inch material.

Flowered Hat Came To Do Double Duty

A young matron found herself somewhat hustled by the number and variety of her engagements.

One day in particular she found troublesome, for she had to go first to a funeral service and then to a garden party.

She solved the dress problem by wearing smart but sober clothes and taking in a hat box a flowered hat which, during the service, she placed in the vestry.

Her sense of quiet pleasure at this successful solution of the problem was somewhat marred, however, when the coffin was brought into church. For reposing in the center of the wreaths on the coffin was her flowered hat.

The Minnesota brewing industry truly benefits a large majority in the State.

It pays a huge State beer tax of about $2,000,000 a year which helps county schools, agricultural societies, and pays many other county expenses, lightening the tax burden in every community. It buys around $3,500,000 worth of barley and corn annually from Minnesota farmers—the produce of 136,700 acres.

The brewing industry keeps 4,715 farm workers employed full-time, and about 25,000 persons in gainful jobs making and distributing beer. To thousands of others it affords an opportunity to enter business.

Given a chance, its product—wholesome, satisfying beer—will do most to bring true temperance by teaching moderation in the use of beverages.

With your assistance and the cooperation of local enforcement officers, the brewing industry of Minnesota hopes to achieve what is desired by all right-thinking citizens—orderly and law-abiding conditions surrounding the retailing of beer.

Kranz Named AAA Head

Thirty nine delegates to the County convention of the Marshall County Agricultural Conservation Association met at the Court House, Warren, on Oct. 12 for the purpose of electing a County Committee for 1940.

Mr. C. N. Kranz of Stranquist was elected chairman succeeding Mr. Tom Howard of Warren.

Mr. Alphonse E. Johnson of Stephen replaced Mr. Anton Anderson of Argyle as Vice-Chairman.

Mr. Anton Anderson was elected regular member succeeding J. Henry Clauson of Goodridge.

On Saturday the new committee elected Beulah I. Dahlin as treasurer succeeding Dorothy A. Dahl.

Mrs. Dahl has resigned as chief clerk effective Nov. 15.

R. A. Reierson was elected secretary to the County Committee.

Mr. C. N. Kranz appointed the following committeemen to head up the various programs:
Crop loans, Anton Anderson
Wheat Insurance, Alphonse E. Johnson.
Education, C. N. Krans, Alphonse E. Johnson, Anton Anderson and R. A. Reierson.

Mrs. Henry Nohre went to Thief River Falls Wednesday to spend two weeks at the home of her father.

Notice For Bids

Bids will be received at the office of the undersigned, clerk of School Dist. 102, St. Hilaire, Minn. for the delivery of 165 cords of green, split 6 inch body poplar cord wood in lots of ten cords or more, delivered and piled on the school ground at St. Hilaire, Minn. Bids will be received until Oct. 28, 1939 aud the board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

World's Temperance Sunday

The Marshall County Temperance movement will observe World's Temperance Sunday with a Temperance Rally at the Lutheran Church at Viking at 2 p. m. Sunday October 29th.

Arrangements have been made for a very fine program and a large delegation from various parts of the county are expected to attend.

Be sure to come to Viking October and bring others with you.

Bill Davis took over the duties of buttermaker at the creamery at Viking a few days this week. The manager there had fallen into the basement and was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Hj. Johnson attended a birthday party given for Mrs. Anna Saugen Sunday at her home near Newfolden. Mrs. Saugen is 80 years old and does all her own housework.

It is claimed there are no less than 120,000,000 cats in this country and that at least 65 per cent of them are strays forced to forage for themselves. That's something for bird lovers to think about.

Sylvia Wegge, who is employed at Grand Forks spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nohre and Mrs. Fred Lufkin and daughters Esther and Harriet of Thief River Falis spent Snnday at Pelican Rapids, Perham and Detroit Lakes.

Walter Wegge spent Friday and Saturday at the Edgar Wegge home where he built two new brick chimneys in the house.

Ninetieth Anniversary

The Minnesota Historical society, nearly 10 years older than the state itself, is celebrating its ninetieth anniversary today.

The birthday program will include a luncheon at the St. Paul Athletic club, given by the St. Paul association, with Ralph Budd of Chicago, president of the Burlington railroad and member of the society's executive council scheduled to speak on "The Historical Society and The Community."

Dr. Theodore Blegen, who resigned recently after serving eight years as superintendent of the society, will discuss "Ballads and Song of Immigrant and Pioneer".

This afternoon the Misses Anita and Laura Furness of St. Paul, will entertain officers of the society at a tea in the home of their grandfather Alexander Ramsey, first governor of Minnesota territory and first president of the historical society.

Editors note: Do you know that a copy of every paper printed in the State of Minnesota is kept on file at the Minnesota Historical Society building in St. Paul including the Holt Weekly News? Visit there sometime. It's interesting.

Next drawing for Free Prizes at the Engen Garage will be on Saturday evening, Nov. 4th. Ask for your tickets when making a purchase.

Annual Homecoming

The annual Homecoming of the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, has been set for Saturday, October 21. The Homecoming festivities will start with the bonfire and pepfest on Friday evening. The Athletic Committee will be in charge of the assembly program. The highlight of the program for the day will be the football game with the North Central Aggies from Grand Rapids. The Northwest Aggies have won possession of the "brown jug" trophy for the past three years and the North Central this year in determined to win back the coveted trophy.

During the nine years of competition between the two schools Northwest Aggies have won six games, tied one and lost two. The visiting team and coaches will be honor guests at an all-school banquet in the evening. The Homecoming program will be concluded with the annual Homecoming dance in the gymnasium and party in Aggie Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nohre accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Augustine spent Sunday at Pembina, N. D., visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nohre. In the afternoon they made a short trip into Canada, and also visited at the A. L. Carlson home at Argyle.

Safetygrams

The Safety Man

This is the time of the year when windshield equipment is necessary for proper vision.

Late in the afternoon of one day a short time ago, whiie we were riding with a friend we ran into considerable fog and rain. The windshield wipers were not in working order, and as a result we had very poor vision.

We shall soon have fall weather which brings fog and rain, and in some sections sleet. Get your car tuned up for winter driving, and when you do so, do not fail to check your windshield equipment.

It's Smart to drive carefully.

Walter Wegge and H. O. Hanson finished up last week with the work of completing a large silo and rebuilding the big dairy barn on the John Weld farm northwest of Thief River Falls. They are now engaged in the work of rebuilding the large dairy barn on the P. C Halvorson farm near Goodridge. The barn on this farm which is almost new was damaged to a great extent in the last electrical storm we had this fall when lightning hit it and blew out one end of the barn.

Mrs. C. A. Larson and Mrs. S. Lorenteon made a trip to Crookston Monday.

Nazi Peace Feelers Rejected But Europe Still Shuns War; Only Russia Plunges Forward

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EUROPE:
Berlin Sphere

"With the achievement at last of Germany's equality of rights . . . the chief reason for (its) withdrawal from the League of Nations is eliminated . . . Thus, after three years I look upon the struggle for the restoration of German equality of rights as now concluded. In Europe we have no territorial claims to put forward."

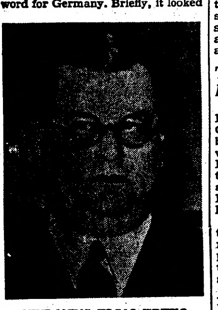
This was a speech by Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, but not the speech he made before the reichstag on October 6. It was made March 7, 1936, when Germany reoccupied the Rhineland. But it was unpacked from British-French mothballs this month as one important reason why the allies would not accept Der Fuehrer's latest peace overture. In three years they had learned too much about his "promises."

While intermittent fighting continued on the western front (See THE WAR), Europe's battles continued to be diplomatic ones. Russia mopped up busily in the Baltic (see below), taking time off to throw in a good word for Germany. Briefly, it looked like the much-ridiculed Rome-Berlin-Moscow triangle was at least holding together long enough to place Britain and France firmly over a barrel.



FINLAND'S ELJAS ERKKO
Insulted, but his tune changed.
(See 'Moscow Sphere')

Herr Hitler was not so brash as to offer definite peace terms; a blunt refusal would have hurt his prestige. But he did drop hints about colonies Germany lost in the World war, politely offering in return to join a disarmament move and restore Poland under Russo-German suzerainty.

(One report said Germans repatriated from Baltic states would be settled in a section of Poland; that another section would be allotted to Jews; that still a third section would be given to Poles.)

A few days later, while Europe waited for somebody to do almost anything, unofficial German quarters hinted that President Roosevelt might make a good mediator. This got a cold shoulder not only in Washington, but also in London and Paris, where allied leaders stood firm. Benito Mussolini, who had been heralded as a mediator, also kept his silence.

Finally it was bold, impolite and uninhibited Russia that broke the silence. Said Izvestia: "One may respect or hate Hitlerism or any other system . . . But to begin a war for the extermination of Hitlerism means to admit criminal silliness in policy."

Moscow Sphere

Russia showed similar boldness in her own rejuvenated foreign policy. With tiny Estonia and Latvia completely under her domination, she moved on Lithuania and won the same concessions—pacts of "mutual assistance" and military-transport privileges. A good sign that Joseph Stalin had outsmarted Adolf Hitler was the shipment, bag and baggage, of 120,000 Germans from Latvia to the Fatherland. German minority problems are usually solved by annexation of the territory in which they live.

(In Rome, there were signs this repatriation was breaking up the axis. Said Milan's Corrier Della Sera: "After seven centuries of battle against Slav influence, the German minorities which acted as sentinels of northeast Europe retreat, giving up their posts to Russians." At Ferrara, the newspaper Corriere Padano descended its mailed fist on Soviets in general, calling Communists "living monsters" and "models of vulgar bestiality." Its tenet: "Italians are born anti-Communists and want to remain anti-Communists.")

Russia moved next on shivering Finland, where Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko had the problem of his lifetime. Russia had "demanded" that Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia come to Moscow; Finland was more politely "invited." First Finnish reaction was to be insulted. Eljas Erkko explained Finland considered herself a Scandinavian nation, not a mere Baltic state. But the tune changed later when Russia seemed bent on winning naval-air rights on Hogland island in the Gulf of Finland, and the Aaland islands between Finland and Sweden. It looked like the first request might be granted, which would enhance still further Josef Stalin's Baltic domination over Adolf Hitler.

War jitters spread like wildfire throughout northern Europe however. Sweden, whose peaceful neutrality is a tradition, was so frightened by Russia's threats against Finland that bombproof shelters were erected. Troop demobilizations scheduled October 15 were cancelled and the entire Torne valley along the Swedish-Finnish frontier was blacked out for air raid practices.

Coming still closer to the Nazi lair, Russia began weaning little Hungary away from the anti-Comintern pact. A new minister, Josef Kristoffy, was appointed from Budapest to Moscow to resume the trade relations broken last February.

Meanwhile Turkish Foreign Minister Sukro Saragoglu stayed on in Moscow, handling formation of a neutral Black sea bloc which could help Russia in her threatened drive toward British-dominated Afghanistan. Between the devil and the sea, Turkey also initialed a mutual aid pact in the eastern Mediterranean with Britain and France.

THE WAR:
Football, Speeches

Across the Moselle river from Remich, Luxembourg, French and German troops ceased fighting one bright October Sunday afternoon to watch a football game between Remich and a nearby village. To the east, in the Saar basin, German amplifiers shouted Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech across no-man's land to the French trenches.

This was merely a calm before the storm. Being smart, allies had resolved not to throw away manpower on foolish salients; instead, they would hold the Reich to a standstill while the British blockade was doing its economic work on the North sea. Nazis, for their part, awaited acceptance or rejection of Der Fuehrer's peace feelers.

When it became evident the allies wanted no peace, activity increased precipitously. Both Berlin and London reported British warships had battled Nazi bombing planes in the North sea, while another report stated a German naval squadron had ventured from port to do battle with the allied fleet. Allied observation planes saw huge troop movements toward the front lines, while Nazi artillery doubled its fire on French front line positions. Was this the prelude to a real war?

LABOR:
Convention

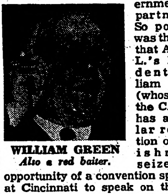
One of war's reactions in the U. S. has been popularization of patriotism and denunciation of reds, Hitlerites and Fascists. Texas' Rep. Martin Dies and his un-Americanism committee got going hotter and heavier than ever, threatening to publish a list of communists in government departments. So popular was this tack that A. F. of L.'s President William Green (whose foe, the C. I. O., has a popular reputation of pinkishness) seized the opportunity of a convention spotlight at Cincinnati to speak on the subject. Said he:



WILLIAM GREEN
Also a red baiter.

"Communists, Fascists and Nazis are the people who denounce democracy as a failure . . . The Stalinists have cried out against the dangers of Fascism and Naziism—and the Hitlerites have screamed . . . against communism. But now the essential fraud . . . has been exposed. Hitler and Stalin have become partners."

But A. F. of L. did more than bait reds. Its executive council was expected to suspend the International Typographical union for failure to chip in on the 1937 "war chest" to fight C. I. O. It talked about asking President Roosevelt to mediate in Europe's war and discussed the touchy subject of whether to back the President for a third term. Ohio's Sen. Robert A. Taft, a G. O. P. presidential hopeful, took the opportunity to plump for NLRB changes, long favored by A. F. of L. and opposed by C. I. O. But little was done on the biggest problem confronting labor, that of peace. The battle of A. F. of L. versus C. I. O seemed destined to go on.

At San Francisco, John Lewis opened his own convention with a 20,000 word speech ignoring a truce with A. F. of L. and panning that "whisky drinking old man" again, John Nance Garner. Said Laborman Lewis: Garnerites conspired with A. F. of L. and the National Association of Manufacturers to strip NLRB and the wage-hour division of their ability to help the underprivileged.

CONGRESS:
Fatigue

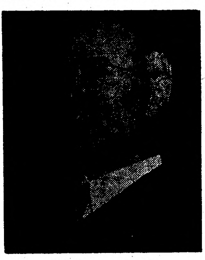
By early October a month of war had changed U. S. ideas about neutrality. Much of it artificially inspired, about 80 per cent of early congressional mail favored retention of the embargo against arms shipments to belligerent nations. Within a few weeks more than half the mail favored repealing the embargo. Meanwhile a similar trend was evident in the senate, where hale and hearty isolationists began retreating.

As a gesture for peace they agreed to support the rest of President Roosevelt's neutrality program if repeal of the arms embargo and the 90-day credit provisions were eliminated. Thus they would approve "cash-and-carry" in modified form, meaning that belligerents could buy anything except munitions and carry them away, provided they pay cash.



SENATOR TOBEY
A blunder?

Some observers believed it was more a matter of flagging interest than isolationist defeat, though the two factors might be tied together. Fervent speeches by Isolationists Borah, Vandenberg and Overton had failed to arouse national zeal for the embargo. Moreover, there was a growing feeling that congress should quit orating and vote one way or the other, thus clearing the way for unfinished domestic business. To top it off, New Hampshire's Sen. Charles W. Tobey called for a vote to recommit the bill for separation of the arms embargo from other sections.

Some isolationists called this a blunder, for it forced a test of their strength. Repealists, too, were skeptical, until Sen. Key Pittman predicted his side had 65 senate votes sewed up to floor the Tobey motion. Everything considered, it looked like Senator Tobey had pulled the plug from under a meaningless flood of oratory.

But the plug was hard to loosen. A vote on the Tobey resolution was postponed when California's Sen. Sheridan Downey held the floor four hours with an isolationist speech. Then Colorado's Sen. Edwin C. Johnson moved for a three-day recess so the President could act on European peace feelers which suggested that he be mediator (See EUROPE).

DEFENSE:
War's Reaction

What happens on continental Europe when the war is ended concerns few Americans. But should France and Britain capitulate, return Germany's pre-World war colonies in Africa and hand over their fleets, Nazidom's strength in the Atlantic would become a fierce threat. Although the current $2,000,000,000 national defense appropriation will give the U. S. a navy capable of licking any foe, militarists now realize more than ever that it cannot simultaneously lick two foes, one in the Atlantic and the other in the Pacific.

Reborn this month, therefore, is talk of a two-ocean navy. Thinking in terms of the worst possible job that might confront them, naval forces are plugging for an additional $3,000,000,000 to be appropriated by the next regular congress.

PEOPLE:
Refugee's Death

In 1862 Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff was born in London, where his father was German ambassador. In 1908, after learning his country's and his family's diplomatic lessons, Johann von Bernstorff became ambassador to the U. S., where he married the former Jeanne Luckemeyer. A popular speaker, much honored by collegiate degrees, his job got tough when Germany started the World war. The militarists back home pooh-poohed his warnings that their course was leading the U. S. into war. Said he: "They (the Wilhelmstrasse) knew a repetition of the Lusitania incident . . . would automatically mean war with the U. S. But they would not listen." On February 3, 1917, Johann von Bernstorff was handed his passport. Later minister to Turkey, a reichstag member under the new republic, author of a disarmament plan which Germany ignored, he never became sympathetic with the Nazi cause. In early October, Johann von Bernstorff died in Switzerland.

INGRID BERGMAN is the heroine of the latest publicity build-up in Hollywood —perhaps the name isn't familiar to you now, but if it isn't soon the fault will lie with David Selznick's publicity staff. For Miss Bergman is the new Swedish discovery who makes her bow to film fans in "Intermezzo," with Leslie Howard.

She is pretty, charming and has a lovely smile. Stockholm is her home town. Whether she is as talented as her Swedish compatriot, Greta Garbo, remains to be seen.

"Intermezzo" is a romantic drama dealing with a world-famous musician who has to decide between home life with his family and the thrills of his life as an artist. Edna Best and John Halliday have supporting roles.

INGRID BERGMAN

While Mr. Selznick was discovering a Swedish actress, Russian motion picture men were discovering an American one. Intorgkino, international film trading company for the Soviet Union, has bought Deanna Durbin's "One Hundred Men and a Girl" for distribution there. It is the first American picture bought for that market since 1936, when Charlie Chaplin's "Modern Times" and "City Lights" were purchased.

William Powell may appear in "Susan and God" opposite Greer Garson, who became famous overnight as a result of her appearance in Goodby, Mr. Chips." But the doctors have the last say in regard to Powel's taking on this new assignment; two weeks of retakes for "The Thin Man Returns" necessitated a rest, as his health still isn't what it might be.

"Drums Along the Mohawk," according to an announcement from Twentieth Century-Fox, will be 14 reels long when it is released. Not the longest picture ever offered to the public, but the longest in Technicolor. In case you didn't read the book, it's a swell story.

It's three times and out for "My Girl Friday," the new screen version of "Front Page." Irene Dunne was offered the lead, and refused it. Jean Arthur was offered the lead, and also refused it, which resulted in her suspension without pay for 12 weeks. (However, her contract will be extended for that same period.) The picture finally got started with Rosalind Russell in the role that the Misses Dunne and Arthur wouldn't touch with a 10-foot pole. As a rule, when this sort of thing happens in a motion picture studio, the actress (or actor) who steps in and saves the day makes such a success that she leaps ahead several rungs on the ladder to fame.

Every radio broadcast has to have a production man; his job, principally, is to sit in the control room and guide the progress of the show to split-second accuracy of schedule. Since radio began it's been a man's job. But CBS's "Grand Central Station" is produced by a woman. She's Betzy Tuthill, from Tucson, Ariz.

You girls who'd like to take on a similar job will be interested in the story of her career. After being graduated from the University of Arizona she worked with the Harvard Film Service, editing and cutting educational films. Then she went to work for Irving Reis, who was directing the CBS Workshop series. She looked after his mail, did some casting, read scripts and helped re-write them. First thing anybody knew she was in the studio, helping with production.

Al Pearce, who added "I hope, I hope, I hope" to American slang, is back on the air on Wednesday nights from 8 to 8:30 eastern standard time, on a nation-wide hookup. He has a new Gang, which includes Billy House, the radio old-timer, and Don Reid, a new lyric tenor who hails from Canada.

ODDS AND ENDS—The popular "Myrt and Marge" serial, soon to celebrate its eighth year on the air, came into being because the real Myrt and Marge were hit by the 1929 crash . . . The new March of Time, "The Battle Fleets of England," is a film story of the British navy today.

Handy Small Table Made of Camp Stool

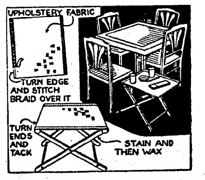
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HAVE you ever wished for a small, low table that would appear from nowhere and disappear again when you were through with it? Have you ever thought it would be nice if Father's ottoman could be folded up and put out of the way when not in use? Or perhaps you have unpacked a suit case in a guest room and wished for something other than the bed; a chair or the floor to put it on during the process?



A camp stool plus a tray to fit the top makes a very satisfactory small table to place beside a game table or to set up for your books or mending basket by your favorite chair. But be sure to dress it up so that it will look its best either when in use or when folded up and placed in some out of the way corner. A remnant of material and some upholstery braid will do the trick. Stain and wax are suggested for the base as paint might be marred in folding the stool.

Important Fashions In Simple Patterns

THE smock-frock is really a fashion, not just a comfortable maternity dress. It's smart and young and practical. No. 1833 is a version of it that may be worn for afternoon, because the pleats, in both the smock top and the adjustable slip skirt, give it a touch of dressiness. Make it of flat crepe, thin wool or georgette.

Good for a Whole Wardrobe.

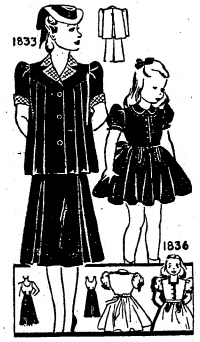
Unusually useful is the pretty frock for little girls (1836) because it can be made in two ways—with round collar and frills, or with the plain square neckline. Therefore you can thriftily make a whole wardrobe for your own small daughter, by using this simple pattern again and again. School cottons, like gingham or linen, as well as challis and jersey, are smart fabrics for it.



No. 1833 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 5⅓ yards of 39-inch material with short sleeves; 5¾ yards with long sleeves; 1⅛ yards for the top of the slip; ⅔ yard for contrasting revers, cuffs, collar.

No. 1836 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 requires 1¾ yards of 35-inch material; ⅓ yard for contrasting collar; 2 yards of pleating or frills.

New Fall Pattern Book.

Special extra! Send today for your new Fall Pattern Book with a stunning selection of a hundred perfect patterns for all shapes and sizes. Save money and know the keen satisfaction of personally planned, perfectly fitted garments by making your own frocks with these smart, carefully cut designs. You can't go wrong—every pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners. Price of Pattern Book, 15 cents.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Why Let Yourself Get Constipated?
Why endure those dull headachy days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?
If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted breakfast cereal is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day and month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew.
Eat Kellogg's All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

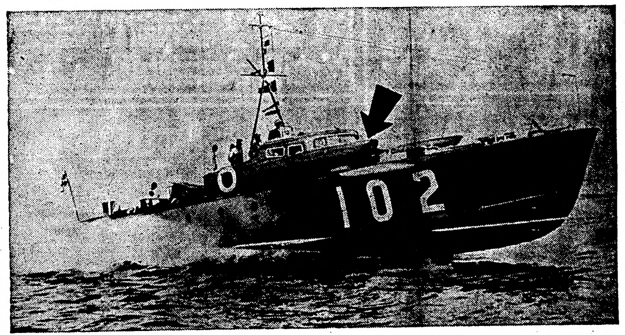
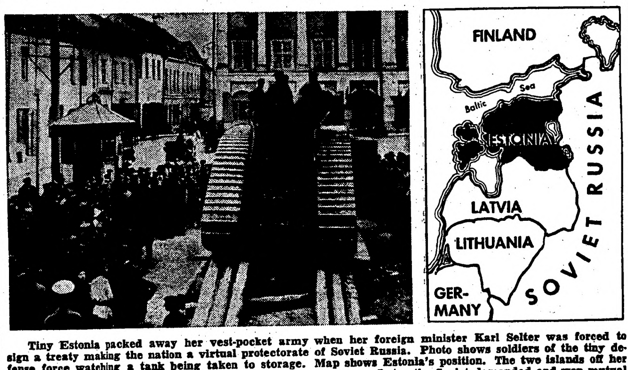
Torpedo Boat: Britain's Answer to German Subs



Here's one of Great Britain's powerful new torpedo boats which can launch a projectile straight ahead while traveling at top speed. Arrow points to one of the torpedo tubes mounted on deck. The British count on these boats to combat the German submarine. A large fleet of these boats has been placed in service in the North sea and they are usually attached to destroyer squadrons.

Estonia Fires Her Army; Russia Takes Charge



Tiny Estonia packed away her vest-pocket army when her foreign minister Karl Selter was forced to sign a treaty making the nation a virtual protectorate of Soviet Russia. Photo shows soldiers of the tiny defense force watching a tank being taken to storage. Map shows Estonia's position. The two islands off her Baltic sea coast are being made into Soviet air and naval bases. Later the Soviet demanded and won mutual assistance treaties with Latvia and Lithuania, to the south, placing them in substantially the same position as Estonia. Observers believed Russia was strengthening her position against any possible action by Germany, her new "ally."

Smiles at Tragedy

Eight-year-old Dorothy Lewis smiles from her wheel chair at a New York hospital where her right leg was amputated to stem the ravages of bone cancer. Amputation was made at the hip.

P. S.—She Won, Too!

Blonde Erika of the Folies Bergere at the San Francisco fair is a native of the Austrian Tyrol. Having milked a cow before, she took 3 pounds, 15 ounces of milk from Mary, blooded Jersey, to win first prize in the exposition's milking contest.

This Young Skate Cuts Dashing Figure

Patricia Merifield, Hollywood visitor at Sun Valley, Idaho, makes a dashing picture as she executes a leap on skates that apparently takes her over the rugged Idaho mountain tops, thus ushering in a new winter season of outdoor sports in the northern states.

That Was No Bearded Lady, It Was—

"Miss Frances Murphy," above, "bearded lady" at the New York fair, charged a gentleman named John Durkin tried to kiss "her" in a Manhattan subway. In felony court it turned out "Miss Frances Murphy" was really a man. Here "she" is shown in the police van, after being charged with perjury.

Crocheted Afghan In Colorful Pattern

Pattern 1955

Here's pick-up work you'll thoroughly enjoy. Eight-inch squares crocheted with a large hook to make a colorful afghan. Pattern 1955 contains directions for afghan; illustrations of it and of stitches; materials required; color schemes; photograph of square.

Please write your name, address and pattern number plainly.

Tell Time With Flowers

One of the unique timepieces of Europe is the flower clock at Interlaken, Switzerland. Year after year a new dial for this clock is provided by the planting of thousands of tiny plants and flowers. The mechanism of the clock is buried underground in a hermetically sealed case which protects it from the dampness of the soil. Throughout the summer it keeps excellent time and delights visitors with its remarkable design and the perfection of its blossoms.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men
Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.
Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

Local Bank Is Growing Fast

Last week we published the call report for the Marshall County State Bank of Holt, but we did not get around to call to the attention of our readers the amount of the footings of the bank in this report. The figures are climbing up in the brackets of the million mark.

The actual totals now read $281,981.49. We feel proud to have this growing institution in Holt and doing business of almost a third of a million dollars in this trade area.

For the benefit of the public we are again publishing the report of the bank so that you all can study the figures.

Willard Eugene Hegernes, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Hegernes, (Eunice Leiran) was baptised in the Silver Creek Lutheran Church on Sunday afternoon. He was born on July 31, 1939 and his sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Leiran and Mr. and Mrs. Edry Leiran.

Fleming Begins New Duties

According to news dispatches from Washingtrn, Col. Philip Fleming, 52 year old army engineer, took over administration of the wage-hour law Monday, on the eve of a statutory change in the law's standards.

Begining Tuesday, the minimum wage rate under the law becomes 30 cents instead of 25 cents an hour, and the maximum work week, unless time and a half overtime is paid, becomes 42 instead of 44 hours.

Officials estimated that the changes would mean pay increases for 690,000 workers and a shortening of the work-week, or overtime benefits, for about 2,380,000.

Fleming, at his first press conference, declared he had only one policy: "Fair dealing" with industry and labor.

Fleming will be the head of the wage-hour administration in fact, but not in title. He was selected by President Roosevelt to succeed Administrator Elmer F. Andrews, who resigned, but because federal statutes prohibit army officers on active duty from taking an elective or appointive position in the government, Fleming will not hold the title of wage-hour administrator unless congress makes special provision for his case.

Col. Fleming was formerly at St. Paul and he was the man who conducted the hearing on the Red Lake, Clearwater and Thief River rivers drainage projects at Thief River Falls, and many people from here have met him and speak well of him.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Skiple and son Ardell of Minot, N. Dak. visited Sunday and Monday at the Mrs. C. Hagglund and H. O. Hanson homes. Mr. and Mrs. John Reed and baby of Thief River Falls Mrs. Leo Horien and children and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson also visited at the Hagglund home Sunday.

1940 Chevrolets Make Their Bow

Three series of passenger cars, re-designed in the new "Royal Clipper" styling, and embodying numerous mechanical improvements to assure greater safety and comfort as well as finer performance, comprise Chevrolet's new line for 1940, introduced today. All series are much larger, overall length being increased 4¾ inches. The new exclusive vacuum power shift (lower left) is now regular equipment on all models of all series at no extra cost. Special De Luxe series, the Sport Sedan of which is shown at center, has a new T-spoke steering wheel with horn-blowing ring (upper right). Lower right, the 1940 Chevrolet six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, which has been improved for smoother, quieter operation, and extremely long life.

Bangs Disease Law Passed

During the last session of the State Legislature a law was passed whereby an area test for the eradication of Bangs disease can be conducted in any county provided 70% of the farmers of the county on the last assesors list sign a petition requesting that an area test be conducted.

Word has been received that these tests will be conducted in the northern portion of this state to start with.

In order to get the sentiment of farmers as to whether or not there is a demand for an area test for Bangs disease the County Agent and his assistant will hold meetings at which the law will be discussed and plans for signing petitions will be made.

This test to conducted without cost to the farmers and indemnity payments will be made for any reactors found in heads. A maximum indemnity payment of $15.00 per head will be paid on grades reacting while a maximum $30.00 indemnity will be paid for pure breds over and about the net salvage of animals.

No indemnity payment will be made on bulls or steers reacting.

These meetings will be held as follows: today, Alvarado, 2 p. m. Warren, 8 p. m.

Monday, Oct. 30: Grygla 2 p. m., School. Holt, 8 p. m. School.

Tuesday Oct. 31, Gatzke, 2 p. m. Hall, Middle River 8. p. m. Nite Owl.

Marine Corps Wants Men

According to an announcement received here today from the Officer in Charge, U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Office, 119 Metropolitan Life Bldg., Minneapolis, Minnesota, the Marine Corps is now accepting applications for enlistment from young men between the ages of 18 and 30 years, and for men who have had previous service the age limit has been set at 35.

The United States Marine Corps, through its splendid facilities for furthering of an interrupted education, is offering ambitious young men greater advantages and opportunities than ever before. With a broad field of subject matter from which to select, thousands of marines are studying and preparing themselves for higher positions when they return to civilian life, all these fine services being rendered free of any expense by the U. S. Marine Corps Institute in Washington, D. C.

From the shores of the Islands of the West Indies around the world to the teeming life of distant China, the United States Marines are building healthy bodies and storing up a multitude of experiences and memories that can be duplicated in no way. These men through an upbuilding routine of living, have come to be known as the most healthful group of men living. They are serving toward the day when they may leave the service after 20 or 30 years of active duty and retire to private life on a substantial income for life.

Young men, if you are interested in an enlistment with the Marines, call, at the office in person or communicate directiy with the Officer in Charge, Marine Corps Recruiting Station, 119 Metropolitan Life Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Any person who drives a car or truck with poor brakes is violating one of the very first rules of safety. He may live to regret it. It reminds me of the story of the farmer and his son who were working in a field where a line crew from the power company was repairing damage done by a previous storm. Abner, the farmer's son, while fussing around the operations, got hold of a live wire. His father yelled to him, "Put that down, Abner. It don't belong to you." But Abner couldn't let go of the live wire.

Poor brakes put you in the same position. You want to stop and apply the brakes, but they fail to hold and the result may be a serious accident and possibly death.

It's Smart to Drive Carefully.

The work by the men of the congregation on the parsonage was practically completed on Monday when a group of men moved the garage to a new location north of the house. Only a few minor things remained to be done later in the week.

Biscuit Pans.—A shallow pan about one inch deep is the best to use in baking biscuits; otherwise the biscuits will not brown evenly on all sides.

* * *

Mending Pillow Slips. — Hemstitched pillow slips that are too badly torn to mend neatly can have the hem cut away and a picot edge crocheted on.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Intensified Warfare Started As Germany at Last Realizes Futility of Peace Overtures

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EUROPE:

War of Diplomacy

Biggest news on the diplomatic front was wishful thinking in London and Paris to the effect that Italy was swinging away from Berlin to form a strong Balkan peace bloc, meanwhile adopting a policy of "benevolent neutrality" toward the allies. There were good reasons for such a move because Italy has strong trade interests in the Balkans, where Russia is trying to win an upper hand.

Backing the rumor, Italian newspapers continued heaping insults on Communism. Partially spiking it, however, was authoritative Editor Virgina Gayda, whose Il Giornale D'Italia termed Prime Minister Chamberlain's refusal to call off the war "a dangerous no."

Meanwhile Germany continued last-minute efforts to avert war, having waited until the final heartbreaking moment in the hope that Prime Minister Chamberlain would capitulate. U. S. aid, asked unofficially, was not forthcoming. Such desperate efforts could only mean that Germany had been surprised, perhaps to her ultimate ruin, by allied determination. For recourse Der Fuehrer redoubled his efforts to cement trade relations with Russia, now busy elsewhere after getting all she wanted from Germany. Biggest question: Now that the allies had shunned peace, where was the "co-operation" Germany and Russia had threatened only two weeks before?

(Proclaiming Armistice day, President Roosevelt revived Europe's intervention hopes by asking Americans to look forward to "a time when a just and enduring peace shall be established.")

War on Land & in Air

On the western front 65 German divisions were massed from the sea to the Rhine. Significantly, 30 of them stood opposite Holland and Belgium, satisfying the experts that Nazidom's offensive will follow 1914 tactics. Intensified German pressure was not long in coming. In a single day it drove the French back to their own soil on a four-mile front in the Moselle valley, but at a cost of 500 to 1,000 casualties and the loss of 20 tanks.

ROYAL OAK

Sunk: 875 men and an omen.

But bigger news came from the air. Berlin's first bombing scare arrived one evening as Nazi housewives were meditating on lard sandwiches for next morning's breakfast (included in the week's suggested ration menu). Twenty thousand feet up, anti-aircraft artillerymen spotted a "raider." Shot down in the panic, the plane turned out to be a lost German bomber.

Britain had a genuine scare next day. Fourteen German bombers invaded English soil for the first time. Their objective: The huge naval base and bridge at Firth of Forth, near Edinburgh, Scotland. When the melee was over Britain counted 52 killed or wounded, and slight damage to one cruiser. Four Nazi bombers had been brought down.

War at Sea

In 1651 Britain's fugitive King Charles II hid in an oak tree at Boscobel, Shropshire, after the battle of Worcester. A few years later proud Britons named a warship after their revered "royal oak." The ship was promptly sunk by the Dutch in 1667. Ten more "Royal Oaks" carried the ill omen, the last going into action at Jutland less than a month after being commissioned. Weathering this battle, she was damaged at Valencia in 1937. Last year the $10,000,000 craft was "sunk" in a British film labeled "Torpedoed." This month the Royal Oak was really torpedoed and sunk, carrying to the bottom her ill omen and some 785 men.

This was only one part of a weekend's terrific warfare at sea. Berlin claimed the same submarine which sank the Royal Oak also damaged Britain's battle cruiser Repulse, but the admiralty said it couldn't be bothered "denying all these reports." Six other British and French freighters went to Davy Jones' locker within three days, but on Friday the Thirteenth the British navy sank three U-boats.

At Rome, the official paper Vie dell'Arta "revealed" an ambitious Nazi scheme to blow Britain's navy off the sea by allotting 200 planes to bomb each warship. Fireside fighters of the long-theorized war of airship vs. warship agreed the Nazis had made a good start.

Russian Education

In the U. S., John Public discovered for the first time that Soviet Russia had a president. To Michael Kalinin, who is Dictator Josef Stalin's No. 1 puppet, Franklin Roosevelt expressed a hope for continued peaceful Russian-Finnish relations. Many another nation was also learning about Soviet Russia, a 20-year-old bear which has just begun to feel its strength:

Scandinavia. Having won domination of the Baltic states, Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia, the Soviet turned to Finland and demanded military-naval bases. A Finn named Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi went to Moscow and heard the Russian requests while the folks back home rushed mobilization and lined up a firm Scandinavian bloc. To Stockholm, Sweden's venerable King Gustav summoned Denmark's King Christian, Norway's King Haakon and Finland's President Kyosti Kallio to decide Scandinavia's attitude. It was expected the Finns would surrender a few islands, but not the strategic Aalands which Russia covets.

KALININ

F. D. R. addressed him.

Baltic. Estonia's Gen. Johan Laidoner assured the people their nation was still free, but there were signs to the contrary. Among them: The premier resigned and a new cabinet was established. Meanwhile Lithuania, which received a better break from Moscow than either Latvia or Estonia (winning rule over the former Polish city of Wilno), decided to demand that Germany grant her extra-territorial rights in the harbor of Memel, which Adolf Hitler seized last spring. The Lithuanians hoped Russia would back their request.

Balkans. Hungary feared that Russia's Baltic conquest would be followed by demands for Ruthenia, the Ukrainian province seized from Czecho-Slovakia early this year. Rumania had similar worries over Bessarabia, the petroleum-rich area she took from Russia after the World war. Moreover, Rumania heard reports that Russia might try to settle Balkan troubles at her expense, taking both Bessarabia and Ruthenia, and placating the Hungarians and Bulgarians by giving each a slice of land they lost to Rumania after the last war.

This, it was reliably stated, held a top place among demands Russia tried to force down the throat of Turkey's Foreign Minister Sukro Saracoglu. Acting as mediator for all Balkan states, Saracoglu had reportedly refused not only to sell Rumania short, but also to recognize Russia's Polish grab, create a neutral Balkan bloc under German-Russian domination, or break Turkey's alliance with Britain and France.

Russian troops were massed on her borders, but the Turks stood so firm that many a diplomat felt she held the balance of European power. Her position: Turkey would stay neutral if the allies fought Russia, but she would join the allies if Italy took sides with Germany. With 2,000,000 troops under arms, controlling the strategic Dardenelles and holding considerable influence over other Balkan states, the Turks were not to be slighted.

CONGRESS:

Peace?

Neutrality was making a bum this month out of many an otherwise efficient statesman. Each day the lower house of congress assembled half-heartedly, listened to a few pointless speeches and went its way to Washington's cocktail rooms and bars. There was nothing else to do until the senate finished wrangling with neutrality and sent the bill over. Meanwhile that happy day was drawing nearer.

Senators passed the 300,000-word mark in their debate on isolationism vs. cash-and-carry. Though they were still going strong, compromise was in the air to replace the premature victory song of embargo repealists. Some of the incentive came from outside, such as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's second radio speech in which he plumped for retention of the arms embargo. Howard Coonley, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, pointed out that industry is opposed to war and realizes the falseness of war profits. This gave North Dakota's Sen. Gerald P. ("Neutrality") Nye a new talking point.

Thus far, isolationist propaganda has tried to convince the nation that cash-and-carry neutrality will get America into war. But the campaign failed to jell, so isolationists found a more potent weapon by dramatizing the post-war depression that will inevitably follow if U. S. industry expands to serve warring Europe. Said Mr. Nye with pretty fair logic: "I dare the senate to find 10 (of 50 leading industrialists) who will wish to repeat the experience of the last war boom."

A few minutes later, when Senator Nye returned to the old song that administration neutrality proposals are a "step" toward war, he found himself confronted for the first time with Nebraska's 78-year-old Sen. George W. Norris who had a few things to get off his mind: "This charge (that the President's recommendation would lead to participation in the war) is without foundation whatever . . . I know this bill won't please Hitler. But are we going to ask him what to do? Are we going to be so afraid that we will offend him that we are going to refuse to act?"

NORRIS (LEFT) AND NYE

Are we going to ask Hitler?

Within a few days action seemed imminent. The arms embargo was a cinch for repeal, but on other issues there was compromise. Chairman Key Pittman of the foreign relations committee abandoned the 90-day credit clause, which critics charged was a circumvention of the Johnson act (forbidding loans to war debt defaulting nations). Restrictions on U. S. shipping would be relaxed to permit operations in belligerent areas far removed from the war sector (i.e., Australia, New Zealand and other French-British colonies). On this point, presidential discretion will probably be the rule.

LABOR:

Building Probe

At Washington, indictment of a labor union charged with delaying work on government buildings opened the coast-to-coast U. S. attack on reputed trade restraints in the building industry. Among cities to be probed: Chicago, New York, Seattle and Cleveland. The allegation: That union jurisdictional fights are hamstringing a building revival.

THAT argument between Bette Davis and Warner Brothers should set a record of some kind. Usually a star protests because she either wants better stories or more money. Miss Davis didn't want either.

She gets the best stories that the studio can find; in fact, the executives can't hear of a good one without trying to buy it for her. The latest purchase is "No Time for Comedy," the play that Katharine Cornell has been doing so successfully for so long on the New York stage. It's said that George Brent will play opposite Miss Davis, in the role done in New York by Laurence Olivier.

Miss Davis' complaint is that they buy too many of these good stories for her—in other words, she works too hard. Since last January she has made "Juarez," "Dark Victory," "The Old Maid," and "Elizabeth and Essex," which makes an impressive record.

"Gang Busters" starts its fourth year in a crusade against crime on an enlarged network that includes 61 CBS outlets. Since its debut it has presented more than 150 dramas of actual cases; through clues presented near the end of each broadcast, it has been credited with the ultimate arrest of more than 130 suspects. Its producers work with law enforcement authorities, and each case that is dramatized is based on facts supplied by official agencies.

Artie Shaw, whose clarinet playing practically makes history, has been startling people—especially his sponsors—by saying what he thinks about the jitterbugs. Band leaders have wanted to say what he has, in times past, but haven't dared, because the yelling, shouting mobs who stormed the theaters where they appeared were "the public." They didn't dare pause to consider the rest of the public, who went to hear them play.

So Shaw has come out into the open, rebelling against being goaded into writing autographs when he's due on the stage, resenting being jeered at when he doesn't do as he's asked. His radio sponsors feared that it might affect his popularity. Far from it—he attracts more people than ever.

New and Important Easy-to-Do Fashions

IF YOU take a large size, then 1835 is a pattern you'll thoroughly enjoy, and make up time and again. Excellent for housework, with darted, unconfining waistline and deep armholes, it is so neatly tailored and smart looking that you can receive your supper guests in it, too, and wear it for shopping and runabout. For home wear, make it of gingham or percale. For street wear, choose thin wool or flat crepe, and omit the pockets.

Pleats Are Smart.

If you spend most of your hours in an office or at college, then a dress like 1814 is a joyful necessity. It's blithe, tailored, becoming and youthful, with box-pleated skirt and button-front bodice, finished with a crisp little collar to keep it always fresh and new-looking. Make it up in plaid wool or in bright-colored jersey—or in both. It's too good a design to make up only once!

The Patterns.

No. 1835 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4⅛ yards of 39-inch material; ⅝ yard of contrast; 2½ yards bias fold or braid.

Here's how German, French and British bombing planes would go about their errands of destruction, endangering the life of every civilian living in that territory within one of the enemy bombing "circles." From Wilhelmshaven, No. 1, and Mannheim, No. 2, would go German bombers to raid Paris, London and other cities. In retaliation, French fliers would start out from Metz, No. 3, and other bases behind the Maginot line, and British airmen would set out from Harwich, No. 4, on their egg-laying expeditions.

Heart Trouble May Be Result Of Infections

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

A PROFESSOR of medicine was examining the blood pressure of two sisters, one aged 70 and the other aged 64, and after feeling the blood vessels in the wrist, stated that the sister aged 64 was really older than the one aged 70, because her blood vessels were harder and her blood pressure was therefore higher. The one aged 70 had had a family of nine, whereas the one aged 64 had had but one child. The older sister had also had a more difficult time financially.

The physician pointed out that, despite her large family and her more difficult time financially, there were two reasons why she was really younger physically than her younger sister. First, she had had to meet so many more difficulties she had thus learned how to meet and overcome them. There would be, therefore, less tenseness or tightening of the blood vessels from emotional disturbances. Second, she had had all her teeth removed and dental plates fitted at a much earlier age than had her sister.

"As psychic (mental or emotional) influences have a great effect in raising blood pressure, mental hygiene is very important in the treatment of high blood pressure. Cultivation of calmness, moderation, avoidance of haste, ambition, anger, anxiety and excitement—there should be seeking of the quiet easy life. The 'blood pressure' should never be discussed and blood pressure examinations should be few and far apart."

Dr. Barton

Exercise Is Important.

Rest and exercise must be prescribed as needed. Regular after-dinner naps, a rest cure, a vacation for the nervous overworked is just as important as is exercise to the easy-going, overweight individual. Fresh air and sunshine are good for both. Most individuals with high blood pressure eat too much and exercise too little.

The second cause of high blood pressure to be prevented or corrected is infection. The infection may come from tonsils, teeth, gall bladder, intestine or other parts of the body. With each infection may come just a slight inflammation of the lining of the blood vessels, with the result that the muscular or elastic coat of the blood vessels is replaced by a hard tissue.

Liver Acts As Natural Filter

A few years ago I found that I was writing about the liver so often that I practically stopped writing about it. To me it is still king of the organs, and the old saying "life depends upon the liver" is replaced by "health depends upon the liver."

We are not apt to think of the liver as the organ most important to life, because stopping the heart beat means immediate death, whereas stopping or sluggishness of the liver still allows life to go on for a considerable time. But from the health standpoint, the liver is your most important organ.

Why? Poisons entering the body by way of the mouth or directly into the blood are immediately seized by the liver cells, and the great majority of them are held by the liver and thus prevented from doing damage. Harmful substances are broken down by the liver, are rendered harmless and pass out of the system in the urine. The liver is nature's great filter.

Dye Test Often Used.

Thus, in testing the "health" of the liver and its ability to remove poisons from the blood, what is known as the dye test is made whereby a dye is taken by mouth or into a vein and the blood is examined at intervals to see how long it takes the liver to remove these poisons. A definite amount of the dye should be removed within a definite time.

What can you and I do in the way of keeping the liver in good condition to do all its jobs, including filtering out poisons from the blood?

The two ways to keep liver healthy and active are (a) by bending exercises (knees straight) and breathing exercises, both of which "squeeze" this large, soft organ, and (b) by eating small meals (even if four a day are eaten), thus not overworking the liver. A little fat—cream, butter, bacon — eaten at breakfast time is a good stimulator of the liver processes and helps empty the gall bladder, thus preventing stone formation and gas pressure.

Buckram and Tacks To Stiffen Valance

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: A friend gave me a copy of your Book 3 and I can't tell you what a transformation is taking place in my home because of it. For a long time I have wanted living room curtains with smoothly fitted valances stiffened with buckram. Could you give me step-by-step directions for making them?"

A four-inch valance shelf; buckram and thumbtacks are the only "extras" needed. 1: Cut the buckram the exact size of the finished valance—no seam allowances. The chintz for the valance and the facing material are cut larger as indicated. 2: Outline the scallops by drawing around the buckram. 3: Stitch the chintz and facing with right sides together. Steps 4, 5, and 6: Trim the scallops; clip between them; then turn and press. 7: Insert the buckram; fitting it smoothly into the scallops. Turn in and stitch the top; allowing ½ inch to extend above the buckram. 8: Tack this soft edge to the shelf.

NOTE: If you have had Mrs. Spears' books 1 and 2, you will want No. 3. It is full of new ideas for homemakers, and step by step directions for making important pieces of furniture. Also newest styles and methods of making slip covers and curtains. Original designs for rag rugs; gifts and bazaar items. Send 10 cents in coin with name and address to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

TON OF FERTILIZER PER FARM IS U. S. AVERAGE

CHICAGO.—Use of chemical fertilizer in the United States has increased 400 per cent in the past fifty years, yet the consumption today averages slightly more than a ton per farm for the entire country, a report of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee says.

"In 1888 American farms used in addition to manure about 1,800,000 tons of commercial fertilizer," the report sets forth. "In 1938 the consumption of fertilizer was estimated at 7,200,000 tons, or about one and one-tenth tons per farm.

"Fifty years ago the average ton of mixed fertilizer contained only 13.8 per cent of plant food, as against 18.5 per cent now. Thus the average retail price of a unit of plant food was nearly 50 per cent lower in 1938 than it was in 1888."

Fattening lambs on North Dakota farms under watchful eye of William L. Guy (left), one of the leading fat lamb producers in the Red River Valley. Mr. Guy is a part of the interesting story of how sheep from Montana and the Pacific Northwest found a place in North Dakota farm practice.

Breaking the Way

For many years Wheat was King in the rich Red River Valley of North Dakota and Minnesota.

Then growing pains began to develop. Grain-strangling weeds threatened King Wheat's domain.

But already the agricultural representatives of the Great Northern Railway were in that region, advocating diversified farming. For James J. Hill, busy pushing the railroad westward to the Pacific, had created an Agricultural Development Department to help the farmers work out their numerous problems.

The railroad's agricultural agents reasoned that if sheep were turned into the weed-threatened fields, the menace could be brought under control. Fattened woollies too, they figured, would provide the farmers with more than just land crops to sell.

Enough farmers were interested to test the idea. It proved sound and successful. Flocks soon dotted the valley, and became the foundation of a new and important industry.

But the benefits of that experiment extended far beyond the Red River Valley, for the Great Northern's agricultural department encouraged the importation of lambs from Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. Ranchers of those states, in that way, gained another important market for their lambs.

The railroad too was the gainer. For in helping to destroy the weeds which were strangling the crops, the railroad was protecting its traffic.

Mr. Guy (left), manager of an estate comprising a group of fine farms near Fargo, and Paul C. C. Wagner of the Great Northern Railway's staff of agricultural experts.

"It is impossible," said Mr. Guy, "to measure accurately the accomplishments of the Great Northern's agricultural development department, but we do know that it has been a tremendous factor in the growth of livestock feeding in the Red River Valley.

"Someone had to break the way, and Jim Hill's men did it."

At the bottom of Mr. Hill's success was his ready acceptance of a large measure of responsibility for the success of the man on the land. The railroad, he realized, could not make a go of it unless the man on the land could make a go of it.

And this policy of striving to improve the economic welfare of the farmer is pursued as vigorously by the Great Northern Railway today as when Mr. Hill was at the helm.

NO OTHER FORM OF TRANSPORTATION TAKES A SIMILAR INTEREST IN THE WELFARE OF THE FARMER.

Aune-Larson Wedding

Miss Petra Aune and Mr. Roy Larson, both of Gatzke, were married at the Lutheran parsonage in Holt on Sunday evening Oct. 29th, at 5:30. Miss Ragna Aune and Mr. Ingvald Anderson were their attendants. Rev. T. C. L. Hanson read the ceremony. Mrs. Larson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole P. Aune. She is a graduate of the Middle River high school and has been employed at Englestad's store at Gatzke. The groom is the son of Mrs. Huldah Larson and is engaged in farming northwest of Gatzke where the newly-weds will make their home.

Rodney Lee Doran, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Doran was baptised at the parsonage on Thursday evening Nov. 26 with Rev. Hanson officiating. He was born on August 31 and his sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hall and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Miller.

Deposits Hit Record Mark

Last week we mentioned the fact that the Marshall County State Bank here had footings of $281,987.49 in their call report which we published recently. We were informed that on one of the days last week when the force at the bank balanced up for the day the footing had run up to over $315,000.00. This was the largest day's business the Marshall County State bank has done since it organized here.

We like to mention these facts because it is not more than about ten years ago that the people of this community were told at a doings we had here that the bank had deposits of over $75,000 and that the owners were very much pleased with the growth of the institution. Now the business of this bank has grown to four times that amount in ten years. Should it again grow four times as much in the next ten years we can boast of the fact that we have a million dollar bank in our town. Holt is now recognized as the home of one of the best financial institutions in the northwest.

Scouts Invited To Banquet

Invitations were received here this week by the Boy Scouts who have attained their Eagle Scout rank here to be honored guests at a banquet at the Hotel Dakota at Grand Forks, on Sunday evening, Nov. 12. The honored guests from Holt will be Ruben Ness, Milton Hanson, Russel Sanoden and Howard Lorentson. The parents of these boys and others here interested in Scouting are planning to attend this banquet.

Out-of-town visitors who attended the Dorcas Society sale here on Friday evening were Mr and Mrs. O. C. Toftner and daughter Mabel, Mr. and Mrs. Levi G. Johnson and H. M. Hanson of Warren.

1940 Chevrolets Make Their Bow

Three series of passenger cars, re-designed in the new "Royal Clipper" styling, and embodying numerous mechanical improvements to assure greater safety and comfort as well as finer performance, comprise Chevrolet's new line for 1940, introduced today. All series are much larger, over-all length being increased 4¾ inches. The new exclusive vacuum power shift (lower left) is now regular equipment on all models of all series at no extra cost. Special De Luxe series, the Sport Sedan of which is shown at center, has a new T-spoke steering wheel with horn-blowing ring (upper right). Lower right, the 1940 Chevrolet six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, which has been improved for smoother, quieter operation, and extremely long life.

Life Of John Magnuson

Back John Magnuson was born January 15, 1863 at Appelbo Sweden.

In 1886 he was united in marriage to Brita Olson. They were married in the same church as they were instructed in religion.

Mr. and Mrs. Magnuson came to the United States in April 1887. They stayed for a short time at Lake Park in Becker County and then moved to Spruce Valley where they took a homestead and have lived there until their deaths.

Two sons were born to this union, Carl John and Ernest Victor. Victor has always stayed at home and Carl has lived in the neighborhood.

One foster-daughter, Inga, lives in Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Magnuson celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary Sept. 20, 1936. Mrs. Magnuson died the following February 7th, 1937.

Mr. Magnuson has always enjoyed good health until the spring of 1939 when it began to fail. However, he was up and around until five days before he passed away. He failed quickly these five days and died Saturday morning Oct. 21, 1939.

Left to mourn his passing are his two sons Carl and Victor; 5 grandchildren; two brothers and one sister in Sweden and one brother in Chicago.

Funeral services were held at the home on Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Myhrer officiating. Burial was made in the Brandstrom cemetery in Spruce Valley.

In the passing of Mr. Magnuson we are again reminded of the rapid passing of the sturdy pioneers who built up the country so that we may enjoy the the things for which they strove so hard. May we honor them while they are with us and carry on from where they left off.

Peace be to his memory.

Patterns Practical As Well as Smart

NO. 1840. Do you take a large size? Then the beautifully long-line dress (1840) is one that you should make up right away. With slenderizing panels, it has the high-bosomed, narrow-hipped effect most becoming to you. It's smart for afternoon wear and every day, too. Make it of wool broadcloth, wool crepe or faille, with the vestee in contrast, or choose crepe-satin, using the crepe side for the dress and the satin for the vestee—a new and smart combination.

With Slight Military Air.

No. 1839. For juniors, the basque-waisted frock with flaring skirt (1839) is ideal to wear to school and to business. The little-boy collar enables you to keep it always fresh and new-looking, and it's such an easy style to make. This tailors beautifully in wool plaid, challis, velveteen or wool crepe.

The Patterns.

No. 1840 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch material with long sleeves; 4⅜ yards with short; ⅜ yard for vestee.

No. 1839 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 13 requires 2⅝ yards of 54-inch material with long sleeves; 2⅜ yards with short; ⅓ yard for collar in contrast.

Fall Pattern Book.

Special extra! Send today for your new Fall Pattern Book with a stunning selection of a hundred perfect patterns for all shapes and sizes. Save money and know the keen satisfaction of personally planned, perfectly fitted garments by making your own frocks with these smart, carefully cut designs. You can't go wrong—every pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners. Price of Pattern Book, 15 cents.

A WEEK OF EUROPEAN DIPLOMACY
Net result: Hitler's position was uncomfortable.

Europe in Brief:

Turkey's pact with Britain and France to maintain the Mediterranean status quo established Turkey as the key balance-of-power nation in Europe's struggle for power. Italy, unperturbed, viewed the pact as a bar to Russian expansion in the Balkans, where Mussolini hopes to develop Italian influence. As a gesture of renewed confidence, Italian-French trade restrictions were removed.

Russia and Germany both howled over the diplomatic defeat, but Hitler could expect little assistance from Italy by way of re-establishing Nazi influence in the Balkans. Vowing a "fight to the finish" on France and Britain, Hitler appealed to Russia for aid. The Soviet, stunned by Turkey's move, warily sidestepped military assistance to the Reich because all Europe seemed conspiring against Germany. Soviet demands on Finland were reportedly eased.

Fighting on the western front continued lazily, Hitler ordering his troops to remain on their own side of the French border. Observers thought this was a peace gesture, but he meanwhile summoned party leaders to sound out German sentiment on a major offensive. At sea and over England, German planes remained active.

Net result for the week: Anti-Hitler forces gained considerable strength. Russia, having won all she wanted from Germany and being unwilling to play ball with a loser, watched from the sidelines.

CONGRESS:
Hot and Heavy

In the senate, most U. S. statesmen had already decided whether to vote for or against the administration neutrality program. Nevertheless the most prolific oratorical flood in modern U. S. history continued unabated. Congressmen, senators, bystanders and men with axes to grind bawled over the radio, gave interviews and harrangued the senate's rafters with speeches (1) telling why the arms embargo should be lifted, (2) why it should not, and (3) discussing any other phase of international politics which happened to come to mind.

REYNOLDS
Russian torpedo?

Former President Hoover objected to selling heavy armament, urging that "in what we do, we seek for a firm basis in broad humanity." Col. Charles A. Lindbergh thought we might soon have to forbid any American nation from sending troops abroad or giving bases to foreign battleships. Michigan's Sen. Prentiss Brown took him to task for lending "encouragement to the spirit of nationalistic imperialism.

(Most heated international argument was a "who done it" forum on the Athenia sinking. North Carolina's Sen. Bob Reynolds injected a new angle by accusing Russia. Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels blamed Britain's Winston Churchill personally. The British, as usual, blamed Germany.)

While Repealists Key Pittman and Alben Barkley fought to limit debate and bring the neutrality issue to a vote, U. S. public opinion was undeniably waxing wary. Repealists had already made some concessions, abandoning the 90-day credit clause and proposed restrictions on U. S. shipping. Whereas 44 per cent of the nation (in a Gallup) poll had earlier favored U. S. participation in the war should the allies lose, the percentage now dropped to 29.

Observers thought the measure would get senate approval, but there were indications it had a majority of only 15 votes in the house.

MARINE:
Opportunity?

At Washington the U. S. maritime commission learned its 5,000-ton freighter City of Flint had been seized by Germany for carrying contraband of war to Britain. Reports said the boat was taken first to Tromsoe, Norway, where a Nazi prize crew manned her. Two days later the Soviet news agency announced the boat was at Kol bay, north of Murmansk. This startling incident, first U. S. involvement in the war of 1939, fascinated Princeton's Dr. Edward S. Corwin, professor of jurisprudence. He figured it this way: The U. S. can now ask Russia to state her position as regards the warring nation. If Russia maintains she is neutral, the U. S. can demand return of the interned ship; if Russia indicates she is a belligerent, then Britain and France can go to work on Soviet shipping. In any case, Dr. Corwin thought it would clarify Russia's position with Germany.

TREASURY: ## Bad News

Forgotten under the stress of war has been America's mounting public debt, which supplied a No. 1 political argument before anti-administration forces turned their attention to neutrality (See CONGRESS). But one fine October day Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau called reporters for a story that set the opposition campaigning again. The story: The treasury was borrowing $150,000,000 in 91-day discount notes, although slightly less than $100,000,000 in similar obligations were due. Thus the public debt was hiked $58,000,000 in one day, the extra borrowing being a precaution against financing at a time when war news might make it difficult.

Thus the total debt reached $40,963,392,881 and seemed a cinch to cross the $41,000,000,000 mark within the week. Figures on public debt growth were discouraging: It was about 2½ billions greater than a year ago, and a deficit of $1,291,509,406 had piled up since the current fiscal year began (income: $1,629,591,000; outlay: $2,921,100,000). Moreover, the pace of growth was speeded, for debt incurred in last year's similar period was only $997,039,000.

SECRETARY MORGENTHAU
Ever upward.

The debt crept ever nearer the $45,000,000,000 statutory limit, which the administration has promised to raise (if congress approves) as soon as needed.

PEOPLE:
No More Elliott

At Boston, Son Elliott Roosevelt announced his 10 Texas broadcasting stations were resigning from the National Association of Broadcasters because of its self-imposed censorship barring expressions of personal opinion on controversial issues from commercially sponsored programs. Next he flayed the federal communications commission, whose six-months renewal policy for broadcasting station "makes broadcasting not a business but a gamble."

SON ELLIOTT
Radio's a gamble.

¶ At New York, Countess Barbara Hutton Mdivani Haugwitz-Reventlow arrived from Europe and hinted she's to be Reno-vated to marry Robert Sweeney, American golfer living in England.

¶ Also at New York docked Britain's former first lord of the admiralty, Alfred Duff Cooper, to predict a German revolution. (At London it was hinted Britain might recognize a new German government to be seated in London.)

¶ Americans abroad: At London, Kermit Roosevelt (T. R.'s son) became a second lieutenant in the British army. Unsubstantiated was the report he had surrendered U. S. citizenship. Also at London, Wisconsin-born Harry Gordon Selfridge retired from his mammoth department store.

DOMESTIC:
Stolen March

For two seasons Texas' Rep. Martin Dies has made funny and serious headlines with his committee investigating subversive affairs, but not until late October did anything come of it. In September Communist Earl Browder testified he had traveled abroad on a false passport. This "shocker" brought no visible burst of action from the justice department, hence it became a political issue. Through the national Republican office, New Jersey's Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (a Dies prober), charged Democratic Attorney General Frank Murphy with being "strangely indifferent and listless." Upshot was Frank Murphy's announcement that a secret investigation had been under way for some time. He even hinted there were secret indictments. Next day, as if a long-forgotten matter were suddenly remembered, Communist Browder was indicted. The question: Who had stolen a political march on whom, Parnell or Murphy? And what would come of it?

News Quiz Answers

1. Tommy, seeking fun, paid $3,000 to bring her across the country in a private airplane. She expected to become his fifth wife. He wouldn't talk.

2. By saying publicly, in Tokyo: "The American people regard with growing seriousness the violation and interference with American rights by Japanese armed forces in China in disregard of treaties and agreements." A few days later Japan began bowing from the waist, seeking a new trade pact.

3. False. New York attendance was half that expected, but will open again next year. San Francisco's fair, listing debts of $4,600,000, has filed bankruptcy proceedings.

4. (A) is correct. Fund will be used by Cotton Export corporation, a private co-operative.

5. (C) is correct. Over both cities, endurance fliers were well past the 500-hour mark, but Los Angeles' fliers used a seaplane, not recognized. World record: 653 hours, 34 minutes, made by Key brothers at Meridian, Miss.

★ Way Back in Movies
★ War Cramps Hughes
★ Thomas in Screen Debut

By Virginia Vale

IF THE current crop of young Americans doesn't know all about American history it won't be the fault of the movies. Producers are fairly falling over each other in the scramble to stake a claim to a slice of it; hardly a day passes that another historical picture isn't announced.

Though it hardly seems possible, "Hollywood Cavalcade" is history too, the history of the movies, released for the industry's fiftieth anniversary. The heroine, played by Alice Faye, is a combination of all those golden-curled girls who used to act before the cameras (and as a rule most of them over-acted), and Don Ameche plays the hero, who is a number of those historic leading men rolled into one.

But the hit of the picture, so far as a lot of people are concerned, is the lads who show us how slapstick comedy used to be played. Buster Keaton, Chester Conklin, Ben Turpin, Hank Mann, Eddie Collins, Jimmy Finlayson—there they are again, throwing custard pies with vim and vigor, staging a comedy treat for the old-timers who used to laugh at them and the new generation who never saw them before. All hail the Keystone cops!

ALICE FAYE

And be it said for Alice Faye that she can take a custard pie in the face and come right up for more.

—*—

Howard Hughes is returning to the picture business, since the war has cramped his style where round-the-world flights are concerned. And he wants a new boy and girl team. He has shown that he's a genius when it comes to discovering and developing talent; he launched Jean Harlow in "Hell's Angels," you'll remember, and made Paul Muni a motion picture star overnight in "Scarface."

He's shown, too, that he knows how to make pictures. During the long stretch when "Hell's Angels" was considered just a rich man's folly, people who had served their time at picture-making predicted that he'd never get back one-tenth of the money that he was pouring into it. It's still being shown and still making money.

—*—

John Charles Thomas is going into the movies. Remember the little difference of opinion he had concerning his radio appearances, because he wouldn't sing if he couldn't conclude with "Good night, Mother"? He will sing in the picture in which he makes his screen debut, "Kingdom Come," whose story deals with American folk music. It will be made by Producers Corporation of America, a new motion-picture company.

—*—

It's going to seem strange to have Nelson Eddy permanently off that Sunday night radio program; a lot of his admirers will never be reconciled to his departure. But he feels that, what with concerts, recordings and work in the movies, he hasn't time for regular radio work.

—*—

Edward G. Robinson is all in favor of realism on the radio and in his pictures, but it was almost too much for him at one of his broadcasts not long ago. The script called for the sound effect of a man being hit over the head with a chair. The sound effects man was to smash the chair against the wall (try it sometime and see if it sounds like the real thing). The chair slipped, hit an actor over the head, and put him in the Hollywood emergency hospital.

—*—

ODDS AND ENDS—After having it on and off the schedule since 1936, Metro has finally put "Not Too Narrow, Not Too Deep" into production, with Joan Crawford and Clark Gable . . . Paramount is offering the public a new romantic team in "Moon Over Burma"—they're Patricia Morrison and Robert Preston . . . "Vera Vague," of the Charlie McCarthy program, is played by Barbara Jo Allen, whom you hear as "Beth Holly" on "One Man's Family" . . . Watch for more and better (we hope) comedies on the screen from now on; motion picture producers are on the hunt for stories that will help the public to forget the war.

Heard the story of the British militiaman who was asked his age by the sergeant major? "Twenty," he replied. And—isn't it shocking?—he didn't say "Sir."

"Forty," said the militiaman.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!
An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.
If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.
Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Finland to Safeguard Hold on Aaland Islands

Thousands of tiny islands, some of them no more than reefs, make up the Baltic archipelago that shows on the map as the Finnish-controlled Aaland islands. Though Russia has not formally voiced demands that it be allowed to establish a naval base on the islands, it is expected the request, when it comes, will be rejected flatly by Finland. # HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

SEAM
CUT STRAIGHT BANDS 2" WIDE. TURN AND PRESS EDGES; THEN STITCH AS SHOWN

"STURDY and masculine." Also, "Red trimmings, please." That was the order for the bedspread in the combination work-and-play room of a 10-year-old lad. Blue and tan predominated in the room. The clever mother made curtains for the rather large square window; using lunch cloths in these colors—one cloth making a pair of curtains.

Blue denim with red gingham bands is suggested for the spread. The diagram may be used as a guide for cutting and making a spread of any 36-inch material for a bed of any width. The amount of material needed will be three times the full width of the finished spread, plus two inches. Two seams covered by bands run straight across the width of the spread. The two lengthwise bands may be close together or far apart according to the width of the bed. The corners at the foot are cut out as shown. The edges are then pressed to the right side and bands stitched over them.

Breaking the Way

For many years Wheat was King in the rich Red River Valley of North Dakota and Minnesota.

Then growing pains began to develop. Grain-strangling weeds threatened King Wheat's domain.

But already the agricultural representatives of the Great Northern Railway were in that region, advocating diversified farming. For James J. Hill, busy pushing the railroad westward to the Pacific, had created an Agricultural Development Department to help the farmers work out their numerous problems.

The railroad's agricultural agents reasoned that if sheep were turned into the weed-threatened fields, the menace could be brought under control. Fattened woollies too, they figured, would provide the farmers with more than just land crops to sell.

Enough farmers were interested to test the idea. It proved sound and successful. Flocks soon dotted the valley, and became the foundation of a new and important industry.

But the benefits of that experiment extended far beyond the Red River Valley, for the Great Northern's agricultural department encouraged the importation of lambs from Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. Ranchers of those states, in that way, gained another important market for their lambs.

The railroad too was the gainer. For in helping to destroy the weeds which were strangling the crops, the railroad was protecting its traffic.

Mr. Guy (left), manager of an estate comprising a group of fine farms near Fargo, and Paul C. C. Wagner of the Great Northern Railway's staff of agricultural experts.

"It is impossible," said Mr. Guy, "to measure accurately the accomplishments of the Great Northern's agricultural development department, but we do know that it has been a tremendous factor in the growth of livestock feeding in the Red River Valley.

"Someone had to break the way, and Jim Hill's men did it."

At the bottom of Mr. Hill's success was his ready acceptance of a large measure of responsibility for the success of the man on the land. The railroad, he realized, could not make a go of it unless the man on the land could make a go of it.

And this policy of striving to improve the economic welfare of the farmer is pursued as vigorously by the Great Northern Railway today as when Mr. Hill was at the helm.

NO OTHER FORM OF TRANSPORTATION TAKES A SIMILAR INTEREST IN THE WELFARE OF THE FARMER.

Scouts Invited To Banquet

Invitations were received here this week by the Boy Scouts who have attained their Eagle Scout rank here to be honored guests at a banquet at the Hotel Dakota at Grand Forks, on Sunday evening, Nov. 12. The honored guests from Holt will be Ruben Ness, Milton Hanson, Russel Sanoden and Howard Lorentson. The parents of these boys and others here interested in Scouting are planning to attend this banquet.

Circles 5, 6, and 7 met in the church parlors of the Nazareth Lutheran church on Wednesday evening and reorganized into two circles, 5 and 6. The unanimous decision of the members was that it was more practical to work in two groups as there are not enough members for three.

Mrs. L. Wegge and Mrs. A. H. Rux went to Thief River Falls Sunday by bus and were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wegge. They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wegge and Wayne one day last week.

Mrs. A. H. Rux from Greely Colorado came last Tuesday to visit with her sister Mrs. Louis Wegge.

Thore O. Dovre Called

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon for Thore O. Dovre, at the Nazareth Lutheran church of which he was a charter member.

Mr. Dovre was born in Valders Norway, March 15, 1857 and passed away at Thief River Falls on Thursday November 2nd., at age of 82 years 7 months and 17 days.

He came from Norway to Minneota, Minn. in 1881 and five years later in 1886 he moved to Pembina, N. Dak. where he lived until the year 1888 when he moved to Holt Township, Marshall County, where he homesteaded and farmed until 1928 when he moved to Thief River Falls where he made his home since with the exception of the last two years, when he has divided his time between his childrens home.

He was married in April 1885 at Minneota, Minn. to Olette Wigness who died June 8, 1922, and leaves to mourn his passing five daughters Miss Ella Dovre of Faribault, Minn., Mrs. Mary Lindholm of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Alma Bergan of Argusville, N. Dak. Mrs. Selma Groby of Everett, Washington, and Mrs. Nora Movick of Holt. Four sons Ole H. of Middle River, John E. of Fessenden, N. D. and Theodore and Harold both of Pontiac, Mich. and one sister Mrs. Anna Christianson of Washington and 24 grandchildren. His wife and one son preceeded him in death.

Pallbearers were J. P. Benitt, Fred Peterson, Ole Larson, Albin Knauf, Fred Wegge, Gust Erickson.

Interment was made in the Ridge cemetery.

Mrs. Fred Larson Mrs. N. Peterson and sons, Iver Larson and Lloyd Larson visited relatives at Honeyford, N. D. Tuesday and also visited Rev. Redals at Oslo.

1940 Chevrolets Make Their Bow

Three series of passenger cars, re-designed in the new "Royal Clipper" styling, and embodying numerous mechanical improvements to assure greater safety and comfort as well as finer performance, comprise Chevrolet's new line for 1940, introduced today. All series are much larger, overall length being increased 4⅜ inches. The new exclusive vacuum power shift (lower left) is now regular equipment on all models of all series at no extra cost. Special De Luxe series, the Sport Sedan of which is shown at center, has a new T-spoke steering wheel with horn-blowing ring (upper right). Lower right, the 1940 Chevrolet six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, which has been improved for smoother, quieter operation, and extremely long life.

We would appreciate very much to ave you breeze in with those $ $ $

Pioneer School News

The carnival we held was well attended. Miss Plymire appreciated what everyone did to help make the evening worthwhile. Especially the help of the mothers and also that the three teachers from Holt were judges. First price in the Amateur contest went to the Tony Peterson girls; 2nd prize to Elaine Johnson and Evelyn Sagstuen. The blanket was won by Harold Ness the double boiler by Mrs. C. Wilson and the luncheon cloth by Mrs. J. Ness.

On Tuesday we had our Halloween party. Those that were with us on that day were: Mrs. J. Ness; Mrs. Movick and Jackie Mrs. Smith, Verna Johnson, Ethel Vattendahl, Mrs. H. Johnson, Miss Mikkelson. A short program was given and contests held.

The Busy workers' Club held its meeting Friday. Offices filled were Pres. Elaine Johnson. Sec'y Lawrence Mickelson and Vice Pres. Eloise Saugstad.

Report cards have been given out. Those with perfect attendance were: Eloise Saugstad, Harold Ness, Betty Ness, Earl Ness, Vernice Smith, Yvonne Johnson, Elaine Johnson and Joel Vattendahl.

Those with perfect spelling are: Joyce Johnson, Eloise Saugstad, Earl Ness, Wilma Movick and Harold Ness.

The Free Mission Ladies Aid is serving a delicious supper on Friday evening Nov. 17 for the small sum 30c for adults and 20c for children. Why not give your wife a break from the drudgery of meal making and take the family to this supper. Remember you are also helping do something for the church.

Oakey Takes Over Cafe

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Oakey this week made a deal with Theo Ness whereby they rented the Holt Cafe. They are well known in the Holt Community having farmed what is now the Anton Rodahl farm for several years before moving to Oregon where they have been the past three years. The News joins the people of Holt and community in bidding the Oakey family welcome back again and wish them success in their new venture.

Mr. and Mrs. Ness left for their home in Red Lake Falls where Mr. Ness is owner of the Red Lake Beverage Co. and distributes Karlsbrau Beer, soft drinks and fountain supplies. Mrs. Ness has operated the Holt Cafe the past summer while they were looking for someone to take it over.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Augustine attended Parents Day activities at the Northwest School at Crookston, Saturday. Evelyn Stienhauer and Angeline Augustine, students there, returned home with them for the week end and Mr. and Mrs. W. Stienhauer took them back on Monday

Mrs. Dennis Wegge and Beverly of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Gust Peterson, Mrs. A. Bennes, Mrs. C. Sandberg called on Mrs. L. Wegge on Tuesday afternoon.

Bennes-Fredrickson Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bennes was the scene of a beautiful candle light wedding on Saturday evening when their daughter Beaulah became the bride of Mr. Albert Fredrickson, son of Mrs. Laura Fredrickson. Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiated using the single ring ceremony.

To the strains of a wedding march played by Mrs. Marvin Sandberg, the bride entered the living room escorted by her father where she was met by the groom. Preceding the ceremony Mr. Marvin Sandberg sang "I Love You Truly."

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Saastad of Thief River Falls, intimate friends of the couple. The bride carried a boquet of American Roses.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Bennes served a delicious lunch to the officiating parties, Mrs. Laura Fredrickson and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson.

Mrs. Fredrickson is a graduate of Holt High school and Lincoln high school of Thief River Falls, with the class of 1934. For the past number of years, she has been operator at the Model Beauty Shop at Thief River Falls The groom is barbering at the Benson Barber Shop at Thief River Falls. The newlyweds will make their home in Thief River Falls where they are both employed.

Strange Facts

Odd Court Rulings
Freaks for Speed
Minnows, Whales

During recent years, courts of law in various states have held that railroad cars are buildings, asses are cattle, bicycles are animals, dentists are mechanics, death by lynching is an accident and baseball is labor, not a game or sport. Even the Supreme court of the United States ruled in 1931 that the airplane is not a self-propelled vehicle.

Many characters in animated movie cartoons are drawn with only three fingers and a thumb on each hand because the omission is rarely observed and saves considerable time and labor.

The chief feature of a recent sports festival in Germany was a chariot race in which motorcycles took the place of horses. Each quartet of riderless cycles was held upright and apart from one another by crossbars and steered from the chariot by reins attached to their handle bars.

There are approximately 700 submarines in commission in the navies of the world today, ranging in size from the giant French "Surcouf" with a surface displacement of 2,880 tons down to the little Finnish "Saukko" of only 99 tons.—Collier's.

IT'S POP CORN TIME

THERE is no confection so widely used and universally liked as pop corn. It is a perennial icebreaker at almost any social function. Here is a recipe that is sure to be enjoyed:

Honey Pop Corn Balls

1 cup honey
1 cup sugar
½ cup water
½ teaspoonful cream of tartar
1 tablespoon butter
4 quarts pop corn

Boil honey, sugar, and water with cream of tartar until it turns brittle when tested in cold water. Add butter. Mix with warm pop corn and shape into balls.

Foe of Democracy

The deadliest foe of democracy is not autocracy but liberty frenzied. Liberty is not fool-proof. For its beneficent working it demands self-restraint, a sane and clear recognition of the practical and attainable, and of the fact that there are laws of nature which are beyond our power to change.—Otto Kahn.

Useful Delusions

I was never much displeased with those harmless delusions that tend to make us more happy.—Goldsmith.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD
Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of worldwide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.
These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.
Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

SPEAKING OF—

AVIATION. As Clyde Schlieper and Wes Carroll landed their endurance seaplane at Los Angeles with a world's record (726 hours aloft, three days better than the old mark), two Peruvian brothers left Floyd Bennett field in New York on a non-stop flight back to Lima.

LABOR. Acting Navy Secretary Charles Edison reported to the house naval affairs committee that C. I. O.'s United Automobile Workers union was jeopardizing the navy's aviation defense program through a strike at the Bohn Aluminum & Brass factory in Detroit.

NAVY'S EDISON
No admittance.

Said Mr. Edison: A naval inspector, calling at the strike-bound factory to collect vital U. S.-owned patterns and designs, was turned back by pickets. Originally the incident was publicized by Michigan's Republican Rep. Clare Hoffman.

AGRICULTURE. With U. S. soybeans selling abroad six times better than in 1938 thanks to the war, farm officials think 1940's wheat, beef and cotton crops might be boosted if Germany's U-boats hamper British-French communications with their colonies. Otherwise beef slaughter will drop because of poor winter feeding prospects. Meanwhile severe west and southwest drouths endanger the nation's breadbasket again.

INDIA. When a British white paper postponed "until after the war" consideration of India's plea for dominionization, the Madras provincial government resigned and bitterness grew apace. Sir Samuel Hoare, defending the policy, replied that dominion status was impossible until "the Indians themselves have settled their minorities problem." Commented India's Mohandas Gandhi: "I wonder if dominion status has any meaning unless it is synonymous with independence. India's co-operation in the war is not as barren as Hoare believes. It . . . will continue effective, if the Congress party remains non-violent." But violence may result if Britain fails to back-water immediately.

GANDHI
Subtle warning.

LOUISIANA. When New Orleans grand jurors howled after District Attorney Charles A. Byrnes allegedly blocked their probe of tax corruption, Byrnes resigned and was replaced by Niels Hertz under appointment of Gov. Earl K. Long. Hertz' first act: To close the hearing, where it was being charged the city lost hundreds of thousands of dollars through the alleged tax racket. Next day the U. S. stepped in with a federal grand jury.

THE NEUTRALS:
Bogey Men

A warring power can line up its weaker neutral neighbors either by back-slapping or jaw-punching. The former has more permanent advantages; the latter is useful under stress. All Hallows' eve found Comrades Hitler and Stalin sticking bogey-man Jack O'Lanterns in many a Balkan and Baltic window while France and Britain tried to soothe the frightened children. Italy just sat.

Up north, where Finland was still refusing mysterious Russian demands, Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko told a patriotic rally to remember "two ancient countries which have been wiped off the map."

RUMANIAN 'HOT SPOT'

Arrows at (1) show course of a possible Hungarian drive to regain Transylvania and the minor provinces of Bukowina and the Banat of Temesvar; (2) show the Russian threat to Bessarabia; (3) the rich Dobruja region, coveted by Bulgaria. Most of this land was given to Rumania at Versailles. Its loss would cut her off from the sea and finish her as a power. But aid may come from Yugoslavia (A), or from the Allies, Greece and Turkey at (B).

But it was in the Balkans that greatest fears arose. When Italy calmly appropriated $873,000,000 for an arms program which might be needed to drive nosey Russia out of the Balkans, Rumania was genuinely frightened. Working slyly, the Soviet kept encouraging Bulgaria's demands for return of Dobruja (see map).

King Carol knew what that meant. Should trouble come with Bulgaria, Russia could follow her Polish tactics by marching into Bessarabia to "protect" White Russians. Meanwhile Hungary would not be above "saving" her own nationals now under Rumanian rule. International observers were convinced this was no joke, and so was Carol. He summoned his envoys to Turkey, Bulgaria, Greece and Jugo-Slavia for a conference, and next day Premier Constantine Argetoianu met Jugo-Slavia's Premier Dragisha Tsvetkovitch for mutual defense talks. Expected daily was some statement from Italy: Would she demand that Russia keep hands off, thereby breaking with Germany? It seemed a good bet.

THE WAR: ### Rebound

When Swiss President Philipp Etter visited the intersection of German-French-Swiss frontiers, he passed cigarettes to his own troops, next handed them across the line to French soldiers, then offered the pack to the German guards. This did not look like a German-French war. Neither did the communiques. Said Berlin's: "No special happenings." Said Paris: "Very reduced activity during the night."

There was no sign of peace behind German lines, however. Allied reconnaisance revealed about 1,500,000 Nazi troops concentrated on Swiss, Belgian, Netherlands and French frontiers, indicating a possible invasion of the lesser neutral states. Opposing them were the same number of French troops and about 158,000 British.

Still the war did not start despite frontier jitters which were heightened when the Reich cut telephone communications all along this 500-mile frontier. Observers believed only bad weather or Adolf Hitler's whim stood between German troops and a large-scale offensive. There was also a chance Hitler awaited support from Russia.

Nazidom had no fear of an allied offensive, but that very assurance constituted an even greater fear. Poorly fed and nervously strained, Germany cannot endure a long war of attrition such as Britain and France will no doubt wage. Some observers believe the "war of nerves" which Hitler used to such advantage earlier this year is now rebounding, and that Naziism may soon give way to army rule.

CONGRESS:
To the House

British-French cheers reverberated across the Atlantic when the U. S. senate passed, 63 to 30, the administration's neutrality bill which permits cash-and-carry sale of munitions to belligerents. Berlin was resentful and Rome was sad, the latter forecasting a longer war if America aided the allies. In Russia, the newspaper Izvestia commented sourly that "war in Europe was met by Wall Street with poorly disguised rejoicing in expectation of profits on war orders."

(The U. S. was already on bad terms with Russia since the U. S. S. City of Flint, seized by Germany, had been taken to far-north Murmansk, repaired, and released by the Soviet to her German prize crew. All U. S. diplomatic efforts to locate the Flint's American crew were ignored, but it was learned the 41 men were aboard as the ship sailed for Germany. Stopping at Tromsoe, Norway, the Flint was ordered away.)

Still awaited was the house vote on neutrality. Administration leaders arranged to have the rules committee bring out a simple resolution sending the measure to conference with the senate, a move made possible by the house's passage of a modified version of the program last summer. Then the only house vote on the embargo would center on a resolution to instruct house agents to insist on the partial arms embargo. If the resolution failed, quick agreement was certain since most conferees are pro-repeal.

As house debate opened, administrationists forecast victory by at least 30 points. Isolationists, insisting the result would hinge on about 10 votes, hoped pressure from back home would sway fence straddlers to their side.

But after neutrality, what next? Although Franklin Roosevelt wanted congress to go home, many an anti-New Dealer wanted to sit pat until the war was over—whether a year or a decade.

COURTS:
Black Tom

In 1916 and 1917 German saboteurs did a good job of blasting U. S. munitions factories to kingdom come. Two cases in point: The Kingsland, N. J., plant, and the Black Tom terminal at Hoboken, just across the Hudson from Manhattan. After 20 years of bickering, Nazidom's Dr. Victor Huecking deserted the mixed claims commission last June, just before Imperial Germany was found responsible for the disasters. Story's end: In Washington, what was left of the mixed commission awarded approximately $50,000,000 to Americans, including $21,157,227 in damages plus 5 per cent interest. Though Adolf Hitler will have no truck with the case, Germany has a special deposit account in the U. S. treasury of between $23,000,000 and $26,000,000 to meet the award. The treasury also holds about half a billion "paper value" in German republic bonds, but it looked like American claimants would be lucky to get the principal, minus interest.

POLITICS:
Third Term Talk

In late October a Gallup poll showed Franklin Roosevelt's popularity to be greater than in 1936, when he got 62.5 per cent of the major party vote. Gallup rating today: 64.9 per cent. Less emphatic, third-term sentiment rose to 43 per cent compared with 40 before the war. But many anti-third term voters said they might change their minds if the war continues.

Much bigger political news was the feeling in Washington that President Roosevelt will not seek a third term, an undercover sentiment that has made many an anti-New Dealer support his neutrality bill (See CONGRESS).

Certainly he is discouraging nomination talk. Observers learned he told Iowa's Sen. Guy Gillette that the tall corn state's convention delegation should go unpledged. It was also believed he discouraged Gillette from instructing his Iowans for Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. Reason: Wallace lacks political "it."

STEVE EARLY
"It would have been kind . . ."

Wallace himself got his fingers severely burned. In San Francisco, he remarked that the President is "the best qualified man . . . to guide this country in a serious international crisis." Back in Washington the President refused comment, but Secretary Steve Early answered for him: "It would have been kind and polite of the speaker to have consulted the victim before he spoke."

Tentative Toss

At Washington, Oregon's Sen. Charles L. McNary tossed his hat in the G. O. P. presidential ring but left a string attached to pull it back. He would allow his name to be placed before the convention, said Mr. McNary, for the purpose of aiding farm areas to select a candidate and platform. But: "In no sense am I interested except for the purpose of getting together on some candidate before we go to the convention."

PEOPLE:
Papal Slap

In his first encyclical, Pope Pius XII did not mention Russia or Germany by name, but said: ". . . the state with unlimited authority . . . breaks the unity of the supranational society, robs the law of nations of its foundation and vigor, and leads to the violation of others' (Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Austria) rights and impedes agreement and peaceful intercourse."

PIUS XII
"Robs . . . of vigor."

PATTERN DEPARTMENT
SEWING CIRCLE

AN EXTREMELY new and very becoming dress fashion is yours in pattern No. 1848. It has the smart double swing skirt, is cut on a true princess line that whittles down your waist, and offers a choice of two necklines—one with a tailored collar, the other high and collarless. Also, you can make it with long or short sleeves. The row of buttons down the front is very Victorian—therefore much in fashion. Velveteen, flat crepe, wool broadcloth and faille are smart materials for this.

Sports Two-Piecer for Girls.

If there's a lively school-girl in your family, who loves to roller skate, ice skate and generally frolic around outdoors, you can make her feel very happy and look very cute, by means of No. 1825. It's an excellent style for the classroom, too. Has a very full skirt, a nipped-in jacket blouse, and it's finished with cuffs and becoming little collar. Velveteen, wool plaid, corduroy and blanket wool are good fabrics for this.

The Patterns.

No. 1848 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Size 14 requires 4¾ yards of 36 or 39-inch fabric, with long sleeves. With short sleeves, 4⅜ yards; ⅓ yard contrasting for collar.

No. 1825 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 10 requires 1 yard of 54-inch material for jacket-blouse with long sleeves; 1½ yards for skirt; ½ yard for contrasting collar and cuffs; 1½ yards 39-inch material to line jacket-blouse; 2 yards to line skirt.

New Fall Pattern Book.

Special extra! Send today for your new Fall Pattern Book with a stunning selection of a hundred perfect patterns for all shapes and sizes. Save money and know the keen satisfaction of personally planned, perfectly fitted garments by making your own frocks with these smart, carefully cut designs. You can't go wrong—every pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners. Price of Pattern Book, 15 cents.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

A General Quiz

1. What is the difference between a contest and a tournament?
2. Why did George Eliot, the English novelist and poet, not live to be an old man?
3. How many time changes from Chicago to San Francisco?
4. What is a trade dollar?
5. For what do the following abbreviations stand: Ad lib.; e.g.; i.e.; viz.?
6. Would you call a person living in Rome a Roman or an Italian?

The Answers

1. A contest is any battle for supremacy; a tournament usually refers to some test of athletics or card skill.
2. George Eliot was a woman.
3. Two—one to mountain time, and one to Pacific time.
4. A U. S. coin not minted since 1885, made for trade in the Orient.
5. Ad libitum, at pleasure; exempli gratia, for example; id est, that is; videlicet, namely.
6. "Roman" generally implies the early Roman empire. "Italian" is used.

Antarctic 'Snow Cruiser' Goes for Trial Spin

Thousands of persons gathered in Chicago's Grant park recently to view the "snow cruiser," a huge glacial dreadnaught built for Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition to the Antarctic. In an experimental trip the huge ice buggy traveled 15 miles per hour on its 10-foot wheels. Fifty-five feet long, the gigantic machine is built to carry an airplane on its top. Steering levers control the wheels in pairs, although any one wheel may be turned separately. Two 150 horsepower Diesel motors supply power for the cruiser.

May Head England's 'Rightful' German Government

Should Great Britain set up a "rightful" German government (similar to the Polish government now seated in Paris) as is rumored internationally, these three men would undoubtedly head it. They are: Dr. Rudolf Bretischeid, left, former social democrat, who would be foreign minister; Dr. Hermann Rauschning, center, one-time Nazi president of the Danzig senate, who would be chancellor, and Dr. Joseph Wirth, right, former German chancellor, who would be finance minister. The three men are all exiles from Germany. The rumor adds that Britain would loan the "government" 2,000,000 pounds sterling to defray expenses.

Convicted Pastor Fights for Life

Rev. Walter Dworecki, Camden, N. J., preacher, sentenced to die in the electric chair, is getting another chance to prove his innocence. The pastor will appeal his sentence, given him when he was found guilty of plotting the murder of his daughter, Wanda, who was slain by a strangler who testified Dworecki hired him to commit the crime. He is shown receiving a final embrace from his daughter, Mildred. The appeal automatically postponed the execution date, originally scheduled for the week of November 12.

HOW TO SEW
by Ruth Wyeth Spears

THE bride came home, but not to weep on Mother's shoulder. "There are too many bare spots in our house," she said; "and I want to rummage in your attic." "You are welcome," replied Mother, "but you will find no antiques—nothing there but junk."

A golden oak dresser; a fish bowl; an old portier; a chromo in a wide gold frame; and an old piano stool; were carted away.

Varnish remover and plain drawer pulls transformed the dresser into a good-looking chest of drawers. A glazier put a mirror in the oval gold frame. Those are dusky pink branches in the fish-bowl—lovely against the rose-red brocade hanging. The diagram shows how the hanging was made from a part of the portier. The edges were finished with dull gold colored braid and fringe; and it hung with matching cord, tassels and an ordinary curtain rod. What became of the stool and the mirror will be told next week.

NOTE: Readers who are now using Sewing Books No. 1, 2 and 3 will be happy to learn that No. 4 is ready for mailing; as well as the 10 cent editions of No. 1, 2 and 3. ### Wren Had Last Laugh On Critical Councillors

Sir Christopher Wren, builder of St. Paul's cathedral, and many other famous churches, was partly responsible for the Town Hall of Windsor, in 1686, but the good councillors had misgivings about his work.

They complained to him that the big hall had no pillars to support it, and despite Wren's assurances that it had been designed that way and was safe, demanded that supporting pillars be placed in position.

Wren agreed to do so, and had four pillars erected. But some years later it was discovered that the pillars did not reach the ceiling, and there was a space big enough for a man's hand to pass between.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
© The Safety Man

Recently the safety department of the Wisconsin Highway Commission stated that the "man on the street" is less careful of oncoming cars than women pedestrian.

The safety department reports these findings:

"The safest place to walk on a rural highway is on the left side, facing oncoming traffic.

"The most dangerous place to walk on a rural highway is on the right side, with traffic coming from behind you.

"The safest place to cross a city street is at a marked intersection, with the traffic signals.

"The most dangerous place to cross is in the middle of the block".

Statistics prove conclusively that these are prominent places and some of the prominent causes of automobile accidents. Laws will not abolish them. It will requre the definite safety conduct of each and every one of us to help eliminate some of these causes of accidents from our highways.

Svanjord-Heinze Wedding

On Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the parsonage of the Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls, occured the wedding of Miss Gladys Svanjord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aslak Svenjord of Goodridge, and Mr. Frank Heinze, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Heinze of Thief River Falls, formerly of Holt.

Attending the couple were: Miss Thilda Hanson, cousin of the groom, and Clifford Brunsberg of Fertile.

The bride looked lovely in a royal blue velvet dress with blue accessories and carried roses and small button pompoms.

The bridesmaid wore a sky blue dress with black accessories and carried bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

The groom and best man, dressed in dark blue, wore white carnations.

A lovely wedding dinner was served by the grooms parents at five o'clock for the immediate relatives. After which the newly married couple left on a short wedding trip.

On their return they will be at home on the C. L. Heinze farm where the groom is farming with his father.

Four Scouts Made Eagles

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson and daughters Lois and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lorentson and Betty Lou and Dale, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness and Leonard and Irene, Mrs. G. Sanoden, Scoutmaster and Mrs. Hartley Peterson and Scouts Ruben Ness, Howard Lorentson, Russel Sanoden and Milton Hanson motored to Grand Forks Sunday where they took part in the annual meeting of the Lake Agassiz Boy Scout Council held at the Dakota Hotel there. They first attended the special services in the Methodist church, after which they attended the luncheon at the Dakotat Hotel. The afternoon consisted of Committee and business meetings which were very inspiring.

A banquet was held in the evening at which awards were given. Ten scouts of the Lake Agassiz Council received Eagle Scout Badges. Those from Holt were Russel Sanoden, Milton Hanson, Ruben Ness and Howard Lorentson. Harold Gavere had also completed the requirements and will no doubt follow up the work in Minneapolis where he now lives.

The fact was brought out that never before in the Lake Agassiz Council had there been as many as four Eagle Scouts from one troop at the same time. Hartley Peterson also received honors for five years of Scoutwork.

The troop intends to keep up the good work and expect the following boys will be ready for Eagle Scout rank next year: Roy Hagberg who has attained the rank of Life Scout up to now and Roy Johnson, Jerome Sorum and Wayne Larson, who are Star Scouts.

Next drawing for free prizes at the Engen Garage will be Saturday evening, Nov. 18 at 8:30 sharp!

INDUSTRY AND AGRICULTURE

The success of agriculture depends upon the markets of industry.

The best markets for Minnesota agricultural products are those found in Minnesota, among those who are employed in business and industry.

When Minnesota agricultural products are shipped to distant markets, these products find themselves in immediate competition with the oils and fats of the Pacific, beef from South American countries and butterfat from Denmark. The best way to build markets for Minnesota agricultural products is to improve the markets and the purchasing power of the people of Minnesota.

In every state where there are substantial industrial operations which create a market for the larger part of the local agricultural production, there is the greatest degree of agricultural stability and prosperity.

This information compiled by the Inter-Organization Committee for the retention and development of Industry and business in Minnesota.

Can You Beat This Bandit?

In the Readers' Digest for May, 1939, there was an article about the work of Judge Hatfield of the Probate and Juvenile courts, Berrien Co., St. Joseph, Mich. We quote in reference thereto the following plain words from The Christian Parent:

"The problem of the slot machine, which is frequently referred to as the 'one-armed bandit' would not be so difficult to cope with if the public could be made to realize how small a percentage of very doubtful profit the machine actually pays. To estimate the chances one has of winning from the slot machine, a test on the mechanism was once arranged which involved the laws of mathematical probability. A few boys were given fake coins to solve the problem, which resulted in a number of startling discoveries.

"For example: a player hits the 'jackpot' only once in four hundred times. In other words, at a nickel a try; it costs a boy $20.00 in order to win $5.00. The youngsters who were in court also learned that the next highest pay-off came once in two thousand plays, thus costing one hundred dollars to win one dollar. The court then explained that the machine was so constructed that small 'come on' winnings were possible to keep the player interested and to urge him to continue playing for higher stakes.

"The judge who instigated the experiment states that his court officers checked up on the boys whom he used in his test and found that not one of them has sinced evidenced a desire to play slot machine."

To Marshall County Citizens

Fellow Citizens of Marshall County:

The time is now at hand when men and women in Marshall County are rallying to the banner of the American Red Cross, To you I am making this last appeal: keep it flying, this flag of relief and mercy!

Not since the World War have so great demands been made upon the Red Cross. From across the waters come appeals for help for bread to stave off hunger and starvation, for clothing and shoes to face the approaching winter. These needs the great humanitarian mother supplies through you. through your contributions and membership in the American Red Cross.

In recent weeks big-hearted Americans have contributed $240,000 for immediate relief of Polish refugees; one million dollars has been appropriated by the American Red Cross to meet the emergency of Europe's impoverished and suffering humanity.

Let us not delay. Let us not shrink back. We have peace and we have bread. Let us share it with those in need. Consider it a glorous opportunity to show your heart of love and mercy by giving your dollar membership to a worker in your town, to a rural teacher or township chairman in your commuuito.

Let Us Give Thanks For Thanksgiving

As we fortunate people who live in the United States, enjoy our Thanksgiving holiday, let's not forget the true meaning of this Day. Let's reflect upon our daily lives, our sucess and failures as they happen, and spend not too much time bemoaning our less fortunate moments, not too much time glowing in our achievements.

Rather let's give Thanks for the privilege of just living in this great, free democracy, built on love, trust and faith.

Bag Was Positively Golfer's Last Chance

The fat man decided to try golf. Armed with six golf clubs, a ball, and a caddie, he marched off to the links.

The caddie placed the ball on the tee. Then, with a terrific swing, the fat man whirled his club through the air. But the little white ball remained on its tee, while the club, meeting mother earth, broke into splinters.

The second, third, fourth, and then the remaining clubs shared the fate of the first.

"What would you do now?" asked the golfer of the caddie.

Holding out the empty bag, the youngster replied, "Don't give in! Hit it with this!"

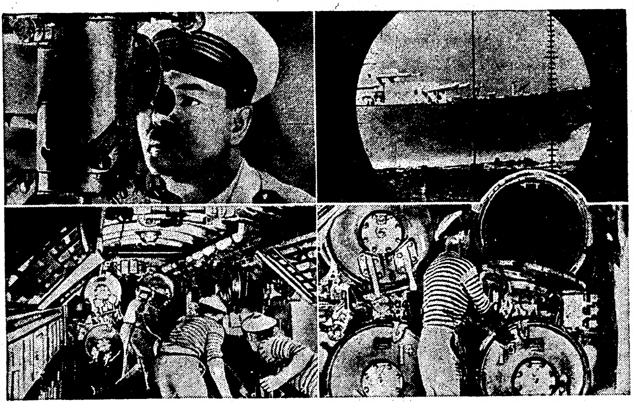
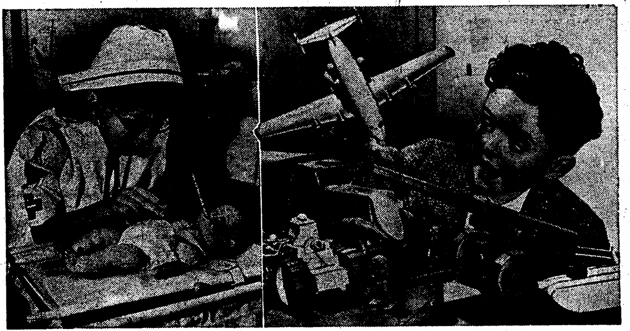
France Demonstrates Undersea Fighting Technique



Accent is on undersea fighting in the present European conflict, and France, with some of the world's finest submarines, is prepared for whatever may come. Here is a graphic idea of the fighting technique of an undersea warship. Upper left: Brains of the submarine is the man at the periscope. He navigates her into firing position. Upper right: Here's what the navigator sees. The periscope's crossed lines spot the target, the "ladder" gives him the range. Lower left: The torpedo crew slides one of the deadly "fish" into its tube. Lower right: The torpedo is in place and all is set for the order to "fire!"

War in Europe Influences American Christmas Toys



The influence of war was distinctly noticeable in the preview of American Christmas toys held in New York recently. In addition to guns, tanks and planes, there were toy ambulances and other first aid equipment. A little war nurse in toy uniform inspects her battlefield casualty—a doll. A young soldier has the time of his life with front line equipment.

Igloo Dwellers Go Modern—in New York

The Mayokoks, only full-blooded Eskimo family in the United States, were saved from a dangerous 7,000-mile journey to blizzard-swept Cape Prince of Wales, Alaska, when the husband found a new job. During the closed season Mayokok will serve as caretaker of the World's fair carrier igloo in New York.

Battlefront Headgear Stresses Safety

With camouflaging weeds fastened on their steel helmets to fool enemy airmen, three Tommies of the East Surrey British regiment pause to light their cigarettes. Natural and artificial camouflages have been developed to a high degree by both sides of the present conflict.

Just in Case—

The United States coast guard at Miami, Fla., takes no chances. When foreign submarines were reported to have been sighted in Florida waters, coast guard officials painted a large American flag on the underside of the wing for identification purposes.

'Fixed' Fighter

Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., heavyweight fighter, started a boxing war recently when he announced his fights with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento were "fixed." Investigation was opened when Thomas declared he was paid "big money" to lose the fights.

SKIRT THUMBTACKED TO SIDES OF BOXES AND HINGED ARMS —

THE illustration shows what became of the mirror and piano stool which the bride had left over last week. To the mirror and stool were added two wooden boxes from the grocery. These were placed on end about 18 inches apart and a shelf of ½-inch pine screwed to the top. A frame was then screwed to the back of the boxes as shown here. A curtain rod was placed across the top and the mirror hung lengthwise under it. An arm was then hinged to the front of each box. White paint was used next. The flowered chintz in tones of rose and blue-green with narrow frills of the plain blue-green tone matched the window curtains.

The dressing table skirt was made with a one-inch heading at the top and tacked along the ends of the table and the hinged arms with thumbtacks through a double strip of the plain material.

Rotten Apples

WERE you ever a youngster back East, where they bought apples by the barrel and stored them in the cellar over against the long winter evenings?

When winter came, did you spend most of your Saturdays sorting over the barrels of apples, picking out the rotten ones so they would not make the whole barrel that way?

And didn't you and the family eat nothing but rotten apples the next week?

Isn't life like that?

And didn't you live in the kitchen, because the parlor should not be mussed up? And isn't it the truth that you lived in the kitchen all your life?

And didn't you always wear your old clothes, because you had to keep the good ones to go to meeting on Sunday? And as a result, weren't you run down at the heel and patched on the seat most of the time?

And did you ever get over it?

Haven't you gone through life with an inferiority complex, holding musty ideas and most of the time the same old worn-out notions until they were ready for the grab-bag? Do you still wait for somebody else to step ahead and do the pioneering?

You do—if you're still eating rotten apples.—W. L. Y. Davis, in Los Angeles Tribune.

"For years I had occasional constipation, headaches and pains in the back. Awful gas bloating seemed to crowd my heart. Adlerika always helped right away. Now I eat sausage, bananas, pie, anything I want and never felt better."—Mrs. Mabel Schott. Two things happen when you are constipated. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, often bringing on sour stomach, indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Adlerika gives double relief with DOUBLE ACTION. BALANCED Adlerika containing three laxatives and five carminatives relieves STOMACH GAS almost at once. It often clears bowels in less than two hours. No griping, no after effects, just quick results.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

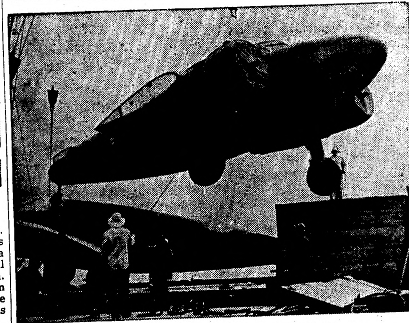
More Neutrality Precautions Expected in January Session; Britain Calls U. S. Its 'Arsenal'

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.



AMERICAN BOMBERS LOADED FOR BRITAIN
Millions of dollars overnight, but what next?

DOMESTIC:

'Arsenal'

"I am very glad that the bill has restored the historic position of neutrality of the United States."

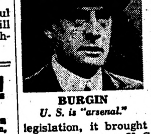
Thus spake Franklin Roosevelt before he signed, with two five-cent pens, the neutrality legislation congress had just passed before adjourning until January. One pen went to Administration Spokesman Key Pittman of the senate; the other went to New York's Rep. Sol Bloom, house neutrality whip, who lost money on the deal. He had bought an expensive pen for the signing, ending up by trading it for the President's five-cent variety.

The neutrality law: (1) permits "cash-and-carry" sale of arms to all nations at war; (2) forbids arming of American merchantmen, which must also steer clear of the North sea combat area; (3) bars Americans from traveling in combat zones, on belligerent ships.



BURGIN
U. S. is "arsenal."

For a simple piece of legislation, it brought more repercussions than any U. S. action since the senate voted for war in 1917. Isolationists went home grumbling, satisfied it would get America involved. Flashed overseas, the news brought cheers in London and Paris. Britain's Minister of Supply Leslie Burgin said: "The United States will be an arsenal of unlimited resources at the disposal of the allies." The British treasury and admiralty worked out legislation for a billion-dollar war loan to buy U. S. arms. Paris saw a chance to overcome the slump in French production.

Zoom!

Aircraft and heavy industrials set new peaks on the security market. Trucks rumbled onto New York's piers, where sheds bulged with exports awaiting British boats to carry them away. A French militarist arrived in Chicago seeking 10,000 horses and mules. Two French banks opened New York headquarters. A billion dollars in war orders from the allies were expected within the next few weeks. Everybody was happy except shipping interests which stood to lose hundreds of millions by abandoning European routes, laying up vessels and discharging seamen. United States lines partially met the problem by transferring eight ships to Panama registry under the maritime commission's authorization.

Keeping their fingers crossed were veteran economists who saw nothing healthy in a war boom. The federal reserve board reported industry rolling at the fastest pace since 1929, while the bureau of agricultural economics predicted an increase in industrial and business activity.

Overseas

An orphan in the storm was the U. S. S. City of Flint, released by Norway to her American crew after a German prize crew had docked her at Haugesund. Neutrality left her stranded, with no business being abroad. Hoping to sell her cargo in Norway and scoot for home minus contraband, the Flint awaited opportunity. But for angry Germany, the Flint and U. S. neutrality were open wounds. Sample comment: "American arms have been made available to our enemies but these materials will have to get past our raiders." It was also hinted that contraband would be treated more sternly. For example, had the Flint been sunk outright her cargo would now have no chance of reaching Britain. Still open, boasted the Reich, was her new "lifeline" to Russia, which was said to extend clear to the Pacific.

Forecast

While congress headed for a two-month vacation, there was every sign that its work next January will hinge mostly on neutrality. Coming up is the $1,300,000,000 naval program which Georgia's Rep. Carl Vinson will broach (for 95 combatant ships, 2,395 planes and 36 dirigibles); an army expansion program which the President will probably recommend; repairs on weak spots of the new neutrality law; new federal taxes to clamp down on war profiteering; aid for shippers whose boats are idled by neutrality. Already at work is an inter-departmental committee to see that foreign arms orders don't interfere with the U. S. defense program. Meanwhile politicians were wondering what would happen to domestic legislation.

EUROPE:

News Notes

Excitement ran high along the Maginot line as Nazi shells dropped around Forbach and Lille. Next day nine French planes met 27 Nazi ships; Paris said nine of the Germans were downed.

Was this the long-awaited offensive? Belgium, thinking yes, threw 600,000 men along her frontier and conferred with the Netherlands, presumably over a German demand that she state her position. But there was much bigger news in at least three places:

Minorities. This was a problem beginning to irk Der Fuehrer. There was too much discontent, cropping up in unexpected places. Following the Czech independence day riots in Prague, Slovaks in Bratislava rioted for no particular reason. The Vatican learned one answer to Pope Pius' encyclical the week before (in which dictatorships were denounced) was renewed persecution of Catholics by Hitler youths. It was also rumored 17,000 Poles had been executed by German police, though there was no verification of the report.

PREMIER METAXAS
He cooed at Italy.

Italy. In Rome there were rumors Russia would encourage Germany to force Rumania into a protectorate position, thus prolonging the war for Moscow's sake. Whatever the cause, Il Duce moved swiftly to solidify his Balkan position. Already armed with Rumanian and Yugo-Slavian pacts, Mussolini was reported engineering another pact with Bulgaria, which is being drawn closer and closer to Russia. A fourth pact was underway with Egypt. But the most concrete step was an exchange of flowery notes between Italy and Greece, which felt better when Rome withdrew troops from the Albanian frontier on September 20. Cooed Grecian Premier John Metaxas: "The evolution of the international situation will furnish the two governments in the near future an occasion for giving their relations a more concrete form."

Tailored, Practical; Smart and Youthful

IF YOU want a bright new every-day dress that's tailored and practical, yet sufficiently youthful and gay so that you'll never tire of it even after constant wear, make it like No. 1850. It buttons down the front, coat style, is dart-fitted at the waistline, and trimmed with contrast. You'll find it especially pretty in plaid wool, velveteen or challis.

Smart and Youthful.

For large women, No. 1849 has beautifully slenderizing lines, and is expertly designed to give the round-bosomed, slender-hipped effect that mature figures look best and most youthful in. A good style for card parties and luncheons because all the detailing is on the bodice. The neckline is particularly flattering. This dress makes up smartly in velvet, faille or thin wool.

The Patterns.

No. 1850 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Size 14 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material with long sleeves; 4⅜ yards with short; ⅜ yard contrast.

No. 1849 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4⅞ yards of 39-inch material with long sleeves; 4¾ yards with three-quarter sleeves; ⅔ yard ribbon.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?
What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. You won't have to endure constipation, you can avoid it. Eat All-Bran daily, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

ACHING CHEST COLDS
Need More Than "Just Salve" To Relieve DISTRESS!
To quickly relieve chest cold misery and muscular aches and pains due to colds—it takes MORE than "just a salve"—you need a warming, soothing "counter-irritant" like good old reliable Musterole—used by millions for over 30 years. Musterole penetrates the outer layers of the skin and helps break up local congestion and pain. 3 strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 40¢.

Star Dust

★ Trick of the Peacock
★ It's Micky With Judy
★ First Up Gets It!

By Virginia Vale

WHEN an actress who is famous for wearing beautiful clothes beautifully wants to get a bit of extra publicity, it's usually a good trick for her to announce that she'd just love to have a role in which she wore rags. Usually, too, she hasn't the faintest desire to wear rags, or anything faintly approaching them; she'd scream and gnaw the woodwork if anyone suggested it. But women who can't dress as she does on the stage or in pictures are supposed to like her better for saying that she's tired of being a clothes horse.

Joan Crawford

Joan Crawford is proving that she really wants to be something more than a modiste's mannequin. In "Not Too Narrow, Not Too Deep," her new picture in which Clark Gable plays opposite her, she has just one dress. There may have to be replacements, it's true, for she has to do quite a bit of dashing about in a South American jungle, but technically it will be the same frock. That is, according to the present announcements it will be.

As for Gable, he's to be a really tough egg; escapes from a prison colony and all that sort of thing.

*

With some of these ladies of the screen it's a calamity if the public doesn't see through that ostrich-with-its-head-in-the-sand disguise of dark glasses. Not long ago your correspondent lunched with one, in New York. We just went in, sat down and ordered luncheon. Dismayed, the lady glanced around. "Isn't anybody looking at me?" she asked, in anguished tones.

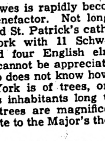
*

Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland are going to go with on—and on, and on—as a team, because the public likes them. "Babes in Arms" has decided that; it pairs them musically as well as romantically, finishing the work begun in "Love Finds Andy Hardy" and "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry." Incidentally, people who meet him like the Rooney lad a lot better than they did for a while, when he was accused of having a swelled head and all the things that go with it. He's grown into a likable chap, modest rather than bumptious, and he and the pretty Judy make such a nice pair that the people who pay to see them on the screen seem to want them to stick together.



Judy Garland

There's a tradition in radio that the first actor to try out for a part is sure not to get it. Dorothy Knox has proved that it isn't so. She competed with 27 other actresses for the role of "Frieda" in "The Life and Loves of Dr. Susan"—was the first to enter the audition room and the last to leave it—and she got the part.

*

Major Bowes is rapidly becoming a public benefactor. Not long ago he presented St. Patrick's cathedral in New York with 11 Schwedleri maples and four English elms—a gift which cannot be appreciated by anyone who does not know how barren New York is of trees, or how some of its inhabitants long to see one. The trees are magnificent, a living tribute to the Major's thoughtfulness.

Now he has given his estate, Laurel Hill, at Ossining, N. Y., to the Lutheran church for a retreat for the clergy and laity of New York and nearby states. The 10-acre estate is a show place, filled with memories for Major Bowes; he and the late Mrs. Bowes, who was Margaret Illington, the famous actress, bought it in 1927, and through the years they landscaped it, installed a swimming pool, and did everything they could to make it beautiful.

Major Bowes not only gave the estate to the church, but added a substantial gift to help equip it.

Strange Facts

Jobs vs. Positions
New 'Antiques'
Taps for Evil Spirits

The captain of one New Yorker's private yacht draws a larger salary than the master of the Queen Mary, the colored manager of a Harlem dance hall is paid more than the governor of Pennsylvania, and a Midwesterner received more money as the president of a local musicians' union in 1938 than Mr. Roosevelt received as President of the United States.

For a number of years, at least three-quarters of all "antiques" imported into this country have been fakes.

More Europeans are employed in a certain large industrial plant in Detroit than there were Americans employed in all the industrial plants in Europe before the outbreak of the present European war.

Because it handles only large accounts, the First National bank of New York city has fewer depositors than stockholders.

The three volleys fired into the air at military funerals were originally intended to frighten away evil spirits and, therefore, prevent them from entering the mourners' hearts, which stood ajar at the burial of a comrade.—Collier's.

SIMPLIFY THANKSGIVING

IT'S just an old American custom, this Thanksgiving ritual, but it's one to be proud of. So long may it endure! And don't let any modern dietitian talk you into substituting baked fish for stuffed turkey, or fruit souffles for pumpkin pies. Serve a one-hundred-percent Thanksgiving dinner, but select foods which can be used also for a later buffet supper.

For no matter how adequate the dinner, there's going to be a supper. You know that. You know that along late in the evening, memories of that tender, savory turkey and that mellow, spicy pumpkin pie are going to lead thankful folks toward the refrigerator—for just a bite more.

Ways and Means

If you have simplified your menu so that one cooking will serve both meals—the dinner and the buffet supper—then instead of being the harried hostess you can be your own guest for supper. You can linger by the flickering candlelight over good food and good talk, linking up memories of other happy Thanksgivings with these fleeting ones, and you can be truly thankful.

Let's get down to ways and means. There'll be turkey of course. Then order a turkey that is sufficiently large so that you will have two cups of diced cold turkey left over to make a delicious turkey and rice casserole as the main dish for your buffet supper.

There will be celery also to add to the turkey dressing. Reserve the celery hearts to use as one of the appetizers for the evening buffet.

There are many salads that can be tossed together with remnants of the Thanksgiving dinner, but perhaps you would like to make a gelatin salad a whole day before the holiday and put it in the refrigerator ready for Thanksgiving evening. A very delicious recipe for this sort of salad follows.

Preparedness Counts

Your tart shells for pumpkin tarts may be made a day in advance also. Then when you make your pumpkin filling for the dinner pie, make sufficient to fill the tart shells for the buffet dessert. The following recipes serve eight persons:

Celery Hearts
Watermelon Pickles
Turkey and Rice Casserole
Golden Harvest Salad
Buttered Finger Rolls
Jellied Pumpkin Tarts
Coffee, Cider or Hot Chocolate

Turkey and Rice Casserole: Put alternate layers of rice, turkey and ham in a casserole, starting and ending with rice. Use three cups of hot boiled rice, two cups of diced cold turkey and one-half cup of diced cold ham. Dust the layers lightly with salt and pepper. Pour over the contents of one 1-pound can of cream of mushroom soup, and cover with buttered crumbs. Heat until well browned in a hot oven. This makes liberal servings for eight.

Golden Harvest Salad: Soften one tablespoon of gelatin in four tablespoons of cold water. Dissolve with one-third cup of sugar in one and two-thirds cups of boiling water. Add one-fourth cup vinegar, three-fourths teaspoon salt and cool until it becomes as thick as honey. Then add the contents of one 11-ounce can of diced carrots, one-half cup diced cucumbers and two tablespoons diced green peppers. Turn into eight individual wet molds and chill. Serve on crisp lettuce hearts and garnish with mayonnaise. Or you may serve on the same plate with the turkey casserole.

Mens Rally Here Sunday

The men of the Thief River Falls, Viking, Holt and Middle River will meet on Sunday afternoon and evening in Nazareth Lutheran Church. A program has been planned that is of interest to all Christian men.

The Rally Address will be given in the evening by Rev. Abner S. Haugen, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Crookston.

The afternoon meeting will begin at 3:30 and the evening meeting will begin at 7:30. During the intermission between the meetigs, the men will spend a social hour in the church parlors with a light buffet supper being served by Circle No. 2. Dr. O. F. Melby of Thief River Falls will preside at the meetings.

This is a rare opportunity of our men to get acquainted with the men of the neighboring parishes, and it is expected that a large delegation from Holt and community will attend. "Get acquainted with your neighbor, you might like him."

Mrs. Joe Nelson and Vernon, Mrs. S. Lorentson, Mrs. Iver Larson, Mrs. H. O. Hanson and Miss Helen Erickson met with Mrs. Alton Carlson at her home last Thursday and made plans for the Nazareth Lutheran Sunday School program.

Ernest Wayne Conklin

The community was shocked last Saturday afternoon when it was learned that Ernest Wayne Conklin had passed away, at the home of his mother, Mrs. Agnes Nohre Conklin and grandmother, Mrs. S. H. Nohre. It is believed that his sudden death was caused by injuries resulting from an accident on Sept. 24th when he ran into a car, sustaining a head injury which bothered him more or less until his death. Ernest was born Jan. 8, 1933 at Minneapolis and was baptized shortly after birth and his baptism was confirmed in the congregation on June 1, 1936.

He passed away on Saturday, Nov. 17th, at the age of 6 years, 10 months and 10 days.

He was a member of the 1st grade class at the Holt Public Schools. Funeral services were conducted at the Nazareth Lutheran Church on Thursday afternoon with Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiating. Vocal solos rendered by Mrs. A. W. Carlson. Pall bearers were: Marlan Augustine, Fredrick Voth, Orvus Benitt, Ruben Benitt, Clayton Larson and Lowell Larson.

He was laid to rest in the Ridge Cemetery. There was a wealth of floral offerings and In Memoriam gifts. Blessed be his memory.

Mrs. L. Wegge, Mrs. G. Sanoden and Mrs. Geo. Fricker and LaRue visited Mrs. Alton Carlson Tuesday afternoon.

"I'm on the 'moderation' wagon. I'm sticking to 'Beer'!"

"And I'm on it for good! What I mean is that beer is good for me—as my doctor said it would be—and it's the straight road to moderation and temperance!

"Besides—making, distributing, and selling beer is a big industry in Minnesota, as it should be. We grow the world's finest malting barley and our farmers are paid premium prices for it. The industry keeps over 25,000 gainfully employed. It helps to reduce our taxes and—best of all—the brewing industry is promoting moderation and true temperance in a practical, common-sense way. Yes, sir—I'm all for beer!"

Hundreds of thousands of Minnesotans (like this gentleman) are for beer—and for the same good reasons! By helping our authorities to enforce the laws surrounding the sale of beer, we can all help to keep these economic benefits for the state and help promote the moderation and true temperance we all desire.

We Must Stay Out

Unless the European war comes to an early and abrupt end, which at this time cannot be foreseen, the time will come when the war mongers will start whooping it up for us to join in the fray. Most of them will have only selfish interests to foster or protect. There will, of course, be some who will be purely sentimental about the whole thing, but they will be in the great minority. Those who have selfish interests will not disclose them, and so they will drag out and polish up the arguments used in the last war, along with some nifty new numbers.

Do you recall that it was "Save the World for Democracy" which finally marshalled American Public opinion into joining the war? President Wilson, who coined the phrase, was probably sincere about it, but nevertheless he finally succumbed to the pressure of the war mongers. So did we all. Will we do it again? No nation can make war without the support of its people.

The people of the United States do not want to go to war now. Neither did they want to in the early stages of the last war. If we are to stay out of the present war, we must be prepared to think and see clearly when the pressure upon our minds and hearts becomes strong. One good way to keep our thinking clear is to form a clear picture in our minds now of what the fight in Europe is about.

The last war was fought to determine which nation or group of nations should dominate Europe, and Germany lost. The present conflict is merely a resumption of the last war, with Hitler occupying the place vacated by the Kaiser. As a matter of fact, Europe is now fighting for the same reasons that it has fought dnring the past 200 years. There has been a major European war in every generation and sometimes more than one. The lineups have not always been the same, but the causes and objectives are the same.

It would be worth while for the United States to join in a war that would settle the European question for all time—or let's say for a hundred years—but there is nothing in the history of the past that encourages the belief that there can be a war to end all wars. We were sold on that idea in 1917, but now we know better. Consequently, any involvement of the United States in this war would tend to commit us to involvement in future wars which seem inevitable. The balance of power in Europe is none of our real business. Millions of poeple came to America from Europe to escape war. We have no reason for making war on anyone. We have every reason for remaining at peace.

The Weather

We are still enjoying perfect Indian summer weather here. This November may go down in history as one of the warmest on record. The past week has been all sunshine until yesterday morning when it clouded up and we had a small shower of rain.

To Marshall County Citizens

Fellow Citizens of Marshall County:

The time is now at hand when men and women in Marshall County are rallying to the banner of the American Red Cross. To you I am making this last appeal: keep it flying, this flag of relief and mercy!

Not since the World War have so great demands been made upon the Red Cross. From across the waters come appeals for help for bread to stave off hunger and starvation, for clothing and shoes to face the approaching winter. These needs the great humanitarian mother supplies through you, through your contributions and membership in the American Red Cross.

In recent weeks big-hearted Americans have contributed $240,000 for immediate relief of Polish refugees; one million dollars has been appropriated by the American Red Cross to meet the emergency of Europe's impoverished and suffering humanity.

Let us not delay. Let us not shrink back. We have peace and we have bread. Let us share it with those in need. Consider it a glorous opportunity to show your heart of love and mercy by giving your dollar membership to a worker in your town, to a rural teacher or township chairman in your commuuito.

Martin Buenger
Red Cross Roll Call Chairman of Marshall County.

In Memoriam

We miss our little darling boy
As these sad days go by
For he filled our home with lots of joy
And his sweet memories will never die.

He has taken him away
But I know he is safe in Heaven
And hope to meet him there some day.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Much has been said about safe driving. Many lessons have been learned through bitter experience, disappointment, accident, and death.

The lesson of safety when once learned thoroughly should stick with us like our shadow. It should become a part of us like our arms or our legs.

Let's adapt these safety methods we read and hear about.

It does'nt cost anything. The main job is to make up our minds once and for all that we will drive safely, and then stick to the resolution.

Its Smart to Drive Carefully.

Let Us Give Thanks
For Thanksgiving

As we fortunate people who live in the United States, enjoy our Thanksgiving holiday, let's not forget the true meaning of this Day. Let's reflect upon our daily lives, our sucess and failures as they happen, and spend not too much time bemoaning our less fortunate moments, not too much time glowing in our achievements.

Rather let's give Thanks for the privilege of just living in this great, free democracy, built on love, trust and faith.

Netherlands Invasion Foolish, Say Critics of Nazi Strategy; Churchill Blasts Peace Hopes

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EUROPE:

Dutch Episode

"Glueck muss der Mensch haben."

"A fellow has to have luck," commented Adolf Hitler when he escaped the Munich beer hall explosion by 20 minutes. But the allies wondered if it was luck. So hysterical were the Nazi cries of British conspiracy that many an observer on the opposite side of the fence called it a cunning plan—like the 1933 Reichstag fire—to weld German opinion. In Britain, where anti-Communist Nazis were blamed for the incident, Hitler's yells served only to unite the empire in its vow to "free Europe."

Any hope for peace went dwindling when Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, made the most vitriolic attack on record: "I will not attempt to prophesy whether the frenzy of a cornered maniac will drive Herr Hitler into the worst of all his crimes but I will say without doubt that the fate of Holland and Belgium, like that of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and Austria, will be decided by a victory of the British . . . and the French . . ."

DUTCH-BELGIAN FRONTIER
Blacked-in areas of the Netherlands could be flooded; arrows show probable routes of invasion. Netherlands would be used for aerial operations bases against Britain; Belgium would furnish new path to France.

Only an hour earlier all hopes for the Dutch-Belgian mediation offer (made a week before) went glimmering when Britain's King George sent a long and polite message acknowledging the peace move but pointing out that any further proposals must come from Germany. The Reich, for her part, was silent except for newspaper attacks charging the Netherlands and Belgium were endangering their neutrality by submitting to the British blockade.

CHURCHILL
". . . maniac."

Despite a German-Dutch border incident and Nazi flights over Belgium which were repulsed by anti-aircraft guns, the little nations remained cool. After agreeing that an attack on one would be an attack on the other, they took pains to point out that "our mobilization stands as a guarantee to all belligerents that our neutrality will be maintained."

Military experts meanwhile pointed out that a Nazi invasion of the Dutch lowlands would be foolish. Only possible advantage, and that a minor one, would be to bring German air bases 50 miles nearer Britain. But by the same token Britain could also violate defunct Dutch neutrality, flying straight over the lowlands to German industrial strongholds instead of taking a round-about route to avoid Dutch soil.

Western Front

Twenty-one years to the day after Armistice was signed in the last war, German planes swarmed over northern French territory from the channel to Switzerland. That night they made raids along the frontier. A week-end of intensified activity was climaxed when air raid signals began screaming in Paris. When it was over, the French admitted Nazi reconnaissance planes had reached within 28 miles of the city before anti-aircraft guns sent them scurrying for home out of formation. Though still spasmodic and unorthodox, western front warfare showed precipitous gains which observers attributed to two blasts, one at Munich and the other from Winston Churchill.

War at Sea

Most noteworthy maritime news was the reappearance of German merchant vessels in the North sea, defying Britain's blockade. Two such boats were sunk and their crews rescued by a British warship. Off Singapore, in the Far East, 20 were killed when a merchant ship struck a mine, sinking in 15 minutes. Nazidom's only contribution to the warfare was a pointless 1,200-mile bombing flight to the tiny Shetland isles off Scotland, where a few bombs did no damage. Reason: There was nothing to damage.

RUSSIA:

Finnish Sandy Hook

Said Finland's Foreign Minister Eljas Errko to a U. S. newspaper man: "I believe there is a place called Sandy Hook outside New York harbor. How would you like to hand that over to some foreign country?" This, he indicated, was the reason Finland refused Russia's demand for a naval base on Finnish territory at the entrance to the Gulf of Finland. There were also reports that Finnish-Russian conferees meeting in Moscow were having trouble revising the southern border between the two countries on the Karelian isthmus. After several days of this, during which the Soviet press warned that Russia would "find ways and means of obtaining whatever we need," Foreign Minister Errko suddenly announced the negotiations had definitely ended. Europe wondered what would come next for the Russian bear was obviously out of sorts.

DEFENSE:

Army & Navy

From Director John C. Gebhart of the National Economy league, the U. S. got as good a reason as any why it should stay out of war. Whereas our participation in the World war cost 24 billion dollars at the time, Gebhart figured the cost to date was 57 billions. Moreover, any future war would cost at least 30 billions a year and would probably bring "inflation and ruinous taxation (which would) probably mean a lower standard of living for generations to come."

One good way to avoid war is to arm against it, which will be No. 1 on the congressional agenda January 3. Defense is making news these days on both army and navy fronts:

Army. Having become an expert by traveling 26,000 miles visiting army establishments, Alabama's Rep. Joe Starnes returned to Washington and reported an acute need for coast and anti-aircraft defenses "all along the Atlantic and gulf seaboards." Meanwhile it was announced the war department would ask $1,300,000,000 next congress, the first "overall" appropriation request in departmental history. Planned reorganization: Creation of four armies made up of nine corps, each army under a lieutenant general; expansion of air force, coast artillery, civilian personnel, GHQ and post properties.

ALABAMA'S STARNES
A 26,000-mile expert.

Navy. Before asking any appropriation for sea forces, Illinois Rep. Ralph E. Church suggested that the navy department should be reorganized: "Our committee (house naval affairs) has been unable to find out, at times, who's responsible for what. We had a secretary of the navy (Swanson) who was unable to be at his office . . . and then we had an acting but not duly confirmed secretary (Edison)."

DOMESTIC:

Neutrality

Disappointing to would-be U. S. profiteers was the reaction to removal of embargo restrictions against belligerents. As expected, orders for motors and aircraft increased, but purchase of war supplies was not large in terms of aggregate export volume. Some quarters expected orders to pick up later, but any hopes for a boom were nipped in the bud. Spectacular trade gains of September and October were no longer apparent. At New York, Federal Works Administrator John Carmody warned that only 500,000 of the 9,000,000 unemployed could expect jobs from the wartime business pickup.

CURRAN
Jobs wanted.

A more serious problem was the depression facing at least one branch of commerce—the merchant marine. Since U. S. boats cannot sail in combat areas, New York ports soon became jammed with jobless sailors and idle boats. Among the first to cry out was C. I. O.'s Joseph Curran, president of the national maritime union.

Within a few days the President began ironing out this mess. Following conferences with Joe Curran, Maritime Commission's Emory Land, and A. F. of L.'s Joseph Ryan and Matthew Dushane, the White House outlined three tentative remedies: (1) Extension of social security to provide seamen with old-age pensions and unemployment insurance; (2) absorption of beached seamen in a maritime training program; (3) absorption of others in vessels convoying strategic materials from nonbelligerent ports, under the government's $10,000,000 program.

MISCELLANY:

Spanish Ouster

In Madrid it was hinted that Spain's Dictator Francisco Franco insists on removing Catholic Cardinal Vical y Barraquer and several bishops because he believes them hostile to his regime.

Phantom Radio

In Mexico City the government played hide-and-seek with a mysterious German radio station which reportedly sent information on ship movements from a mountain stronghold, probably located in Chiapas state.

NAMES . . . in the news

In New York, German-American Bund Leader Fritz Kuhn went on trial charged with stealing $5,641 in Bund funds.

In St. Louis, Federal Reserve Chairman Marriner S. Eccles plumped for more taxes against large corporations and high salaries to defray cost of armament and balance the budget.

In Washington Steelmen Ernest T. Weir and Charles R. Hook insisted before the monopoly investigating committee that their industry is highly competitive.

Also in Washington, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes asked passage of the Cole bill to control oil production.

Know your news? One hundred is perfect score, and deduct 20 for each question you miss. Any score above 60 is good.

1. Less than two weeks before this famous criminal was to be released from prison, his cohorts on the outside made bloody preparations. Who is the criminal and what were the preparations? Hint: They took place in Chicago.

2. True or False: Treasury Secretary Morgenthau will ask congress to raise the statutory debt limit above the $45,000,000,000 mark, which it will reach next year.

3. Official U. S. corn production estimate for 1939 is 2,591,063,000 bushels. If domestic and export requirements will take 2,575,000,000 of these bushels, why must 1940 corn acreage allotments be reduced about 10 per cent next year? In other words, why is there a corn problem?

4. Choice: Eire's Prime Minister Eamon de Valera made news because: (A) he refused to let Irish soldiers fight with Britain in the war; (B) he refused to release hunger-striking members of the outlawed Irish Republican army; (C) he started a campaign to discredit the Blarney stone.

5. True or False: In his encyclical to the U. S., Pope Pius XII praised American education.

News Quiz Answers

1. Shortly before Al Capone's release, henchmen in his old Chicago organization assassinated E. J. O'Hare, who had been entrusted with managing the gambling syndicate while Capone was in jail, and who refused to let go of it.

2. False. Morgenthau said neither he nor the President, but congress, must take the initiative. Present debt: Over $41,000,000,000.

3. Because of the huge carryover from last year, much of it now under seal on farms under government loans, and soon to be dumped in the government's lap.

4. (B) is correct. As a result of his refusal, de Valera was threatened.

5. False. He deplored the lack of religious teaching in U. S. schools, the spread of divorce and birth control.

★ Picturing Thomas Edison
★ Great Picture to See
★ O'Brien Rates Contract

By Virginia Vale

THERE are two new books that should greatly interest you, one if you like the movies, the other if you are interested in radio serials in general and two in particular, "Pepper Young's Family" and "When a Girl Marries."

The book for movie fans is by an ex-motion picture actress, Patsy Ruth Miller; its title is "That Flanagan Girl." Patsy Ruth made a name for herself on the screen in the days of silent movies, although she's very young to be a veteran of that era. Some of you old-timers may remember her as the girl in the Lon Chaney version of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

She gave up the movies for the stage, after a while—she's one of these girls who want to take a shot at everything. Simultaneously, and very successfully, she tried her hand at writing short stories. Then she went back to Hollywood and wrote scripts for the movies, also successfully.

"That Flanagan Girl" is that rare thing, a novel about Hollywood which doesn't try to get even with the place and its people by slamming it.

As for the other book, it's Elaine Sterne Carrington's "All Things Considered," a collection of short stories that have appeared in some of our best magazines. Mrs. Carrington made her name as a story writer and a playwright before she ever thought of writing for radio.

The life of Thomas Edison is now being turned into motion picture history. Two pictures based on it are being made—"Young Tom Edison," with Mickey Rooney, and "Edison the Man" with Spencer Tracy. Tracy took a trip East to familiarize himself with the famous inventor's background—he visited the Edison laboratory at Menlo Park, N. J., and then went to Washington to talk with Charles Edison, son of Thomas.

SPENCER TRACY

At last we have "Drums Along the Mohawk," and a swell picture it is, too. Plenty of thrills, plenty of Indians, lots of romance and humor. Maybe you read the book—if you did you won't be disappointed in the film version, which was ably directed by John Ford. It deals with an aspect of the Revolutionary war that is unfamiliar to many of us, showing settlers in the backwoods region of New York fighting a war without really knowing what they were fighting for.

The cast couldn't be better—Claudette Colbert, Henry Fonda, Edna May Oliver, Ward Bond, John Carradine.

After five years Freddie Bartholomew is off the Metro payroll. Remember when he came to these shores to play "David Copperfield" as a young boy? His last picture on the home lot was "Listen Darling," and at present he's working for RKO in "Swiss Family Robinson."

—*—

When you see the new "Hunchback of Notre Dame" pay some attention to Edmund O'Brien, if you want to see the kind of performance that picks up a contract for an actor. RKO just gave O'Brien one, which permits him to switch from screen to the stage and back again.

—*—

When the "Pretty Kitty Kelly" cast assembled recently they found a large sign on the studio wall. "This is NOT the Floyd Bennett Air Port!" it sternly announced. Seems that the boys and girls had been amusing themselves at rehearsals by making paper airplanes, flying them all over the place and then leaving them—also all over the place.

ODDS AND ENDS—Bob Hope and Bing Crosby livened up the luncheon hour on the Paramount lot the other day by riding around on bicycles, in black-face, and wearing turbans and baggy pantaloons . . . Mark Warnow, conductor on the Hit Parade, used to play the violin in a street corner band . . . And by the way, his pet baton was whittled from a bat used by Babe Ruth in the 1932 world series . . . Irene Dunne and Cary Grant will appear together again, this time in "Passport to Life."

Don't Put off "Alkalizing" when you have these signs of Acid Indigestion

☐ Heartburn ☐ Sour Stomach
☐ Nausea ☐ "Acid" Headache
☐ No appetite ☐ "Logginess"
☐ Tired feeling in morning ☐ "Gas"

Check these symptoms—and if you suspect excess stomach acids, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. If trouble persists, See Your Doctor.

Today it's so easy to "alkalize" excess acids anywhere you are. Now when distress comes at home, all you do is take 2 tablespoonfuls of liquid Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. When you are out with others, simply slip 2 Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets in your mouth like you would candy mints. That's all you do to feel wonderful.

Either form of Phillips' works the same way—very quickly. You can't beat it for welcome fast relief from after-eating distress. Almost at once you feel "gas", nausea, that "lumpy" feeling from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid" headaches, "acid breath" are corrected right at the source.

It's a wonderful way to free yourself from distress and embarrassment. Try it. But be sure when you buy to ask for "Phillips'" to insure getting the genuine fast-acting Phillips' article.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Where apples come from—and go! But one of the things that the map will not tell these little New Yorkers is that the cost of hauling this fine, juicy fruit in refrigerator cars from Wenatchee, Washington—3,000 miles away—is only about one penny for each of the super-sized apples shown in the picture, which weigh nearly a pound apiece!

Distance is Your Problem

Almost everything the Northwest produces must be hauled long distances:

Wheat, to flour mills and, as flour, to far-flung cities everywhere;

Cattle, from western ranges to packing plants, and eventually to the tables of consumers throughout the nation;

Seed potatoes, from the Red River Valley to the Southern States,—1,500 miles;

Apples, from the State of Washington to Chicago and New York,—from 2,000 to 3,000 miles.

Most of our products, in fact, must find their way to populous, distant markets where they are consumed or put to use.

But after they are hauled these long distances, and unavoidably at a considerable cost, they generally cannot be sold for any more than similar products which are shipped to the same markets from producing areas that are closer.

These great distances are inescapable facts. All that any of us can do about it is to try to minimize this handicap so far as possible.

And that has been the policy of the Great Northern Railway from its earliest days,—to provide highly efficient transportation; to help you find profitable markets for what you grow; and to try to make rates that will enable you to sell your products profitably in those markets.

But the extent to which the Great Northern can be helpful depends upon two things:

1.—How cheaply we can produce the transportation you require; and,

2.—How closely we can come to using our transportation facilities to their full capacity, because VOLUME is the only thing that will spread and thin out the expense of maintaining our railroad plant and its overhead costs.

The handicap of distance is only made more burdensome by public policies, laws and regulations which add unnecessarily to the cost of furnishing your railroad transportation; or which artificially divert traffic from the railroad to other forms of transportation through subsidies, unequal regulation and unequal taxation.

When the bulk of what you produce must be moved hundreds and even thousands of miles by railroad, the effect of public policies on the cost of each mile of this transportation becomes a matter of grave concern.

Record Iron Ore Shipments

With iron ore shipments from Minnesota this year totaling 28,841,749 tons, Range mining men see a tonnage for this season of about 32,000,000 according to reports received at the office of the director of the lands and minerals division of the state department of conservation. Shipments as of Oct. 31 for this year from the 12 state-owned mines totaled 9,625,000 tons as compared with 4,876,573 tons for the corresponding period in 1938, according to figures given out by Ray D. Nolan, division director. This is an increase of approximately 100 per cent over last year. The high record ore shipments from Minnesota state-owned mines was set in 1937 when they totaled 12,569,361 tons of iron ore.

Congregation Held Meeting

The annual meetings of the congregation and Ladies Aid of Nazareth Lutheran Church were held in the Church and Church parlors respectively last Friday evening. The usual business with election of officers and reports was the order for the evening. The reports showed a fine year in both organizations, with a substantial balance in each treasury. The following officers of the congregation were elected: President, Walter Larson; Vice President, Marvin Sandberg; Secretary, Gilbert Sanoden; Treasurer, Hjalmer Peterson; Trustee for 3 years, Guy Anderson. The Ladies Aid elected these officers: President Mrs. J. G. Nelson; Vice president, Mrs. H. O. Hanson; Secretary, Mrs. O. H. Nohre; Treasurer, Mrs. Marvin Sandberg.

Neighbors and relatives gathered at the J. A. Sorum farm Sunday and gave Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sorum a party. The afternoon was spent socially and a cash purse presented to the honored couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Timm, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Timm and son Kenneth from Egeland N. Dak. visited over the week end of last week at the W. E. Wegge home. Mrs. Wegge and baby accompanied them to Minneapolis to visit relatives.

THANKSGIVING DAY

The Pilgrims came across the sea,
And never thought of you and me;
And yet it's strange the way
We think of them Thanksgiving Day.

Every child knows well the tale
Of how they bravely turned the sail
And journeyed many a day and night
To worship God as they thought right.

The people think that they were sad,
And grave; I'm that they were glad—
They made Thanksgiving Day—That's fun
We thank the Pilgrims, every one!

Safetygrams by Fred W. Braun © The Safety Man

In a recent newspaper I read that the Honorable Secretary of Interior, Mr. Ickes, had made the statement "he wished he had an armored car and could preceed down the highway and knock off some of the trucks on our roads."

What is Mr. Ickes talking about? Doesn't he know that some of the best highway safety records in the country have been developed by fleets of trucks? Doesn't Mr. Ickes know that from 1927 to 1938 the fatal accident rate for trucks decreased 29 percent, and that the number of trucks involved in fatal accidents was 1 per cent lower in 1938 than in 1937? Isn't he aware that some of our truck drivers have driven hundreds of thousands of miles without an accident of any kind? Doesn't he know that truck companies and fleet owners are spending thousands of dollars for safety annually and that these dollars are an investment in safe driving? Doesn't he dnow that the young men on these trucks are devoting a lot of their time to the development of safety records that will be difficult to equal?

It is discouraging to have government officials give an opinion about some type of business when the facts prove just the opposite. This befuddling remark is entirely uncalled for and is direct unjustified criticism of the trucking and transportation industry.

There may be exceptions in certain cases, but certainly the entire industry should not be called on the carpet for one or two individual drivers.

I'm for the trucking industry because of the splendid safety performances their drivers have turned out.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere and most heartfelt thanks to our friends, relatives and neighbors who so kindly assisted us by word and deed during our recent bereavement, the passing of our darling, Ernest Wayne. Especially do we wish to thank Rev. T. C. L. Hanson for his words of comfort; the Hanson sisters, Miss Larson, Mrs. Alton Carlson and Mrs. M. Sandberg for the lovely songs and music, doners of flowers, the pall-bearers, and those who gave donations in his memory.

Mrs. Agnes Conklin and mother.

Mrs. S. Lorentson and Mrs. Freda Anderson attended Ladies Aid at the John Scholin home near Wylie last Thursday evening.

Caribou Herd Increasing

The hehetofore rapidly dwindling woodland caribou herd in Minnesota holds out promises of a marked trend in the other direction from now on a result of final preparations underway for the release of seven young animals, imported from Canada two years ago, in the wilds north of Upper Red Lake, according to reports to the state department of conservation.

These caribou, caught as young calves weighing about 50 pounds each, in the wilderness north of Alberta, have been kept in a 2,3000-acre corral in Beltrami Island project area since brought into this country. They now weigh around 200 pounds each.

The original consignment from Alberta consisted of nine calves and one bull. One of the calves died and the bull was released about a year ago to join three native caribou which have been in that region for years. These are the only woodland caribou known to exist in the United States outside of Alaska.

The latest addition to the herd was brought about by a federal soil conservation service project. Ways and means are now being considered for turning over to the state of Minnesota the future mananement of the wild life area of some 1,500,000 acres in the region north of Upper Red Lake and south of Baudette and Spooner.

Sorter-Gillespie Wedding

Marles Sorter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Sorter and Orville Gillespie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Gillespie of St. Paul, spoke their marriage vows Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Rev Myhrer home at Newfolden.

The couple were attended by by Joyce Moberg, close friend of the bride and Elsworth Gillespie, brother of the groom.

Given Wedding Reception

A large group of relatives and friends gathered at the Nazareth Lutheran Church parlors on Wednesday evening and gave Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fredrickson a wedding reception. A good program was given and a delicious lunch served. The honored guests received many lovely gifts. Guests from Thief River Falls included: E. M. Bennes and Esther, Mr. and Mrs. R. Sagmoen, Mr. and Mrs. S. Benson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Joringdal, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Noto, Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnson and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. Johnson, Mrs. Racine Olson, Mrs. Harry Lund, Margaret Dillon, Harold Buck. There was also many relatives from Fertile present.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson made a trip to the Albert Anderson home near Wylie Tuesday evening.

Has Record Corn Yield

A remarkable corn yield of of 164 bushels per acre won for W. C. Schultz, Garden City, this state, grain and livestock farmer, the corn growing championship of Minnesosa in the state division of the 1939 National De-Kalb corn growing contest.

"I plowed my corn ground seven to eight inches deep last fall, and this spring pulverized the soil with a wheatland plow digger, finally dragging the field two or three times," Schultz explained. "I believe in getting the weeds in the start, and aim to keep my corn ground clean because the weeds take moisture and nourishment from the soil."

Schultz used hybrid corn for seed and put plenty of manure on the land. A crop rotation of corn, barley and sweet clover has been followed for several years.

The Weather

Last week we wrote of the wonderful weather we were are enjoying here this fall. Well, it is still with us and the past week was brighter than ever. The thermometer hits 40 above most of the days.

Let Us Give Thanks For Thanksgiving

As we fortunate people who live in the United States, enjoy our Thanksgiving holiday, let's not forget the true meaning of this Day. Let's reflect upon our daily lives, our sucess and failures as they happen, and spend not too much time bemoaning our less fortunate moments, not too much time glowing in our achievements.

Rather let's give Thanks for the privilege of just living in this great, free democracy, built on love, trust and faith.

Political Activity Starts Early To Capture Publicity Spotlight Before Congress Meets Again

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

POLITICS:

Stump Trail

War and neutrality made way in November for politics. For between now and January 3, when reconvening congress grasps public attention, politicians have their only pre-convention chance to sell The Cause of 1940. On the Republican side at least three stumpers were hitting the trail, while national headquarters in Washington planned a skull session December 7 to map campaign strategy. The Democratic party, meanwhile, contented itself waiting for Franklin Roosevelt to say yes or no.

New York's District Attorney Tom Dewey was not so busy prosecuting German-American Bundsman Fritz Kuhn that he failed to hear the question most good Republicans have been asking about him: "Where does he stand on national issues?" Dewey, like at least two other 1940 hopefuls, was preparing to talk. First on the agenda is a speech at Minneapolis December 6, where party observers hoped to hear an answer. Other stumpers:

TOM DEWEY
Answer at Minneapolis?

(1) Ohio's Sen. Robert Taft, who ranks low on Gallup polls, opened his campaign at Cleveland by criticizing Gallup polls for "leading to superficial facts and piling up bandwagon sentiment." On his schedule before Christmas are at least eight states.

(2) New Hampshire's H. Styles Bridges, who has dropped the "H." for campaign purposes, was found in Los Angeles.

(3) Michigan's Sen. Arthur Vandenberg was silent; so was Pennsylvania's Gov. Arthur James, latest new candidate.

G. O. P. 1940 strategy will probably be "streamlined" if early signs offer an indication. Seriously considered is a blitzkrieg from September to November, instead of a long campaign. Meanwhile Marion Martin, assistant national chairman, told reporters of a women's organization 200,000 strong, which will sell the party not by punching doorbells but through social contacts. One job: To scotch the notion that all Republican women are rich and wear orchids.

Franklin Roosevelt kept himself busy playing with the press. Laying a cornerstone for the Jefferson memorial in Washington, he said he "hoped" he could be present when it was dedicated in 1941. This, he commented later, was injected intentionally to trip up the commentators. A few days later, dedicating his memorial library at Hyde Park, he poked more fun: ". . . I hope they (the press) will give due interpretation to my statement that we hope it will be a fine day when we open the building."

At Baltimore, Montana's Sen. Burton Wheeler (who may be John Lewis' candidate) made a speech that looked conciliatory with Franklin Roosevelt. At Dallas the Texas Editorial association, booming John Garner, took a crack at John Lewis' criticism of their hero by holding a banquet dedicated to "sin and corruption." The "whisky-drinking old man," who was busy fishing that day, got himself toasted with milk.

EUROPE:

Protest or Plea?

A war that hurts civilians is at once the most painful and the most likely to end in a hurry. Thus far the War of 1939 has disdained bombing cities and has even been easy on troops in the front line. But a continent whose life blood courses the seven seas cannot laugh off many body blows to its merchant marine; by late November the intensified warship-submarine-mine warfare being waged between Britain and Germany had taken a big toll and the price was getting higher every day. Britain searched for the Nazi raiders Deutschland and Admiral Scheer while the air force made a futile raid on the naval base at Wilhelmshaven. The navy was ordered to seize all Nazi ships transferred to Russian registry.

Cause of this scurrying was the war's second major disaster. The Athenia sinking cost 112 lives, but 150 were feared lost when the Dutch liner Simon Bolivar struck a mine in the English channel. Both Germans and English denied responsibility while Lithuanian, Italian and Swedish merchant vessels were also being sent to the bottom. In neutral ports, word of such disasters spread quickly; observers wondered if the protest might not take form in new peace pleas.

On land, Adolf Hitler had little chance for western front activity. He was too busy in Czecho-Slovakia, where student-inspired uprisings against Nazi rule were smashed via "liquidation" of 12 ringleaders before a firing squad.

Trouble Ahead

The most incorrigible Finnish optimist could not deny that the future looked tough for the home team. With negotiators back from their fruitless talks in Moscow, all Finland quavered as the vitriolic Russian press loosed blast after blast against its Scandinavian neighbor. Moscow was obviously building up war talk as a prelude to what observers think is an almost certain "self-defense" invasion.

LABOR:

Liability

Compared with A. F. of L., the hands of C. I. O. are comparatively clean in the justice department's campaign to remove alleged trade restraints in the building industry. Though both organizations have maintained Trust Buster Thurman Arnold has no right to indict trade unions under the anti-trust laws, it is chiefly A. F. of L. building groups which are suffering in the present drive. Already indicted, for example, is William Hutchenson of Indianapolis, head of the carpenters' union and an A. F. of L. vice president.

Thurman Arnold listened to labor's complaints a few days and then startled labor with a ruling: Organized labor is not immune from prosecution, and the justice department will prosecute unions attempting to prevent private industry from using improved production methods designed to bring cheaper and better goods to the buying public.

TAXATION:

Argument

Long simmering has been the anticipated blow-up between spenders and savers which is bound to come when congress meets next January. Reason: In the next fiscal year the national debt will pass the $45,000,000,000 legal limit; congress will have its choice of boosting that limit or making an about-face on spending.

First signs of an inter-administration squabble came after Marriner Eccles, federal reserve chairman and spending advocate, told St. Louis bankers that congress should raise taxes next year. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau was vacationing at the time, so the dirty work of repudiating Eccles' statement fell to Undersecretary John W. Hanes. Said he: "I don't think he (Eccles) spoke for the administration. I doubt seriously if he spoke for congress. I am certain he didn't speak for the treasury."

MARRINER ECCLES
No friend of the treasury.

Observers thought John Hanes' boss would secretly applaud the remark, for Henry Morgenthau—although loyal to the President—has fought deficit spending. And the treasury, far from stumbling blindly ahead, is sifting thousands of suggestions solicited during the past summer before offering congress any recommendations on a 1940 tax program.

That congress may also be contrary was hinted when Colorado's Sen. Alva Adams told the press he favored establishment of a congressional agency to "police" the appropriation demands of executive departments, not by way of blocking requests for funds but to give the taxpayer a chance to argue his side of the story.

Meanwhile it was learned the budget bureau may not issue its customary revised estimate of receipts and expenditures this year. Like the congressional tax committee, which is holding its recommendations in abeyance, the budget bureau is stymied by abnormal conditions abroad.

NAMES . . . in the news

Owen D. Young and Gerard Swope, board chairman and president, respectively, of the $375,000,000,000 General Electric company, announced their retirement January 1 to make way for younger blood.

Benito Mussolini warned that Italy wants the "final word" when peacetime returns to Europe.

Wang Ching-wei, whom Japan hoped to establish as puppet ruler of China, has balked so much that establishment of the "government" has been postponed.

Dr. James Monroe Smith, ex-president of Louisiana State university who was convicted of fleecing state and college, attempted to kill himself in prison with a razor blade.

PAN AMERICA:

Good and Bad

In a happy mood did Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins announce foreign trade figures for the autumn months. Exports to the United Kingdom (except cotton were down appreciably; so were exports to Belgium, Netherlands, Spain, Germany and Poland. But a ray of warm sunshine came from the south: Exports to Latin America in October were 28 per cent higher than in September, $47,000,000 against $36,700,000.

But all was not peaches and cream. Complaints against the government's reciprocal trade program began blossoming in farm and industrial circles, and were even felt by diplomats.

Announcing the new trade pact with Venezuela would take effect December 16, the President pointed out that Germany and all countries under her de facto control would not benefit from tariff reductions on crude petroleum and miscellaneous agricultural products. This brought two repercussions: (1) Observers wondered whether such recognition of Germany's control over Czecho-Slovakia and Poland might not be a blunder; (2) the 50 per cent tariff cut on crude oil imports meant, among other things, that Mexico could sell us at a reduced rate the oil she expropriated from U. S. companies.

HARRY HOPKINS
Happy, but others weren't.

Loudest objector to the Latin-American trade expansion was Fred Brenckman, legislative representative of the National Grange, who told that group's convention in Peoria, Ill., that he didn't like the proposed Argentine trade treaty, a pact which would necessitate larger agricultural imports from that nation to offset larger exports from the U. S. Said he: "It looks as if we were going to buy Argentine friendship at the cost of the American farmer."

MISCELLANY:

No Sabotage

At Bayonne, N. J., government investigators scoffed at sabotage rumors when a U. S.-owned but Panama-registered tanker exploded to injure four persons.

Quits

At Baltimore, Brother John Capone intimated that Scarface Al, just released from prison, is humbled and ready to cry quits. Said John: "He's in a cheerful mood and doesn't hold a grudge against anybody."

Rubens' Finale

At Miami, the daughter, mother and father of Ruth Marie Rubens, who figured two years ago in a fraudulent Soviet passport case, learned their notorious relative had become "Citizeness Ruth Friederichovna Boerger of the Soviet union" and probably never will be heard of again in the U. S.

FORSAKEN RUBENS'
Ruth will stay in U. S. S. R.

Appeal

At South Bend, Ind., General Motors corporation moved to appeal the conviction under which GM and three affiliates were found guilty of violating the anti-trust laws (by coercing dealers into using the GMAC financing plan).

DO THIS 30 Minutes After Eating

TO ALKALIZE EXCESS STOMACH ACIDS FAST

No need now to be afraid to enjoy the food you like. If you expect acid indigestion after meals, follow this simple routine.

Take two teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia a half hour after you leave the table. Or, if you're not at home take two Phillips' Tablets, which have the same neutralizing effect.

This gives you a thorough "alkalization" just at the time excess stomach acids are developing...and does the job in a few minutes. No nausea or embarrassing gas, none of that uncomfortable fullness, or stinging "heartburn". You're surprised at how wonderful you feel.

The Phillips' Method may be a revelation and solve your problem once and for all.

When you buy, ask for and make sure you get the real Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Note the words "genuine Phillips'" on both bottle and Tablets box.

IT'S POP CORN TIME

Every year new and delicious pop corn recipes appear, to make new friends for this old favorite. Here is a treat for your family and friends:

Caramel Corn

| | |
|---|---|
| 1 cup white sugar | ½ cup water |
| ½ cup white corn syrup | 2 tablespoons butter |
| 2 tablespoons sorghum | ½ tablespoon vinegar |
| | 2 quarts pop corn |

Combine all ingredients except the corn. Cook until syrup becomes brittle when tested in cold water. Pour over popped corn, stirring the corn while pouring. Turn on to buttered platter.

Gwen Took the Words Right Out of His Mouth

The dashing young traveler with the lady-killer reputation seated himself at the table and put on his most seductive smile as the pretty waitress approached him.

"Nice day, little girl," he said.

"It is," she replied. "And so was yesterday, and my name is Gwen, and I'm pretty, and have lovely blue eyes, and I've been here quite a long time, and it's not a bad place, and I'm not too nice a girl to be working here, and my brother is cook in this place, and was once a professional boxer. Now, what is your order—roast beef, roast lamb, stew, or liver and bacon?"

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and cure it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"?

If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

TRAVELERS WHO PREFER A BETTER HOTEL STOP AT THE ANDREWS

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

HOW TO SEW

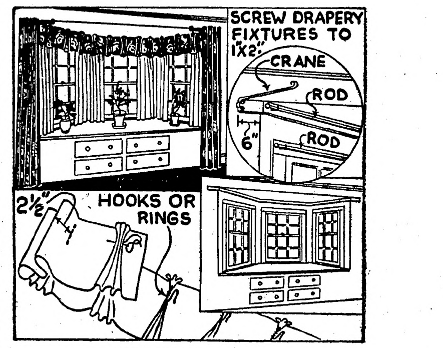
by Ruth Wyeth Spears



New dining room curtains.

WITH the holidays almost at hand everyone seems to be giving curtains a thought. An enthusiastic reader of Sewing Book No. 3 writes, "I have a bay window in my dining room that has always been a problem to curtain. Right now I would like to make pinch pleated drapes of figured damask to hang from cranes to the floor. I would also like a valance." With this letter all the window dimensions were given.

The sketch at the lower right reveals the difficulty. The space between the top of the windows and the top of the bay made it impossible to hang the draperies as desired. A 1 by 2-inch strip of wood nailed next to the ceiling of the bay and extending 6 inches over the walls at the sides as illustrated will solve the problem.

The cranes for the side drapes may be screwed to this strip, and the rods for the pinch pleated valance fastened to it. The rods for the glass curtains may then be attached in the usual way to the tops of the window frames.

NOTE: Readers who are now using Sewing Books No. 1, 2 and 3 will be happy to learn that No. 4 is ready for mailing; as well as the 10 cent editions of No. 1, 2 and 3. Mrs. Spears has just made quilt block patterns for three designs selected from her favorite Early American quilts. You may have these patterns FREE with your order for four books. Price of books—10 cents each postpaid. Set of three quilt block patterns without books—10 cents. Send orders to Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Throughout the world, statues of Buddha far outnumber those of Christ. In China and Japan, particularly, millions of them, varying greatly in size and shape, fill temples, courtyards, caverns and public and private gardens. It is not unusual to find 10,000 small Buddhas carved in the walls of a remote and abandoned cave.

Hear Senator Lommen Monday

State Senator George Lommen of Eveleth will not only answer some of the charges made by Governor Stassen in a recent broadcast, but will also challenge the truth of many of the Governor's claims in a radio broadcast over stations WCCO and KSTP on Monday, December 11, at 10:30 p. m. Radio time for the Senator was secured through the sponsorship of the Farmer-Labor Association and the Farmer-Labor Women's Federation.

Senator Lommen has been a member of the state senate for a number of years, served during the eight years of Farmer-Labor administration and was a member all during the 1939 session. He opposed many of the state administration bills, especially the old age pension lien law, and has been an outspoken critic of of the Stassen administration.

Senator Lommen's address over WCCO and KSTP on Monday night will begin at 10:30 and close at 10:45. Tune in and hear him for fifteen minutes.

Custer Born 100 Years Ago

One hundred years ago Tuesday George Amrstrong Custer was born on a farm near New Rumley in Harrison county in Oeio, destined to win undying fame in the Little Big Horn massacre of nearly 300 soldiers under his command.

Graduated at the "foot of his class" from the U. S. Military academy at West Point, he later became one of the youngest soldiers in American history to be made a general.

His military career was ended in his 36th year in the now renowned Custer massacre in Montana June 25th, 1876.

Custer came to the Dakota territory from the south in 1873 after rising to the rank of major general of volunteers in the Civil war and reverting to a captain at its close.

It was from the old Fort Abraham Lincoln, just south of Mandan, North Dakota, that he launched the overland offensive against the Sioux and Cheyenne Indians that culminated in one of the historic massacres in the annals of the Indian wars.

A HELPING HAND FOR ALL

American Red Cross Roll Call Poster for 1939.

Quick War Relief Given by Red Cross

Shipwrecked American Citizens, Wounded Poles, Refugees, Repatriates Aided

Washington.—The American Red Cross moved quickly at the onset of hostilities in Europe to organize relief for war sufferers and give aid to American citizens stranded in danger zones or rescued from sea-warfare catastrophe.

Red Cross officials pointed out that following contact of German-Polish forces on September 1, the organization made available medical relief for civilians and armies of Poland; provided aid for Americans repatriated from Europe as they landed in the United States ports; granted medical and maintenance assistance to American survivors of the "Athenia," first sea casualty of the war; gave financial aid to the American Hospital in Paris, France, and developed [illegible] communications system to allay the fears of distraught relatives.

Norman H. Davis, chairman, cabled the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva on September 1 asking what relief would be needed from the American Red Cross. In a first step in consolidating Red Cross relief [illegible] throughout the nation, 3,700 Red Cross chapters were authorized to begin producing refugee garments and to accept contributions for war relief.

A quick response from the Polish Red Cross to Chairman Davis' cable to the International Committee resulted in an American Red Cross appropriation of $50,000 for the purchase of items of medicines, and for army blankets and a quantity of large hospital tents capable of housing [illegible] stretcher cases each.

A grant of $25,000 was also made to the American Hospital in Paris to evacuate American patients from the hospital and to purchase in the United States a 100 bed hospital unit for shipment to the American organization, it was said.

To meet needs which were thought likely to result from bombardment of rural villages and the passage of hostile armies, the Red Cross called upon 21 of its large city chapters to roll surgical dressings of a special new type for European warfare injuries. More than 500,000 yards of gauze were purchased and 40,000 pounds of cotton, enough to make 157,000 surgical dressings.

On September 2, the American Red Cross announced it was organizing to meet repatriating American citizens at seaport cities through chapter reception committees. Citizens without resources were given temporary shelter, and aided to resettle in their former homes or work.

Between September 5 and 7, the American Red Cross cabled $20,000 through the State Department to help American survivors of the "Athenia," who had been taken into Irish and Scotch ports.

"The Red Cross is not interested in the origins of the present conflict," Chairman Davis declared following his cabled offer of assistance to the International red Cross Committee. "As part of the great International Red Cross it is our duty to do what we can to aid the helpless civilians who will suffer during the hostilities."

An Inquiry and Information Service was organized through which contact would be made with relatives of Americans in the belligerent countries.

Red Cross chapters were instructed to accept funds for the purchase of supplies for impartial distribution and funds for purchase of supplies for a designated country to be expended through the Red Cross society of that nation.

Village Election Was Quiet

The Village Election held here was as usual a quiet affair. All those who had their name filed on the ballot were elected. They were Hartley Peterson, Mayor; Olaf Ness, Councilman; Hjalmer Peterson, Treasurer; A. P. Thompson, Justice of the Peace; Richard Lorentson, Constable.

The question of appropriating $100 for the Band carried by 26 votes for and 10 against the measure.

Vanishing Race On Increase

In a news dispatch from Washington the Indian office reported Monday that its wards, instead of being a "vanishing race," were on the increase.

During the last fiscal year the Indian population — exclusive of that in Alaska — increased from 342,497 to 391,878, Commissioner John Collier said.

He credited the increase to "improved healt facilities, better economic conditions and higher morale among the tribes.

Collier also said that Indian lands "have ceased to dwindle" and now were increasing. He added, however, that a "grave problem" still existed because of the shortage of useful land to meet the needs of a growing population.

Explaining the economic progress of Indians in recent years, Collier said they inaugurated such cooperative enterprises as a salmon cannery, tourist cabins, oyster culture, a municipal water plant, cattle ranges and hay farms.

Collier said that of great importance was a change in the psychology of the people.

"Indians have turned from anticipated death to anticipated life, from fatalism to action, from inferiority to healthful pride," he said. "Most important of all, they have turned from believing and accepting that the government had the first and last word, to believing and asserting that they, the Indians, have had the first and last word. Thousands can come to them, but only through the things they themselves may do."

Mr. and Mrs. Halvor Reice and Thomas Knutson of Bemidji; Miss Harriet Knutson and Harold Nelsen of Nebish; Mr. and Mrs. Thos Knutson Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Knutson and Laurale of Grygla; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wegge and Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Larson and family were Thanksgiving guests at the Wm. Wait. Think first. Are you absolutely sure you should give a single dose of that drug to your child? Internally? It was sold, you recall, as "something just as good", for a few pennies less.

A very dear purchase it could be! For your own peace of mind alone, give no home remedy you're not quite certain about without getting your own doctor's opinion. And never go against it.

Even in the case of the common children's remedy, milk of magnesia, ask your doctor what he approves. And when he says "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" see that you get exactly that by asking expressly for "Phillips'" when you buy...never ask for just "milk of magnesia".

If your child prefers Phillips' in the newer form—tiny peppermint-flavored tablets, give it this way. But whether you get liquid Phillips' or Phillips' Tablets get the genuine Phillips'. Look for the name "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" on bottle or box.

They Didn't Do It This Way Back in '17

The A. E. F. didn't do it this way back in '17, but that's all right with army officers stationed at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio. They like the newly adopted, streamlined infantry drill regulations, which eliminate much of the "pain" of learning to be a soldier, and reduce time required by 33 to 50 per cent. Simplicity is the keynote. Left: It's "right shoulder arms," new version. The right hand drops to the butt and the rifle is placed on the shoulder. Center: Soldiers march a full arm's length apart instead of half that distance. Right: The modern doughboy practices anti-aircraft defense formations in gas masks.

Hitler's Mustache Diminishes as Fame Grows

One of history's most photographed men is Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler of Germany. Familiar to everyone is the Hitler of today. Less familiar is the Hitler visage of earlier days. Upper left: A corporal in the German army during the World war. His mustache was bigger, but his fame smaller. Lower left: This rare photograph was made in December, 1924, after his abortive Munich beer hall putsch. Right: Vastly popular in Germany is this picture of Der Fuehrer, taken when he was a political prisoner.

Missouri-Iowa Boundary War Nears End

A hundred-year boundary war between Missouri and Iowa, cause of the ludicrous "honey war" of 1839, ends on New Year's eve when 200 acres of Missouri land goes to Iowa and 2,000 Iowa acres are given to Missouri. The trouble was caused by a change in the Des Moines river, boundary between the two states. Map shows the river's present course, while dotted lines indicate the route 50 years ago.

Veteran Prospector Strikes Pay Dirt

Maj. Graham C. Dugas, veteran prospector, examines samples of "pay rock" from his bonanza gold strike at Dahlonega, Ga. Wiseacres didn't believe there was gold in the Georgia uplands, but the major uncovered a vein of quartz two inches thick and assaying $60,000 to the ton—comparable to the world-famed Comstock lode of Nevada. Right: Dugas points out the rich vein to a friend.

Spear-Gunner

Spearing fish underwater with a new rubber spear gun is the latest piscatorial sport in Miami, Fla. The gun is deadly accurate, the mask is face fitting—so all that's necessary is to dive, hold your breath and nail your fish.

LUGGAGE LEFT BEHIND

Disaster almost came to Rolf, a German shepherd dog, when the Belgian government decreed that all large dogs must be destroyed to conserve food. However, Rolf was shipped hurriedly to a new home in New York—at a cost of $52. Rolf arrived with a "luggage left behind" label on his neck.

Yuletide Shower

By Elizabeth Eastman

"I WISH we could do something exciting — something different at Christmas." Peggy looked out at the winter landscape as she spoke.

"For instance?" Vivian Clark glanced up from the magazine.

"Something like making someone terribly, tremendously happy." Peggy came closer to her sister as she answered, and Vivian saw that she was very much in earnest.

"I've been thinking," Peggy went on, "how wonderful it would be to bring something thrilling — something unforgettable—into someone's life. I don't mean like helping with the baskets and the entertainments at the church; we've always done that; but a sort of special something, for one particular person."

For a minute youthful voices surrendered to silence. The gay little clock on the dresser made audible sound. Suddenly Peggy jumped to her feet. "I've thought of something!" she cried breathlessly, "something really different! You know Sara Werby—she's been an invalid for 10 years—shut in from the world except for a few friends who run in every now and then."

"But what can we do for her? We do visit her occasionally, and have always taken her a little Christmas gift. You know she's much too proud to accept charity."

"Who's talking of charity? What I have in mind is something that will just thrill her. I'm going to write to Mona Muir—you know, she runs that department on the Star—and I'm going to tell her how wonderful Sara has been, and ask a card shower for her."

Vivian whistled through her teeth. "Well, that is a grand idea, Peggy. I know she'll be thrilled."

"She's bound to be! Think of the postman stopping with loads and loads of mail every day." Peggy's blue eyes were dancing.

"But suppose people don't write? You know how busy everyone is at Christmas." Vivian's face reflected the doubt in her words.

"But they will write," Peggy's voice was emphatic. "I'm going to hold the thought that Sara Werby will be just swamped with mail."

TOGETHER they penned the letter to Mona Muir on the big city paper. Later, between snatches of shopping, they discussed the possible number of cards and letters that would be delivered at the little cottage on Bank street. They both seemed to be more concerned with what Sara Werby was going to receive than about what they themselves were going to get.

"I've thought of something!" she cried breathlessly.

"It's funny how doing something for others gets a hold of you," Vivian said one day; "I wasn't nearly as enthusiastic as you at first, Peggy; now I believe I'm even more eager."

But their real happiness came on Christmas eve when they stood by Sara Werby's bed and saw the radiance upon her face. Stacks of letters, cards, and packages were piled everywhere, with postmarks from almost every state in the Union.

"It's the most thrilling thing that ever happened in my life," Sara told them. "I never knew there were so many wonderful people in the world. It will take me weeks and weeks to answer them all. but it's going to be loads of fun." Her brown eyes sparkled like a girl's.

"I imagine some of them will develop into lasting friends," Peggy ventured. "Vivian and I are so happy about it all—in fact, I think we're just about as excited as you are."

"You're pretty happy then," Sara Werby whispered softly, "for I don't believe there is anyone—anywhere—who is going to have a more thrilling Christmas than mine."

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of worldwide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

To Hasten Cooking.—When using a double boiler the food will cook more quickly if the water in the outer vessel is salted in the proportion of a fourth of a cup of salt to one quart of water.

Squeaky Floors.—Floors squeak from various reasons: 1. Joist sizes too small or span too great. 2. The omission of subflooring or subflooring not laid diagonal to joints. 3. Finished floor nailings more than 16 inches apart. Most of the squeaking is done by the floor boards working on the nails. If the underlying construction is sound, squeaking can be eliminated by face nailing. This should be done by a competent carpenter who will not mar the floor surface.

If tapes are used, they may be drawn through the staples and fixed so firmly that there is no chance of the "droop" which so often spoils the effect of otherwise attractive curtains.

Toys for Christmas Made From Spools

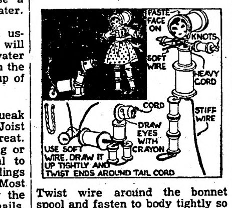
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

SO MANY readers have asked for more spool ideas after seeing the directions for spool shelves in Sewing Book No. 3, that I know you will love making these toys.

The two spools for the doll's arms are strung together with cord. Start with these, then bend the body wire over the center of the cord. Run both ends of the wire through the two body spools, then bend the wires and run them through the spools for the legs. Bend in flat loops for the feet.



Twist wire around the bonnet spool and fasten to body tightly so the bonnet tips up at the back. Cut a face out of a fashion magazine or draw one and paste it on the front of the bonnet spool. The dress is of two straight pieces; the bright sash and bonnet ribbons match.

One end is cut off the spool for the dog's head. Bend the wire over the whiskers, then run both ends through the head and neck spools. Run one end through the two leg spools, then both through the body and one through the back spool. Twist together around the tail.

NOTE: Readers who are now using Sewing Books No. 1, 2 and 3 will be happy to learn that No. 4 is ready for mailing; as well as the 10-cent editions of No. 1, 2 and 3. # European Peace Talk Persists Despite Increase in Warfare; Is Hitler's Collapse Imminent?

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

INTERNATIONAL:

Peace in the Wind

Though Nazi mines and submarines counted almost two score victims in 10 days (including Poland's huge Pilsudski and Britain's Rawalpindi), though the allies reportedly downed 22 Nazi planes in 48 hours, the big news of Europe's war was not conflict. Instead it was the story of peace efforts, of one mediation after another, of European and American overtures first to make peace and then to maintain it.

Venlo & Munich

By adding facts and subtracting propaganda, neutral observers pieced together a plausible solution to the Sherlock Holmes mysteries which burst into headlines after Adolf Hitler "escaped" the Munich beer hall explosion November 8. Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo merely told Germans and the world that two British intelligence officers—Capt. Richard Stevens and Maj. Sigismund Best—had been seized for aiding in the Munich explosion, for which a German named Georg Elser had subsequently been arrested. By implication, Himmler admitted a minor anti-Hitler movement in Germany, but by the time Netherlands and Britain got through with the story it looked like Hitler was skating on thin ice.

HIMMLER AND HITLER
Where does Goering stand?

At the Hague, the Dutch newspaper Het Volk charged a Belgian neutrality officer had been killed November 9 when Best and Stevens were abducted from Venlo, where they had been carrying on peace negotiations with "anti-Hitler leaders" from Germany. Identity of these "leaders" remained a mystery that Heinrich Himmler would give his right arm to solve, for many Germans know he is a fervent Nazi who looks suspiciously on Field Marshal Hermann Goering as a potential Hitler foe.

In Britain it was claimed that Georg Elser was merely a concentration camp prisoner who was "seized" for the record; that the Munich bombing had really been planned by Himmler as an excuse for making wholesale Nazi arrests and thus weeding out revolutionists—possibly including Herr Goering. Whatever the true facts of Venlo, Munich, Best, Stevens, Elser et al, it was obvious Nazi Germany was worried by an underground anti-Hitler movement which has roots in dissention following the wedding of Nazidom and Communism.

Visionaries

Scattered generously in dispatches from Washington and Europe have been suggestions concerning the peace to follow war. Few Englishmen or Frenchmen now believe Versailles was a just treaty; they now hope to lick Hitler and give Germany a rational post-war settlement. Most important, there is growing talk of a European confederation whose units might include:

(1) Eastern Europeans, encompassing nations from the Gulf of Finland to Rumania, with Poland dominant.

(2) Southeastern Europeans, allying the Balkans to Italy.

(3) Central Europeans, drawing the Catholic German, Czech and Rhineland peoples nearer to France.

(4) Northern Europeans; an alliance of Scandinavian countries.

(5) North Central Europeans, permitting Austria and Sudetenland to remain with the Reich.

Biggest visionary of the week was none less than Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain: "A war aim . . . means defeat of our enemy, the defeat of that aggressive, bullying mentality . . . If the German people can be convinced that spirit is bad . . . they will abandon it . . . When we have achieved our war aims, we can establish a new Europe, a Europe with a new spirit . . . In such a Europe it would be recognized that there can be no lasting peace unless there is a full and constant flow of trade . . . In such a Europe each country would have the unfettered right to choose its own form of internal government."

American Hand

At Washington the state department found the cause of international peace a good argument on which to hinge its plea for renewing the reciprocal trade treaty act, which expires next June. Assistant Secretary George Messersmith indicated the administration considered its treaties a basis for lasting peace when Europe's war is finished. Next day Secretary Hull himself jumped into the fight, indicating he wouldn't be content to postpone the renewal until after 1940's election, even though the 22 agreements already made could be continued without a congressional vote. Though farm and industrial leaders have claimed the program has damaged their interests, Secretary Hull asked reporters to compare it with the Republican Smoot-Hawley tariffs. Two years after these took effect in 1930, he maintained 10 to 12 million Americans had lost their jobs; by contrast, he said, the reciprocal treaties have been calculated to boost employment.

POLITICS:

Forecast

"If he puts forth another big deficit spending program, you can expect him to be a third-term candidate. If he goes in for economy, he will not be a candidate."

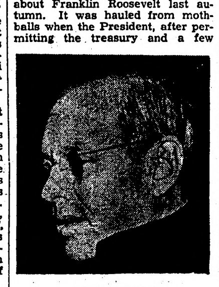
Alf Landon, 1936 G. O. P. presidential nominee, made this forecast about Franklin Roosevelt last autumn. It was hauled from mothballs when the President, after permitting the treasury and a few "spokesmen" to say their say about taxes, made his own speech at Warm Springs, Ga. Public reaction to the no-new-taxes feelers had been good, and it was especially clear that the administration would have trouble forcing congress to levy new taxes and at the same time increase the national debt limit. In such a position, the President wisely said little and left the problem up to congress and the people.



ALF LANDON
No spending, no running?

His statement: That national defense outlays for the 1940-41 fiscal year will be increased about $500,000,000 (total: approximately $2,200,000,000) and that emergency defense taxes might be necessary. But the people, he said, should decide whether to finance it by borrowing or by new taxes. That left the problem squarely up to congress, with the President taking a sidelines seat.

There were other indications he would seek no third term. At Warm Springs he urged the good people to start agitating for a new post office because "we have got only a little over a year left." Meanwhile Columnist Walter Lippmann decided the President really didn't want another term, but only wanted the honor of having to turn it down.

Other political notes:

¶ At Dallas it was learned authoritatively that Vice President John Nance Garner would soon announce his candidacy for the 1940 nomination.

¶ At Boston, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, ex-representative from Illinois, asked the Republicans to nominate young Tom Dewey, "a fighting young man, a man of vigor, courage and proved executive ability."

NAMES ... in the news

Martin Dies, maligned head of the un-Americanism investigating committee, demanded that the administration co-operate in the inquiry or take the responsibility for killing it. Said he: "I'm worn out . . . It's been a headache . . ."

Harry Woodring, secretary of war, announced he was proud to have been governor of Kansas, and the only Kansan ever named to a cabinet post, "but the only real accomplishment is for a man who was a bachelor governor six years ago to be expecting a fourth baby. That's something."

Harry Hopkins, secretary of commerce, opened a drive to remove interstate trade barriers which, he said, constitute a serious threat to the nation's economic life.

American Boy Magazine Companion To Thousands

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read The American Boy Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than a magazine.

"It is as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum", writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our basketball team because of playing tips I read in The American Boy.

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have founnd that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Boy sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

A Real Twin Calves Record

Some time ago we were reading in the papers about a farmer who had a cow who had two pair of twin calves in a year's time. This record is beaten all to pieces on the Wm. Paskewitz farm here at Holt.

Mr. Paskewitz states that he has a cow who is 12 years old who has had three pair of twin calves in her time. The daughter of this cow had a pair of twins in 1939 and her granddaughter, who is an exceptionally good cow, had two pair of twin calves in one year. These twin calves were born within the time of the calander year of 1939. One pair was born Jan. 30th this year and the other pair was born on Dec. 5th, 1939.

We claim this to be a record that dairymen anywhere will fine hard to beat in as much as the cows are related and have such splendid producing records.

Life Of Charles Brenna

The following is a life history of Charles Brenna of Woonsocket, South Dakota as taken from the Woonsocket News.

Charles Brenna was taken suddenly ill on Nov. 20th and was taken to a hospital at Huron S. D., the following day where he underwent an operation for a ruptured appendix.

Mr. Brenna was born at Ulen, Minnesota, May 11, 1898. He spent his boyhood in Middle River until the age of thirteen years. He was baptised and confirmed in the Lutheran faith.

Some years later he became an engineer, which was his life's ambition. He lived in the state of Idaho for several years doing dredge work. From there he was transferred to Yankton county So. Dak.

On March 11, 1904, he was united in marriage to Grace Edith Johnson and to this union four sons and three daughters were born.

Two sons preceded him in death.

He moved with his family to Woonsocket in 1929 and worked for the Central Electric and Telephone Co. as chief engineer in the power house until his death.

He underwent an operation at the Samaritan hospital at Huron Thursday Nov. 30th. He passed away Monday morning Dec. 4th.

Surviving him are his wife and five children, Leo and Leroy (twins) Joyce, Marcene and Frances, all of Woonsocket, his father, Ole C. Brenna of Middle River and six brothers, Calmer, Tony and Kermet of Middle River, Ole and Sanford of Thief River Falls, and Morris of Holt.

His father and several of his brothers motored to Woonsocket to attend the funeral which was held on Thursday of last week. Charles was laid to rest in a cemetery at Mission Hill near Yankton, S. Dak.

For the past several years neighboring cities and villages have had celebrationg before Christmas at which they have had Santa Claus come into town with his sleigh and reindeer. This year we see by reports that he has had to come to town the modern way in an automobile. Where is the fellow who said the world could not change it's methods to fit a livelier accasion?

Orlin Ness underwent an operation at St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls Tuesday whereby he had his tonsils removed.

Carl E. Olson returned home Saturday from a hospital at Fargo where he had been a patient the past six weeks.

Rallying Cry Against TB

For 35 years tuberculosis and health associations and the medical profession have been spreading information that tuberculosis is preventable and curable. A new rallying cry, used by Dr Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, is "Tuberculosis can be eradicated from this nation." The techniques are available for reaching this goal. Tuberculosis Christmas Seals are helping to teach these facts about the possible eradication of this disease.

Farmer-Labor Rally Sunday

Speeches by Congressman R. T. Buckler, Dewey W. Johnson, former U. S. Representative from Minneapolis and Hjalmer Peterson, ex-governor and member of the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, will feature a ninth district rally and conference of Farmer-Laborites at Mahnomen Sunday afternoon December 17th, according to an announcement sont out by Harold C. Hagen of Crookston, District Farmer-Labor Association Secretary and Seeretary to Representative Buckler.

Two of the speakers Johnson and Petersen are considered as possible candidates for the Farmer-Labor nomination for governorship next year with Petersen already having indicated his intention to seek the nomination and make the fight to defeat Gov. Harold Stassen next year. Paul A. Rasmussen, another avowed candidate for governor was invited but replied that he had a previous engagement and could not attend.

The general public is invited to attend the speaking program and a large crowd is expected. The meeting is scheduled to be opened by Farmer-Labor chairman Elmer G. Johnson of Fergus Falls at one o'clock, in the county courthouse in Mahnomen.

Luther League Social Tonight

At the Nazareth Church Parlors this evening there will be a Luther League Social. Various committees have spent much much time on this event and an enjoyable time should be had by all. The young people of the community are invited to attend.

The following were supper guests at the Ludvig Sagstuen home Wednesday evening: Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Larson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carsten Sagstuen and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. Moberg and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Myers and David, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Peterson and Donnie, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Ring and family and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sagstnen.

Mrs, Chas Horien Passes

The people of this community were shocked on Tuesday to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. Chas Horien. Mrs. Horien had not been feeling well, for some time and last week suffered a light stroke. On Saturday she was taken to the St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls and on Monday evening she passed away.

Funeral services were held yesterdav fram the Free Lutheran Church at Newfolden with Rev. Ronholm, pastor of the church officiating, assisted by Rev. T. C. L. Hanson, pastor of the Nazareth Lutheran church at Holt.

Reports are that farmers in North Dakota have just finished some late plowing. It has been one of the grandest falls that we can remember in our 35 years spent here in the northwest.

Since the weather cooled off a little the job of butchering hogs and beeves on the farms has gone ahead in full swing.

Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nyval gathered at their home Sunday for a house warming. The afternoon was spent socially after which a delicious lunch was served by the self invited guests.

The Weather

The weather cooled off a little over the week end but we are still holding out for a Christmas without snow. The temperature yesterday morning was only 16 above but the day warmed up and we had fine sunshine.

Safetygrams by Fred W. Braun, The Safety Man

Accidents usually leave scars, different kinds of scars. There are physical scars, of course, the cuts, bruises, burns, or whatever they may be.

But the kinds of scars that hurt most are those that sear into our minds and leave unhappy memories. These scars seldom heal.

We can all think back to some tragedy in which someone we knew very well, or perhaps someone in our family, played the leading part. The vividness of such a memory depends on the seriousness of the accident.

Why take chances in driving an automobile carelessly or recklessly? Why try to cheat time? What do you gain?

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. ## INTERNATIONAL:

Finlandia

Russia's invasion of Finland provided the first authentic touch of fierce conflict which observers have seen in the European cat-and-dog fight which started September 1. Carnage was spreading but so was peace talk, because most of the civilized world (except Germany and Japan) was outspoken in its denunciation of Soviet aggression.

Plucky, even though pathetically outnumbered, the Finns surprised most military experts by stalemating the enemy along a 750-mile front. Off Hango, one Russian destroyer was sunk and two others badly damaged by coastal batteries. While civilians fled bomb-wrecked Helsingfors, hardy soldiers fought off the Soviet advance in the north. They even drove the invader from snow-bound Petsamo after the Russians had taken that city with a new weapon—soldiers dropped by parachute.

RUSSIAN WEAPON

There was no hope for negotiation, nor did Finland expect to hold out very long. Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner appealed to the world for "effective help" as well as sympathy. Later he tried to reopen negotiations with Moscow through the Swedish minister there, but only a few hours earlier the Soviet had made its own peace—with a puppet "democratic republic of Finland." Finally, in desperation, Finland appealed to the League of Nations.

Embarrassment

For three years the frightened league has "played dead" whenever a political question was broached. Last spring Secretary-General Joseph A. C. Avenol ignored Albania's protest during the Italian invasion, and a recently scheduled meeting to hear Poland's protest over her Russian-German invasion was politely called off for fear of embarrassing the Kremlin. Reason: Russia's Ivan Maisky is league president.

This time the league had its last chance to retain international respect. Secretary Avenol dispatched the Finnish protest under pressure from France and Britain, who saw a chance of forcing Russia to show her hand. This hope was dashed when Russia announced she would not attend the meeting. Nor did any observer expect the lesser neutral nations to support either side in this controversy.

Instead the peace seekers looked to Italy, a non-leaguer, and Japan, whose foreign policy since September 1 has been as coherent as the gibberish of a Mongolian idiot. Officially the Italian government was sphynx-like, but there was no doubt about the feelings of a mob of uniformed Fascists who cheered before Rome's Finnish legation and hooted before the Soviet embassy. Though moving softly, the fine Italian hand was seen encouraging formation of an anti-Communist bloc in the Balkan states, where the Soviet bear will positively strike next.

Germany was silent, and with good reason. To denounce the Reds after Adolf Hitler's great show of friendship with Moscow would mean either (1) the repudiation of Der Fuehrer and a subsequent admission that the allies are right, or (2) a simultaneous war on two fronts against two hostile enemies (Russia on the east and the allies on the west). But a good sign of the average Nazi's sentiments was the pro-Finnish demonstration in Hungary's parliament.

How about Japan? Britain believed the recent Jap-Russian truce had paved the way for Finland's invasion, but Shanghai and Tokyo observers thought otherwise. Said an anonymous Jap army major: "It is a good lesson. It proves what we have always suspected, that Russia cannot be trusted."

Japan, Italy and Russia were obviously the nations to be watched, but no one could accurately predict their moves.

The Other War

Thousands of older French soldiers were released from the western front as the allies settled on their new strategy: Fighting Germany with seapower and economics instead of land offensives. There was no great show of seapower, although the disastrous allied shipping losses from Germany's magnetic mines had apparently been stopped. British aviators bombed Heligoland, the Reich's North sea naval base, claiming they had scored direct hits on several warships. But the biggest news was the new allied blockade on all German exports, designed to strangle the Reich's sources of foreign exchange. In the middle of this strange warfare the Vatican dropped an even stranger—though promising—note. Pope Pius XII suggested the warring nations declare a Christmas truce.

American Reaction

Thoroughly startled when Russia ignored his plea that civilian bombings be avoided in the Soviet-Finnish invasion, President Roosevelt issued an unprecedented statement: "Despite efforts made to solve the dispute by peaceful methods . . . one power has chosen to resort to arms."

This silenced spiteful critics who hoped to capitalize by pointing out how the President had erred in recognizing Russia back in 1933. But it didn't silence New York's Communist Daily Worker, whose front-page editorial accused the U. S. of provoking war against Russia "by using Finland as a pawn."

Next the President asked manufacturers and exporters of planes to remember "the unprovoked bombing and machine-gunning of civilian populations from the air" before negotiating any more contracts with the Soviet. Not content with this "moral embargo," many a congressional leader began yelling for severance of diplomatic relations with Russia. First among them was Texas' red-baiting Rep. Martin Dies. Idaho's Sen. William Borah, on the other hand, felt the U. S. "can best serve the cause of peace . . . by making every reasonable effort to maintain normal relations with all warring nations."

LEAGUE'S AVENOL

Last chance?

Comment from Britain's publicity-wise George Bernard Shaw: "Finland would probably not have refused the Russian offer . . . had she been acting . . . in her own interests, but Russia believes that Finland thinks she has the backing of America and other western powers."

Meanwhile, the Finnish legation in Washington announced calmly that its ever-prompt war debt payment of $234,693 will be made as due this month.

NAMES ... in the news

Jan Sibelius, Finland's idol and world-famed composer, denied by telephone from his home in Helsingfors' outskirts that he was dead, a bomb victim.

Harold D. Jacobs, ex-Washington newsman, was made "stooge" wage-hour administrator until congress will okay an army man for the job (Col. Philip Fleming of St. Paul).

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt showed up for the third day at un-Americanism committee hearings, watching Texas' Rep. Martin Dies hunt Communists in the American Youth congress.

Attorney General Frank Murphy refused A. F. of L.'s request that unions be exempted from anti-trust laws, thereby avoiding implication in the current inquiry of building industry irregularities.

King George VI of Britain braved a rough channel crossing to join his army on the Western front.

Christmas Play

By Katherine Edelman

THE town hall was wreathed with holly and mistletoe. Bright red bells hung from the old-fashioned chandeliers. Christmas candles sent their soft glow into the night. The whole place cried out welcome to the crowd who thronged through the doors.

By eight o'clock every seat was occupied. Small gossip and murmurs of expectancy ran through the crowd. The little town was proud of the boy who was taking the leading part in the play. They had known Ted Rawlings all their lives. Known him as an easy-going lad, interested in nothing more than fishing and hunting around the country, and later as an astonishingly changed ambitious fellow. No one seemed to understand how the quick transition occurred.

All eyes turned to the stage as the heavy curtain rolled upward. Three hundred pairs of eyes fastened themselves upon the moving, speaking figures. "Isn't Ted wonderful," young girls whispered breathlessly to each other. Between acts, thunderous bursts of applause filled the room. Hands clapped with vehemence. Small boys made their approval known by shrill whistling.

"Ted, you were perfectly wonderful," Sally was saying.

Ted carried the audience with him, every step of the way. He seemed to enter, to merge himself completely in the character he portrayed. His make-believe was so intense in the last act, that there was a deep silence for a moment when the final curtain fell.

FOR the time it was no make-believe to Ted. He was living again all the agony of parting, of seeing Sally Howard go away without a word. He had been sure until her train pulled out that she would come and say how sorry she was for the bitter, reproachful words she had hurled at him. Words that had left their mark upon his soul—that had stung him into a mad, ambitious desire to show her what he could do.

He found no real satisfaction in the tumultuous applause that followed. In this hour of his triumph, his heart cried out for Sally. If only she was here! If only she had cared! He scarcely knew what he was saying in answer to the lavish congratulations.

Suddenly small hands pressed tightly around his arm, and a remembered voice spoke in his ear. "Ted, you were perfectly wonderful," Sally was saying, "wonderful, wonderful. I'm so proud—so proud of you."

"But, Sally, I don't understand. I thought you were in New York."

"I was, until last night. I've been keeping track of you. I knew all about the play, and—and the way you have been working lately. I wouldn't have missed this for anything in the world."

"But the things you said, Sally? They hurt—they still do."

"I wanted them to hurt, Ted. I know—I know it was cruel, but there seemed no other way. Someone had to give you the right kind of push to get you going. You know you were really lazy? But now, well, you've really put on speed."

"Nothing like the speed I'm going to show in getting ready for a Christmas wedding. There's just two days left. We've got to make it a really big event. Let's give out the announcement now—while the crowd is still in the hall."

The First Santa Claus

The first Santa Claus was St. Nicholas, Bishop of Myra, who started mysterious midnight gift-bearing journeys. In the Fourth century he was famous because he was a rich man who enjoyed giving secret gifts to the poor. One of his tricks was to throw purses of gold into cottage windows and run away.

From Europe's Christmas Menu

Getting a Shoeful in Holland

Not on reindeer but on a white horse, St. Nicholas arrives in some parts of Holland, and instead of looking for stockings he searches for wooden shoes to fill them with gifts.

ACHING CHEST COLDS

Need More Than "Just Salve" To Relieve DISTRESS!

To quickly relieve chest cold misery and muscular aches and pains due to colds—it takes MORE than "just a salve"—you need a warming, soothing "counter-irritant" like good old reliable Musterole—used by millions for over 30 years.

Musterole penetrates the outer layers of the skin and helps break up local congestion and pain. 3 strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 40¢.

Quickly Made Dolls For Late Gift Choice

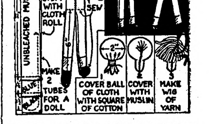
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HERE is a boy and a girl doll that you can make quickly. The body is two tubes of material made of fabric stitched together to simulate socks and shoes and then stitched, turned and stuffed as indicated at the left of this sketch. The head is a two-inch ball of cloth covered first with cotton and then with tightly stretched cloth sewed in the back as in steps 1 and 2. The wig is made as in step 3.

The diagram shows how the tubes and the head are sewn together. Sew across the top of the legs to make the doll jointed. Sew the arms down and the tips of the feet up as indicated. Sew clear through the head when adding the bead eyes about half way between the top and bottom. This shapes the cheeks. A few stitches in red make the mouth. The pleated skirt is cut straight. The trousers are slightly shaped in the crotch. The sweaters are made from the striped tops of children's socks.



NOTE: The 10 cent edition of Sewing Book No. 4 is now ready for mailing, as well as the 10 cent editions of No. 1, 2 and 3. Mrs. Spears has just made quilt block patterns for three designs selected from her favorite Early American quilts. You may have these patterns FREE with your order for four books. Price of books—10 cents each postpaid. Set of three quilt block patterns without books—10 cents. Send orders to Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Housemaid Summed Up Situation in Few Words

One Sunday afternoon the silence was shattered by the sound of an uproar from the kitchen. Voices were raised in indignation; there were loud and violent arguments and much bumping and banging about.

The mistress of the house hurried down to investigate and reached the kitchen just as the angry voices reached a deafening crescendo of sound.

"What on earth is all this shouting about?" she demanded. "Tell me, what does all this noise mean?"

"If you please, mum," replied the hot-eyed and panting maid, "me and cook's not speakin'."

Quick Action for SORE THROAT FROM COLDS NOW!

Amazing relief of painful symptoms begins in a big hurry when you use Bayer Aspirin this way

Follow these 3 steps as pictured

1. For sore throat from cold, dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in ⅓ glass of water and gargle. Pain is eased very quickly.

2. To relieve headache, body discomfort and aches, take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets and drink a glass of water. Repeat in 2 hours.

3. Check temperature. If you have a fever and temperature does not go down—call your doctor.

Both aches and raw throat relieved this convenient way. Saves hours of discomfort.

At the first sign of sore throat from a cold follow the directions in the pictures above—the simplest and among the most effective methods known to modern science to get fast relief.

The Bayer gargle will amaze you—easing throat rawness in a hurry. And the Bayer Aspirin taken internally quickly relieves the other painful cold symptoms.

Try this way. You will say it is unequalled. But when you buy be sure you get the fast-acting Bayer product you want. Ask for Bayer Aspirin by its full name.

National Guard Tests New York Anti-Aircraft Defense

National Guardsmen of Battery D, 212th coast artillery unit, only National Guard anti-aircraft unit in New York state, load a three-inch, super-powered gun, one of 325 ordered by the government. The new weapons, which would defend New York city in case of air attack, have a three-inch bore, fire a 28-pound projectile containing 253 one-half-inch lead pellets, and can fire 30 shells a minute. Guns were tested at Fort Tilden, Rockaway beach, New York city. It was the first time since 1917 that a N. Y. National Guard regiment held winter maneuvers.

Miss Hop Hee Dunne of Johannesburg, South Africa, pictured at the controls of her training plane in Philadelphia, Pa. The Chinese girl will learn flying in a Quaker City school, then expects to return home to Africa. From there she will proceed to China to instruct the youth of that country in aeronautics. Right: Peter Eoyang, eldest son of Admiral Eoyang of the Chinese navy, shown at his studies in the University of Michigan, where he is receiving an occidental education.

Serving Same Purpose for Germany?

France and Britain claim that George Elser, left, arrested by Germany for setting the Munich bomb which almost killed Adolf Hitler, is merely a "stooge" and that the bombing was planned to provide an excuse for purging Nazi ranks of undesirables. It was recalled that similar allegations were made about the Dutch communist, Marius van der Luebbe, right, whose arrest in 1933 for starting the Reichstag fire was a prelude to suspension of German civil liberties.

How Fast Can You Stop at 20 M. P. H.?

At a speed of 20 miles an hour, automobile stopping distance is 22 feet more than actual braking distance because it takes the average motorist three-quarters of a second to react and apply brakes. At 20 m. p. h. a car travels 22 feet in that three-quarters of a second. The National Safety council guide shows how weather conditions affect stopping distances.

Ersatz in England

A special "gas producer" converts low grade coal into gas to drive London's trucks and busses. Mounted on a trailer in front of the vehicle, this "producer" supplies fuel for a huge double-deck bus. This "ersatz" campaign of using substitutes conserves the empire's resources.

Supports Allies

Franco-British prestige in the Balkans was strengthened when Rumania's King Carol named George Tataresco to the premiership, succeeding Constantine Argetoianu, whose cabinet resigned after refusing Germany concessions on oil and foodstuffs. Tataresco, former Rumanian ambassador to France, is strongly pro-ally.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

8587

THIS frock (8587) is so devastatingly becoming to fashion-wise moppets that you needn't be surprised if your own small daughter develops a slight superiority complex when she puts it on! From a high waistline, the full skirt ripples about her dimpled knees. The sleeves puff out like little balloons. There's adorable quaintness in the cut of the top. Pattern includes panties, and it's quick and easy to make.

Gingham, linen, batiste or challis are pretty everyday materials for this frock. A party version will be sweet in organdy or taffeta, dimity or dotted Swiss, with ribbon instead of braid for trimming.

Pattern No. 8587 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 requires 1⅞ yards of 35-inch fabric for the dress; ¾-yard for panties. To trim with two rows of braid or bias fold requires 8½ yards.

Send your order with 15 cents (in coins) to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

The Weather

Who said our prediction about the weather might go wrong. We are still having Indian summer on a great scale. Saturday we had a nice shower of rain in the morning. According to reports from official weather bureaus it was 60 above in many places Saturday. It was 50 above here in the afternoon Sunday. And to top that it was 22 above yesterday morning which is not so bad for being only one day ahead of the shortest day of the year which was yesterday.

Alfred Larson and Ludvig Larson motored to Honeyford N. D. Sunday and visited relatives there.

About 35 young people attended the Social at the Nazareth church Friday evening. Everyone present enjoyed the evening.

Dangerous Toys Taboo

Eye injuries, from toys, are of sufficiently frequent occurrence as to make timely advice to parents to buy Christmas toys for juveniles with a safety thought in mind, which comes from the Minnesota Society for Prevention of Blindness and Conservation of Vision, with offices at 502 Hamm building, St. Paul.

One of the activities of the Minnesota Society is education in prevention of accidents to children's eyes. Cautioning parents and friends of children to help prevent loss of eyesight, by choosing Christmas toys wisely, is a reasonable warning, Mrs. Alfred F. Pillsbury, president of the society states.

Advise from the Society includes the following: "Important causes of eye accidents are the realistic cowboy, Indian and racketeer games which involve use of air rifles, blank pistols, bows and arrows. Sharp-pointed scissors and pocket knives should be included in Christmas gifts to children only when they are old enough to understand how to use them safely. In general, avoid giving toys to children which explode or hurl a projectile.

"If a child suffers an eye injury, the three cardinal principles of first aid are: cleanliness, prompt protection of the eye by a snug bandage, and medical care directed by a competent physician, preferable an oculist. These principles apply even if the injury is slight; and they are imperative with serious injuries."

Ruth and Shirley Horien motored to Moorhead Friday where Shirley returned to her duties at the Teachers' College. Ruth, who is a Senior there, returned home Saturday and will stay at home for three months.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

WHAT two words on human tongue are more heart-warming than those! They not only represent a friendly greeting, but in them are summed up the whole spirit of the Yuletide—brightness and laughter, joy of living and joy of giving, health and happiness, peace on earth and good will to all men.

It is a greeting which we will hear often in this community of ours during these happy days of the Christmas season. We will hear it on our streets, in our stores, along our country roads and in our homes. For ours is a friendly community and nowhere is that friendly greeting more sincere. It is not possible, however, for each of us to say "Merry Christmas!" to everyone and thus complete the happy circle of Yuletide good cheer.

But there is one who has that rare privilege, one who has been a welcome visitor at the firesides of the homes in this community throughout the year and who now claims the right to be the first to wish you joy at this joyous time. That one is your Home Paper.

So your Home Paper carries from you to all the community and from all the community to you this friendly greeting:

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

—THE PUBLISHERS

A Merry Christmas To You All

"A Merry Christmas to all
"God Bless Every one!"
(Dickens)

A warming, heart-lifting greeting! "And to you, too, a happy Christmas!" comes the answer, echoing round the globe. God meant us to be happy on Christmas. Some of us will be busy with little folks, listening to their excitement over gifts, trees and Sunday school 'pieces;' young folks are back home; hearths and hearts aglow with warmth and mirth; mails full with friendly greetings. Christmas speaks of home and the intimate love of those who belong. Others may be without loved ones near, alone perhaps in a big city, too far away to join the friendly circle but whose hearts are warm with tender remembrance.

And so, in this happy, quiet time, across distances that are nothing in God's sight, we gather about the crib in Bethlehem and welcome the Savior of the world. Lutheran Herald.

A very large crowd attended Luther League Sunday evening. Hjalmer Johnson gave a very good talk about the meaning of home and mother and gave all of us something to think about this Christmas season. Mrs. C. A. Larson, Mrs. Ole Larson and Mrs. Jesse Sorum were hostesses.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN The Safety Man

December has usually been a bad month for pedestrians. Statistics show that during the last 8 or 9 years more people have been killed in December than in and other month of the year.

It is a month with fewer hours of daylight than and other, and persons, especially pedestrians, are subjected to hazards because of improper and insufficient lighting from street lights and automobile headlights. Fog, rain, snow and sleet add to this hazard making it doubly difficult for everyone.

Be on your guard. Do not let an accident mar your holiday. May this Christmas find you healthy and happy and may you look forward to the New Year with renewed enthusiasm and with a safety conciousness.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fredrickson of Thief River Falls visited at the A. Bennes home Sunday.

Practical Pinafore That Will Stay Put

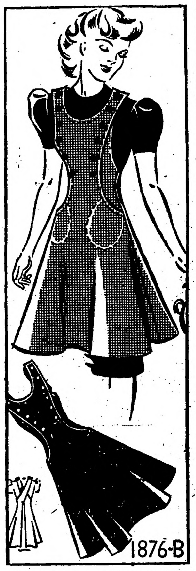
THIS pinafore apron (1876) will be a great favorite with everybody in the sewing circle—it's the most useful kind you can have! It goes on in a jiffy—not even a sash to tie! It covers both the top and the skirt of your dress thoroughly. It won't slip off the shoulders. It has two capacious patch pockets that you will find mighty handy.

Buttons and bright piping give it a gay touch; it's prettily small at the waist and flared at the skirt. Best of all, it's so easy to make that you can turn it out in a few hours. Send for the pattern today, and make half a dozen aprons like this, so that you'll always have one ready to put on, fresh and clean. It's nice for gifts and club or church sales, too. Make it of gingham, percale, chintz or linen, in cheerful prints or plain colors.



No. 1876 is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44. Size 34 requires 2⅝ yards of 35-inch material; 2 yards bias binding to trim.

Women as Hikers

Women are the world's greatest workers — and walkers. Many common-place actions of their daily lives are startling when calculated in figures.

The average housewife walks nearly 5,000 miles per year "pottering about the house," according to statistics compiled by research workers in an effort to ascertain why so many women suffer from thick ankles and flat feet. The housewife's daily average is 23,000 steps, which works out at about 13 miles.

Converted into terms of a lifetime, the average housewife walks approximately 200,000 miles about her duties.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

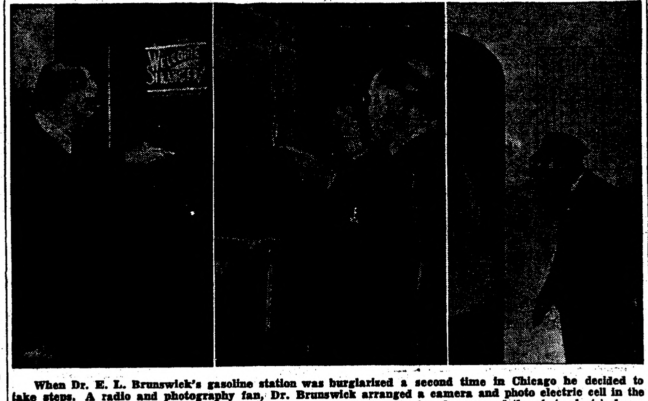
Rebel 'Angels' Seek Redress From Father Divine

"Father" Divine, hand in pocket, strolls from the New York Supreme court after his initial appearance as defendant in a suit brought against him by two of his disappointed "angels." The suit was brought by Mrs. Verinda Brown, right, and her husband, Thomas, for the return of $4,475 she says they turned over to him. Even with this down payment they failed to find the "peace that is wonderful."

Obliging Thief Leaves Own Picture as Evidence



When Dr. E. L. Brunswick's gasoline station was burglarized a second time in Chicago he decided to take steps. A radio and photography fan, Dr. Brunswick arranged a camera and photo electric cell in the station. Then a third attempt at robbery was made. But when the burglar crossed the photo-electric beam a flash bulb and the camera were fired simultaneously. The camera had taken the picture at the right, which resulted in the arrest of Harold Lewis, 19-year-old Woodstock, Ill., farm hand.

Worse Than Bombs? Yes, Says Doctor

Raucous, brass-voiced air raid sirens, like this one in Sydney, Australia, are blamed by Dr. Edward Toulouse, president of the French league of mental hygiene, for a rise in mental disorders. Dr. Toulouse, adviser to the French ministry of public health, advocates softer-voiced alarms lest France become a nation of nervous wrecks. Effects of the present sirens, he says, are worse than bombing.

Christmas Invitation

◆

By Katherine Edelman

JACK TRESLAR hunched his broad shoulders deeper into the big chair, turning a new page of his book. He was reading a Christmas story, trying hard to become absorbed in the tale.

A sharp ring from the telephone brought him to his feet. Who could be calling him on Christmas eve?

A strange voice responded to his "hello." "I hate to bother you on Christmas eve, Mr. Treslar. But I'm ringing up to ask if it would be possible for you to come and spend Christmas with me. My name is Bevan Willers. I live out at Richmond. I have a big home, and—"

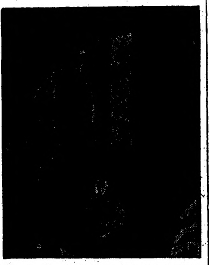
"But—but I don't even know you, Mr. Willers. There must be some mistake."

"I want you!" the low voice was emphatic. "Will you come or not?"

Jack repressed a quick exclamation. "I—I had thought of spending Christmas—" he began.

"Wouldn't it be possible to change your plans? I have a feeling they could be side-tracked easily."

Jack thought of the lonely Christmas he had been anticipating. After all, there might be something to this unusual invitation.



He ascended the steps leading to the massive door.

"You are right about my plans," he admitted. "They are rather in the air. But—but going to spend Christmas with an utter stranger took me back for a moment."

"That's why I thought you might come." There was a note of disappointment in Bevan Willers' voice. "I probably got the wrong man, however."

Jack thought again of the lonely Christmas before him. And before he could debate the question, he heard a voice inside of him answering, calling through the wire to Richmond, "You got the right man, Mr. Willers. I'm coming."

An hour later, bathed and dressed, Jack Treslar was speeding along the frosted highway to Richmond. Following the detailed instructions that had been given him, Jack found the long winding drive leading from the roadway. What a secluded, ghostly place, he thought, as he drove under the snow-sprinkled trees.

BEVAN WILLERS was waiting. In the dim light from the chandelier, his tall bent figure seemed grotesque. "I have let the servants away for the evening," he said, his bony hand motioning toward the end of the shadowed hall.

Jack Treslar felt a twinge of fear as he followed. Here he was—alone in the house with this strange old man. Anything could happen. There wasn't another residence within blocks. Then, his adventurous spirit reasserted itself, and he looked smilingly across the table at Bevan Willers. "Well, what's it all about?"

A dead silence was the only answer. Gray eyes under heavy bristling brows stared at him intently. Jack stared back unflinchingly.

Then a hearty laugh rang through the library. With amazement Jack saw the old man straighten up in his chair. Years seemed to fall off his shoulders. The twisted, grotesque appearance vanished as if by magic. He spoke quietly.

"I'm not crazy," he began; "I'm just a lonely old fellow, ticketed as a sort of recluse. The true facts are that I've been trying for years to write. Yesterday I got word that a story of mine had been accepted."

"But I still don't understand your strange invitation, and—" Jack interrupted.

"I'm coming to that," Bevan Willers continued. "The hero of my book is a daring, adventurous fellow. A man willing to answer a strange call that came in the night. I got intrigued with the fellow, and began thinking. Wondering if there was any young fellow who would act as he had done. So I rang the first hotel that came to mind and described my hero. Young, unmarried, interesting sort of chap. Pretended his name had slipped my mind for the moment. They connected me with your room. You know the rest."

Jack stretched out his long arm across the desk, and gripped the old man's hand. "Now that I'm here, Mr. Willers, do you still believe you have got the right man." There was wistful entreaty in his dark eyes.

"I don't just think—I'm absolutely positive."

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Read the labels on canned foods. Many tell the number of slices contained in the can. Others give additional useful information about the contents.

* * *

About Grapefruit.—A soft, discolored area at the stem end of a grapefruit indicates decay and decay, even in one small spot, will affect the flavor of the whole fruit.

* * *

Protect House Plants.—Drafts of cold air or night temperatures that approach freezing handicap house plants. It is best to remove them from windows for the night.

* * *

Use for Pickle Liquid.—Liquid left over from mustard pickles is excellent to mix with chopped meat or fish and use in sandwich fillings.

* * *

Picking Lemons.—Lemons that have a fine-textured skin and are heavy for their size are usually of a better quality and have more juice than those that are coarse-textured and light in weight.

* * *

Ventilate Kitchen.—The following bad air conditions in a kitchen may cause fatigue: Not enough oxygen or an excess of carbon dioxide, and the presence of carbon monoxide, excessive moisture and excessive heat. The kitchen, more than any other room, requires frequent ventilation.

* * *

Milk will not scorch or stick to the pan when boiling it if the saucepan is rinsed with boiling water just prior to putting in the milk.

* * *

Chopping Nuts.—When finely chopped nuts are needed for cakes, salads or sandwiches run the nuts through a food-chopping machine.

* * *

Making Muffins.—Muffins should be mixed just enough to moisten all ingredients, but should not be stirred. Stirring develops gluten in the flour and makes the muffins elastic and tough.

Pamela's Enthusiasm Was Wasted on John

John felt that he could never ask Pamela to be his wife.

True, he loved her as he had never loved anyone else before, but then she was an angel, while he had many little weaknesses of which no angel would ever be likely to approve.

Pamela, on the other hand, spent her time thinking that it was high time John popped the question!

One night he came to the point. "Pamela, Pamela," he urged, "will you marry me?"

"You bet," she replied briskly.

"I know, darling," he answered, ashamed. "But if you'll only say 'Yes,' I'll promise never to back another horse!"

RUMANIA FIGHTS OFF ENEMIES AND 'PROTECTORS'

Chances grew this month that pressure on Rumania from all sides may drive Europe's war into the Balkans, where a precarious peace still clings hopefully. Immediate sources of trouble are shown above. Not shown are longer-standing sources, namely, pressure on Rumania from Germany, on the one hand, and Britain and France on the other. Both want control of Rumanian oil and grain, but so, for that matter, do Russia and Italy. One Soviet step inside Rumania, however, would bring down the wrath of Italy, which demands that the Balkans be left severely alone.

DOMESTIC:
America Abroad

There may have been some marked connection between U. S. politics and the state department's abrupt decision to censure Europe's belligerents. Then, again, Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's return from London may have provided impetus. But while Republican strategists were debating the wisdom of attacking the administration's alleged pro-British stand and its failure to rebuke Russia for invading Finland, Secretary of State Cordell Hull acted swiftly.

Russia was warned the U. S. would hold Moscow responsible for damages to American interests growing out of its blockade of Finland. Since Americans are already barred from this area by the neutrality law, the warning was at best a slight wrist slap. Next Mr. Hull warned Britain that her new blockade of German exports "shall not cause interference with the legitimate trade of its (America's) nationals . . ."

JOE KENNEDY
His hand was visible.

Joe Kennedy's hand was more visible in the next move. President Roosevelt told his press conference the ways were being sought to increase the use of American ships on routes abandoned by the British and other belligerents.

Climaxing the renewal of vigorous U. S. action abroad was establishment of a dummy Finnish-American Trading corporation, to be financed by $10,000,000 in credits supplied by Jesse Jones' export-import bank.

THE WARS:
Rumor Hath It—

A persistent but unconfirmed report popped up simultaneously in a half-dozen European capitals to the effect that Germany was willing to call off her war with the allies, joining hands in a four-power (France, Britain, Italy and Germany) drive against the Russian juggernaut. Nobody doubted Nazi interest in such a project, because Germany dislikes the Russians. Nor did many observers doubt that this must eventually happen if the Soviet is to be held in check. But it was equally evident that until Russia pounds on their doors, the allies will continue their "holy war" against Hitlerism.

Arctic War

Whether they were spreading propaganda or telling the truth, the Finns did a nice job of building up world hatred of the Soviets. One report said they were sending Polish peasants across the heavily-mined no-man's land on the Karelian isthmus. (The French use pigs for the same purpose). Another report said Russian tanks advanced against Finnish lines running over the bodies of their wounded.

It was no picnic for the Reds, at any rate. Inexperienced in arctic warfare, they died by the hundreds as the Finns loosed snow avalanches, disabled scores of tanks with uncanny firing accuracy and rode to victory on skis against their ill-prepared adversaries.

But the Finns were weakening, outfought by force of sheer Soviet manpower. In desperation, Vlinoe Hakkila, speaker of the Finnish diet, appealed by radio: " . . . We believe the civilized world, which has given us testament of its great sympathy, will not leave us to fight alone . . ."

Western War

Peace talk to the contrary, the allies' war against Germany became intensified as Britain clamped down her blockade of all Nazi exports. A Japanese freighter, which stubbornly threatened to sail with German goods from the Netherlands, suddenly changed its mind. On one "black Friday" 14 losses to British and neutral nations were revealed, plus alleged sinking of three Nazi U-boats.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS:
China to the Rescue

"It is for us to act in order that little people in distress will not be deceived."

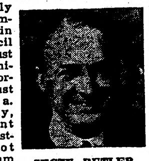
Thus spake Norway's Karl J. Hambro, new president of the League of Nations assembly, as he ascended the rostrum to open the league's greatest show—the trial of Russia for an attempt on Finland's life. Italy was gone; so was Germany. The Russian delegate, Jakob Surits, stayed at his hotel.

This left the league largely a group of democracies bound together in a last futile attempt to maintain peace by collective security. There were puppet stragglers like Lithuania and Latvia, but they could speak only in the assembly, not in the council which must vote unanimously in order to oust Russia. Strangely, sentiment for the ouster did not come from France and Britain (without whose support there would be no league), but from Latin-American nations who threatened to quit if the Soviet wasn't "punished." This drew the allies into line. Scandinavia, its security threatened by the Finnish war, was quick to follow when assured some support.



SECTY. BUTLER
China saved Russia.

But at Russia's darkest hour she got help from an unexpected, though logical place. In the presence of British Foreign Under-Secretary Richard Austen Butler walked Dr. Wellington Koo, scholarly ex-Chinese ambassador to the U. S., now that nation's league representative. Koo's announcement: China will not support the ouster. Reason (left unsaid): Russia alone remains as a source of supplies for China in her war against Japan.

Saddened, Norway's Karl Hambro held a last hope that Russia might at least be induced to settle the Finnish dispute peacefully. The league sent a 24-hour "ultimatum" which "invited" Moscow to arbitrate, but every leaguer knew it was a dull weapon.

HOW TO SEW

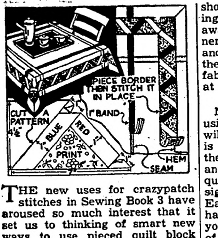
by Ruth Wyeth Spears



THE new uses for crazypatch stitches in Sewing Book 3 have aroused so much interest that it set us to thinking of smart new ways to use pieced quilt block designs. This border pieced of small patterned cotton prints of all kinds and colors put together with red and blue strips is the result. It is very striking and decorative for lunch cloth shown here which, by the way, is made of unbleached muslin bags. The seams where the bags are joined to make the cloth the desired size are covered with straight 1-inch bands of the red and blue material as shown at the right.

The diagram at the lower left shows you how to make a pattern for the blue, red and print pieces. Cut a triangle of stiff paper 4½ inches high and 7 inches wide at the base. Mark the blue strip 1 inch wide along the left edge as shown and then the red strip joining it on the right edge. Now cut away the top and lower right corners as shown. Cut the red, blue and print sections apart and use them for patterns in cutting the fabric pieces adding ¼-inch seam at all edges.

The Weather

Hold everything! Our legal department has just furnished us with an unwritten opinion that it does not sound right to describe this season as Indian Summer. They say we should call it mild mid-winter weather.

We predicted a very snowless Christmas and are stretching for a bare-ground new year season! If that too holds out, we are going for an open January.

A. L. Carlson of Argyle spent Thursday here attending to business connected with his banking interests.

Life Of Mrs. Chas. Horien

Mrs. Charles Horien passed away on Monday evening, Dec. 11th. She was at the time of her untimely death 41 years, 9 months and 12 days old.

Margret L. Horien was born at Bardo, Norway on March 6, 1898. At the age of 1½ years she came to this country with her widowed mother, Mrs. Anna Ohm. Her early childhood was spent with friends in North Dakota and with Mrs. Matt Hanson. She later joined her mother and step-father Mr. and Mrs. Johannes Johnson on their farm in Holt township, where she lived until her marriage in 1919 to Charles Horien. They lived in Strathcona until in June 1934, when they moved to their farm in Holt township.

Mrs. Horien was highly respected by friends and neighbors and was a kind and loving mother. While living at Strathcona, she served as president of the Lutheran Ladies Aid and leader of the choir, and also served as treasurer of the school board for eight years. She was leader of 4-H club work at Strathcona and was 4-H leader in her home community at the time of her death. She was a former member of circle one of Nazareth Ladies Aid and later took part in church activities in the Folden church which is near her home.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Ruth and Shirley, who are respectively a senior and freshman at Moorhead State Teachers' College; two sons, Duane and Marvin, at home; and her aged step-father, Johannes Johnson. Her mother and a baby daughter preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held in the Bethlehem Lutheran Chtrch at Newfolden on Thursday, Dec. 14. Rev. Ronholm officiated, assisted by Rev. T. C. L. Hanson. Special music and singing during the services was rendered by Mr. Streeter, Rev. and Mrs. Arne Folden and by the Newfolden High School mixed Chorus and Mixed sextet, under the direction of Mr. Solyst. The pallbearers were Norman Folden Harold Folden, Einar Folden, Walter Folden, Even Hanson and Edmund Elseth. She was laid to rest in the Folden cemetery.

The church was filled to capacity with friends and relatives of the Horien family. Many from Holt attended.

Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Concordia College Radio Party

Students, alumni, and friends of Concordia college, Moorhead, Minn., will gather as 200 or more local units throughout the northwest, to hear the fifth annual holiday radio party which will be broadcast over station WDAY, Fargo, from 10:30 to 11 p. m., January 2.

Inez Anderson is chairman of the local party which will be held at her home.

Staff announcers handling the program from WDAY will be Howard Nelson '36, Dave Henley, the Man on the Street, and Ken Kennedy, who will employ the mobile unit during the candle lighting ceremony.

Opening with a transcribed band number, the first part of the program will include the candle-lighting ceremony at the home of Dr. J. N. Brown, president of Concordia sollege, who will give the signal for all party chairman throughout the northwest to light candles at their gatherings. The Concordia Fellowship pledge will be given by the choric speaking group of 28 women under the direction of Mrs. Norma Gooden Ostby, dramatic instructor.

Transcription of student organizations are being used since Cobber students are home vacationing.

Tales of the Northwest, a historical skit, a transcribed greeting from R. A. Bogstad, former president of Concordia, and the Cobbercast by Prof. G. L. Schoberg, head of the modern language department will follow.

The final portion of the broadcast will be directed from the Fargo-Moorhead party at Fjelstad hall where Dave Henley, will conduct informal interviews in the style of "The Man On The Street". Through leased wire KFYR, Bismarck, will also carry the program.

Mrs. Racine Olson and sons of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Olson and family spent Christmas Day at the Paul Olson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Gillespie returned home Saturday from thier wedding trip to the Twin Cities and Alexandria.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson and family and Mrs. C. Hagglund visited at the Paul Olson home Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wegge and family visited at the O. H. Nohre home Christmas evening.

Inman-Davis Wedding

The Lutheran parsonage was the scene of a wedding on Christmas Eve at 5:00 p. m. when Miss Phyllis Inman became the bride of Mr. William A. Davis. Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiated using the single ring ceremony. Their attendants were Miss Lida Monson and Mr. Alonzo Inman. The newlyweds are well known in the Holt Community. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Inman, living northeast of town and the groom is the son of Mrs. C. A. Davis of the villiage.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustine entertained on Sunday evening for their daughter Angeline who celebrated her 18th birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scullthorp, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Stienhauer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stienhauer, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schwartz, Lois and Emma Mehrkens, Elda Orvus and Ruben Benitt, Clinton Knutson, Agnes Conklin, Mrs. S. H. Nohre, Lawrence Lubitz, Bernice Kolden, Walter and Alfred Stienhauer and Fredrick Voth.

According to word received from International Falls, Truman Kolden and Miss Lou Ann Evenson of that city were married recently. Mr. Kolden, a former resident here, is employed with the Minnesota-Ontario Paper Co.

Watch Night Services

The Luther League will again sponsor Watch Night services as in former years. The first part of the evening, beginning at 9:30 will be a regular Luther League program. Following this, lunch will be served and the usual social time enjoyed. The latter part of the program will comprise a New Year's Worship Hour with Hymn singing and Rev. T. C. L. Hanson preaching on an appropriate New Year's Text.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Saastad, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peterson and daughters Ferne and Cleo from here and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Saastad, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Saastad and Jerry and Mrs. Joe Maruska and Joey and Billy of Thief River Falls were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Doran at Grygla on Sunday.

Fred Wegge was a dinner guest at the Walter Wegge home Christmas Day.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Opening of Garner's Campaign Fails to Stir Political Circles; New Nazi-Italian Plot Hinted

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

POLITICS:

Announcement

"I will accept the nomination for President. I will make no effort to control any delegates. The people should decide. The candidate should be selected at primaries and conventions as provided by law, and I sincerely trust that all Democrats will participate in them."

In these 44 words the sage of Uvalde, Texas, whom John Lewis once called a "labor-baiting, poker-playing, whisky-drinking, evil old man," tossed his hat in the 1940 presidential ring. Then:

"This is the best time of the year. I like to sleep out in the open in this kind of weather."

With that, John Nance Garner, at 71 a pretty old man to be coveting the White House, went into his house and changed clothes. A few minutes later he had gone hunting.

GARNER AND CHICKENS

Nobody in Washington was surprised by the announcement at first, but over the week-end those 44 words received considerable study. Points of interest:

1. Unlike other Democratic hopefuls, Garner did not offer to step aside if President Roosevelt decided to run again.
2. He promised to make no effort to control delegates, indicating he would be a hard man to deal with in the convention hall. Jack Garner presumably refuses to enter into any trades.
3. He said nothing about public questions, which left the impression that he agrees with the President on many New Deal objectives. On the other hand, this might only be a mark of politeness.

THE WARS:

Plot?

Her disrepute sharply heightened when the League of Nations expelled Russia, the German Reich got some solace when Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano made an unusual announcement of his nation's foreign policy. European diplomacy is now clear as mud, with Germany's ally, Italy, aiding Finland to fight Russia, who is also Germany's ally.

But Ciano's speech indicated the picture may soon clear. Only point of difference between Rome and Berlin was Germany's method of "settling" the Danzig-Polish dispute, in the course of which Herr Hitler agreed that Italy should remain out of the European war. As for the Reich's friendship with Russia, Ciano charged Britain and France forced this solution on Hitler. This, possibly, is the key to future German-Italian collaboration.

Italy is still loyal to Berlin in every way, and still maintains that Poland, Czechoslovakia and Austria cannot be restored if there is to be peace. And by charging the Russian pact was "forced" on Germany, Italy admits that the Soviet has merely been used as a tool to bring pressure on France and Britain. Can it be that the axis may now force peace on the allies as the price for keeping Russia out of Europe?

CIANO
Is Russia the price?

Western War

Almost as a repercussion to the Graf Spee incident (see below) the western front saw its first direct artillery duel over the Rhine. This was purposeless, because the Rhine was so flooded that troops could not cross. In another sector hand-to-hand fighting was reported, while the French sought Nazi spies allegedly dropped by parachute.

Biggest news developed from Britain's new aerial patrol, developed to combat the Nazi mine-laying campaign. On three successive nights royal air force planes raided German seaplane bases, after which the air ministry said it "tentatively believed" the mine menace was conquered. Next day, however, the war's biggest air battle took place over Helgoland Bight, the Nazis claiming 34 British ships were downed. London admitted seven losses and claimed Germany had lost 12.

British boast-of-the-week: How her tiny submarine Ursula had penetrated the mine-infested mouth of the Elbe to sink a Koln class cruiser at her anchorage.

Northern War

Still playing to a full house was the Finnish-Russian war, in which the Soviet was taking a terrific licking both in manpower and prestige. For the first time, U. S. newsmen like United Press' Webb Miller and Chicago Daily News' Leland Stowe visited the Karelian front and saw Finnish troops resting snugly in their warm trenches while the Russians stormed away like madmen across the river, wasting ammunition and getting nowhere. Soviet tanks were disabled by the score, running against snow-covered boulders or being blasted by anti-tank guns. In the north the Finns reported they had encircled two Russian forces of 10,000 men each.

Spee

Pan America awoke suddenly to discover its "neutrality zone" (see map) was ineffectual. Before she dashed for the safety of Montevideo harbor in Uruguay, the Nazi pocket battleship Graf Spee had almost been blasted to pieces by three British cruisers. One of them, Exeter, was so badly damaged she headed for Britain's Falkland base in the south Atlantic, also within the neutrality zone. (Although Britain won the engagement, Germany lost fewer men.) Three days later, her 72-hour Uruguayan permit having expired, Graf Spee headed for open sea where British ships waited like lions for the kill. Suddenly she exploded, four-inch steel plates bulging like paper sacks. Graf Spee went to the bottom, her skipper having chosen to scuttle her in the face of hopeless odds.

Back at Montevideo a storm was brewing, but Foreign Minister Alberto Guani stuck to his post. The German minister charged him with a "flagrant violation of international law" for not giving Graf Spee enough time to repair her damage. The Nazis even planned to demand reparations for the ship. Taking no chances, Uruguay promptly arrested four of the crewmen and charged them with blowing up the ship. A few hours later 1,000 other crewmen, having launched to nearby Buenos Aires, were interned by Argentina for the rest of the war.

NEUTRALITY & SPEE
The explosion had repercussions.

As for Germany, the Spee incident reduced her complement of capital ships to four. Next day, Britain reported sinking a 6,000-ton Nazi cruiser.

INDIA:

Zetland's Worry

Rapidly approaching, perhaps, is a crisis in which British domination of India may pass away. A good start at satisfying Indian nationalist ambitions was made several years ago when a quasi-home rule plan was instituted. But in November, faced with racial differences between the all-India congress and the Moslem league, Viceroy Marquess of Lithlingow invoked emergency powers vesting authority in provincial governments. Native congress ministries in seven provinces promptly resigned as part of Mahatma Gandhi's "passive resistance" program.

Up in the house of lords to comment on this situation rose the Marquess of Zetland, secretary of state for India. The result of this wholesale resignation, he said, has been to "set back the hands of the clock more than 30 years." Meanwhile German propagandizers are trying to make the Indians "look to Nazi Germany for their freedom." Only hope for peaceful settlement, he thought, was division of legislatures on communal instead of political lines. The ambition: "What we have to aim at is that a legislator will think of himself as an Indian first and only as a Hindu or Moslem . . . afterward."

TREND

RATES DOWN—At Washington the interstate commerce commission ruled there is "nothing unlawful" about reduced rates for trainload shipments, thus reversing its former policy.

DEBT UP—Also at Washington, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau was quoted as testifying he favored raising the public debt limit from $45,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000.

EXPORTS DOWN—November U. S. exports were $287,000,000 against $323,168,000 in October, $12,000,000 of the drop being accounted for in blockaded shipments to Germany.

DIES UP—A Gallup poll showed 75 per cent of the U. S. still favoring continuation of the Dies un-Americanism investigation, though presidential criticism has caused a 4 per cent decline the past six weeks.

LABOR:

Bad Business

First witness before the house committee investigating the National Labor Relations board was Dr. William Leiserson, NLRB member, whose testimony actually keynoted the hearing. Its gist: That Dr. Leiserson has been a minority member, conservative and opposed to Members Edwin L. Smith and Warren Madden, whose agents had been "impartial" and had used "tactics one might expect from the (Russian) O. G. P. U."

Called to the stand, Boardsman Smith found himself in hot water trying to explain his actions during labor trouble at the Berkshire Knitting Mills, Reading, Pa. First he admitted "extra-legal" action in trying to mediate a strike before charges had been filed with NLRB the striking union (now a C. I. O. affiliate) represented a minority.

NLRB'S SMITH
A boycott?

But his biggest mistake was in suggesting to a Boston department store handling Berkshire products that "any stand you might adopt would be listened to with the greatest respect by the Berkshire company." That, charged the committee, constituted an attempted boycott sponsored by an NLRB member.

At such an embarrassing moment in the Wagner act's young life, C. I. O.'s John Lewis chose to make his own recommendations for amendments at the next congressional session. The suggestion: Criminal penalties for violators of the act.

AGRICULTURE:

Certificates

There were plenty of signs that the administration's campaign to make its farm program self-financing will take shape in a processing tax — provided congress approves. Meeting in Washington "to study something for the President" were Secretaries Morgenthau and Wallace, Federal Reserve Chairman Eccles, Budget Director Smith and other fiscal bigwigs. When they parted it was learned the "certificate plan" had been discussed. Its gist: A processing tax in new dress (the last one was thrown out by the Supreme court in 1936) it would consist of parity payments paid to the farmer directly by the processor, who in turn will pass them on to the consumer directly. Reason: The U. S. needs more money next year for defense, hence must find a source of income without boosting taxes in a campaign year.

MISCELLANY:

Ambassador to President

Back home from Washington to the republic of Panama went Ambassador Dr. Augusto S. Boyd, first vice president of his country, to assume the post vacated by death of 59-year-old Dr. Juan Demostenes Arosemena, president.

Purge

℄ At Istanbul, Turkish officials clamped down on Nazi propagandists, ordering expulsion of 107 Germans charged with suspicious activities.

Indictment

℄ At Washington, the justice department won indictments against a Russian magazine distribution firm and three of its officers, charged with distributing printed material of a political and propagandous nature.

Embarrassment

℄ Fearful of meeting the representative of an enemy power, many envoys stayed away from the smallest and most tension-shot diplomatic reception the White House has seen in many years.

Probe

℄ President Roosevelt ordered the tariff commission to find out whether large amounts of foreign wheat—particularly Canadian — are being imported to compete with the U. S. product. One reason for the probe: For several weeks American wheat has sold at about 30 cents a bushel above Canadian quotations.

I RESOLVE

● Made your resolutions for 1940? Here's a few you can make and break without much trouble—just for the sake of resolution-ing!

"Candy? No, thanks, won't touch the stuff in 1940. Oh, well, I guess just one piece won't hurt."

"Going to (puff!) take this (puff!) stomach off me this (puff!) year if it kills me. Gotta (puff!) do this every (puff!) day."

"Lemme see.... if I save 10 cents every day in 1940, that makes . . . m-m-m-m . . . thirty-six dollars and 50 cents a year."

—"I feel everyone should do her best to improve her mind in 1940 with good reading material. Let's see . . . what did that say? Kinda dry book. Guess I'll go to a show."

"Gotta quit smoking this year . . . yeah, right now. I'll just toss these stogies in the wastebasket. Er . . . maybe I'll want to fish out a last smoke after dinner tonight."

Pope Gregory Responsible For January 1 Celebration

Pope Gregory, in 1582, instituted the Gregorian calendar and thus placed New Year's day on January 1. During the Middle ages Europe had observed it on March 25. All countries did not adopt the 12-month system at once, but the Christian world accepted it generally in 1752 when the British parliament finally established New Year's day. Ancient Persians and Egyptians celebrated on September 22.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

MAKE yourself this pretty princess (8576) for town wear, business and general runabout, in a dark shade or your favorite bright color. The double collar and cuffs give you a chance to work out daring and delightful contrasts, in a season when adventurous color combinations are so extremely smart. And you can trust this dress to make your figure look slim and youthful, small and supple at the waist. Materials like faille, moire, flat crepe and velveteen are excellent choices for this.

If you've done scarcely any sewing, this design is heartily recommended as a good one to begin on, because it's so easy. A step-by-step sew chart is included to help you.

Pattern No. 8576 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, and 40. Size 14 requires 4⅝ yards of 39-inch material without nap; ⅝ yard contrasting for each collar and cuffs. ¾ yard ribbon.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coins, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

For Dried Fruits.—Try soaking and cooking a thin slice or two of lemon with your dried apricots, peaches or prunes.

* * *

Fat Side Up.—Put the roast in the pan with the fat side up so it will baste itself.

* * *

Stored Potatoes—Potatoes stored in too cold a place change some of their starch to sugar, and when a potato has accumulated considerable sugar it won't fry well.

* * *

Washing Shirts.—To loosen the dirt on cuff and collar bands of men's and boys' shirts, scrub them with a soft brush frequently dipped in warm soapy water before putting them in the laundry tub.

* * *

When making a meringue have the egg whites very cold and beat them until stiff enough to stand alone. If baked in too hot an oven meringue will be tough and shrink when set away to cool.

* * *

When washing a white silk blouse or jumper to which you want to give a little stiffness, add a few lumps of sugar to the rinsing water, roll tightly in a clean towel, and iron while still damp.

ASK ME ANOTHER?

A Quiz With Answers Offering Information on Various Subjects

The Questions

1. Can you write 600 in Roman numerals?
2. Is the income of the President taxable?
3. Who cut the Gordian Knot?
4. Which of our wars was known as Mr. Madison's war?
5. Which is the middle verse of the Bible?
6. Which woman has had more statues erected to her memory than any other woman?
7. Which race is increasing its population the fastest?
8. Do plants grow more at night than during the day?
9. Which is the correct quotation: "Far from the maddening crowd," or "Far from the madding crowd"?
10. What per cent of the world's population is still governed by monarchs?

The Answers

1. DC.
2. His salary as President is not. Any other income he may have, is.
3. Alexander the Great.
4. The War of 1812.
5. The eighth verse of the 118th Psalm.
6. Joan of Arc.
7. The white races of the world are doubling their populations every 80 years, the yellow and brown races every 60 years and the black races every 40 years.
8. Although trees and other green plants require light to develop, virtually all of their growth takes place at night. Those in dark or shaded places grow faster than those exposed to brighter light.
9. "Far from the madding crowd," from Gray's Elegy.
10. Despite the widespread change in the governments since the World war, eight hundred million persons, or 40 per cent of the entire population of the globe, still are governed by kings, queens, emperors and other monarchs.

Means of Utterance

Utterance is not confined to words. Our souls speak as significantly by looks, tones or gestures —the subtle vehicles of our more delicate emotions, as they do by set words and phrases. Indeed, the soul has a thousand ways of communicating itself.—Turnbull.

Stork Habitual Visitor to Massachusetts Family

Mr. and Mrs. James Oliveri of Quincy, Mass., visited by the stork only recently, are shown with their family of 12 children. Mrs. Oliveri holds the youngest arrival, who was christened Peter. Mr. Oliveri, 36 years old, is an auto mechanic receiving $36 a week salary. Mrs. Oliveri is 32 years old. The couple has been married for 15 years.

Nazi Land Mine Hunters Draw Most Dangerous Job

The warning sign, "Minen," (mines) on the cart tells the story of this picture. A squad of German soldiers hunt land mines in a sector on the western front recovered from the French. Most dangerous job is that of pulling the cart in which recovered mines are carried. A slight mishap and it is doubtful if even the identification tag would be found. The recovered bombs which cannot be used by the finders are destroyed by Nazi marksmen—in a safe place.

Meet 'Josephine,' 900-Pound Champion

"Josephine," 900-pound three-time champion Poland China hog, gets a long drink of water from four-year-old Marlene Cattle. Josephine attracted more than her share of attention when she was entered in a Los Angeles live stock show. She weighs about 20 times as much as her diminutive caretaker, but obeys orders readily, especially if there's food in the offing.

Diaper Derby

Edward Moeller, a bachelor uncle, won the Kansas City, Mo., diaper derby recently when he bested a field of five experienced fathers, completing his task in 1:02 seconds. Reason: He used a zipper-equipped diaper in which to enclose his young but co-operative nephew, Bobby Smith.

Final Russo-German Splitup of Polish Pie

4-H Corn Prince

"Good seed, careful tillage and good fertilizer"—that's Raymond Kreig's recipe for championship corn. Kreig, 17-year-old Oakley, Ill., 4-H club worker, won the Corn Prince title in Chicago's nationwide contest. He produced 75 bushels of championship open pollenated yellow corn per acre on his profitable six-acre plot.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

A gay winged chair for the youngster

A GOOD deal has been said about children having to live in a giant's world where all the furniture is made for grown-ups. Furniture stores are now selling chairs; tables; beds and dressers made for children. Here are all the dimensions needed for making a child's chair at home. It is of 1-inch material and the sketch shows clearly how it is screwed together after the pieces have been sawed according to the measurements given. The chair is painted deep blue; the back, seat cushions and full skirt are of red and blue cotton print with blue bindings. All dimensions for the cushions and skirt are also given in the sketch.

NOTE: If you enjoy making what you want from next to nothing, don't miss Mrs. Spears' newest Sewing Book (No. 4). It is full of information for making useful things. Books No. 1, 2 and 3 contain a fascinating array of things to make for the home. Mrs. Spears has made three patterns for Early American quilt blocks which she will send FREE with your order for four books at 10 cents each. Quilt block patterns only—10 cents for set of three. ## Prosecutor Had Grounds For Objection, It Appears

Counsel for the defense was cross-examining the witness, a lovely blonde with big blue eyes.

"Where were you," he thundered, "on Monday night!"

The blonde smiled sweetly.

"Out for a run in a car."

"And where were you," bellowed counsel, "on Tuesday night?"

"Out for a run in a car."

Counsel leaned closer.

"And what," he said, "are you doing tomorrow night?"

Prosecuting counsel leaped to his feet.

"Your Honor," he protested, "I object to that question."

"And why do you object?"

"Because I asked her first!"

Pop Corn Fudge

- 2 cupfuls popcorn
- 2 cupfuls brown sugar
- 1 cupful thin cream or whole milk
- 1 tablespoonful butter
- 1 teaspoonful vanilla

Combine the sugar and cream and stir over a low heat until the sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking to 238 degrees F. or until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Remove from the heat and let stand in cold water until the mixture is cool. Then add the butter, popped corn and vanilla. Beat until creamy. Shape on a buttered plate and cut into squares. Peanuts may be added to mixture, also.

Certified seed potatoes grown last summer in northern Minnesota are producing a new spud crop this winter in South America. Part of a big seed shipment to Buenos Aires was grown by Joe Charon of Bemidji, Minn., whose youngsters (above) have found that faraway place on the face of the world.

Spuds for Sunny Southland

Not so many years ago, potatoes grown in northern Minnesota and North Dakota didn't travel very far. Some got as far south as Chicago, only to end their careers in pots and frying pans. Others went to potato planters in nearby states, because they were found to be exceptionally good for seed.

But these limited and highly competitive markets made for thin profits to the growers. The prospects for potato growing on a large scale were not very bright.

About this time, a few progressive southern planters became interested in the potatoes grown in northern Minnesota and North Dakota. Test plantings demonstrated that these northern potatoes, planted in the sunny south, produced a fine early potato for table use in the spring and early summer.

The Agricultural Development Agents of the Great Northern Railway were among the first to recognize the possibilities of producing seed potatoes for southern planters.

They found several growers who were willing to make a specialty of the production of seed potatoes, and as their seed crops matured, the Great Northern's agents toured Alabama, Louisiana, Texas and Florida, finding markets for them.

The next step in the development of this new market was to protect the newly gained reputation for the northern seed potatoes. Certification of quality by responsible state authorities was seen to be necessary in order to protect both the northern grower and the southern planter. In advancing this program, the railway's agents worked closely with the state agricultural departments and colleges.

Similar possibilities for the production of seed potatoes were uncovered in Montana and the Pacific Northwest.

The Great Northern Railway always has recognized that the problem of finding and maintaining profitable markets for Northwest producers was a matter of mutual concern. It tries, to the fullest extent that it is able—to the fullest extent its resources permit—to protect and advance the interests of the man on the land.

First Trip From Angle By Car

The first auto ever to reach Baudette in an all land trip from Northwest Angle arrived in town Friday morning, when Phil Smith, Northwest Angle pioneer, made the trip. It was started at the Walter Nelson farm at Angle Inlet, and for about six miles it traveled over a trail to the Canadian border, then on through Manitoba to Sprague, from where there is a fairly good road to Warroad, and from there over Trunk Highway No. 11 to Baudette. Phil says that most of the road from the remote Angle section is over ridges, and that only about a mile and a half of low land will need much attention. The trip was made possible as a result of Northwest Angle residents cutting out several miles of timber to make a road. The car used was an old-time Buick, with a big clearance, and Phil says that the road could earily be fixed so that modern cars with their low clearance could make the trip.

Phil has been a big force in keeping things moving in the Northwest Angle section for years, and he has been a consistent booster for a road to that section.

Marvin French came as far as Warroad with Mr. Smith, and they had 1900 pounds of fish on a sled behind the auto, although there was only about an inch of snow on the ground. Mr. Smith came in to talk over the road situation with the county board. —Baudette Region.

Marion Larson entertained informally at her home on Thursday evening, Dec. 28th. The evening was spent in stunts, games and contests and at midnight a delicious lunch was served to the guests.

Knute Nelson underwent a major operation at St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Lorentson and family were entertained at the V. E. Johnson home Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sanoden and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Borchert of Mentor visited at the H. O. Hanson home Friday evening.

Ferne Peterson visited friends at Thief River Falls last week.

Miss Anderson Entertains

Inez Anderson entertained at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Anderson, a group of young people on Tuesday evening, which was one of the 200 or more gatherings of students, alumni and friends of Concordia College, Moorhead. A very good time was had by all and a delicious lunch served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carlson, Lorna and Eleanor Peterson, Betty Lou Lorentson, Lois Hanson, Marian and LaVern Johnson, Francis Johnson, Rev. and Mrs. Hanson, Myrtle and Bertha Hanson, Caroline Aspelin, Clayton and Myron Gunheim.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Simmons Olive and Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Simmons and family, Tom Risdal all of Karlstad, Mr. and Mr. Geo. Moberg and Bertha and Gerald Moberg were dinner guests at the H. Moberg home New Year's Day.

Garner, Leader of Peace Bloc, Crystallized Anti-War Sentiment Throughout the United States

Washington, D. C. — Vice President John Nance Garner more than any other man changed the American attitude toward the European war.

When Mr. Garner returned to Washington for the special session of Congress on September 21, there was a sort of fatalistic feeling that somehow or another the United States, sooner or later, would get into war.

Travelers returning from Europe were quoted in Eastern newspapers as reporting that the most frequent question asked of Americans in England and France was "How soon will the United States join us?"

Garner never issues statements to the press, therefore his part in creating the new psychology may not be fully known to the country. But more than forty senators visited the Vice President on the first day he was in Washington.

Here is what he said to them:

"The United States is not going into this war. The people are determined that we shall not get into it. We in elective office have got to quit saying that we hope this country can stay out. We have got to start saying 'We are going to stay out.'"

He expressed that same feeling at the White House later in the day when Democratic and Republican leaders met with President Roosevelt. He expressed it again and again as Senators and Representatives called on him later. And in a few days the Garner sentiment was being echoed throughout Washington and it spread to the country.

Garner voted for war in 1917. He believed there was no way to stay out and he still believes there was no way to stay out. He insisted that his only son go to war then.

Marquis James, Pulitzer prize-winning author, in his new book, "Mr. Garner of Texas," tells how it happened:

His son, Tully, had gone to the father's office a few days after the war resolution passed in 1917.

"Son," said Mr. Garner, "how do you feel about going to war?"

"I aim to go, Dad," said the boy.

"I'm glad to hear it—for you've got to go. I couldn't have cast that vote to send other fathers' boys to war if I hadn't known I was sending my own. And just one more thing—your mother and I will want to hear from you every time you get a chance to write, but promise you'll never ask me a favor. I might be in a position to get it, and I don't want to be exposed to temptation."

No member of Congress got a better understanding of war than Garner. Not only was he a member of the Ways and Means Committee active in the framing of laws for the four Liberty Loans aggregating $18,000,000,000 and the $4,500,000,000 Victory Loan and the emergency tax bills, but he was also President Wilson's liaison man between the White House and the House of Representatives.

Twice a week he went to the White House for long private conferences with President Wilson. The President sent him to confer with the British, French and Belgium missions which came to the United States to discuss methods of waging the war. Garner had for many years been a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives and a student of foreign relations.

In the writing of the new neutrality law it was he who insisted on every safeguard to prevent any involvement of the United States in war.

Administration Prepares Fight For Reciprocal Trade Treaties In Face of Senate Opposition

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

COMMERCE:

Trade Battle

Just before Christmas the state department found it wise to announce that no concession on copper tariffs will be made in its reciprocal trade pact with Chile. This set a precedent, because never before has the department divulged such information about an anticipated reciprocal pact before the treaty is consummated. Official reason was "widespread public interest," but behind it lay the vocal protests of copper producing states who would otherwise join in the hue and cry when the reciprocal program comes up for renewal in congress next term.

CORDELL HULL
Will he win?

Basis of opposition is the claim that Secretary of State Cordell Hull's trade program breaks down tariff walls and permits foreign products. Under the "most favored nation" clause a concession on wheat from Argentina, for instance, would be granted all other nations holding reciprocal pacts with the U. S.

It was rumored in Washington this month that President Roosevelt is girding himself for the toughest congressional fight of his entire administration, if necessary, to extend the act. It was even reported he would attempt to beat Republican critics to the gun by taking his fight to the country before the G. O. P. can make an open issue of it.

Entirely aside from the trade act's influence on U. S. economy, observers noted it was not without important political significance. Since reciprocal agreements are not subject to senate ratification, a lucrative source of legislative logrolling has been forfeited. Proud of his work, Secretary Hull maintains he is working to benefit the entire nation, not any small section. Whether his admittedly sincere policy will prevail is among the most important issues facing the new congress.

AGRICULTURE:

Anschluss

Hungry for farm funds (see below) Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace has looked covetously on the well-tended $2,000,000,000 Farm Credit administration fund supervised by its governor, F. F. Hill. So conservative was Mr. Hill that there still remains a $600,000,000 FCA lending power which Mr. Wallace thought should be used to bring FCA's benefits to drouth sufferers.

FCA'S HILL
No longer . . .

Alarmed, Mr. Hill pointed out that the $1,400,000,000 in bonds which he has sold to banks and private investors might be jeopardized by a "loose" policy of lending money that might never be repaid. Wall Street, calling the Wallace plan "inflationary," was equally alarmed.

But Henry Wallace was boss. In late December, Franklin Roosevelt found himself called upon to write Mr. Hill a letter: "In accepting your resignation, I want to express my very real appreciation of your services . . ."

Speculation on FCA's future immediately became rife. Under its new administrator, Dr. A. G. Black, the agency will no doubt lose its independence, tie in closer with the department of agriculture and provide a measure of supervision over the farm operations of its borrowers.

Farm Money

It is no secret that the administration is feverishly seeking to cut the corners in 1940's budget to make way for a $500,000,000 boost in defense expenditures. Most carefully scrutinized item is agriculture, whose parity payments have cost $225,000,000 annually. The treasury's plight is further complicated by congress' failure to provide revenue sources for its farm appropriation the past two years.

Several weeks ago the treasury's Secretary Morgenthau met with agriculture's Wallace and a host of fiscal experts to iron out this problem. While the President told his press conference he would ask congress to dig up the money it "owes" the treasury for past farm payments, Messrs. Wallace and Morgenthau talked over the certificate plan, under which farmers would get their parity payments from consumers rather than the treasury.

How Mr. Morgenthau reacted to this plan was indicated a few days later. Although reports persisted that the President would ask congress to provide $1,050,000,000 in new revenue next year, his keeper of the exchequer started a mild rebellion that may burst into flames when the budget is finally announced. Said Mr. Morgenthau: "I haven't changed my views on consumer taxes; the taxes are now a little over 60 per cent and that's high enough."

Still unsolved was agriculture's No. 1 problem. Other problems:

- Condition of crops in the winter wheat area, where an unprecedented drouth remained unbroken, was officially stated at 55 per cent of normal. This would bring a crop the third smallest on record.
- The bureau of agricultural economics estimated the farmers' income from his products in 1939 dropped to $7,625,000,000 from $7,627,000,000 the previous year.
- Although 5,782,000 bales of cotton and cotton products were sold abroad under the export subsidy plan between August 1 and December 15, less than half of it has been shipped because of a shortage of ocean freight space.

PAN AMERICA:

Neutrality

High sounding was the 300-mile "neutrality belt" thrown around the Western hemisphere when Europe went to war last September. Chief sponsor was the U. S., whose Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles promised his nation would take the lion's share of patrol duty. But by Christmastide the U. S. was feeling less altruistic.

Buried at Buenos Aires was Capt. Hans Langsdorff, who killed himself after scuttling his shell-battered pocket battleship Graf Spee off Montevideo. British ships, cheated out of the kill, sailed off for other illegal conquests. Roosting at a Florida port was the Nazi freighter Arauca, driven to shelter by a British cruiser. At New York's Ellis island were 577 survivors of the scuttled liner Columbus, whose Capt. Wilhelm Daehne charged a British boat had fired across his bow.

COLUMBUS' DAEHNE
. . . at Uncle Sam's expense.

By this time Pan America was so aroused that Washington had its choice of enforcing neutrality or sacrificing prestige. With 20 other nations, the U. S. signed an ineffectual protest to the belligerents. Meanwhile Sumner Welles prepared for U. S. participation in the forthcoming Pan American conference, but Washington's enthusiasm was waning. While the state department said as little as possible, while the navy remained unenthusiastic about its job of patroling a 3,000-mile coastline, Captain Daehne and his crew had a merry Christmas as Uncle Sam's guests.

THE WARS:

In the West

Germany's eighth railroad accident since September 1 killed more people (52 dead, 30 injured) than were lost in several days on the western front, where an undeclared Yule truce held sway. As usual, there was more activity in the North sea. Britain, which was reported building a speedy fleet of "superplanes," adopted the Reich's trick of laying mines from the air. As the year ended, various forecasts had it that: (1) The next 12 months will bring a raging war; (2) the Netherlands will be invaded by Germany after its canals are frozen over; (3) Britain and France are planning a big naval drive on the Nazis.

In the North

It was an unhappy Christmas for Russia's atheistic Dictator Josef Stalin. Even unhappier were two of his stooges reportedly purged for failure on the Finnish front: Gen. K. A. Meretskov, Leningrad military district's chief of staff, and Otto Kuusinen, Finnish Communist who organized the "people's" government the day Russia began her ill-starred invasion. While Helsinki was evacuated in the face of a threatened Christmas air raid, the Finnish high command claimed its foe had been routed on all fronts.

NEWS QUIZ

Know your news? Perfect score is 100 and deduct 20 for each question you miss. Any score above 60 is good.

1. Above is the British cruiser Orion. How did she violate U. S. neutrality off the Florida coast?

2. What important European dictator just celebrated his sixtieth birthday anniversary?

3. Pope Pius XII decided to pay a state visit outside the Vatican during the Holidays, the first of its kind in 69 years. Who is his host?

4. Choice: Louis ("Lepke") Buchalter of New York made news because he: (a) climbed up the outside of the Empire State building; (b) was convicted for conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws; (c) announced he will run for New York district attorney to succeed Thomas Dewey.

5. True or false: Although U. S. acreage planted to grain crops (wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley) was smaller in 1939 than in the previous year, total production was higher.

(Answers at bottom of column.)

WHITE HOUSE:

Message

To Pope Pius XII, Franklin Roosevelt transmitted his Christmas greeting, his hope that men will "decline to accept, for long, the law of destruction forced upon them by wielders of brute force," and his announcement that former U. S. Steel Chairman Myron Taylor had been named U. S. representative to the Vatican. Said the letter, also transmitted to Dr. George Butterick of the Federal Council of Churches, and Rabbi Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological seminary: "I take heart in remembering that in a similar time, Isaiah first prophesied the birth of Christ."

The President also:

- Reportedly authorized the paring of about $700,000,000 from war and navy department estimates to hold next year's national defense cost to $2,000,000,000. Meanwhile the house naval subcommittee asked the navy for estimates on 65,000-ton battleships, bigger than any yet built. Minnesota's Rep. Melvin Maas, dreaming in even bigger figures, wanted them 80,000 tons each.
- Took time off to celebrate Christmas with four generations of the clan Roosevelt.

ASIA:

Ungrateful Recipient

Official Washington was still silent at Christmastide over Japan's "present," the announcement that China's Yangtze river would soon be reopened to foreign traffic. Missing were the whoops of delight that Tokyo expected from American newspapers. Missing, too, was enthusiasm among U. S. business men in China.

Nevertheless many an observer wondered if the U. S. shouldn't be a bit more receptive. Japan's gesture was significant in that it represented an attempt to patch trade relations before the abrogated treaty expires January 26. Should the gesture fall short, Premier Nobuyuki Abe's "weak sister" cabinet is apt to collapse.

NOBUYUKI ABE

Danger lies in the fact that Nippon's American-hating army would seize control if the Abe government falls. Once that happens U. S. business men might as well pack their bags and go home.

News Quiz Answers

1. By shooting at the German cruiser Arauca, which was driven to cover at Port Everglades.
2. Josef Stalin of Russia. (The army high command had promised to conquer Finland by that day, as a birthday present).
3. King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy, at the Quirinal palace which no pope has visited since the unification of Italy.
4. (B) is correct. "Lepke" still faces bribery charges.
5. False. In 1938, production was 4,868,000,000; in 1939 it was estimated at 4,626,000,000. But barley, winter wheat and corn showed much bigger individual acreage yields. (So did cotton, tobacco and soy beans.)

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Hair-Raising Honeymoon"

NOW this is an adventurer's column, devoted to hair-raising tales of danger and action. So just hold fast to your chairs while you hear of Abner Rabbino's honeymoon.

This must be the first honeymoon that ever deserved to be classed with the first ascent of Mt. Everest, Lindbergh's flight to Paris, Chris Columbus' expedition to America and other adventures of note. Most people, when they get married, seem to think that trying to pay the bills is enough of an adventure for anybody. But Ab Rabbino is the sort of a guy who would find trouble in a million-dollar legacy. The old Jinx just rides around on his shoulder, and on rainy days it crawls inside his shirt to keep dry. Alongside of Ab, Jonah was a good-luck charm. And when Ab got married and started out on his wedding trip, the Jinx began showing off to impress the bride.

Ab lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. He met a girl in 1931, and married her on September 16, 1933. They sailed the next day on the liner Virginia, bound for California, on a six-week tour that a travel agency had mapped out for them, and a few days later they were in the Caribbean sea.

It was a cool, breezy night, with a brisk wind blowing. Ab's bride was sitting on deck, enjoying the salt spray that dashed against her face. Ab didn't like the spray. He stepped into the lounge and was about to settle himself into a comfortable chair when—BAM!—something hit the ship and sent it over at a 32-degree angle. A hurricane!

Shrieks Fill Air as Lights Go Out.

Passengers, pianos, furniture—all were catapulted to one side of the lounge. Lights went out, and shrieks filled the room. Ab picked himself up from a mixture of chairs, desks, potted palms, and squirming people, and ran to the deck where he had left his wife. She wasn't there! Nor was there any other living thing on that storm-swept deck. It was impossible to stand—much less walk—on the spot where he had last seen her.

Ab was frantic. He hoped his wife of a few days was still alive—but at the same time he was forced to doubt it. Water began to pour through the ship in a veritable Niagara. The next thing he knew he was down in the doorway, fighting for his own life—bracing his feet against the door posts to keep from being washed away. Then, suddenly, the lights went on, and Ab saw his wife, wedged in another doorway, held by two ships officers. They had taken her inside just a moment before the storm struck!

Passengers, pianos, furniture—all were catapulted to one side of the lounge.

That was only the beginning of it. I could tell you more about that hurricane, but this yarn isn't about a storm. It's about a honeymoon. Ab says they'd seen the picture "Cavalcade" a few weeks before, and they felt like the two lovers on the Titanic must have felt when the ship struck an iceberg. Before it was over, one man was killed, one sailor lost an arm, and 186 others were injured. But in the end they got through it—the same storm which, two days later, destroyed the city of Tampico, Mexico.

Earthquake Aids Exciting Honeymoon.

Finally, the ship reached Los Angeles. Ab and his wife were going to stay there a week, and they settled down to a quiet time. Thank the Lord they didn't have hurricanes on the West coast. They found a hotel, went out to see the sights, spent a glorious day, and retired about midnight, happily exhausted from the strenuous time they'd had. They were asleep for about one hour, when Ab felt himself being tossed bodily from the bed. He landed heavily on the floor, scrambled to his feet, and switched on the light. The chandelier was swinging to and fro like a pendulum. An earthquake!

Ab looked at his wife. She was still in bed—sound asleep. How she could sleep through that quake is still a mystery to Ab. He shook her—told her to get up and get dressed—that they were in an earthquake. She replied, sleepily, that she hadn't been so tired in months, and she didn't care what they were in.

Ab called the operator and asked her what to expect. She told him the quake was pretty bad, and he could expect three more shocks. So Ab sat up all night in terror while the earth heaved and rumbled. Finally, about six a. m. the world gave a final weak convulsion and it was all over.

Ab had planned a week's stay at Colorado Springs, and as they left Los Angeles a week later, he remarked that he wouldn't be at all surprised if the Colorado river overflowed. Well, it could have, at that—but it wasn't exactly what happened.

Travel Agency Lets Ab Down With Thud.

Ab and his bride found Colorado Springs about as pleasant a place as they'd ever seen in their lives. Pike's peak reared its huge bulk high above them. The hotel was comfortable. The golf course was good. The sun shone all the time. They passed a delightful week. Ab, with his supply of money running low, and just enough to pay his way back to New York, was ready to go home. He began to think he had shaken the Jinx at last, when, at the end of their stay, he stopped at the cashier's window to pay his bill. He didn't need money for that. The travel agency had given him vouchers that would take care of all hotel bills. He got out the proper voucher and handed it to the cashier. The man took it and told him to wait a minute as he had something to check over. A few minutes later, the fellow was back again.

"I'm sorry," he said, putting Ab's voucher back on the counter. "I can't accept this. You see the agency went bankrupt yesterday."

No—the Colorado river didn't overflow. But Ab would have been a lot less embarrassed if it had. "And I," he says, "am the guy who was told by his elders that marriage was the beginning of a quiet, settled type of life!"

Aeronautical Subjects Prove Popular in U. S. College

Increasing demand among the nation's young men and boys for vocational training courses in aeronautical subjects at schools and colleges was indicated in a study on the place of aviation in education, made public recently by Dr. John W. Studebaker, commissioner of the United States office of education.

Although 65 universities offer courses in aeronautical engineering, Dr. Studebaker said, rapid developments in the aircraft industry and interest in the current military aviation expansion program have resulted in a wave of enthusiasm for aviation training among students in secondary schools and junior colleges. Reports received from all sections of the country show a growing activity in mechanics-training programs and in meteorology.

"Preliminary study of aviation in the schools is of great value," Dr. Studebaker said. "It is the young people who must eventually assume leadership in this important field of transportation and national defense; who must be the future engineers, designers, manufacturers, pilots, mechanics, and who must be the future patrons of aviation. An intelligent realization of the factors entering into successful air transportation is fundamental to our future national progress in aviation."

PATTERN DEPARTMENT

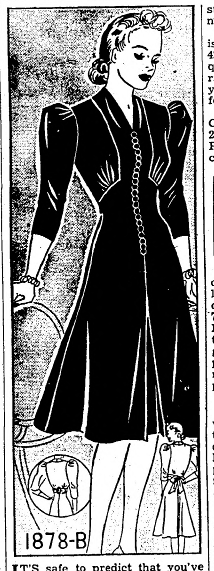
SEWING CIRCLE



1878-B

IT'S safe to predict that you've never worn a more truly becoming dress than this lovely, basic fashion (1878-B). It is beautifully designed to make your figure look slender and softly rounded. The front panels of the bodice are cut in one with the skirt, accenting height. Gathers at the side of the bodice take care of becoming bust fullness.

The only trimming is a row of buttons down the front. The v-neckline is a perfect background for your pet jewelry. Those sash ends in the back may be tied in a flat bow, or to simulate a bustle. Velvet, wool broadcloth and flat crepe are materials in which this design makes up particularly well. You'll wear it with pride on important afternoon occasions. A step-by-step sew chart accompanies your pattern.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1878-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4⅜ yards of 39-inch material for three-quarter sleeves; 4⅝ yards for long sleeves; 4⅛ yards for short.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of pattern, 15 cents (in coins).

Minutes of Special Meeting of Village Council

At a duly called special meeting of the Village Council of the Village of Holt, Minnesota, held at Office of Village Clerk in the said Village of Holt, on the 5th day of July, A. D. 1939, Councilman Gilbert Sanoden offered the following resolution and moved its adoption.

Be It Resolved, That the classification of tax forfeited lands by the Board of County Commissioners of Marshall County, Minnesota, as set forth and classified in the list dated June 7th, 1939, be and the same is hereby approved in so far as the same relates to parcels of land lying and being in the said Village of Holt, Minnesota.

Councilman O. T. Ness seconded the motion and upon being put to a vote the same was duly carried.

Geo. Fricker, Village Clerk.

Dwarf and Midget

The public health service says that there is no difference between a dwarf and a midget so far as the human species is concerned. The term dwarf applies to other species besides human beings. The term midget is applied only to human beings. The term dwarf is generally considered a more scientific term than midget.

Certified seed potatoes grown last summer in northern Minnesota are producing a new spud crop this winter in South America. Part of a big seed shipment to Buenos Aires was grown by Joe Charon of Bemidji, Minn., whose youngsters (above) have found that faraway place on the face of the world.

Spuds for Sunny Southland

This is a story of spuds that go south for the winter.

Not so many years ago, potatoes grown in northern Minnesota and North Dakota didn't travel very far. Some got as far south as Chicago, only to end their careers in pots and frying pans. Others went to potato planters in nearby states, because they were found to be exceptionally good for seed.

But these limited and highly competitive markets made for thin profits to the growers. The prospects for potato growing on a large scale were not very bright.

About this time, a few progressive southern planters became interested in the potatoes grown in northern Minnesota and North Dakota. Test plantings demonstrated that these northern potatoes, planted in the sunny south, produced a fine early potato for table use in the spring and early summer.

The Agricultural Development Agents of the Great Northern Railway were among the first to recognize the possibilities of producing seed potatoes for southern planters.

They found several growers who were willing to make a specialty of the production of seed potatoes, and as their seed crops matured, the Great Northern's agents toured Alabama, Louisiana, Texas and Florida, finding markets for them.

The next step in the development of this new market was to protect the newly gained reputation for the northern seed potatoes. Certification of quality by responsible state authorities was seen to be necessary in order to protect both the northern grower and the southern planter. In advancing this program, the railway's agents worked closely with the state agricultural departments and colleges.

Similar possibilities for the production of seed potatoes were uncovered in Montana and the Pacific Northwest.

The Great Northern Railway always has recognized that the problem of finding and maintaining profitable markets for Northwest producers was a matter of mutual concern. It tries, to the fullest extent that it is able—to the fullest extent its resources permit—to protect and advance the interests of the man on the land.

Would you gamble with 17,000,000 minutes to save one minute?

The average person 35 years of age has approximately 17,000,000 minutes left in normal life. We should guard those minutes and not gamble with them.

How often, however, have you seen motorists go through stop lights, pass on hills and on curves, and do one of fifty reckless things on the highway to save a minute? If they win, nothing if said about it; if they lose, they have thrown away millions of minutes simply to save one minute. Doesn't it seem foolish and downright silly to do these reckless things when we look at it in this way?

Its Smart to Drive Carefully?

Farmer-Labor Conference

A Farmer-Labor conference will be held in Thief River Falls Monday, Jan. 15th, and will be sponsored by the Thief River Falls Farmer-Labor club. The sessions will be held at the Sons of Norway hall, beginning at 1:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Speakers will include Paul A. Rasmussen, former state budget commissioner, and H. L. Peterson, secretary of the Farmer-Labor association. Others will be Representatives J. O. Melby of of Oklee and W. E. Day of Bagley, and leading Farmer-Laborites of the Ninth Congressional district. It is expected that every county in the district will send a delegation to attend the gathering. The local club,s officers have extended an invitation to all who are interested to come and attend.

The calling of the convention is the result of a proposal adopted by the club at its annual meeting last week. A business session of the club officers was held Wednesday evening when details of the meeting were arranged. The call for the conference was issued by Mrs. Laura E. Naplin, chairman of the club, and Herman A. Kjos, secretary. Mrs. Naplin will preside.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiated at the funeral services for the late Mr. Otto Borg at Middle River on Tuesday.

Elroy Benitt, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Benitt was taken ill last week and was rushed to St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls where he underwent an operation. His condition has been very serious, he is at this writing progressing nicely.

Johnson-Dahl Wedding

Word has been received here that Miss Verna Johnson, daughter of Edwin Johnson of St. Hilaire and Leslie Dahl son of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Dahl of Argyle were united in marriage at the Lutheran parsonage at Newfolden on Dec. 27. The attendants were Miss Beulah Dahl, sister of the groom, and Mr. Albert Hanson.

The bride and groom are well known here, both living in this community until they were grown up. Mrs. Dahl has been engaged in teaching the past years. Mr. Dahl is farming on a large scale in partnership with his father near Argyle.

The News joins their many friends here in wishing them much happiness.

Richard Elmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Severson was baptised at the parsonage on Tuesday afternoon. He was born on Feb. 2, 1938 and his sponsors were Lois Hanson and Allan Linstad.

Lida Monson, Melvin, Ethel and Lois Larson, Lon and Wendell Inman, Mrs. Bill Davis, Martin, Lloyd, Clifford, Donald and Delores Larson and Milton Conklin were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swan. The evening was spent playing games after which a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Swan.

Miss Johnson Given Party

Verna Johnson gave a party in honor of her sister Eunice on her 19th birthday on Saturday evening at the Otto Johnson home.

Chinese checkers and Bingo were played and various contests held and prizes awarded.

Lunch was served at midnight.

The honored guest received many beautiful gifts. Those present were Eunice Johnson, honored guest, Ted, Ray, Jim and Linda Gusa. Harold Ness, Verne and Boyd Wilson, Ferne, Ernest and Evelyn Sagstuen, Lorene and Luella Fluke, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Smith and children and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson.

Hjalmer Peterson left for Thief River Falls Wednesday to be a patient at St. Lukes hopital at Thief River Falls where he will undergo a goiter operation.

Youthful Tailored Two-Piece Frock

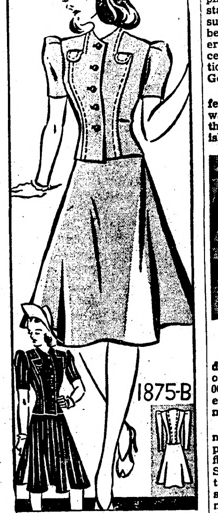
SEASON in and season out, the whole year round, you need a two-piece tailored suit-frock like 1875-B. It's ideal for business, classroom wear and general spectator sports. The collarless neckline, besides being very smart, gives you a chance to indulge your fancy for sports jewelry and scarfs.

The skirt is full and circular, and of course you can wear it with your lingerie blouses, too. The jacket-blouse has unusually attractive bodice detailing, with stitched seams emphasized by two little flat pockets, placed just where slim figures need them! It is fitted in to hug the waistline, and the shoulders are gallantly squared, to make it look even more slender. Tweed, velveteen, flannel and wool crepe are excellent materials for right now; by all means repeat this later in faille or flat crepe.



Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1875-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 4⅜ yards of 39-inch material. With long sleeves, size 14 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch fabric.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coins, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

U. S. Reacts to European War As Shipments Crowd Wharves; Ickes Warns Against 'Raiding'

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

DOMESTIC:
U. S. & the War

Major fear of congressmen who opposed the neutrality act last October was that its practical effect was to favor Britain and France, who control the seas, meanwhile shutting off U. S. munitions supplies to Germany. Released by the state department at year's end were substantiating figures: In November, first month of neutrality's operation, France received export licenses covering $95,579,000 in munitions exports; Britain, $14,970,000; Germany, none.

Meanwhile New York port officials felt for the first time the press of war shipments. Bedded down in the foreign trade zone on Staten island were bombers, trucks, trench diggers, corned beef and miscellaneous war exports valued at $18,500,000, all awaiting empty allied freighters to carry them across the submarine-infested Atlantic.

PLANE FOR BRITAIN

Items: 60 fast Lockheed reconnaissance bombers, their bodies painted a dark brown and camouflaged with weird stripings; 1,500 Studebaker trucks and 1,000 White trucks, the vanguard of 6,000 to be sent to the war zone within the next two months (wired to many of them were crates carrying machine gun mountings, and spare parts); 13 trench diggers costing $3,000 each and destined for the Western front, to be followed soon by 270 more.

At Washington, the annual report of Interior Secretary Harold Ickes focused attention on America's need for conserving her natural resources which he said were threatened by efforts to break down conservation programs in an attempt to reap quick war profits. What specific attempts he had in mind Secretary Ickes did not say, but it is well known that army and navy departments have ordered strict conservation of domestic sources of certain strategic materials.

ESPIONAGE:
Dies to Murphy

Much maligned during the two years his committee has investigated un-Americanism, Congressman Martin Dies of Texas has nevertheless managed to stir up trouble for Communist Earl Browder, Nazi Fritz Kuhn, Alien Harry Bridges, and many a lesser figure. For months the administration would not co-operate, but finally the justice department swooped down on Earl Browder, indicting him on false passport charges.

This month Attorney General Frank Murphy begins co-operating so completely that Martin Dies is shoved to the background. Opened in Washington was a special grand jury probe to study "direct evidence" of planned sabotage by representatives of foreign governments in U. S. auto, airplane and munitions factories. At the same time Frank Murphy began probing anti-Semitic activities, using the income tax, passport and foreign agent laws as his weapons.

THE WARS:
In the West

Where Christmas left off, a violent blizzard began to stop all operations on the western front. Sidelights:

¶ Britain, expecting "real war" in the spring, ordered 2,000,000 more men prepared for army service.

¶ In Paris Le Petit Parisien published a report from Italy that Adolf Hitler was ready to quit as chancellor and purge his more radical Nazis to "convince the allies to make peace."

¶ Only sea activity was the decision of Germany's freighter Tacoma to accept internment at Montevideo harbor rather than face capture by British ships waiting outside the harbor.

In the North

Attack-and-repulse tactics continued featuring the war between Finland and Russia, the Soviet suffering bitter losses on all fronts from Petsamo to the Karelian isthmus. Main reason, as usual, was cold weather, an ally of the skillful Finns. Most gruesome story:

Near Suomussalmi it was learned the outnumbered Finns had surrounded Russia's entire 163rd division, waited three weeks in bitter cold while the Soviet supply lines broke down, then attacked to find the Russians so weak and frozen they could hardly move. Trapped were most of the 18,000 men, thousands of them already dead.

Far from an optimist, Finland's President Kyosti Kallio knew such luck couldn't hold out. As new waves of Red troops were rushed to the front he appealed for foreign volunteers. Already on the way were 50,000 Scandinavians, with more to come.

WHITE HOUSE:
Appointments

As congress opened, President Roosevelt asked confirmation of his two most recent appointees:

¶ Charles Edison, assistant secretary of the navy since January, 1937, and acting head of the department since last summer, chosen for full secretaryship.

¶ Daniel W. Bell, former acting budget director, named undersecretary of the treasury to succeed John Hanes, resigned.

TREND:
Suppression

Freedom of speech and press suffered three times in two days:

¶ At Cambridge, Mass., the city council voted to ban the words Lenin and Leningrad from all printed matter in the city, but the mayor refused to sign the measure.

¶ At Chicago, President James C. Petrillo of the local federation of musicians demanded that two stage productions (George White's Scandals and The Man Who Came to Dinner) delete references to John L. Lewis, head of A. F. of L.'s arch foe, the C. I. O.

¶ At Mexico City, the chamber of deputies voted to exclude all religion and religious instruction from schools.

CONGRESS:
News Quiz

Two months ago only a few Americans realized that Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade act comes up for congressional renewal this year. Today that issue ranks No. 1 on the agenda, threatening to inject itself into 1940's presidential campaign. The question: Should America subscribe to Hull low-tariff policies or G. O. P. high tariffs?

At least three opponents of the Hull idea (two of them Democrats) spoke their minds as congress unlocked its oratorical floodgates. New York's G. O. P. Rep. Daniel Reed charged Joseph Davies had been brought back from his Brussels ambassadorial post to serve as "super-lobbyist" for Cordell Hull. South Dakota's Sen. W. J. Bulow keynoted opinion in his chamber by indicating it wasn't so much the act itself he opposed; what counted was that the senate should ratify each treaty. Most realistic attitude was that of Nebraska's Sen. Edward R. Burke: He favored the "long-range view" that taking down tariff walls would eventually benefit all countries, but declared agriculture in some states is so depressed it would "require at least a few years to get it back on its feet."

NEBRASKA'S BURKE
A realistic view.

What most senators want is a chance for some old-fashioned log-rolling, hence observers thought the trade act would be renewed only if congressional ratification is included.

Other issues:

Pensions. Unexpectedly injected was a campaign (sponsored by "poorer" states) to make the U. S. take a bigger share of pension costs. Under law the U. S. matches states dollar for dollar up to $20 per month.

Agriculture. Henry Wallace polished off his "certificate plan" to syphon $300,000,000 annually from consumers to finance the farm program. Farmers would get income certificates valued at the differential between market price and "parity price," these to be purchased by processors.

Taxes. Henry Morgenthau not only opposed the certificate plan as a consumer tax in disguise, but pointed out the consumer already pays 61 per cent of the taxes. A bigger issue: Whether to raise taxes or hike the national debt limit, which reaches its ceiling next year.

Defense. While the President planned an enlarged defense program, two Republicans (Ohio's Sen. Robert A. Taft and Idaho's William Borah) warned against it.

PEOPLE:
No Communist

At Washington, Harvard law school's Dean James M. Landis reported he had found Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. leader, is not a Communist, thus closing the deportation hearing at which Dean Landis officiated.

News Quiz Answers

1. An earthquake, followed by a blizzard, killed at least 20,000 there.
2. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.
3. Finland.
4. (C) is correct. It was the first visit of a pope to a temporal prince in more than 70 years.
5. Joseph E. Davies.

FORECAST:

Rumors Behind World Headlines

New Job:

¶ Once U. S. ambassador to Italy, and an official of the state department since Woodrow Wilson's administration, Breckenridge Long is considered the best bet to succeed Joseph E. Davies as ambassador to Belgium. Davies has already taken over most of Long's present duties as head of the special department for repatriation of Americans living abroad.

LONG
To Brussels?

Goering Trouble:

¶ The London Daily Herald reports on good authority that Adolf Hitler's No. 1 aid, Field Marshal Hermann Goering, has fallen in disfavor and is living at his shooting chalet at Schorfheide, planning a comeback campaign "on his own terms."

Neutrality

Observers expect wholesale attempts to transfer U. S.-owned passenger and freight ships to registry of European neutrals, following the maritime commission's approval of a deal whereby eight U. S. Lines ships are sold to a Norwegian company for operation between New York and Liverpool. Purpose of transfer: To escape ban imposed by U. S. neutrality law.

Quints:

¶ Resignation of Dr. Alan Roy Dafoe as a guardian of the famous Dionne quintuplets may pave the way for their return to the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne.

Strategy:

¶ Both Republicans and Democrats (the latter in self-defense) will probably concentrate their major 1940 presidential campaign in the mid-western states, normally a G. O. P. stronghold. For this reason leaders of both parties are urging Chicago as convention city.

Tragedy:

¶ University of Nebraska's Dr. J. E. Weaver predicts that the most ruinous drouth in history will strike the middle-western "dust bowl" next year. Already dry, the dust bowl received only temporary relief from light snows.

Protest:

¶ Agricultural business interests are planning a campaign to demand that the Farm Credit administration be removed from the hands of Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, on charges that his recently expropriated control over FCA will result in loosened credit restrictions, thus endangering the investments of FCA stockholders.

Star Dust

★ Fan Mail From Far
★ Brought London Here
★ It's an Ill Illness—

By Virginia Vale

MADELEINE CARROLL has the grandest bunch of fan mail in all Hollywood. It comes from France, from a group of French children who are living in her chateau in the country, secluded from the danger of Paris' air raids and gas attacks. The children take time from their studies and games to write to Miss Carroll, who reads their letters as she rests between scenes of "My Son, My Son!"

MADELEINE CARROLL

The famous Brighton Belle pulled out of Hollywood the other day for scenes in that same picture. The station, however, was a replica of the famous Victoria station, the train was a replica of the Brighton Belle, which covers the 62 miles between London and Brighton in 40 minutes, and the men who filled it were extras, not British Tommies.

But to many who watched, the atmosphere was the same as it would have been in the original setting. Producer Edward Small could not shoot the scene in London because of the present war, but in portraying a scene that dates back to the last one he brought to California, for a moment, all the feeling that fills the railway stations of Europe in these times, as trains filled with soldiers leave for the front.

A case of appendicitis was responsible for the March of Time's exclusive film of the island of Guam. Victor Jurgens, the 26-year-old camera man who last year filmed the March of Time's memorable motion picture story on Japan, was stricken with appendicitis while on his way to Guam; he was operated on at sea by navy surgeons, recuperated at Guam, and spent his time filming all aspects of civil and military life on the important little island. It is part of the new release, "Crisis in the Pacific," and is one of the best films the M. of T. has given us.

"Four Wives" proves that it's possible for a sequel to live up to the reputation established by a popular film. People liked "Four Daughters" so much that it seemed unlikely that the picture carrying the story along could be anything but a disappointment. "Four Wives" is so well done that it will make new friends for the family it portrays so engagingly.

Kay Francis will appear in "It's a Date" as Deanna Durbin's mother—a very glamorous mother, an actress. Norma Shearer may have a mother role, too, in the film version of the popular novel, "Escape." But since the mother in "Escape"—who is also a famous actress, by the way—is middle aged and has a grown son, it seems likely that the story will be rewritten for Miss Shearer's benefit.

By a strange coincidence, Patsy Montana, "cowgirl sweetheart" of radio station WLS, Chicago, goes on the air every morning at exactly the same time as her brother does at station KSOO in Sioux Falls, S. D. It's rather hard on their proud mother—not only do they broadcast at the same hour, but it's 6:15 a. m.

Dave Elman will never have a seal on his "Hobby Lobby" program again if he can help it. The one he had recently cost him about $35. It had to be fed pieces of fish, frequently. The supply of fish, which had seemed ample, disappeared in no time, and Elman had to keep sending out to restaurants near the Columbia playhouse for more. The restaurants in that part of New York are far from cheap; the fact that the fish was for a seal instead of a human being didn't affect the price. So, if your hobby has anything to do with seals, don't try to land on the Elman program; at least, not until he has forgotten how expensive fish can be.

ODDS AND ENDS — Walt Disney's "Pinocchio" will be released in February . . . Robert Montgomery is going to England again, to make pictures . . . One more change of title for "Send Another Coffin" —this time it's "Slightly Honorable."

CONSTIPATED?
Don't Let Gas, Nerve Pressure Keep You Miserable
When constipated two things may happen. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up the bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure often causes headaches, a dull, lazy feeling, loss of appetite, and dizziness. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach, acid indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Then you can't eat. You can't sleep. Your stomach is sour. You feel tired out, grouchy, and miserable. BALANCED Adlerika containing three laxatives and five carminatives gives you DOUBLE ACTION. It relieves that awful GAS almost at once, and usually clears the bowels in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight relief.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD
Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.
These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.
Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

American Canteen Serves a Cup of Tea to Tommy

Lady Astor, left, is shown serving tea to a British soldier as she inaugurated the first of the American canteens in London. These canteens were presented by American women in England. From them free snacks will be served to soldiers, featuring doughnuts and hamburgers. The latter are slow in gaining favor with the Tommies, who claim they are filled amply during regular "mess." Additional canteens, donated by the same group, will be opened soon in several convenient points in England.

Cosmic Ray Photographers Get Chilly Reception

COSMIC RAY CAMERA

It was 38 degrees below zero near Chicago recently—but John Q. Citizen didn't know about it, for that temperature recording was made at an altitude of 29,300 feet. A party of photographers ascended to that height to photograph cosmic rays. Perhaps Santa Claus' whiskers serve a practical purpose. They help keep him warm.

Now He, Too, Is Gone With the Wind

Seated before the typewriter in his New York home, Howard Rushmore writes his own exclusive story telling just why he resigned as movie critic of the Communist publication, the Daily Worker. He refused to criticize the motion picture, "Gone With the Wind," in his review and as a result was forced to quit his post. Rushmore's article exposed the "pressure" brought to bear by Moscow on the Communist newspaper.

Amateur Boxing Seen as Ideal Prep Program

By ROBERT McSHANE

AMATEUR boxing as a sport ranking equal to football, basketball, hockey or any of the others has been long advocated by Ed Haislet, director of Golden Glove activities in the state of Minnesota and one of the most ardent boxing enthusiasts of the nation.

Haislet fathers an ambitious program which is backed by the Minneapolis Star-Journal, co-supervisor of the Golden Glove tournament in Minnesota. He believes every school should include the sport on its athletic program; that every fighter should wear a protective helmet, and that thumbless boxing gloves should be used by amateurs. The helmet protects the head and eliminates cauliflower ears. Eyes would be protected from gouging with the thumbless glove.

It is Haislet's claim that boxing will make better men of the participants; that no other sport can exceed fighting in developing co-ordination and skill, building the body or satisfying the emotional aspect of competition.

Fosters Champions

There is little question that the sport which fostered fighters of the caliber of Joe Louis, one of the greatest heavyweight champions of all time, would enjoy a much higher status if every program were administered with the care given by Minnesota officials.

Joe Louis

Quiet, well-equipped dressing rooms are provided Gopher fighters. Diets are planned carefully and doctors are stationed at the ringside and in the dressing rooms. Every boy who is knocked out is kept under observation for 20 minutes. And any boy knocked down must stay down for the eight count before continuing to fight.

Today fighting is a scientific art. There is more to the sport than mere slugging and the ability to "take it." Hundreds of high schools throughout the nation sponsor boxing teams. Competent instructors have taught youngsters how to care for their bodies and how to stay in condition. Boxing meets are carefully supervised and parents no longer fear for their youngsters' health.

Amateur boxing in high schools will reach its rightful place when everyone concerned with it places the welfare of participants above victory and every other factor.

That most of them do now is a thing distinctly in its favor.

BOWLING Made Easy

By NED DAY
National Match Game Champion

(This is the last of a series of bowling lessons by Ned Day of Milwaukee, Wis., national match game champion and recognized as an outstanding bowling authority.)

SPOT AND HEAD PIN BOWLING. Spot bowling should not be tried by a new bowler unless he is confident that his delivery is truly grooved. When you bowl at a spot you are taking for granted that everything else in your approach and delivery is correct. There are only a few true spot bowlers—that is, bowlers who deliver their balls without actually seeing the pins during delivery.

A true spot bowler will pick a spot at a point where he expects to set the ball down on the alley, set his body on the approach accordingly, address the pins, look at them for the first step or two to keep his body in line, and then concentrate on the spot, without looking at the pins until the ball is delivered.

The head pin bowler is one who addresses the pins, draws an imaginary line from the pocket to the spot on the alley where he will set his ball down, sets his body accordingly and then fastens his eyes on the object he expects to hit. Some bowlers combine spot and head pin bowling, picking a spot far enough down the alley so they can watch the spot and also see the pins in the background.

Garment bags made from odds and ends.

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I thought you might be interested in how I made garment bags for each member of my family, almost entirely from things I had on hand. The foundation part of each was made of ½-inch board; a screw-eye; a hook from a hanger; and five small screw hooks underneath. For the bag, I combined muslin flour sacks with odds and ends of figured cottons and trimmed the joinings with bias tape. I followed your directions in SEWING Book 2, for initials of bias tape to mark the bags."

At the upper left is sketched the foundation that this reader used. If a zipper is used for the opening, the 36-inch length is best. If you put it in a curved line, you will have a wider opening. Each step in applying the zipper in this way is shown here.

NOTE: The Sewing Basket in every thrifty household should contain a copy of Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book 2, in which she illustrates the five standard methods of repairing all kinds of fabrics. Thirty-two pages to delight every lover of fine handwork. To get your copy send 10 cents in coin to Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York, to cover cost.

AROUND the HOUSE — Items of Interest to the Housewife

In making candy the materials should be collected ahead of time and a pan should be selected big and enough to allow for boiling and thick enough not to scorch such ingredients as milk and chocolate.

• • •

Almost all fruit stains may be removed by soaking them in boiling water. In case any member of the family upsets a cup of chocolate or tea, use cold water to remove the spot. In the case of coffee, pour boiling water from a height; brushing the stain with borax beforehand helps.

• • •

Removing Mud Spots.—Always allow mud spots to dry and then they can be quickly brushed or rubbed off without leaving any stain.

• • •

Suede shoes can be given new life by polishing with plenty of ordinary shoe polish and hard rubbing. They will be better for wearing in bad weather.

• • •

Economy Note.—Small pieces of toilet soap that accumulate in the bathroom should not be thrown away. Add water enough to cover them and put on stove until dissolved. This makes an excellent soft soap.

• • •

For Greater Care in Kitchen.—The chief causes of home accidents are falls, burns, scalds and explosions; one-third of home fatalities happen in the kitchen.

• • •

Homemade Paste. — Combine one quart water, one cup sugar, one cup flour and one tablespoon powdered alum. Cook until clear, then add 30 drops oil of cloves and cool. Result: paste enough to keep the little folks busy with their scrapbooks and whatnots for many happy hours.

Confetti Popcorn

2 quarts pop corn
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup water
Vegetable coloring
1 teaspoon flavoring

Divide pop corn into three equal portions. Combine sugar, butter, water, and coloring; bring to boil and cook until the syrup spins a thread (about 15 minutes). Add the flavoring. Pour over popped corn and stir until kernels are sugar coated and separated. Repeat process three times, using a different color and flavor each time; mix batches.

Even Curtains.—If curtains will not hang evenly, slip a rod through the lower hems and let it remain a few days.

• • •

Seven drops of lemon juice added to a pint of cream before whipping it will cause it to beat up in less than half the time it would without the juice.

A BETTER PRICE FOR CULL COWS

St. Louis, Mo.—Cull dairy cows that are in better flesh and condition command a higher price than the average run of cull cows. And it really takes no great investment in time or feeding to add the extra finish that gets the better prices. A mixture of 1,700 lbs. of ground ear corn and 300 lbs. of Purina Steer Fatena is a widely used ration to put flesh on thin stuff. Such a mixture is reasonable in cost, especially where a feeder grows his own grain, for then he has to buy but 300 lbs. of this balancing concentrate to make a ton of fattening feed.

In feeding this ration, a week should be taken to gradually place the cull cows on full feed. After that, the ration should be kept before them in self feeders or troughs until they carry enough flesh to get the better price.

IT'S HARD ON PULLETS, TOO!

OOOOOO

OWOW.

St. Louis, Mo.—An amazing and deplorable lapse of judgment leading to costly consequence occurs every year among poultry raisers, according to J. H. McAdams, Purina Poultry Specialist.

"I refer," says McAdams, "to the unprofitable practice of letting young pullets eke out their own existence on range, after they've been carefully purchased as chicks and given a good start by proper feeding and handling. It's difficult to understand why a poultry raiser will observe so faithfully all the accepted rules of the chick raising game during the starting period, then do just the opposite during the growing period by turning his pullets out to shift for themselves until egg prices start going up in the fall, then put them on a good laying mash and suddenly expect eggs. But thousands do it every year, which is the fundamental cause of the high egg prices in October, November and December.

"This procedure of letting young pullets 'rustle' their own feed a bite at a time," McAdams says, "reminds me of the story of the Irishman who wanted to trim his dog's tail to terrier size. Instead of facing the size of his task and carrying through on the operation in a business-like manner, the Irishman cut off the tail a little piece at a time.

"Any way you look at it," says McAdams, "young pullets will not grow and develop quickly and thoroughly, inside and out, if allowed to rustle for themselves. This is the summer danger spot. What they need is a balanced growing mash that will build bodies and egg-making organs for profitable production in October, November and December—the months of high egg prices."

36 Years on 'The Hill,' Garner Succeeds by Reason of Seasoned Experience and Sound Judgment

By BASCOM TIMMONS

Bascom Timmons

John N. Garner would make a great President. He has a better practical understanding of national Government than any other living man. It is his life, and has been for 36 years.

At the end of the three dozen years under the Capitol dome he is, according to the calendar, 70 years old. Off the calendar he is 50 years old and in tiptop physical condition. This vigor and physical toughness he would carry into the greatest office within the gift of the people and he would have the extra 20 years of knowledge of affairs, domestic and foreign. He came to his present place of eminence the hard way. In his public service there is no problem of Government with which he has not grappled.

Garner would make a great President because he has the proper temperament for the office. He knows when to advance and when to halt and take stock. He understands the Nation's legislative and administrative digestic system better than any man in the country. He would take no outposts he could not hold. He would be the best insurance against reaction, which so often follows unwise action. He has the poise and the patience to work for permanency. He would insist on sound legislation and coherent administration.

Best Judge of People's Temper

He is probably the best judge of the temper of the people and their representatives in Congress, at any given time, of any man in the United States. He has an uncanny perspective, which enables him to disregard the clamor of voluble and vociferous minorities and find the desires of the submerged majority. Perhaps this is because he is a typical American, neither radical nor reactionary, but progressive and forward-looking.
